"THE INJURY TO ONE IS THE CONCERN OF ALL"

Report From the GENERAL PRESIDENT

At various times I have wondered whether the membership really read the Journal because on a number of occasions I have written interpretations of the Constitution and immediately following would receive letters requesting interpretations of the same sections which had been previously set forth in my Report in the Journal. However, I am fully convinced that the 25-year and 50-year cardholders do read the Journal.

The action of the Executive Council on the Resolution presented to the Convention on the 25-year silver cards and the 50-year gold cards was concurred in by the Executive Council at their last meeting and was printed in the Minutes of the Council in the dedication Journal. There have been a number of inquiries regarding this matter since that time. This is to advise you that the records here at Headquarters have already been searched and all of the names of the members entitled to these cards, according to our records here, are now being printed and all members entitled to cards should receive them within the next thirty days. It is our intention to send out these cards as soon as we can. All cards, to members having become members in good standing for twenty-five and fifty years hereafter, will be mailed quarterly so it is unnecessary to make a request individually for the card.

I will be absent from the office for approximately three weeks attending the Conventions of the Building and Construction Trades Department, the Metal Trades Department, and the AFL-CIO in San Francisco, California. Secretary Mills will be in the office to answer letters or telephone calls.

The Building and Construction Trades Convention will start on Wednesday, September 9; the Metal Trades on September 14; and the AFL-CIO on September 17. The latter running until the business is completed. I assume there will be heavy agendas at all of these Conventions because of the Labor Bill whether it is passed or whether it isn't, or in what form it may be passed.

I would like to use the rest of the space to plead with all of the local unions who are not presently training apprentices to take their full quota at least as set forth in the L.I.U. Constitution.

For the past three or four summers we have been plagued with a shortage of skilled and competent mechanics and while some locals are doing a good job of training apprentices a search of our records here show that some local unions do not have any apprentices at all. We must, if we are to continue to sell the use of lath and plaster through the Promotional Program, train sufficient mechanics to meet the needs of the industry. Unless we do this the time, effort, and money used in the Promotional Program is useless.

The shortage of mechanics in our industry has also been a handicap in having favorable decisions rendered to us by the National Joint Board. On occasions I have received a favorable decision and have not been able to man the work which makes it very difficult to go before the Board and argue these cases. I would recommend that each and every local union meet with their contractors and analyze the amount of work that your contractors have and also the amount of work anticipated so that we can train mechanics in accordance with the need.

A 'long' labor market is bad for us. A 'short' labor market is bad for the contractor and the industry and unless we train sufficient mechanics to meet the needs of the industry we will be defeating the very purpose for which the Promotional Program was instituted. We know it is almost impossible to have an exact balance in the labor market in an industry such as ours but we must try to do so insofar as possible if we are to maintain our industry. It has been proven in the last several years that the building industry can get along without lath and plaster and at present we are getting a much less dollar volume of the construction industry than we did ten years ago. There is no product used in lieu of lath and plaster that is as good as lath and plaster and our dollar volume in the construction industry can be increased three times what it is now if we follow the three basic principles on which the Promotional Program was established—quality, delivery, and price. None of these can be accomplished unless we have sufficient mechanics to do so.

We ask that you do your utmost to train sufficient mechanics to meet the needs of the industry.

Lloyd A. Maskburn

REPORT OF THE GENERAL SECRETARY-TREASURER FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDED JULY 31, 1959

September 2nd, 1959

Mr. Lloyd A. Mashburn, General President,
Wood, Wire, and Metal Lathers' International Union,
6530 New Hampshire Avenue,
Takoma Park 12, Maryland.

Dear Sir:

Pursuant to engagement by you, I have audited the accounts of the General Secretary-Treasurer for the period beginning August 1st, 1958 and ended July 31st, 1959 and herewith present my report.

All receipts of funds were traced into the various bank accounts and were found to be all accounted for and deposited in the proper fund. The disbursements of funds were all substantiated by satisfactory vouchers, and in my opinion, were authorized expenditures under the laws of the Union. Verifications of the balances in the various bank accounts were obtained from the depositories. The United States bonds, stock certificate and other assets were examined by me and found to be in order.

The usual high standards of accounting and office procedure have been consistently maintained during the period under review.

The records of this Union were found to be accurately kept and carefully preserved, and your auditor wishes to thank General Secretary-Treasurer Harold Mills and the entire office staff for their courtesy and assistance in the conduct of this audit.

CERTIFICATE

I HEREBY CERTIFY that, in my opinion, the following statements correctly exhibit respectively the receipts and disbursements of funds for the period from August 1st, 1958 to July 31st, 1959, and the financial condition of the Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers' International Union at July 31st, 1959.

You may never see him, but...
THIS U.S.G. MAN IS BUILDING BUSINESS FOR YOU IN CLASS A CONSTRUCTION

You may never see him, but this man is doing a big selling job for you! He's one of the specialists of U.S.G.'s Architect Service Department now at work in major markets, promoting lath and plaster products where so many job opportunities begin—the architect's office! One of this man's big jobs is to show the architect how his specific problems in Class A construction can be solved with plastering systems. Last year, for example, more than 1,200 Class A specifications for the TRUSSTEEL® Stud-ROCKLATH® Plaster Base Partition System were swung to the plastering contractor, largely through the efforts of these men from U.S.G. This year, the man you never see will continue to build sales for you!

From Labor Day To Election Day

Labor Day 1959 is a good time to begin thinking about Election Day 1960.

The 14 months between September 7 of this year and November 8 of next will be filled with exciting political activities that can end either in a victory for the working people of America or in defeat for them.

By victory, I mean the election of highly-qualified, liberal, public-spirited candidates for office who will work for fair labor-management laws, better public school buildings and better-paid teachers, higher and broader minimum wages, adequate Social Security—particularly for our senior citizens—stronger national defense, effective workmen's and unemployment compensation, civic improvement, improved highways, public housing for all who need decent living quarters, and other measures that would benefit all of America.

By defeat, I mean the election of candidates who think profits are more important than people. (And even in this age, don't believe there are not plenty of office-holders and office-seekers who think just that. Witness the drive for high interest rates which will help the bankers and other money-lenders and hurt the veteran and the home-buyer.) I mean victorious candidates who are willing to cripple all unions under the guise of trying to protect the union member.

Now many trade unionists are disappointed by the fact that Congress has passed little liberal legislation this year. They had expected a better record following the 1958 elections which saw a sharp increase in liberal Senators and Representatives. Some of these unionists are ready to withdraw from the political field.

But everyone knows that you cannot win a fight by withdrawing from it. You can't expect your Congress, or your state legislature, or your county board or your city council to levy taxes, for instance, according to your ability to pay if you don't support candidates for those law-making bodies who will vote for taxes that are not burdensome to the vast majority of men and women in this country and who will not allow Big Business and Big Finance to escape paying their fair share.

The simplest way to support good candidates and defeat the bad is to contribute voluntarily one dollar to COPE, register to vote, keep informed about where candidates stand on the important issues, and then vote on Election Day.

Remember: Next year, the people will elect a President of the United States, a Vice President, 33 or 34 U. S. Senators (depending upon whether one of the new Hawaiian Senators will have to stand for reelection), 437 Members of the U.S. House of Representatives, 26 state governors and innumerable state legislators, judges, district attorneys, mayors, councilmen, school officials, assessors, tax collectors and many other offices of your government.

Yes, Labor Day—right now—is an excellent time to begin planning and working for victory in '60.

reports on Washington

Congress put the fate of housing legislation in 1959 up to President Eisenhower, sending him the revised bill with enough votes to indicate a veto could be overridden. The House vote was 283 to 105, 24 more than necessary to override. Earlier, the Senate passed the bill 71 to 24. At press Ike had not yet acted on the measure which provides $8 billions for FHA insurance; $650 millions for urban renewal; 37,000 additional public housing units; funds for college classrooms, dormitories and homes for the elderly. It also raises FHA limits on mortgages from $20,000 to $22,000 and lowers down payments.

If a civil rights bill is not passed in the present session of Congress, one will certainly pass in the next session.

That is the consensus of a Democratic civil rights legislation advocate, Sen. Paul Douglas (Ill.), who has introduced a bill, and of a Republican member of the Civil Rights Subcommittee, Sen. Kenneth Keating (N.Y.).

While employment rose by a quarter of a million to a record of 67.7 million in July, the drop in unemployment of about the same number to 3.7 million was less than normal. Because of this, joblessness rose from 4.9 to 5.1 per cent of the labor force. Factory employment declined slightly but the drop was less than seasonal. While factory jobs were up 1.2 million from July of last year, they were still 300,000 below July 1957, although production is significantly higher. The factory workweek also dropped by 0.3 hours, causing average wages to decline by $1.08 to $90.09 per week. Employment figures did not reflect the effects of the steel strike which began in mid-July.

Living costs climbed to an all-time record for the fourth consecutive month, in mid-July, the Labor Dept. reported, with an increase of three-tenths of 1 per cent bringing the Consumer Price Index to 124.9 per cent of the 1947-49 average.

At the same time, a seasonal drop in the hours worked cut average spendable earnings of factory workers by about 85 cents a week. Combined with the rise in living costs, this dropped the buying power of the average factory worker's take-home pay by 1.5 per cent.

Approximately 1 million workers—mostly in auto and farm equipment plants—will recoup part of the loss through 2-cent hourly raises under union-negotiated cost-of-living escalator agreements. The previous month, when living costs jumped four-tenths of 1 per cent, an estimated 600,000 aircraft, trucking and electrical workers received cost-of-living pay hikes.

The AFL-CIO has thrown its support behind the Javits-Halpern bills to ban age discrimination in employment in the District of Columbia.

Such a law is needed "to keep open the door of equal opportunity" and eliminate waste and friction in the labor market, Assistant Dir. Raymond Munts of the AFL-CIO Dept. of Social Security told a Senate District subcommittee.

Tight money fails to cut back housing starts substantially. Private starts in July were 124,500, down 20,000 from June and at an adjusted annual rate of 1,350,000. Private starts were up 14.6% over July, 1958, and for the first seven months of 1959 totaled 822,300, exceeded only in record 1950.

Money markets show no signs of easing with medium grade bonds yielding over 5%. FNMA announced it would no longer accept mortgage offerings on 4½% FHA and VA mortgages, revised purchase prices downward ½ point on over-the-counter prices and 1 point in standby prices in secondary market operations. FNMA purchases for the first six months were $1,025,385,000, largest in history.

Medical and Nutrition Quackery

Medical and nutrition quackery is one of the biggest public health problems in the United States; yet it is one that is receiving comparatively little attention.

Every day thousands of people risk their lives, and some lose their lives because, through ignorance, fear or bad advice, they seek medical care from those who are incompetent to treat them properly. This warning comes from George P. Larrick, commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration—the agency charged with watching over the health and welfare of the nation.

Unscrupulous operations involving false and misleading claims for a great variety of vitamins, minerals and other food supplements has become today the most widespread and expensive form of medical quackery in the United States. The American Medical Association estimates that this racket is now costing 10 million Americans over $500 million a year.

Nutritional quacks and health food peddlers induce the public to buy so-called health foods and vitamin and mineral products at fancy prices by spreading fallacious ideas about nutrition, the condition of our soil, the effect on our food supply of food processing and imaginary hazards in the use of aluminum cooking utensils. The effect of this propaganda upon the unwary public is to create the belief that the nation's food supply is inferior and good health impossible in these days unless the wares of the nutrition quack are purchased. Some offer their products as a cure for serious health conditions which should only be treated by a physician.

Last year, the Postmaster General reported that mail order promotion of medical frauds was at the highest level in history. He estimated that cases prepared by the department's general counsel during the first five months of 1958 involved products that could cause an annual loss to the public of $50 million.

The National Better Business Bureau reported in September, 1958 that it was receiving four times as many inquiries about food, drug and cosmetic promotions, and ten times as many complaints, as it did two years previously.

Dr. Charles Cameron, former medical director of the American Cancer Society, has estimated that at least $10 million a year is being spent on worthless cancer treatments.

The Food and Drug Administration states that nobody knows the real extent of medical quackery in the United States. They described the problem as being like an iceberg which is underestimated because there is so much that lies beneath the surface.

The FDA warns that "we have indeed been too kind to quackery and have thereby contributed to the problem. The day must come when the force of public opinion will be effectively aroused against this evil."

Medical quacks are guilty of a gamut of crimes from petty swindling through robbery to manslaughter or murder.

For example, recently the Food and Drug Administration announced the seizure of copper colored metal bracelets offered for the cure of rheumatism and arthritis. The mail order promoter of the "Magic Copper Band" said it came from India and should be worn around the wrist, knee, ankle or elbow. He had actually purchased them for eight cents apiece from a legitimate New England novelty manufacturer. They had been promoted through newspaper advertising for $2.00 apiece until one of the ads caught the eye of an FDA inspector.

In recent years, in addition to the nutrition quacks, two other types of medical quackery have emerged as a problem of major importance. These are worthless cancer remedies and worthless therapeutic devices purported to prevent or cure serious diseases.

The control of fake cancer remedies is one of the greatest challenges facing the law enforcement agencies. The worst offender is the Hoxsey treatment for internal cancer. Recent successful court actions and public warnings have greatly reduced the patronage of the Hoxsey clinics but this remedy is still being distributed and used for the treatment of cancer. Many thousands of cancer victims have been taken in by the false claim that the Hoxsey medicines will cure internal cancer. The estimated income from the worthless treatment for a number of years has exceeded a million dollars a year. However, the cruel hoax has not been stamped out and the American Cancer Society, the American Medical Association and the Better Business Bureaus, as well as many other health organizations, are helping to educate the public about the menace of cancer quackery.

A great deal of "grass roots" interest is needed if we are ever to control quackery. The campaign that is needed has two major aspects: Education of the public, and more and better law enforcement.

Report of the GENERAL SECRETARY-TREASURER

During the summer months most workmen's thoughts turn to vacations. Many of us start making plans to get out the road map and as soon as school is out load up the family car and with the wife and kids hit the open road. Many prefer to head for the mountains or the seashore. Wherever our fancy leads us, America is blessed with many fine vacation spots.

But, there is one job which union members should keep in mind that must never have a vacation. That's the job of organizing. The business of organizing and helping to keep up the rolls of union organizations is a 365-day a year project. We can be sure that those interests who do not like unions never rest, as witness the passage of the Griffin-Landrum labor bill; they take no time off from their attacks, direct or indirect on the union movement. As AFL-CIO President George Meany declared the House action "was not a vote on the issue of corruption. It was a vote to punish honest labor." He asserted that "twelve years of anti-labor propaganda and politicking have paid off for the anti-union forces. . . ." So unions must be ever vigilant and cannot afford to take a holiday.

This does not mean that union people as individuals should not take vacations. It means that unions—local, national and international—should not let the vacation psychology so influence the organization that there is danger of a complete let down. We must keep our guard up against attacks; we must be aggressive in our drive to organize the unorganized. We must see that our people are protected; so that wages, hours and fringe benefits keep pace with rising living costs. With so much of the working force still unorganized; with inimical legislation threatening us; with widespread ignorance, indifference or even hostility to us; this is no time for mutual admiration or a vacation from organizing.

Let us be prepared to fight a good fight for the things we believe in. There can be no better decision than vacations for individuals—yes; for organizations with the responsibilities of organizing—very definitely NO!

DECISIONS OF THE GENERAL PRESIDENT

PUBLISHED IN ACCORDANCE WITH SECTION 23i(4), INTERNATIONAL CONSTITUTION:

"All appellate decisions of the General President and/or of the Executive Council and/or of the Convention must be published in the following issue of The Lather along with a short and concise synopsis of the case being decided."

Robert W. Hanshaw, #44527, and Donald L. Hanshaw, #54733 Versus Local 350

Brothers Robert W. Hanshaw and Donald L. Hanshaw appealed against the action of Local 350 in fining them $100 each for a violation of Section 14 of the local's By-Laws and for a violation of Section 25a of the International Constitution. After carefully considering all facts in this matter, a recommendation of Vice President L. F. Shipman, and the action of the Executive Board of Local 350, and in accordance with the L.I.U. Constitution the General President approved the reductions of these fines to $25 each.

D. C. Butler, #49867, and H. S. Crouse, #51489 Versus Local 156

Brothers D. C. Butler and H. S. Crouse appealed against the action of Local 156 in fining them $100 each. After carefully considering all the facts in this case, a recommendation of the Golden Gate District Council, and a discussion with the Executive Council, the General President rescinded these fines.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God in His infinite wisdom to remove from our midst Brother Leonard J. DeCarlo 26902, and

WHEREAS, Brother DeCarlo was a loyal and faithful member of Local 67 and will be missed by his many friends, by the officers and members of Local 67, therefore be it

RESOLVED, That Local 67 hereby extends its sincere and deepest sympathy to the relatives of its departed brother, and be it further

RESOLVED, That the charter of Local 67 be draped for a period of thirty days and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of our departed brother and to the International Union for publication in the Lather as a token of our respect.

Pat Mullane, Secretary Local 67

SPECIAL NOTICE

C. Boudreau, #26382 as President of Local 509, and G. Chase, #27100, as Secretary of Local 509, when notified of shortage of Local 509 Funds made restitution, but are subject to the conditions set forth in Section 17 subsection J-5 of the International Constitution.

Lathers Laff

Their Answer

Two of three girls who had grown up together married, and thereafter they continually annoyed their spinster friend with tactless remarks about her unhappy state.

She laughed off their comments until one day they went a bit too far.

"Now tell us truthfully," they laughed, "have you ever really had a chance to marry?"

With a withering glance, she retorted: "Suppose you ask your husbands."

Caught in the Act

An avid fisherman, true to tradition, could hardly contain himself when recounting his rod-and-reel triumphs to his pals.

Indignant at the skeptical hints that he was an out-and-out liar, he bought a set of scales, installed them in his kitchen and insisted that his friends watch as he weighed his catch.

One evening a neighbor rushed in and excitedly asked permission to borrow the scales. A few minutes later, he was back beaming with delight.

"Congratulate me, men," he cried. "I'm the father of a 38-pound boy."

Still Had His Teeth

The salesman stared doubtfully at the formidable looking animal lying on the doorstep. "What breed is your dog?" he asked the lady of the house.

"Don't rightly know," she answered. "My brother sent it from Africa."

"Well," said the salesman, hesitantly, "it's the queerest dog I've ever seen."

The lady nodded. "You should have seen it before we cut its mane off."

How?

"I've just been congratulating Colonel Blaze," said a guest at a luncheon. "He's been appointed warden of a prison."

"Really?" asked his pretty neighbor. "Now, to get a job like that does one need influence, or does one start as a convict and rise from the ranks?"

Investigated

A banker fell in love with an actress and decided to ask her to marry him. Before doing so, however, he employed a private detective to report upon her character and antecedents.

Back came the report:

"The only thing known against this woman is that she has been seen too often in the company of a banker of doubtful reputation."

A Word to the Wise

A sweet young thing strolled along the perfume counter, looking at the various perfumes, doubtful which to take. Finally she settled on a widely advertised brand guaranteed to bring out the male in the male.

An experienced salesgirl leaned over the counter and whispered to the customer: "If I may, let me give you a word of advice, please don't use this if you are bluffing."

A Phantom Team

Farmer (pulling with one mule): "Giddap Pete! Giddap Barney! Giddap Johnny! Giddap Ralph!"

Stranger: "How many names does that mule have?"

Farmer: "His name's Pete, but he don't know his own strength so I put blinders on him, yell a lot of names and he thinks other mules are helping him."

Family Resemblance

Among the visitors at the city zoo were a man and his cousin from the mountain country. The grizzled mountaineer stood spellbound as he viewed the giraffes, elephants and various other animals and birds. It was with reluctance that he left one cage to go to another.

As they came to the monkey cage, however, our friend paused for only a moment, then hastened away.

"What's the hurry?" asked his companion, who liked to watch the monkeys.

"I didn't mind a-lookin' at the el'phants and such," he said, "but these—wall, they were a-lookin' at me!"

Used To It

A woman posed for a snapshot in front of the fallen pillars of an ancient temple in Greece. "Don't get the car in the picture," she said, "or my husband will think I ran into the place."

Fair Warning

Sign in a Western town: 1,029 people died of gas poisoning in this state last year. Two inhaled it. 27 lit a match to it, 1,000 stepped on it.

Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure

WOOD, WIRE & METAL LATHERS
INTERNATIONAL UNION

"THE INJURY TO ONE IS THE CONCERN OF ALL"

Report From the GENERAL PRESIDENT

This Report will necessarily be confined to problems confronting us by reason of the passage of the Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act of 1959, signed into law by the President on September 14, 1959. Because some of the provisions are effective immediately, some in thirty (30) days, some in sixty (60) days, and some in ninety (90) days, in this issue we will deal only with those problems which are immediately effective or for which groundwork must be laid for future compliance.

In respect to future bonding, you have already received your application to be filled out and sent to Headquarters for the ensuing year, and this should be filled out and sent in, but because the law is not clear in respect to what type of bonding, position or otherwise, we will send you more specific information regarding this when the law has been analyzed. However, we do know that you should send in the name of the officer who will be bonded and only one officer in each local union should be the bonded officer and should be made responsible for the handling of all finances.

The new law provides that each and every local union must have By-Laws, which By-Laws are in compliance with the law and will have to be sent to the Secretary of Labor. However, since the analysis of the law has not been completed we do not know exactly what these By-Laws should contain in order to comply with the new law. It is our intention to write a sample set of By-Laws which will be in compliance with the new law and which will be sent to all local unions as promptly as possible. In the meantime we suggest that any local union now having under consideration changes in its By-Laws will hold in abeyance any such changes pending receipt of our sample By-Laws.

Sec. 504 (a) No person who is or has been a member of the Communist Party or who has been convicted of, or served any part of a prison term resulting from his conviction of, robbery, bribery, extortion, embezzlement, grand larceny, burglary, arson, violation of narcotics laws, murder, rape, assault with intent to kill, assault which inflicts grievous bodily injury, or a violation of title II or III of this Act, or conspiracy to commit any such crimes, shall serve—

(1) as an officer, director, trustee, member of any executive board or similar governing body, business agent, manager, organizer, or other employe (other than as an employe performing exclusively clerical or custodial duties) of any labor organization, or

(2) as a labor relations consultant to a person engaged in an industry or activity affecting commerce, or as an officer, director, agent, or employe (other than as an employe performing exclusively clerical or custodial duties) of any group or association of employers dealing with any labor organization, during or for five years after the termination of his membership in the Communist Party, or for five years after such conviction or after the end of such imprisonment, unless prior to the end of such five-year period, in the case of a person so convicted or imprisoned, (A) his citizenship rights, having been revoked as a result of such conviction, have been fully restored, or (B) the Board of Parole of the United States Department of Justice determines that such person's service in any capacity referred to in clause (1) or (2) would not be contrary to the purposes of this Act. Prior to making any such determination the Board shall hold an administrative hearing and shall give notice of such proceeding by certified mail to the State, county, and Federal prosecuting officials in the jurisdiction or jurisdictions in which such person was convicted. The Board's determination in any such proceeding shall be final. No labor organization or officer thereof shall knowingly permit any person to assume or hold any office or paid position in violation of this subsection.

The following is a true copy of the Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act of 1959, which is being furnished you, the member, on behalf of the Lathers International Union and the Local Union. The Secretaries of all local unions are directed to send a copy of this issue of the JOURNAL, which contains the law, to each and every member and apprentice, in good standing with their local union, to the last known address of the member so that he will have an exact copy of the ACT. This is a requirement of the ACT and must be complied with. Any local unions needing additional copies of the law will receive them promptly upon request to the International Union.

Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act of 1959

Short Title

Section 1. This Act may be cited as the "Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act of 1959."

Declaration of Findings, Purposes, and Policy

Sec. 2. (a) The Congress finds that, in the public interest, it continues to be the responsibility of the Federal Government to protect employees' rights to organize, choose their own representatives, bargain collectively, and otherwise engage in concerted activities for their mutual aid or protection; that the relations between employers and labor organizations and the millions of workers they represent have a substantial impact on the commerce of the Nation; and that in order to accomplish the objective of a free flow of commerce it is essential that labor organizations, employers, and their officials adhere to the highest standards of responsibility and ethical conduct in administering the affairs of their organizations, particularly as they affect labor-management relations.

(b) The Congress further finds, from recent investigations in the labor and management fields, that there have been a number of instances of breach of trust, corruption, disregard of the rights of individual employees, and other failures to observe high standards of responsibility and ethical conduct which require further and supplementary legislation that will afford necessary protection of the rights and interests of employees and the public generally as they relate to the activities of labor organizations, employers, labor relations consultants, and their officers and representatives.

(c) The Congress, therefore, further finds and declares that the enactment of this Act is necessary to eliminate or prevent improper practices on the part of labor organizations, employers, labor relations consultants, and their officers and representatives which distort and defeat the policies of the Labor Management Relations Act, 1947, as amended, and the Railway Labor Act, as amended, and have the tendency or necessary effect of burdening or obstructing commerce by (1) impairing the efficiency, safety, or operation of the instrumentalities of commerce; (2) occurring in the current of commerce; (3) materially affecting, restraining, or controlling the flow of raw materials or manufactured or processed goods into or from the channels of commerce, or the prices of such materials or goods in commerce; or (4) causing diminution of employment and wages in such volume as substantially to impair or disrupt the market for goods flowing into or from the channels of commerce.

Definitions

Sec. 3. For the purposes of titles I, II, III, IV, V (except section 505), and VI of this Act—

(a) "Commerce" means trade, traffic, commerce, transportation, transmission, or communication among the several States or between any State and any place outside thereof.

(b) "State" includes any State of the United States, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, American Samoa, Guam, Wake Island, the Canal Zone, and Outer Continental Shelf lands defined in the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act (43 U.S.C. 1331-1343).

(c) "Industry affecting commerce" means any activity, business, or industry in commerce or in which a labor dispute would hinder or obstruct commerce or the free flow of commerce and includes any activity or industry "affecting commerce" within the meaning of the Labor Management Relations Act, 1947, as amended, or the Railway Labor Act, as amended.

(d) "Person" includes one or more individuals, labor organizations, partnerships, associations, corporations, legal representatives, mutual companies, joint-stock companies, trusts, unincorporated organizations, trustees, trustees in bankruptcy, or receivers.

(e) "Employer" means any employer or any group or association of employers engaged in an industry affecting commerce (1) which is, with respect to employees engaged in an industry affecting commerce, an employer within the meaning of any law of the United States relating to the employment of any employees or (2) which may deal with any labor organization concerning grievances, labor disputes, wages, rates of pay, hours of employment, or conditions of work, and includes any person acting directly or indirectly as an employer or as an agent of an employer in relation to an employee but does not include the United States or any corporation wholly owned by the Government of the United States or any State or political subdivision thereof.

(f) "Employee" means any individual employed by an employer, and includes any individual whose work has ceased as a consequence of, or in connection with, any current labor dispute or because of any unfair labor practice or because of exclusion or expulsion from a labor organization in any manner or for any reason inconsistent with the requirements of this Act.

(g) "Labor dispute" includes any controversy concerning terms, tenure, or conditions of employment, or concerning the association or representation of persons in negotiating, fixing, maintaining, changing, or seeking to arrange terms or conditions of employment, regardless of whether the disputants stand in the proximate relation of employer and employee.

(h) "Trusteeship" means any receivership, trusteeship, or other method of supervision or control whereby a labor organization suspends the autonomy otherwise available to a subordinate body under its constitution or by-laws.

(i) "Labor organization" means a labor organization engaged in an industry affecting commerce and includes any organization of any kind, any agency, or employee representation committee, group, association, or plan so engaged in which employees participate and which exists for the purpose, in whole or in part, of dealing with employers concerning grievances, labor disputes, wages, rates of pay, hours, or other terms or conditions of employment, and any conference, general committee, joint or system board, or joint council so engaged which is subordinate to a national or international labor organization, other than a State or local central body.

(j) A labor organization shall be deemed to be engaged in an industry affecting commerce if it—

(1) is the certified representative of employees under the provisions of the National Labor Relations Act, as amended, or the Railway Labor Act, as amended; or

(2) although not certified, is a national or international labor organization or a local labor organization recognized or acting as the representative of employees of an employer or employers engaged in an industry affecting commerce; or

(3) has chartered a local labor organization or subsidiary body which is representing or actively seeking to represent employees of employers within the meaning of paragraph (1) or (2); or

(4) has been chartered by a labor organization representing or actively seeking to represent employees within the meaning of paragraph (1) or (2) as the local or subordinate body through which such employees may enjoy membership or become affiliated with such labor organization; or

(5) is a conference, general committee, joint or system board, or joint council, subordinate to a national or international labor organization, which includes a labor organization engaged in an industry affecting commerce within the meaning of any of the preceding paragraphs of this subsection, other than a State or local central body.

(k) "Secret ballot" means the expression by ballot, voting machine, or otherwise, but in no event by proxy, of a choice with respect to any election or vote taken upon any matter, which is cast in such a manner that the person expressing such choice cannot be identified with the choice expressed.

(l) "Trust in which a labor organization is interested" means a trust or other fund or organization (1) which was created or established by a labor organization, or one or more of the trustees or one or more members of the governing body of which is selected or appointed by a labor organization, and (2) a primary purpose of which is to provide benefits for the members of such labor organization or their beneficiaries.

(m) "Labor relations consultant" means any person who, for compensation, advises or represents an employer, employer organization, or labor organization concerning employee organizing, concerted activities, or collective bargaining activities.

(n) "Officer" means any constitutional officer, any person authorized to perform the functions of president, vice president, secretary, treasurer; or other executive functions of a labor organization, and any member of its executive board or similar governing body.

(o) "Member" or "member in good standing", when used in reference to a labor organization, includes any person who has fulfilled the requirements for membership in such organization, and who neither has voluntarily withdrawn from membership nor has been expelled or suspended from membership after appropriate proceedings consistent with lawful provisions of the constitution and bylaws of such organization.

(p) "Secretary" means the Secretary of Labor.

(q) "Officer, agent, shop steward, or other representative", when used with respect to a labor organization, includes elected officials and key administrative personnel, whether elected or appointed (such as business agents, heads of departments or major units, and organizers who exercise substantial independent authority), but does not include salaried non-supervisory professional staff, stenographic, and service personnel.

(r) "District court of the United States" means a United States district court and a United States court of any place subject to the jurisdiction of the United States.

TITLE I—BILL OF RIGHTS OF MEMBERS OF LABOR ORGANIZATIONS

Bill of Rights

Sec. 101. (a) (1) Equal Rights.—Every member of a labor organization shall have equal rights and privileges within such organization to nominate candidates, to vote in elections or referendums of the labor organization, to attend membership meetings, and to participate in the deliberations and voting upon the business of such meetings, subject to reasonable rules and regulations in such organization's constitution and bylaws.

(2) Freedom of Speech and Assembly.—Every member of any labor organization shall have the right to meet and assemble freely with other members; and to express any views, arguments, or opinions; and to express at meetings of the labor organization his views, upon candidates in an election of the labor organization or upon any business properly before the meeting, subject to the organization's established and reasonable rules pertaining to the conduct of meetings: Provided, That nothing herein shall be construed to impair the right of a labor organization to adopt and enforce reasonable rules as to the responsibility of every member toward the organization as an institution and to his refraining from conduct that would interfere with its performance of its legal or contractual obligations.

(3) Dues, Initiation Fees, and Assessments.—Except in the case of a federation of national or international labor organizations, the rates of dues and initiation fees payable by members of any labor organization in effect on the date of enactment of this Act shall not be increased, and no general or special assessment shall be levied upon such members, except—

(A) in the case of a local labor organization, (i) by majority vote by secret ballot of the members in good standing voting at a general or special membership meeting, after reasonable notice of the intention to vote upon such question, or (ii) by majority vote of the members in good standing voting in a membership referendum conducted by secret ballot; or

(B) in the case of a labor organization, other than a local labor organization or a federation of national or international labor organizations, (i) by majority vote of the delegates voting at a regular convention, or at a special convention of such labor organization held upon not less than thirty days' written notice to the principal office of each local or constituent labor organization entitled to such notice, or (ii) by majority vote of the members in good standing of such labor organization voting in a membership referendum conducted by secret ballot, or (iii) by majority vote of the members of the executive board or similar governing body of such labor organization, pursuant to express authority contained in the constitution and bylaws of such labor organization: Provided, That such action on the part of the executive board or similar governing body shall be effective only until the next regular convention of such labor organization.

(4) Protection of the Right to Sue.—No labor organization shall limit the right of any member thereof to institute an action in any court or in a proceeding before any administrative agency, irrespective of whether or not the labor organization or its officers are named as defendants or respondents in such action or proceeding, or the right of any member of a labor organization to appear as a witness in any judicial, administrative, or legislative proceeding, or to petition any legislature or to communicate with any legislator: Provided, That any such member may be required to exhaust reasonable hearing procedures (but not to exceed a four-month lapse of time) within such organization, before instituting legal or administrative proceedings against such organizations or any officer thereof: And provided further, That no interested employer or employer association shall directly or indirectly finance, encourage, or participate in, except as a party, any such action, proceeding, appearance, or petition.

(5) Safeguards Against Improper Disciplinary Action.—No member of any labor organization may be fined, suspended, expelled, or otherwise disciplined except for nonpayment of dues by such organization or by any officer thereof unless such member has been (A) served with written specific charges; (B) given a reasonable time to prepare his defense; (C) afforded a full and fair hearing.

(b) Any provision of the constitution and bylaws of any labor organization which is inconsistent with the provisions of this section shall be of no force or effect.

Civil Enforcement

Sec. 102. Any person whose rights secured by the provisions of this title have been infringed by any violation of this title may bring a civil action in a district court of the United States for such relief (including injunctions) as may be appropriate. Any such action against a labor organization shall be brought in the district court of the United States for the district where the alleged violation occurred, or where the principal office of such labor organization is located.

Retention of Existing Rights

Sec. 103. Nothing contained in this title shall limit the rights and remedies of any member of a labor organization under any State or Federal law or before any court or other tribunal, or under the constitution and bylaws of any labor organization.

Right to Copies of Collective Bargaining Agreements

Sec. 104. It shall be the duty of the secretary or corresponding principal officer of each labor organization, in the case of a local labor organization, to forward a copy of each collective bargaining agreement made by such labor organization with any employer to any employee who requests such a copy and whose rights as such employee are directly affected by such agreement, and in the case of a labor organization other than a local labor organization, to forward a copy of any such agreement to each constituent unit which has members directly affected by such agreement; and such officer shall maintain at the principal office of the labor organization of which he is an officer copies of any such agreement made or received by such labor organization, which copies shall be available for inspection by any member or by any employee whose rights are affected by such agreement. The provisions of section 210 shall be applicable in the enforcement of this section.

Information as to Act

Sec. 105. Every labor organization shall inform its members concerning the provisions of this Act.

TITLE II—REPORTING BY LABOR ORGANIZATIONS, OFFICERS AND EMPLOYEES OF LABOR ORGANIZATIONS, AND EMPLOYERS

Report of Labor Organizations

Sec. 201. (a) Every labor organization shall adopt a constitution and bylaws and shall file a copy thereof with the Secretary, together with a report, signed by its president and secretary or corresponding principal officers, containing the following information—

(1) the name of the labor organization, its mailing address, and any other address at which it maintains its principal office or at which it keeps the records referred to in this title;

(2) the name and title of each of its officers;

(3) the initiation fee or fees required from a new or transferred member and fees for work permits required by the reporting labor organization;

(4) the regular dues or fees or other periodic payments required to remain a member of the reporting labor organization; and

(5) detailed statements, or references to specific provisions of documents filed under this subsection which contain such statements, showing the provision made and procedures followed with respect to each of the following:

(A) qualifications for or restrictions on membership, (B) levying of assessments, (C) participation in insurance or other benefit plans, (D) authorization for disbursement of funds of the labor organization, (E) audit of financial transactions of the labor organization, (F) the calling of regular and special meetings, (G) the selection of officers and stewards and of any representatives to other bodies composed of labor organizations' representatives, with a specific statement of the manner in which each officer was elected, appointed, or otherwise selected, (H) discipline or removal of officers or agents for breaches of their trust, (I) imposition of fines, suspensions, and expulsions of members, including the grounds for such action and any provision made for notice, hearing, judgement on the evidence, and appeal procedures, (J) authorization for bargaining demands, (K) ratification of contract terms, (L) authorization for strikes, and (M) issuance of work permits. Any change in the information required by this subsection shall be reported to the Secretary at the time the reporting labor organization files with the Secretary the annual financial report required by subsection (b).

(b) Every labor organization shall file annually with the Secretary a financial report signed by its president and treasurer or corresponding principal officers containing the following information in such detail as may be necessary accurately to disclose its financial condition and operations for its preceding fiscal year—

(1) assets and liabilities at the beginning and end of the fiscal year;

(2) receipts of any kind and the sources thereof;

(3) salary, allowances, and other direct or indirect disbursements (including reimbursed expenses) to each officer and also to each employee who, during such fiscal year, received more than $10,000 in the aggregate from such labor organization and any other labor organization affiliated with it or with which it is affiliated, or which is affiliated with the same national or international labor organization;

(4) direct and indirect loans made to any officer, employee, or member, which aggregated more than $250 during the fiscal year, together with a statement of the purpose, security, if any, and arrangements for repayment;

(5) direct and indirect loans to any business enterprise, together with a statement of the purpose, security, if any, and arrangements for repayment; and

(6) other disbursements made by it including the purposes thereof; all in such categories as the Secretary may prescribe.

(c) Every labor organization required to submit a report under this title shall make available the information required to be contained in such report to all of its members, and every such labor organization and its officers shall be under a duty enforceable at the suit of any member of such organization in any State court of competent jurisdiction or in the district court of the United States for the district in which such labor organization maintains its principal office, to permit such member for just cause to examine any books, records, and accounts necessary to verify such report. The court in such action may, in its discretion, in addition to any judgment awarded to the plaintiff or plaintiffs, allow a reasonable attorney's fee to be paid by the defendant, and costs of the action.

(d) Subsections (f), (g), and (h) of section 9 of the National Labor Relations Act, as amended, are hereby repealed.

(e) Clause (i) of section 8(a)(3) of the National Labor Relations Act, as amended, is amended by striking out the following: "and has at the time the agreement was made or within the preceding twelve months received from the Board a notice of compliance with sections 9 (f), (g), (h)".

Report of Officers and Employees of Labor Organizations

Sec. 202. (a) Every officer of a labor organization and every employee of a labor organization (other than an employee performing exclusively clerical or custodial services) shall file with the Secretary a signed report listing and describing for his preceding fiscal year—

(1) any stock, bond, security, or other interest, legal or equitable, which he or his spouse or minor child directly or indirectly held in, and any income or any other benefit with monetary value (including reimbursed expenses) which he or his spouse or minor child derived directly or indirectly from, an employer whose employees such labor organization represents or is actively seeking to represent, except payments and other benefits received as a bona fide employee of such employer;

(2) any transaction in which he or his spouse or minor child engaged, directly or indirectly, involving any stock, bond, security, or loan to or from, or other legal or equitable interest in the business of an employer whose employees such labor organization represents or is actively seeking to represent;

(3) any stock, bond, security, or other interest, legal or equitable, which he or his spouse or minor child directly or indirectly held in, and any income or any other benefit with monetary value (including reimbursed expenses) which he or his spouse or minor child directly or indirectly derived from, any business a substantial part of which consists of buying from, selling or leasing to, or otherwise dealing with, the business of an employer whose employees such labor organization represents or is actively seeking to represent;

(4) any stock, bond, security, or other interest, legal or equitable, which he or his spouse or minor child directly or indirectly held in, and any income or any other benefit with monetary value (including reimbursed expenses) which he or his spouse or minor child directly or indirectly derived from, a business any part of which consists of buying from, or selling or leasing directly or indirectly to, or otherwise dealing with such labor organization;

(5) any direct or indirect business transaction or arrangement between him or his spouse or minor child and any employer whose employees his organization represents or is actively seeking to represent, except work performed and payments and benefits received as a bona fide employee of such employer and except purchases and sales of goods or services in the regular course of business at prices generally available to any employee of such employer; and

(6) any payment of money or other thing of value (including reimbursed expenses) which he or his spouse or minor child received directly or indirectly from any employer or any person who acts as a labor relations consultant to an employer, except payments of the kinds referred to in section 302(c) of the Labor Management Relations Act, 1947, as amended.

(b) The provisions of paragraphs (1), (2), (3), (4), and (5) of subsection (a) shall not be construed to require any such officer or employee to report his bona fide investments in securities traded on a securities exchange registered as a national securities exchange under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, in shares in an investment company registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940, or in securities of a public utility holding company registered under the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, or to report any income derived therefrom.

(c) Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to require any officer or employee of a labor organization to file a report under subsection (a) unless he or his spouse or minor child holds or has held an interest, has received income or any other benefit with monetary value or a loan, or has engaged in a transaction described therein.

Report of Employers

Sec. 203. (a) Every employer who in any fiscal year made—

(1) any payment or loan, direct or indirect, of money or other thing of value (including reimbursed expenses), or any promise or agreement therefor, to any labor organization or officer, agent, shop steward, or other representative of a labor organization, or employee of any labor organization, except (A) payments or loans made by any national or State bank, credit union, insurance company, savings and loan association or other credit institution and (B) payments of the kind referred to in section 302(c) of the Labor Management Relations Act, 1947, as amended;

(2) any payment (including reimbursed expenses) to any of his employees, or any group or committee of such employees, for the purpose of causing such employee or group or committee of employees to persuade other employees to exercise or not to exercise, or as the manner of exercising, the right to organize and bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing unless such payments were contemporaneously or previously disclosed to such other employees;

(3) any expenditure, during the fiscal year, where an object thereof, directly or indirectly, is to interfere with, restrain, or coerce employees in the exercise of the right to organize and bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing, or is to obtain information concerning the activities of employees or a labor organization in connection with a labor dispute involving such employer, except for use solely in conjunction with an administrative or arbitral proceeding or a criminal or civil judicial proceeding;

(4) any agreement or arrangement with a labor relations consultant or other independent contractor or organization pursuant to which such person undertakes activities where an object thereof, directly or indirectly, is to persuade employees to exercise or not to exercise, or persuade employees as to the manner of exercising, the right to organize and bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing, or undertakes to supply such employer with information concerning the activities of employees or a labor organization in connection with a labor dispute involving such employer, except information for use solely in conjunction with an administrative or arbitral proceeding or a criminal or civil judicial proceeding; or

(5) any payment (including reimbursed expenses) pursuant to an agreement or arrangement described in subdivision (4); shall file with the Secretary a report, in a form prescribed by him, signed by its president and treasurer or corresponding principal officers showing in detail the date and amount of each such payment, loan, promise, agreement, or arrangement and the name, address, and position, if any, in any firm or labor organization of the person to whom it was made and a full explanation of the circumstances of all such payments, including the terms of any agreement or understanding pursuant to which they were made.

(b) Every person who pursuant to any agreement or arrangement with an employer undertakes activities where an object thereof is, directly or indirectly—

(1) to persuade employees to exercise or not to exercise, or persuade employees as to the manner of exercising, the right to organize and bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing; or

(2) to supply an employer with information concerning the activities of employees or a labor organization in connection with a labor dispute involving such employer, except information for use solely in conjunction with an administrative or arbitral proceeding or a criminal or civil judicial proceeding; shall file within 30 days after entering into such agreement or arrangement a report with the Secretary, signed by its president and treasurer or corresponding principal officers, containing the name under which such person is engaged in doing business and the address of its principal office, and a detailed statement of the terms and conditions of such agreement or arrangement. Every such person shall file annually, with respect to each fiscal year during which payments were made as a result of such an agreement or arrangement, a report with the Secretary, signed by its president and treasurer or corresponding principal officers, containing a statement (A) of its receipts of any kind from employers on account of labor relations advice or services, designating the sources thereof, and (B) of its disbursements of any kind, in connection with such services and the purposes thereof. In each such case such information shall be set forth in such categories as the Secretary may prescribe.

(c) Nothing in this section shall be construed to require any employer or other person to file a report covering the services of such person by reason of his giving or agreeing to give advice to such employer or representing or agreeing to represent such employer before any court, administrative agency, or tribunal of arbitration or engaging or agreeing to engage in collective bargaining on behalf of such employer with respect to wages, hours, or other terms or conditions of employment or the negotiation of an agreement or any question arising thereunder.

(d) Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to require an employer to file a report under subsection (a) unless he has made an expenditure, payment, loan, agreement, or arrangement of the kind described therein. Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to require any other person to file a report under subsection (b) unless he was a party to an agreement or arrangement of the kind described therein.

(e) Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to require any regular officer, supervisor, or employee of an employer to file a report in connection with services rendered to such employer nor shall any employer be required to file a report covering expenditures made to any regular officer, supervisor, or employee of an employer as compensation for service as a regular officer, supervisor, or employee of such employer.

(f) Nothing contained in this section shall be construed as an amendment to, or modification of the rights protected by, section 8(c) of the National Labor Relations Act, as amended.

(g) The term "interfere with, restrain, or coerce" as used in this section means interference, restraint, and coercion which, if done with respect to the exercise of rights guaranteed in section 7 of the National Labor Relations Act, as amended, would, under section 8(a) of such Act, constitute an unfair labor practice.

Attorney-Client Communications Exempted

Sec. 204. Nothing contained in this Act shall be construed to require an attorney who is a member in good standing of the bar of any State, to include in any report required to be filed pursuant to the provisions of this Act any information which was lawfully communicated to such attorney by any of his clients in the course of a legitimate attorney-client relationship.

Reports Made Public Information

Sec. 205. (a) The contents of the reports and documents filed with the Secretary pursuant to sections 201, 202, and 203 shall be public information, and the Secretary may publish any information and data which he obtains pursuant to the provisions of this title. The Secretary may use the information and data for statistical and research purposes, and compile and publish such studies, analyses, reports, and surveys based thereon as he may deem appropriate.

(b) The Secretary shall by regulation make reasonable provision for the inspection and examination, on the request of any person, of the information and data contained in any report or other document filed with him pursuant to section 201, 202, or 203.

(c) The Secretary shall by regulation provide for the furnishing by the Department of Labor of copies of reports or other documents filed with the Secretary pursuant to this title, upon payment of a charge based upon the cost of the service. The Secretary shall make available without payment of a charge, or require any person to furnish, to such State agency as is designated by law or by the Governor of the State in which such person has his principal place of business or headquarters, upon request of the Governor of such State, copies of any reports and documents filed by such person with the Secretary pursuant to section 201, 202, or 203, or of information and data contained therein. No person shall be required by reason of any law of any State to furnish to any officer or agency of such State any information included in a report filed by such person with the Secretary pursuant to the provisions of this title, if a copy of such report, or of the portion thereof containing such information, is furnished to such officer or agency. All moneys received in payment of such charges fixed by the Secretary pursuant to this subsection shall be deposited in the general fund of the Treasury.

Retention of Records

Sec. 206. Every person required to file any report under this title shall maintain records on the matters required to be reported which will provide in sufficient detail the necessary basic information and data from which the documents filed with the Secretary may be verified, explained or clarified, and checked for accuracy and completeness, and shall include vouchers, worksheets, receipts, and applicable resolutions, and shall keep such records available for examination for a period of not less than five years after the filing of the documents based on the information which they contain.

Effective Date

Sec. 207. (a) Each labor organization shall file the initial report required under section 201(a) within ninety days after the date on which it first becomes subject to this Act.

(b) Each person required to file a report under section 201(b), 202, 203(a), or the second sentence of 203(b) shall file such report within ninety days after the end of each of its fiscal years; except that where such person is subject to section 201(b), 202, 203(a), or the second sentence of 203(b), as the case may be, for only a portion of such a fiscal year (because the date of enactment of this Act occurs during such person's fiscal year or such person becomes subject to this Act during its fiscal year) such person may consider that portion as the entire fiscal year in making such report.

Rules and Regulations

Sec. 208. The Secretary shall have authority to issue, amend, and rescind rules and regulations prescribing the form and publication of reports required to be filed under this title and such other reasonable rules and regulations (including rules prescribing reports concerning trusts in which a labor organization is interested) as he may find necessary to prevent the circumvention or evasion of such reporting requirements. In exercising his power under this section the Secretary shall prescribe by general rule simplified reports for labor organizations or employers for whom he finds that by virtue of their size a detailed report would be unduly burdensome, but the Secretary may revoke such provision for simplified forms of any labor organization or employer if he determines, after such investigation as he deems proper and due notice and opportunity for a hearing, that the purposes of this section would be served thereby.

Criminal Provisions

Sec. 209. (a) Any person who willfully violates this title shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both.

(b) Any person who makes a false statement or representation of a material fact, knowing it to be false, or who knowingly fails to disclose a material fact, in any document, report, or other information required under the provisions of this title shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both.

(c) Any person who willfully makes a false entry in or willfully conceals, withholds, or destroys any books, records, reports, or statements required to be kept by any provision of this title shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both.

(d) Each individual required to sign reports under sections 201 and 203 shall be personally responsible for the filing of such reports and for any statement contained therein which he knows to be false.

Civil Enforcement

Sec. 210. Whenever it shall appear that any person has violated or is about to violate any of the provisions of this title, the Secretary may bring a civil action for such relief (including injunctions) as may be appropriate. Any such action may be brought in the district court of the United States where the violation occurred or, at the option of the parties, in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia.

TITLE III—TRUSTEESHIPS

Reports

Sec. 301. (a) Every labor organization which has or assumes trusteeship over any subordinate labor organization shall file with the Secretary within thirty days after the date of the enactment of this Act or the imposition of any such trusteeship, and semi-annually thereafter, a report, signed by its president and treasurer or corresponding principal officers, as well as by the trustees of such subordinate labor organization, containing the following information: (1) the name and address of the subordinate organization; (2) the date of establishing the trusteeship; (3) a detailed statement of the reason or reasons for establishing or continuing the trusteeship; and (4) the nature and extent of participation by the membership of the subordinate organization in the selection of delegates to represent such organization in regular or special conventions or other policy-determining bodies and in the election of officers of the labor organization which has assumed trusteeship over such subordinate organization. The initial report shall also include a full and complete account of the financial condition of such subordinate organization as of the time trusteeship was assumed over it. During the continuance of a trusteeship the labor organization which has assumed trusteeship over a subordinate labor organization shall file on behalf of the subordinate labor organization the annual financial report required by section 201(b) signed by the president and treasurer or corresponding principal officers of the labor organization which has assumed such trusteeship and the trustees of the subordinate labor organization.

(b) The provisions of section 201(c), 205, 206, 208, and 210 shall be applicable to reports filed under this title.

(c) Any person who willfully violates this section shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both.

(d) Any person who makes a false statement or representation of a material fact, knowing it to be false, or who knowingly fails to disclose a material fact, in any report required under the provisions of this section or willfully makes any false entry in or willfully withholds, conceals, or destroys any documents, books, records, reports or statements upon which such report is based, shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both.

(e) Each individual required to sign a report under this section shall be personally responsible for the filing of such report and for any statement contained therein which he knows to be false.

Purposes for which a Trusteeship may be Established

Sec. 302. Trusteeships shall be established and administered by a labor organization over a subordinate body only in accordance with the constitution and bylaws of the organization which has assumed trusteeship over the subordinate body and for the purpose of correcting corruption or financial malpractice, assuring the performance of collective bargaining agreements or other duties of a bargaining representative, restoring democratic procedures, or otherwise carrying out the legitimate objects of such labor organization.

Unlawful Acts Relating to Labor Organization under Trusteeship

Sec. 303. (a) During any period when a subordinate body of a labor organization is in trusteeship, it shall be unlawful (1) to count the vote of delegates from such body in any convention or election of officers of the labor organization unless the delegates have been chosen by secret ballot in an election in which all the members in good standing of such subordinate body were eligible to participate, or (2) to transfer to such organization any current receipts or other funds of the subordinate body except the normal per capita tax and assessments payable by subordinate bodies not in trusteeship: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall prevent the distribution of the assets of a labor organization in accordance with its constitution and bylaws upon the bona fide dissolution thereof.

(b) Any person who willfully violates this section shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both.

Enforcement

Sec. 304. (a) Upon the written complaint of any member or subordinate body of a labor organization alleging that such organization has violated the provisions of this title (except section

301) the Secretary shall investigate the complaint and if the Secretary finds probable cause to believe that such violation has occurred and has not been remedied he shall, without disclosing the identity of the complainant, bring a civil action in any district court of the United States having jurisdiction of the labor organization for such relief (including injunctions) as may be appropriate. Any member or subordinate body of a labor organization affected by any violation of this title (except section 301) may bring a civil action in any district court of the United States having jurisdiction of the labor organization for such relief (including injunctions) as may be appropriate.

(b) For the purpose of actions under this section, district courts of the United States shall be deemed to have jurisdiction of a labor organization (1) in the district in which the principal office of such labor organization is located, or (2) in any district in which its duly authorized officers or agents are engaged in conducting the affairs of the trusteeship.

(c) In any proceeding pursuant to this section a trusteeship established by a labor organization in conformity with the procedural requirements of its constitution and bylaws and authorized or ratified after a fair hearing either before the executive board or before such other body as may be provided in accordance with its constitution or bylaws shall be presumed valid for a period of eighteen months from the date of its establishment and shall not be subject to attack during such period except upon clear and convincing proof that the trusteeship was not established or maintained in good faith for a purpose allowable under section 302. After the expiration of eighteen months the trusteeship shall be presumed invalid in any such proceeding and its discontinuance shall be decreed unless the labor organization shall show by clear and convincing proof that the continuation of the trusteeship is necessary for a purpose allowable under section 302. In the latter event the court may dismiss the complaint or retain jurisdiction of the cause on such conditions and for such period as it deems appropriate.

Report to Congress

Sec. 305. The Secretary shall submit to the Congress at the expiration of three years from the date of enactment of this Act a report upon the operation of this title.

Complaint by Secretary

Sec. 306. The rights and remedies provided by this title shall be in addition to any and all other rights and remedies at law or in equity: Provided, That upon the filing of a complaint by the Secretary the jurisdiction of the district court over such trusteeship shall be exclusive and the final judgment shall be res judicata.

TITLE IV—ELECTIONS

Terms of Office; Election Procedures

Sec. 401. (a) Every national or international labor organization, except a federation of national or international labor organizations, shall elect its officers not less often than once every five years either by secret ballot among the members in good standing or at a convention of delegates chosen by secret ballot.

(b) Every local labor organization shall elect its officers not less often than once every three years by secret ballot among the members in good standing.

(c) Every national or international labor organization, except a federation of national or international labor organizations, and every local labor organization, and its officers, shall be under a duty, enforceable at the suit of any bona fide candidate for office in such labor organization in the district court of the United States in which such labor organization maintains its principal office, to comply with all reasonable requests of any candidate to distribute by mail or otherwise at the candidate's expense campaign literature in aid of such person's candidacy to all members in good standing of such labor organization and to refrain from discrimination in favor of or against any candidate with respect to the use of lists of members, and whenever such labor organizations or its officers authorize the distribution by mail or otherwise to members of campaign literature on behalf of any candidate or of the labor organization itself with reference to such election, similar distribution at the request of any other bona fide candidate shall be made by such labor organization and its officers, with equal treatment as to the expense of such distribution. Every bona fide candidate shall have the right, once within 30 days prior to an election of a labor organization in which he is a candidate, to inspect a list containing the names and last known addresses of all members of the labor organization who are subject to a collective bargaining agreement requiring membership therein as a condition of employment, which list shall be maintained and kept at the principal office of such labor organization by a designated official thereof. Adequate safeguards to insure a fair election shall be provided, including the right of any candidate to have an observer at the polls and at the counting of the ballots.

(d) Officers of intermediate bodies, such as general committees, system boards, joint boards, or joint councils, shall be elected not less often than once every four years by secret ballot among the members in good standing or by labor organization officers representative of such members who have been elected by secret ballot.

(e) In any election required by this section which is to be held by secret ballot a reasonable opportunity shall be given for the nomination of candidates and every member in good standing shall be eligible to be a candidate and to hold office (subject to section 504 and to reasonable qualifications uniformly imposed) and shall have the right to vote for or otherwise support the candidate or candidates of his choice, without being subject to penalty, discipline, or improper interference or reprisal of any kind by such organization or any member thereof. Not less than fifteen days prior to the election notice thereof shall be mailed to each member at his last known home address. Each member in good standing shall be entitled to one vote. No member whose dues have been withheld by his employer for payment to such organization pursuant to his voluntary authorization provided for in a collective bargaining agreement shall be declared ineligible to vote or be a candidate for office in such organization by reason of alleged delay or default in the payment of dues. The votes cast by members of each local labor organization shall be counted, and the results published, separately. The election officials designated in the constitution and bylaws or the secretary, if no other official is designated shall preserve for one year the ballots and all other records pertaining to the election. The election shall be conducted in accordance with the constitution and bylaws of such organization insofar as they are not inconsistent with the provisions of this title.

(f) When officers are chosen by a convention of delegates elected by secret ballot, the convention shall be conducted in accordance with the constitution and bylaws of the labor organization insofar as they are not inconsistent with the provisions of this title. The officials designated in the constitution and bylaws or the secretary, if no other is designated, shall preserve for one year the credentials of the delegates and all minutes and other records of the convention pertaining to the election of officers.

(g) No moneys received by any labor organization by way of dues, assessment, or similar levy, and no moneys of an employer shall be contributed or applied to promote the candidacy of any person in an election subject to the provisions of this title. Such moneys of a labor organization may be utilized for notices, factual statements of issues not involving candidates and other expenses necessary for the holding of an election.

(h) If the Secretary, upon application of any member of a local labor organization, finds after hearing in accordance with the Administrative Procedure Act that the constitution and bylaws of such labor organization do not provide an adequate procedure for the removal of an elected officer guilty of serious misconduct, such officer may be removed, for cause shown and after notice and hearing, by the members in good standing voting in a secret ballot conducted by the officers of such labor organization in accordance with its constitution and bylaws insofar as they are not inconsistent with the provisions of this title.

(i) The Secretary shall promulgate rules and regulations prescribing minimum standards and procedures for determining the adequacy of the removal procedures to which reference is made in subsection (h).

Enforcement

Sec. 402. (a) A member of a labor organization—

(1) who has exhausted the remedies available under the constitution and bylaws of such organization and of any parent body, or

(2) who has invoked such available remedies without obtaining a final decision within three calendar months after their invocation, may file a complaint with the Secretary within one calendar month thereafter alleging the violation of any provision of section 401 (including violation of the constitution and bylaws of the labor organization pertaining to the election and removal of officers). The challenged election shall be presumed valid pending a final decision thereon (as hereinafter provided) and in the interim the affairs of the organization shall be conducted by the officers elected or in such other manner as its constitution and bylaws may provide.

(b) The Secretary shall investigate such complaint and, if he finds probable cause to believe that a violation of this title has occurred and has not been remedied, he shall, within sixty days after the filing of such complaint, bring a civil action against the labor organization as an entity in the district court of the United States in which such labor organization maintains its principal office to set aside the invalid election, if any, and to direct the conduct of an election or hearing and vote upon the removal of officers under the supervision of the Secretary and in accordance with the provisions of this title and such rules and regulations as the Secretary may prescribe. The court shall have power to take such action as it deems proper to preserve the assets of the labor organization.

(c) If, upon a preponderance of the evidence after a trial upon the merits, the court finds—

(1) that an election has not been held within the time prescribed by section 401, or

(2) that the violation of section 401 may have affected the outcome of an election, the court shall declare the election, if any, to be void and direct the conduct of a new election under supervision of the Secretary and, so far as lawful and practicable, in conformity with the constitution and bylaws of the labor organization. The Secretary shall promptly certify to the court the names of the persons elected, and the court shall thereupon enter a decree declaring such persons to be the officers of the labor organization. If the proceeding is for the removal of officers pursuant to subsection (h) of section 401, the Secretary shall certify the results of the vote and the court shall enter a decree declaring whether such persons have been removed as officers of the labor organization.

(d) An order directing an election, dismissing a complaint, or designating elected officers of a labor organization shall be appealable in the same manner as the final judgment in a civil action, but an order directing an election shall not be stayed pending appeal.

Application of other Laws

Sec. 403. No labor organization shall be required by law to conduct elections of officers with greater frequency or in a different form or manner than is required by its own constitution or bylaws, except as otherwise provided by this title. Existing rights and remedies to enforce the constitution and bylaws of a labor organization with respect to elections prior to the conduct thereof shall not be affected by the provisions of this title. The remedy provided by this title for challenging an election already conducted shall be exclusive.

Effective Date

Sec. 404. The provisions of this title shall become applicable—

(1) ninety days after the date of enactment of this Act in the case of a labor organization whose constitution and bylaws can lawfully be modified or amended by action of its constitutional officers or governing body, or

(2) where such modification can only be made by a constitutional convention of the labor organization, not later than the next constitutional convention of such labor organization after the date of enactment of this Act, or one year after such date, whichever is sooner. If no such convention is held within such one-year period, the executive board or similar governing body empowered to act for such labor organization between conventions is empowered to make such interim constitutional changes as are necessary to carry out the provisions of this title.

TITLE V—SAFEGUARDS FOR LABOR ORGANIZATIONS

Fiduciary Responsibility of Officers of Labor Organizations

Sec. 501. (a) The officers, agents, shop stewards, and other representatives of a labor organization occupy positions of trust in relation to such organization and its members as a group. It is, therefore, the duty of each such person, taking into account the special problems and functions of a labor organization, to hold its money and property solely for the benefit of the organization and its members and to manage, invest, and expend the same in accordance with its constitution and bylaws and any resolutions of the governing bodies adopted thereunder, to refrain from dealing with such organization as an adverse party or in behalf of an adverse party in any matter connected with his duties and from holding or acquiring any pecuniary or personal interest which conflicts with the interests of such organization, and to account to the organization for any profit received by him in whatever capacity in connection with transactions conducted by him or under his direction on behalf of the organization. A general exculpatory provision in the constitution and bylaws of such labor organization or a general exculpatory resolution of a governing body purporting to relieve any such person of liability for breach of the duties declared by this section shall be void as against public policy.

(b) When any officer, agent, shop steward, or representative of any labor organization is alleged to have violated the duties declared in subsection (a) and the labor organization or its governing board or officers refuse or fail to sue or recover damages or secure an accounting or other appropriate relief within a reasonable time after being requested to do so by any member of the labor organization, such member may sue such officer, agent, shop steward, or representative in any district court of the United States or in any State court of competent jurisdiction to recover damages or secure an accounting or other appropriate relief for the benefit of the labor organization. No such proceeding shall be brought except upon leave of the court obtained upon verified application and for good cause shown, which application may be made ex parte. The trial judge may allot a reasonable part of the recovery in any action under this subsection to pay the fees of counsel prosecuting the suit at the instance of the member of the labor organization and to compensate such member for any expenses necessarily paid or incurred by him in connection with the litigation.

(c) Any person who embezzles, steals, or unlawfully and willfully abstracts or converts to his own use, or the use of another, any of the moneys, funds, securities, property, or other assets of a labor organization of which he is an officer, or by which he is employed, directly or indirectly, shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned for not more than five years, or both.

Bonding

Sec. 502. (a) Every officer, agent, shop steward, or other representative or employee of any labor organization (other than a labor organization whose property and annual financial receipts do not exceed $5,000 in value), or of a trust in which a labor organization is interested, who handles funds or other property thereof shall be bonded for the faithful discharge of his duties. The bond of each such person shall be fixed at the beginning of the organization's fiscal year and shall be in an amount not less than 10 per centum of the funds handled by him and his predecessor or predecessors, if any, during the preceding fiscal year, but in no case more than $500,000. If the labor organization or the trust in which a labor organization is interested does not have a preceding fiscal year, the amount of the bond shall be, in the case of a local labor organization, not less than $1,000, and in the case of any other labor organization or of a trust in which a labor organization is interested, not less than $10,000. Such bonds shall be individual or schedule in form, and shall have a corporate surety company as surety thereon. Any person who is not covered by such bonds shall not be permitted to receive, handle, disburse, or otherwise exercise custody or control of the funds or other property of a labor organization or of a trust in which a labor organization is interested. No such bond shall be placed through an agent or broker or with a surety company, in which any labor organization or any officer, agent, shop steward, or other representative of a labor organization has any direct or indirect interest. Such surety company shall be a corporate surety which holds a grant of authority from the Secretary of the Treasury under the Act of July 30, 1947 (6 U.S.C. 6—13), as an acceptable surety on Federal bonds.

(b) Any person who willfully violates this section shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both.

Making of Loans; Payment of Fines

Sec. 503. (a) No labor organization shall make directly or indirectly any loan or loans to any officer or employee of such organization which results in a total indebtedness on the part of such officer or employee to the labor organization in excess of $2,000.

(b) No labor organization or employer shall directly or indirectly pay the fine of any officer or employee convicted of any willful violation of this Act.

(c) Any person who willfully violates this section shall be fined not more than $5,000 or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both.

Prohibition Against Certain Persons Holding Office

Sec. 504 (a) No person who is or has been a member of the Communist Party or who has been convicted of, or served any part of a prison term resulting from his conviction of, robbery, bribery, extortion, embezzlement, grand larceny, burglary, arson, violation of narcotics laws, murder, rape, assault with intent to kill, assault which inflicts grievous bodily injury, or a violation of title II or III of this Act, or conspiracy to commit any such crimes, shall serve—

(1) as an officer, director, trustee, member of any executive board or similar governing body, business agent, manager, organizer, or other employee (other than as an employee performing exclusively clerical or custodial duties) of any labor organization, or

(2) as a labor relations consultant to a person engaged in an industry or activity affecting commerce, or as an officer, director, agent, or employee (other than as an employee performing exclusively clerical or custodial duties) of any group or association of employers dealing with any labor organization, during or for five years after the termination of his membership in the Communist Party, or for five years after such conviction or after the end of such imprisonment, unless prior to the end of such five-year period, in the case of a person so convicted or imprisoned, (A) his citizenship rights, having been revoked as a result of such conviction, have been fully restored, or (B) the Board of Parole of the United States Department of Justice determines that such person's service in any capacity referred to in clause (1) or (2) would not be contrary to the purposes of this Act. Prior to making any such determination the Board shall hold an administrative hearing and shall give notice of such proceeding by certified mail to the State, county, and Federal prosecuting officials in the jurisdiction or jurisdictions in which such person was convicted. The Board's determination in any such proceeding shall be final. No labor organization or officer thereof shall knowingly permit any person to assume or hold any office or paid position in violation of this subsection.

(b) any person who willfully violates this section shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both.

(c) For the purposes of this section, any person shall be deemed to have been "convicted" and under the disability of "conviction" from the date of the judgment of the trial court or the date of the final sustaining of such judgment on appeal, whichever is the later event, regardless of whether such conviction occurred before or after the date of enactment of this Act.

Amendment to Section 302,
Labor Management Relations Act, 1947
Sec. 505. Subsections (a), (b), and

(c) of section 302 of the Labor Management Relations Act, 1947, as amended, are amended to read as follows:

"Sec. 302. (a) It shall be unlawful for any employer or association of employers or any person who acts as a labor relations expert, adviser, or consultant to an employer or who acts in the interest of an employer to pay, lend, or deliver, or agree to pay, lend, or deliver, any money or other thing of value—

"(1) to any representative of any of his employees who are employed in an industry affecting commerce; or

"(2) to any labor organization, or any officer or employee thereof, which represents, seeks to represent, or would admit to membership, any of the employees of such employer who are employed in an industry affecting commerce; or

"(3) to any employee or group or committee of employees of such employer employed in an industry affecting commerce in excess of their normal compensation for the purpose of causing such employee or group or committee directly or indirectly to influence any other employees in the exercise of the right to organize and bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing; or

"(4) to any officer or employee of a labor organization engaged in an industry affecting commerce with intent to influence him in respect to any of his actions, decisions, or duties as a representative of employees or as such officer or employee of such labor organization.

"(b) (1) It shall be unlawful for any person to request, demand, receive, or accept, or agree to receive or accept, any payment, loan, or delivery of any money or other thing of value prohibited by subsection (a).

"(2) It shall be unlawful for any labor organization, or for any person acting as an officer, agent, representative, or employee of such labor organization to demand or accept from the operator of any motor vehicle (as defined in part II of the Interstate Commerce Act) employed in the transportation of property in commerce, or the employer of any such operator, any money or other thing of value payable to such organization or to an officer, agent, representative or employee thereof as a fee or charge for the unloading, or in connection with the unloading, of the cargo of such vehicle: Provided, That nothing in this paragraph shall be construed to make unlawful any payment by an employer to any of his employees as compensation for their services as employees.

"(c) The provisions of this section shall not be applicable (1) in respect to any money or other thing of value payable by an employer to any of his employees whose established duties include acting openly for such employer in matters of labor relations or personnel administration or to any representative of his employees, or to any officer or employee of a labor organization, who is also an employee or former employee of such employer, as compensation for, or by reason of, his service as an employee of such employer; (2) with respect to the payment or delivery of any money or other thing of value in satisfaction of a judgment of any court or a decision or award of an arbitrator or impartial chairman or in compromise, adjustment, settlement, or release of any claim, complaint, grievance, or dispute in the absence of fraud or duress; (3) with respect to the sale or purchase of an article or commodity at the prevailing market price in the regular course of business; (4) with respect to money deducted from the wages of employees in payment of membership dues in a labor organization: Provided, That the employer has received from each employee, on whose account such deductions are made, a written assignment which shall not be irrevocable for a period of more than one year, or beyond the termination date of the applicable collective agreement, whichever occurs sooner; (5) with respect to money or other thing of value paid to a trust fund established by such representative, for the sole and exclusive benefit of the employees of such employer, and their families and dependents (or of such employees, families, and dependents jointly with the employees of other employers making similar payments, and their families and dependents): Provided, That (A) such payments are held in trust for the purpose of paying, either from principal or income or both, for the benefit of employees, their families and dependents, for medical or hospital care, pensions on retirement or death of employees, compensation for injuries or illness resulting from occupational activity or insurance to provide any of the foregoing, or unemployment benefits or life insurance, disability and sickness insurance, or accident insurance; (B) the detailed basis on which such payments are to be made is specified in a written agreement with the employer, and employees and employers are equally represented in the administration of such fund, together with such neutral persons as the representatives of the employers and the representatives of employees may agree upon and in the event the employer and employee groups deadlock on the administration of such fund and there are no neutral persons empowered to break such deadlock, such agreement provides that the two groups shall agree on an impartial umpire to decide such dispute, or in event of their failure to agree within a reasonable length of time, an impartial umpire to decide such dispute shall, on petition of either group, be appointed by the district court of the United States for the district where the trust fund has its principal office, and shall also contain provisions for an annual audit of the trust fund, a statement of the results of which shall be available for inspection by interested persons at the principal office of the trust fund and at such other places as may be designated in such written agreement; and (C) such payments as are intended to be used for the purpose of providing pensions or annuities for employees are made to a separate trust which provides that the funds held therein cannot be used for any purpose other than paying such pensions or annuities; or (6) with respect to money or other thing of value paid by any employer to a trust fund established by such representatives for the purpose of pooled vacation, holiday, severance or similar benefits, or defraying costs of apprenticeship or other training programs: Provided, That the requirements of clause (B) of the proviso to clause (5) of this subsection shall apply to such trust funds."

TITLE VI—MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

Investigations

Sec. 601. (a) The Secretary shall have power when he believes it necessary in order to determine whether any person has violated or is about to violate any provision of this Act (except title I or amendments made by this Act to other statutes) to make an investigation and in connection therewith he may enter such places and inspect such records and accounts and question such persons as he may deem necessary to enable him to determine the facts relative thereto. The Secretary may report to interested persons or officials concerning the facts required to be shown in any report required by this Act and concerning the reasons for failure or refusal to file such a report or any other matter which he deems to be appropriate as a result of such an investigation.

(b) For the purpose of any investigation provided for in this Act, the provisions of sections 9 and 10 (relating to the attendance of witnesses and the production of books, papers, and documents) of the Federal Trade Commission Act of September 16, 1914, as amended (15 U.S.C. 49, 50), are hereby made applicable to the jurisdiction, powers, and duties of the Secretary or any officers designated by him.

Extortionate Picketing

Sec. 602. (a) It shall be unlawful to carry on picketing on or about the premises of any employer for the purpose of, or as part of any conspiracy or in furtherance of any plan or purpose for, the personal profit or enrichment of any individual (except a bona fide increase in wages or other employe benefits) by taking or obtaining any money or other thing of value from such employer against his will or with his consent.

(b) Any person who willfully violates this section shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than twenty years, or both.

Retention of Rights Under Other Federal and State Laws

Sec. 603. (a) Except as explicitly provided to the contrary, nothing in this Act shall reduce or limit the responsibilities of any labor organization or any officer, agent, shop steward, or other representative of a labor organization, or of any trust in which a labor organization is interested, under any other Federal law or under the laws of any State, and, except as explicitly provided to the contrary, nothing in this Act shall take away any right or bar any remedy to which members of a labor organization are entitled under such other Federal law or law of any State.

(b) Nothing contained in titles I, II, III, IV, V, or VI of this Act shall be construed to supersede or impair or otherwise affect the provisions of the Railway Labor Act, as amended, or any of the obligations, rights, benefits, privileges, or immunities of any carrier, employee, organization, representative, or person subject thereto; nor shall anything contained in said titles (except section 505) of this Act be construed to confer any rights, privileges, immunities, or defenses upon employers, or to impair or otherwise affect the rights of any person under the National Labor Relations Act, as amended.

Effect on State Laws

Sec. 604. Nothing in this Act shall be construed to impair or diminish the authority of any State to enact and enforce general criminal laws with respect to robbery, bribery, extortion, embezzlement, grand larceny, burglary, arson, violation of narcotics laws, murder, rape, assault with intent to kill, or assault which inflicts grievous bodily injury, or conspiracy to commit any of such crimes.

Service of Process

Sec. 605. For the purposes of this Act, service of summons, subpoena, or other legal process of a court of the United States upon an officer or agent of a labor organization in his capacity as such shall constitute service upon the labor organization.

Administrative Procedure Act

Sec. 606. The provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act shall be applicable to the issuance, amendment, or rescission of any rules or regulations, or any adjudication, authorized or required pursuant to the provisions of this Act.

Other Agencies and Departments

Sec. 607. In order to avoid unnecessary expense and duplication of functions among Government agencies, the Secretary may make such arrangements or agreements for cooperation or mutual assistance in the performance of his functions under this Act and the functions of any such agency as he may find to be practicable and consistent with law. The Secretary may utilize the facilities or services of any department, agency, or establishment of the United States or of any State or political subdivision of a State, including the services of any of its employees, with the lawful consent of such department, agency, or establishment; and each department, agency, or establishment of the United States is authorized and directed to cooperate with the Secretary and, to the extent permitted by law, to provide such information and facilities as he may request for his assistance in the performance of his functions under this Act. The Attorney General or his representative shall receive from the Secretary for appropriate action such evidence developed in the performance of his functions under this Act as may be found to warrant consideration for criminal prosecution under the provisions of this Act or other Federal law.

Criminal Contempt

Sec. 608. No person shall be punished for any criminal contempt allegedly committed outside the immediate presence of the court in connection with any civil action prosecuted by the Secretary or any other person in any court of the United States under the provisions of this Act unless the facts constituting such criminal contempt are established by the verdict of the jury in a proceeding in the district court of the United States, which jury shall be chosen and empaneled in the manner prescribed by the law governing trial juries in criminal prosecutions in the district courts of the United States.

Prohibition on Certain Discipline By Labor Organization

Sec. 609. It shall be unlawful for any labor organization, or any officer, agent, shop steward, or other representative of a labor organization, or any employee thereof to fine, suspend, expel, or otherwise discipline any of its members for exercising any right to which he is entitled under the provisions of this Act. The provisions of section 102 shall be applicable in the enforcement of this section.

Deprivation of Rights Under Act By Violence

Sec. 610. It shall be unlawful for any person through the use of force or violence, or threat of the use of force or violence, to restrain, coerce, or intimidate, or attempt to restrain, coerce, or intimidate any member of a labor organization for the purpose of interfering with or preventing the exercise of any right to which he is entitled under the provision of this Act. Any person who willfully violates this section shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both.

Separability Provisions

Sec. 611. If any provision of this Act or the application of such provision to any person or circumstances, shall be held invalid, the remainder of this Act or the application of such provision to persons or circumstances other than those as to which it is held invalid, shall not be affected thereby.

TITLE VII—AMENDMENTS TO THE LABOR MANAGEMENT RELATIONS ACT, 1947, AS AMENDED

Federal-State Jurisdiction

Sec. 701. (a) Section 14 of the National Labor Relations Act, as amended, is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new subsection:

“(c) (1) The Board, in its discretion, may, by rule of decision or by published rules adopted pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act, decline to assert jurisdiction over any labor dispute involving any class or category of employers, where, in the opinion of the Board, the effect of such labor dispute on commerce is not sufficiently substantial to warrant the exercise of its jurisdiction: Provided, That the Board shall not decline to assert jurisdiction over any labor dispute over which it would assert jurisdiction under the standards prevailing upon August 1, 1959.

“(2) Nothing in this Act shall be deemed to prevent or bar any agency or the courts of any State or Territory (including the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Virgin Islands), from assuming and asserting jurisdiction over labor disputes over which the Board declines, pursuant to paragraph (1) of this subsection, to assert jurisdiction.”

(b) Section 3(b) of such Act is amended to read as follows:

“(b) The Board is authorized to delegate to any group of three or more members any or all of the powers which it may itself exercise. The Board is also authorized to delegate to its regional directors its powers under section 9 to determine the unit appropriate for the purpose of collective bargaining, to investigate and provide for hearings, and determine whether a question of representation exists, and to direct an election or take a secret ballot under subsection (c) or (e) of section 9 and certify the results thereof, except that upon the filing of a request therefor with the Board by any interested person, the Board may review any action of a regional director delegated to him under this paragraph, but such a review shall not, unless specifically ordered by the Board, operate as a stay of any action taken by the regional director. A vacancy in the Board shall not impair the right of the remaining members to exercise all of the powers of the Board, and three members of the Board shall, at all times, constitute a quorum of the Board, except that two members shall constitute a quorum of any group designated pursuant to the first sentence hereof. The Board shall have an official seal which shall be judicially noticed.”

Economic Strikers

Sec. 702. Section 9(c) (3) of the National Labor Relations Act, as amended, is amended by amending the second sentence thereof to read as follows: “Employees engaged in an economic strike who are not entitled to reinstatement shall be eligible to vote under such regulations as the Board shall find are consistent with the purposes and provisions of this Act in any election conducted within twelve months after the commencement of the strike.”

Vacancy in Office of General Counsel

Sec. 703. Section 3(d) of the National Labor Relations Act, as amended, is amended by adding after the period at the end thereof the following: “In case of a vacancy in the office of the General Counsel the President is authorized to designate the officer or employee who shall act as General Counsel during such vacancy, but no person or persons so designated shall so act (1) for more than forty days when the Congress is in session unless a nomination to fill such vacancy shall have been submitted to the Senate, or (2) after the adjournment sine die of the session of the Senate in which such nomination was submitted.”

Boycotts and Recognition Picketing

Sec. 704. (a) Section 8(b) (4) of the National Labor Relations Act, as amended, is amended to read as follows:

“(4) (i) to engage in, or to induce or encourage any individual employed by any person engaged in commerce or in an industry affecting commerce to engage in, a strike or a refusal in the course of his employment to use, manufacture, process, transport, or otherwise handle or work on any goods, articles, materials, or commodities or to perform any services; or (ii) to threaten, coerce, or restrain any person engaged in commerce or in an industry affecting commerce, where in either case an object thereof is:

“(A) forcing or requiring any employer or self-employed person to join any labor or employer organization or to enter into any agreement which is prohibited by section 8(e);

“(B) forcing or requiring any person to cease using, selling, handling, transporting, or otherwise dealing in the products of any other producer, processor, or manufacturer, or to cease doing business with any other person, or forcing or requiring any other employer to recognize or bargain with a labor organization as the representative of his employees unless such labor organization has been certified as the representative of such employees under the provisions of section 9: Provided, That nothing contained in this clause (B) shall be construed to make unlawful, where not otherwise unlawful, any primary strike or primary picketing;

“(C) forcing or requiring any employer to recognize or bargain with a particular labor organization as the representative of his employees if another labor organization has been certified as the representative of such employees under the provisions of section 9;

“(D) forcing or requiring any employer to assign particular work to employees in a particular labor organization or in a particular trade, craft, or class rather than to employees in another labor organization or in another trade, craft, or class, unless such employer is failing to conform to an order or certification of the Board determining the bargaining representative for employees performing such work:

Provided, That nothing contained in this subsection (b) shall be construed to make unlawful a refusal by any person to enter upon the premises of any employer (other than his own employer), if the employees of such employer are engaged in a strike ratified or approved by a representative of such employees whom such employer is required to recognize under this Act: Provided further, That for the purposes of this paragraph (4) only, nothing contained in such paragraph shall be construed to prohibit publicity, other than picketing, for the purpose of truthfully advising the public, including consumers and members of a labor organization, that a product or products are produced by an employer with whom the labor organization has a primary dispute and are distributed by another employer, as long as such publicity does not have an effect of inducing any individual employed by any person other than the primary employer in the course of his employment to refuse to pick up, deliver, or transport any goods, or not to perform any services, at the establishment of the employer engaged in such distribution;”

(b) Section 8 of the National Labor Relations Act, as amended, is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new subsection:

“(e) It shall be an unfair labor practice for any labor organization and any employer to enter into any contract or agreement, express or implied, whereby such employer ceases or refrains or agrees to cease or refrain from handling, using, selling, transporting or otherwise dealing in any of the products of any other employer, or to cease doing business with any other person, and any contract or agreement entered into heretofore or hereafter containing such an agreement shall be to such extent unenforceable and void: Provided, That nothing in this subsection (e) shall apply to an agreement between a labor organization and an employer in the construction industry relating to the contracting or subcontracting of work to be done at the site of the construction, alteration, painting, or repair of a building, structure, or other work: Provided further, That for the purposes of this subsection (e) and section 8(b)(4)(B) the terms ‘any employer’, ‘any person engaged in commerce or an industry affecting commerce’, and ‘any person’ when used in relation to the terms ‘any other producer, processor, or manufacturer’, ‘any other employer’, or ‘any other person’ shall not include persons in the relation of a jobber, manufacturer, contractor, or subcontractor working on the goods or premises of the jobber or manufacturer or performing parts of an integrated process of production in the apparel and clothing industry: Provided further, That nothing in this Act shall prohibit the enforcement of any agreement which is within the foregoing exception.”

(c) Section 8(b) of the National Labor Relations Act, as amended, is amended by striking out the word “and” at the end of paragraph (5), striking out the period at the end of paragraph (6), and inserting in lieu thereof a semicolon and the word “and”, and adding a new paragraph as follows:

“(7) to picket or cause to be picketed, or threaten to picket or cause to be picketed, any employer where an object thereof is forcing or requiring an employer to recognize or bargain with a labor organization as the representative of his employees, or forcing or requiring the employees of an employer to accept or select such labor organization as their collective bargaining representative, unless such labor organization is currently certified as the representative of such employees:

“(A) where the employer has lawfully recognized in accordance with this Act any other labor organization and a question concerning representation may not appropriately be raised under section 9(c) of this Act,

“(B) where within the preceding twelve months a valid election under section 9(c) of this Act has been conducted, or

“(C) where such picketing has been conducted without a petition under section 9(c) being filed within a reasonable period of time not to exceed thirty days from the commencement of such picketing: Provided, That when such a petition has been filed the Board shall forthwith, without regard to the provisions of section 9(c)(1) or the absence of a showing of a substantial interest on the part of the labor organization, direct an election in such unit as the Board finds to be appropriate and shall certify the results thereof: Provided further, That nothing in this subparagraph (C) shall be construed to prohibit any picketing or other publicity for the purpose of truthfully advising the public (including consumers) that an employer does not employ members of, or have a contract with, a labor organization, unless an effect of such picketing is to induce any individual employed by any other person in the course of his employment, not to pick up, deliver or transport any goods or not to perform any services.

“Nothing in this paragraph (7) shall be construed to permit any act which would otherwise be an unfair labor practice under this section 8(b).”

(d) Section 10(l) of the National Labor Relations Act, as amended, is amended by adding after the words “section 8(b),” the words “or section 8(e) or section 8(b)(7),” and by striking out the period at the end of the third sentence and inserting in lieu thereof a colon and the following: “Provided further, That such officer or regional attorney shall not apply for any restraining order under section 8(b)(7) if a charge against the employer under section 8(a)(2) has been filed and after the preliminary investigation, he has reasonable cause to believe that such charge is true and that a complaint should issue.”

(e) Section 303(a) of the Labor Management Relations Act, 1947, is amended to read as follows:

“(a) It shall be unlawful, for the purpose of this section only, in an industry or activity affecting commerce, for any labor organization to engage in any activity or conduct defined as an unfair labor practice in section 8(b)(4) of the National Labor Relations Act, as amended.”

Building and Construction Industry

Sec. 705. (a) Section 8 of the National Labor Relations Act, as amended by section 704(b) of this Act, is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new subsection:

“(f) It shall not be an unfair labor practice under subsections (a) and (b) of this section for an employer engaged primarily in the building and construction industry to make an agreement covering employees engaged (or who, upon their employment, will be engaged) in the building and construction industry with a labor organization of which building and construction employees are members (not established, maintained, or assisted by any action defined in section 8(a) of this Act as an unfair labor practice) because (1) the majority status of such labor organization has not been established under the provisions of section 9 of this Act prior to the making of such agreement, or (2) such agreement requires as a condition of employment, membership in such labor organization after the seventh day following the beginning of such employment or the effective date of the agreement, whichever is later, or (3) such agreement requires the employer to notify such labor organization of opportunities for employment with such employer, or gives such labor organization an opportunity to refer qualified applicants for such employment, or (4) such agreement specifies minimum training or experience qualifications for employment or provides for priority in opportunities for employment based upon length of service with such employer, in the industry or in the particular geographical area: Provided, That nothing in this subsection shall set aside the final proviso to section 8(a)(3) of this Act: Provided further, That any agreement which would be invalid, but for clause (1) of this subsection, shall not be a bar to a petition filed pursuant to section 9(c) or 9(e).”

(b) Nothing contained in the amendment made by subsection (a) shall be construed as authorizing the execution or application of agreements requiring membership in a labor organization as a condition of employment in any State or Territory in which such execution or application is prohibited by State or Territorial law.

Priority in Case Handling

Sec. 706. Section 10 of the National Labor Relations Act, as amended, is amended by adding at the end thereof a new subsection as follows:

“(m) Whenever it is charged that any person has engaged in an unfair labor practice within the meaning of subsection (a)(3) or (b)(2) of section 8, such charge shall be given priority over all other cases except cases of like character in the office where it is filed or to which it is referred and cases given priority under subsection (l).”

Effective Date of Amendments

Sec. 707. The amendments made by this title shall take effect sixty days after the date of the enactment of this Act and no provision of this title shall be deemed to make an unfair labor practice, any act which is performed prior to such effective date which did not constitute an unfair labor practice prior thereto.

This law was signed by the President September 14, 1959.

the LATHER

reports on Washington

Unemployment fell at less than the usual amount last month while employment dropped at a greater than seasonal rate. Joblessness dropped by 318,000 to 3,428,000 and employment was down 353,000 to 67,595,000. The expected drop in August unemployment is 568,000. As a result, the unemployment rate rose from 5.1 to 5.5 percent of the work-force.

President Eisenhower signed the new housing bill on Sept. 23 and immediately afterwards FHA announced the expected increase in its interest-rate ceiling from 5¼% to 5¾%. Lenders had been tightening their purse strings in anticipation of the boost, and the experts see GI loans levelling out at 4 points below FHA loans as a result.

The McClellan Committee's three-year investigation of "labor-management corruption" has now tentatively ended. The committee's closing day, early in September, was marked by GOP political demands for a "thorough-going" study of the United Auto Workers. Republican members of the committee have been attempting to attack the UAW by bringing up decade-old charges and "leaking" stories to the press of testimony developed during executive session. Sen. John Kennedy (D., Mass.) called the new UAW hearings a "monumental waste of time" and charged GOP members with using the committee to "carry on political warfare" and to "indict a union whose political philosophy differed from theirs."

Housing starts for August totalled 129,000, up 2.4% from July and up 4% from August of 1958. Private starts in August were running at an adjusted annual rate of 1,340,000, down .7% from July and up 9.1% from August, 1958. Conventional and FHA starts in August were up .9%, while VA starts were down 6.8%. Conventional starts in August were 17.8% above August of last year. Total starts for first 8 months of 1959 were 973,400, up 26% from the same period in 1958.

Value of total construction put in place in August dropped seasonally although it was one percent higher than in June. Total value of construction amounted to $5.3 billion, up 13 percent over last year. The August gain was the smallest of this year and resulted largely from a small drop in residential construction. While public construction for this year was up 14 percent over the corresponding eight-month period of last year, expenditures for educational building were down four percent.

The NLRB has found NECO Corp. guilty of unfair labor practices for threatening to shut down or move its Bay Springs, Miss., plant if the International Union of Electrical Workers won a representation election. A board majority held that while the threats were only made to a few workers by a minor supervisor, "because of the timing and nature of the threats, those activities go to the very heart of the Act and indicate a purpose to defeat the employees' self-organization."

The effects of the tight money policy are becoming painfully evident in an increasing number of areas. U. S. Treasury now is paying a 4.468 percent for six month bills. Auto dealers will now have to pay 5.5 percent to finance auto inventories, instead of the five percent rate charged up to the recent rise in the prime rate. New York City factors who finance small business enterprises unable to get bank loans have responded to tighter money by raising interest charges from 7.2 to 7.8 percent.

National Association of Purchasing Agents has reported in its latest survey that the upturn from the 1958 recession is continuing to "lose its zip." The organization reported that although there were no significant shortages of steel in August, there were few indications of greater production, inventories or employment during the month in top commercial and manufacturing concerns.

Report of the GENERAL SECRETARY-TREASURER

Every once in a while you may run into a trade unionist who thinks that it is not quite proper for organized labor to take part in politics.

But the fact remains that union members, as good citizens and good Americans, should feel a responsibility for a strong defense, good schools, decent public housing, a fair deal for the farmers and small businessmen, taxes based on the ability to pay and many other things that benefit not only themselves but the rest of the nation.

The Wood Wire & Metal Lathers International Union is, as you all know, nonpartisan as far as political parties are concerned. We are not interested so much in a candidate's party affiliation as we are in his stand on labor legislation. We should be concerned with his voting record on laws that are vital to our well being. Remember, it is better to elect our friends, friends of labor, than to elect a good Republican or a good Democrat. We are interested in the Man and his actions, not words.

If we are to get legislation passed which is favorable to labor we must take an active interest in politics. Labor must learn to be united and tough on the political level to preserve the achievements of the trade union movement.

Political work, of course, takes money. There can be no waving of a magic wand when it comes to paying bills for advertising, radio and TV time, secretarial help, gasoline and oil, printing and the many other items necessary to helping good candidates get elected to office.

One dollar won't buy much by itself, but the cumulative impact of that dollar, in purchasing power, when multiplied by the number of members in the trade union movement is tremendous.

Remember we have so much at stake that political action must and does go on around the clock, day in day out.

Far too many voters in the United States are prone to think that political action ends when the polls close on election day. This is faulty and chimerical thinking.

This year especially, with unemployment and part time employment plaguing millions of Americans, political action should be on the daily calendar of every union member.

Your contribution to COPE is part of the job but there are dozens of other ways an individual can take part in political action. A post card to your Senator or Representative stressing passage of labor-supported bills—that's political action. A speech made at a club meeting, or even a conversation with your co-workers or friends that influences their thinking on an important legislative issue—that's political action.

Don't make any mistake we are in politics, for management has forced us to take part in politics and to use what ammunition we can with which to fight for and defend ourselves in the political arena.

Our 49th State

ABOUT ALASKA:

Alaska, our newest state, is one-fifth the size of the continental United States; a land with half a million square miles of unbelievable rich country—rich in varied resources—and inhabited by comparatively few people.

Alaska is not a frozen wasteland as many people believe. The southern area has the same average temperature as that of Baltimore and Philadelphia, the western area climatically is similar to New England and the interior is comparable to Montana and the Dakotas.

The wildlife resources of Alaska are of vital importance as over half the population depends almost entirely on fish and wildlife for existence.

Alaska's big game animals include bears, moose, caribou, Sitka black-tailed deer, Dall mountain sheep, Alaska mountain goat, the muskoxen and two recently introduced species—the elk and bison.

The population of Alaska is 210,000—of this 45,000 or one-fifth of the population are members of the Armed Forces and their dependents. 34,000 or 16 per cent are Aleuts, Eskimos and Indians. Despite this low population, Alaska is rich in natural resources such as gold, platinum, copper, silver, lead, tungsten, zinc, uranium, bituminous coal and at late, petroleum—not to mention approximately 85 fishing canneries.

In 1855, during the Crimean War, Russia feared the British might seize Alaska so they tried to sell it to the United States, but the transaction was not made until March 30, 1867 by Secretary of State William H. Seward, who paid Russia $7,200,000 for the territory. The formal transfer occurred at Sitka on October 18, 1867 and for many years afterward was known as "Seward's Folly" or "Seward's Icebox."

Valenti Plastering Company, Chicago, gets greater crack resistance

KEYMESH® - KEYCORNER

The greater crack resistance built into the new Williamsburg Apartments, Chicago, is a strong selling point for reinforced lath and plaster. Valenti Plastering Company found it cost no more to assure this extra quality. Keycorner, Keymesh and Keystrip reinforcing lath made the big difference. Wherever this type of quality reinforcement was used, the plasterers got stronger, more crack-resistant walls.

Tiled bathrooms in the Chicago project have lasting beauty with KEYMESH reinforcement. The portland cement plaster reinforced with Keymesh provides a strong, maintenance-free base for the tile. You'll find Keymesh makes any gypsum lath and plaster wall stronger and more crack resistant.

Keymesh rolls out flat and laps without bulging . . . forms easily and cuts quickly. The open mesh permits rapid troweling and assures a full, even thickness of plaster. Keymesh, Keycorner and Keystrip are galvanized against rust.

KEYSTRIP is a new addition to the Keystone line of plaster reinforcement. Here, this flat strip reinforcement is stapled over joints where narrow strips of gypsum lath are used. This use of Keystrip adds strength where needed.

KEYSTRIP can be used as a reinforcement for plaster in a space too narrow for strips of gypsum lath. A full bond of Keystrip to the plaster is assured. Keystrip also adds strength to points of stress above doors and windows.

KEYSTRIP

REINFORCING LATH

Inside plaster corners reinforced with KEYCORNER lath have almost twice as much resistance to cracking as corners reinforced with other materials. Recent tests and actual use confirm this feature.

The men working on the Williamsburg Apartments, as on other jobs, found the preformed, 4-foot lengths of Keycorner easy to handle. Keycorner goes into place quickly and can be nailed or stapled. The open mesh design makes it easy to plaster over and assures a complete bond.

Help lick dry wall competition! Both tests and actual use show you get greater crack resistance at no extra cost when you reinforce lath and plaster with Keymesh, Keycorner and Keystrip. Send for more complete information on the three keys to stronger plaster. Write Keystone Steel & Wire Company, Peoria 7, Illinois.

Showcase

I find it a bit ironic that the people who are so determined to tear down our American labor movement are the same people who fear communism the most. They never seem to realize that the labor movement in America—by helping more people to share in the fruits of free enterprise—has successfully blunted any appeal that communism might otherwise have had.

In this way—and many others—organized labor is one of the chief foundations of our free enterprise system. It is also, in the eyes of the free world, the best showcase we have of how workers achieve justice on the job in a free enterprise system.

Those who are trying to destroy our labor movement are not only weakening the image of a democratic America abroad. They are also weakening the solidarity of the American people at home. In the face of a grimly determined Communist enemy, this is a time when we need solidarity—based on mutual trust and confidence between labor and management—more than ever.

The real enemies of management and labor in America are not each other but those who would weaken American democracy by setting class against class. It is they who are playing the game of the Communists.

If legislation is to be enacted, let it be based on a recognition that unions are not one of the weaknesses or even one of the luxuries of a democratic system—but rather are one of the necessities of a free enterprise economy. With that recognition and with that kind of legislation, the labor movement can then forge ahead in its determination to give America the cleanest, most democratic and best system of trade unionism in the world.

THIS U.S.G. MAN IS TRAINING MEN TO SERVE YOU BETTER

You'll probably never see this U.S.G. man, even though his specialty is lath and plaster. He's a training instructor whose job is to pass on his extensive knowledge to the United States Gypsum field sales force, in order that these carefully selected representatives may serve you better. This sales force, the largest and best trained in the industry, is always available for on-the-job counsel with contractors. In addition, these men sell your services to professional trade factor groups, and continually promote your products and practices in the area you serve. Yes, you may never see this man... but his "students" are always at your service!

Public on a New Credit Binge; Labor, Credit Unions Plan Counseling

By Sidney Margolius
Consumer Expert for THE LATHER

Both the AFL-CIO and the Credit Union National Association have announced plans to counsel their millions of members on how to manage money. These programs may be just in time to save many families from a repetition of the 1955-56 fiasco. Then the public in general went on a credit buying binge. This was followed by many repossessions, garnishes, complaints of overcharges both for credit merchandise and finance fees. Finally and inevitably came the 1957-58 recession.

Now the public has started on another credit binge. In April, installment buying jumped by $423,000,000, the largest monthly increase since 1955. By the end of May, consumers were in debt to the tune of forty-six billion dollars, a rise of a billion and a half dollars in two months and of seventeen billion dollars in five years.

The labor and credit unions say they aren't sure they know all the reasons why some of their members—often the same ones over and over—get into financial jams. But they feel it's become vital to help families learn how to manage their money more effectively. "Too often the financial gains won at the bargaining table are lost at the retail counter," warns Leo Perlis, AFL-CIO Community Services Director.

The AFL-CIO Community Services Committee has pilot classes under way in six cities, and more will start this fall. The National Community Services Committee has been concentrating first on sending its local representative in various cities through money-management courses arranged with the help of local colleges. The local representatives in turn will arrange courses of six to ten classes for union families plus one-day institutes on specific local consumer problems. For example, the Columbus, Ohio, AFL-CIO Council just completed its first nine weeks course for union members and wives, using the City Hall for the classes.

In New York, the Central Labor Council's Community Services Committee has joined in sponsoring a Metropolitan Consumer Council. The Council works with labor and credit unions, co-ops, family service agencies and other community groups to develop family financial counseling programs. The Council is making a consumer course available to local unions or other organizations wanting to provide this information for members, and is also representing consumer interests before local government agencies.

Similarly the credit unions have come to feel that high-pressure installment selling makes it imperative that they provide their members with financial counseling. Such guidance will benefit employers, too, points out John Bigger, educational director of the Credit Union National Association.

"People more secure in their family life and more successful in managing their money make more effective workers," he says.

The credit unions are concerned that credit is not merely being made available to moderate-income families, it is being forced on people. In many cases this high-pressure credit is high-cost credit. One result is that the personal bankruptcy rate has been rising fast, the CUNA Executive Committee reports.

Since credit unions are non-profit service organizations, they can be more impartial and do a better counseling job than the pseudo-counseling services operated by profit-making enterprises as finance companies, mutual-fund salesmen and retailers, says Sidney Blitz, educational director of the New York State Credit Union League.

Credit-union counseling programs already are being set up in several states. In Utah, credit-unions are working out plans for such counseling with other agencies and universities. The Michigan State League has been operating a counseling course in cooperation with colleges there for several years. Nebraska credit unions have a course in counseling arranged for this fall at a junior college there.

Credit unions have long felt that the member who applies desperately for help needs more than money. He also needs help in solving problems related to the money.

Hence, many local credit unions for some time have had their own counseling programs which give families valuable budgeting and other preventive counseling, as well as remedial help after they've gotten into trouble. The Broome County, N.Y., Teachers Credit Union reports that younger families especially are ready to spread out their whole financial picture before the credit union officers, because they expect to get help and advice.

New York's big Municipal Credit Union has a trained staff of counselors, and always has loan applicants submit their budgets so the counselor can estimate how the family manages its money, and offer useful suggestions.

The Portland, Oregon, Teacher Credit Union reports that it has been counseling members on budgeting and family finance for 27 years, and finds that failure of a borrower to meet his obligations as promised, nearly always can be traced to lack of counseling.

One of the most useful counseling services provided by some credit unions is to keep on hand copies of the official auto dealers' list of trade-in-values of various cars. This helps members applying for credit union auto loans to know whether they are getting a fair allowance for their old cars, and reasonable prices on the new ones.

In providing remedial help to members already in trouble, many credit unions do truly yeoman service. Treasurer Milton Pearl reports that the Schraders Employees Credit Union, Brooklyn, N.Y., often is able to get reduced settlements of judgments against workers.

Some workers have as many as eight or ten judgments against them. The strategy of this credit union has been to buy up the first judgment, so that the credit union becomes the primary creditor. By holding the first judgment and not paying it off, the credit union is able to forestall the other creditors.

Pearl points out that while the first judgment is in effect and being collected, the other creditors can't do anything.

Creditors are more willing to settle for less on a judgment than on an ordinary debt, Pearl finds.

If you yourself have an opportunity to enroll in one of the new counseling programs being sponsored by your local council community services committee, or get individual counseling from your credit union beforehand, by all means take it.

AFL-CIO Policies Hammered Out By 916 Delegates

San Francisco—A total of 916 delegates to the five-day convention hammered out the policies and programs which will guide the AFL-CIO during the next two years.

The delegates represented 125 national and international unions, 6 AFL-CIO departments, 44 state central bodies, 156 city central groups and 41 federal local unions.

Three fraternal delegates from abroad attended the sessions. A total of 136 trade union representatives from 18 countries in Europe, Africa, Latin America and Asia also witnessed the proceedings.

Vice President C. J. Haggerty stops to chat with Secretary of Labor Mitchell after his address before the Convention. You can bet that one of the topics of conversation was the recently passed Landrum-Griffin Bill.

A heavy-hitting team, led by Manager Pete Kopilchak with an average of 500, took eight games while losing only three in the Commercial League of the Minneapolis Park Board. The team batted a phenomenal .376 average and gave the Local its first championship in recent years.

The team was supported by Lathing contractors whose names appear on their jerseys and the slogan "Plaster Pays" lends support to the advertising program of the local Lathing & Plastering Bureau.

Meany Sworn in As UN Delegate

AFL-CIO Pres. George Meany was sworn in last week as a United States delegate to the 14th session of the General Assembly. It was his second appointment by Pres. Eisenhower as a delegate.

Meany was named to serve as the U.S. representative on the economic and social committee, known in UN parlance as the Second Committee.

This group, headed by Prof. Marcial Tamayo of Bolivia as chairman, concerns itself with the problems of technical assistance, loans and credits to underdeveloped countries, non-self governing territories and the work of the UN Korean reconstruction agency.

George Harrison, president of the Railway Clerks and chairman of the AFL-CIO Intl. Affairs Committee, served as a U. S. delegate to the UN last session.

Another substantial increase in activity raised the employment level by 153,000 between June and July. This gain, when added to that of previous months, has made this year's employment expansion one of the largest on record. In the four months of heaviest seasonal demand for labour—mid-March to mid-July—the economy has provided more than 650,000 additional jobs. This represents an increase of 12 per cent, larger than for the corresponding period of the past three years and equal to that of 1955. The employment total in July, 6,206,000, was up 3 per cent over the year.

The labour force expanded at a more moderate rate than employment, increasing by 357,000 from mid-March to mid-July. The margin over last year rose to 120,000 by July, which is not much less than the long-term average and considerably more than the average gain for the first six months.

A liaison committee is being established between the CLC and the AFL-CIO to deal with matters of mutual interest and concern. It is expected the committee will be a six-member body and CLC representatives are likely to be named at the CLC Executive Council meeting in Winnipeg in late August. The AFL-CIO Executive Council gave approval to the idea at a recent meeting.

Farm cash income in the first quarter of 1959 from the sale of farm products and participation payments on the previous year's grain crop was estimated at $625,000,000, the highest first-quarter estimate recorded to date and 6 per cent larger than last year's first-quarter total of $613,000,000, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics has reported.

Earlier, DBS reported that the net income of Canadian farmers (excluding Newfoundland) from farming operations was an estimated $1.3 billion in 1958, up 20 per cent from the 1957 estimate of $1.1 billion and approximately the same as the five-year (1953-57) average.

The propaganda barrage being aimed at labour is not restricted to Canada. It is well known that opponents of labour in this country are following closely methods developed in the United States and it now appears that labour in the United Kingdom is facing a somewhat similar situation in an intensive drive against nationalization.

Greatly increased strike activity, most of it in British Columbia, marked the industrial relations picture in July. Loggers, fishermen and fish cannery workers, structural iron workers, garage employees, marine engineers, cement masons and carpenters were among the occupations affected. Some disputes have been settled, but the largest work stoppage, involving the B.C. loggers, was still in effect at the time of writing. In eastern Canada one major work stoppage was in effect at the John Inglis plant in Toronto. Meanwhile important settlements were reached in the telephone industry, affecting more than 20,000 workers, and in a variety of other industries affecting smaller numbers of employees.

All provinces are now under the federal-provincial unemployment relief scheme. The Minister of National Health and Welfare announced in the Commons on July 4 that on July 1 Quebec, the last province to do so, had signed an agreement to enter the plan (see page 803).

The agreement is the standard one between the federal Government and the provinces; and while it took effect on July 1, Quebec, like the other signatory provinces, will be able retroactively to draw contributions from the federal treasury in connection with relief payments going back to July 1, 1958.

Unemployment has been falling fairly steadily since the end of last year and by mid-July amounted to 3.5 per cent of the labour force compared with 4.6 per cent in July 1958. The decline stems from two developments. The first is a substantial increase in employment, and the second is the relatively slow rate at which the labour force has expanded during the past year.

The decline in unemployment has involved both sexes and all age groups. In June, male job-seekers,* accounting for 85 per cent of the total, showed a year-to-year decline of 77,000; females were 13,000 lower than a year before.

HONORS Secretary

Lathers Local 499, Newburgh, New York, paid tribute to one of its members, Secretary-Treasurer Harold Mills, on Saturday, August 29. General President Lloyd Mashburn, in an address to the gathering, praised Local 499 for developing such members as Secretary-Treasurer Mills and other outstanding men in the area.

In attendance were Vice Presidents L. F. Shipman, M. A. Rizzo, Lionel Brodeur and S. D. Arnold. Also present were Arnold Jones, President of Local 499, and Sampson Stone, Vice President of the New York State Building Trades Council. Mr. Stone acted as Toastmaster.

General President Mashburn presented a plaque to Mrs. John J. Langan for outstanding services rendered to the International Union by the late Secretary-Treasurer Langan.

Warning

Speaking of signs, symbols, portents and the like, we are reminded of one of our Western correspondents who, some weeks ago, found himself in the area of California's twelve-million-ton Shasta Dam and decided to drop by and have a look.

He was duly impressed by the majestic spectacle, but found himself especially intrigued by a metal plaque on the crest of the dam.

Whipping out his powerful binoculars, he read the inscription:

"United States Government property. Do not remove."—

Please Leave

Trucking Executive: "So my daughter has consented to become your wife. Have you fixed the day of the wedding?"

Truck Dispatcher: "I will leave that to my fiancée."

Executive: "Will you have a church or private wedding?"

Dispatcher: "Her mother can decide that, sir."

Executive: "What have you to live on?"

Dispatcher: "I will leave that entirely to you sir."

It's Simple

The father was royally outfitted in complete fishing regalia, including a hat with his fishing license prominently displayed on the side.

After some hours of fruitless casting, his small son said to him, "Daddy, why don't you turn your hat around so the fish can see your license?"

Poor Pop

Two modern little girls coming home from Sunday school were solemnly discussing the lesson.

"Do you believe there is a devil?" asked one.

"No," replied the other promptly, "of course not. It's just like Santa Claus. He's your father."

Dogs Welcome

Planning a vacation stay in Florida, the traveler didn't know what to do with his dog. He decided to write the hotel and ask if dogs were allowed.

Promptly, the hotel manager wrote back: "I've been in this business for 30 years. Never have I called on police to eject a disorderly dog. Never has a dog set fire to a bed with a cigarette. I have never found a hotel towel or blanket in a dog's suitcase. Nor a whiskey ring on a dresser. Sure, the dog is welcome."

And the manager added a postscript: "If the dog will vouch for you come along too."

Tall Tales

"I have heard there are two periods when fishing is good."

"When are they?" asked the correspondent of the angling journal.

"Before you get there, and after you leave."

So True

Sitting at home, having a quiet evening, were two spinster sisters. Suddenly one looked up from the paper she was reading and commented: "There's an article here telling of the death of a woman's third husband. She has had all of them cremated."

"Isn't that life for you?" said the other. "Some of us can't even get one husband, while others have husbands to burn."

An artist painting in the country had a farmer spectator.

"Ah," said the artist, "perhaps you too are a lover of the beauties of nature. Have you seen the golden fingers of dawn spreading across the eastern sky, the red-stained, sulphurous islets floating in the lake of fire in the west, the ragged clouds at midnight blotting out the shuddering moon?"

"No," said the farmer, "not lately. I've been on the wagon for over a year."

Yes, Indeedy

Dock foreman: "Boss, the men on the dock are a little leary of that new freight loader you hired yesterday."

Terminal manager: "Why so? He checked out well."

Dock foreman: "Maybe so, but this morning he stubbed his toe on a crate of iron castings and said, 'Oh, the perversity of inanimate objects.'"

Fair Warning

Not a man on the crowded bus rose to give the bundle-laden woman a seat. One young fellow, however, was more thoughtful than the others.

He tugged at her skirt and whispered: "Be on your toes at Market Street, lady. That's where I get off."

Sign Language

On a Kentucky church: "Prayer Conditioned."

On a Mississippi highway: "Drive carefully—There Isn't A Hospital Within 50 miles."

On a hypochondriac's headstone: "I Told You I Was Sick."

Political Memo from COPE

NEW BEAT-THE-UNIONS LEGISLATION ASKED

If anyone thinks that the job of crippling the trade union movement by Congress has been completed, he better think again.

"We have further work to do in this field," Sen. Barry Goldwater (R., Ariz.), a prime architect of anti-union legislation, told the Senate during the final debate on the conference bill.

Goldwater announced that he had a number of proposals. Among these were placing unions under the anti-trust laws, making unions subject to sweeping injunctions in Federal courts, taxing unions, compulsory open shop, making unions liable for acts of their individual members, giving employers the right to fire workers for union activities, and so on.

He stressed that he was "pleased with the conference bill as reported" but that more action was needed, in his view, in these other areas.

Sen. John McClellan (D., Ark.) also declared that "if the legislation we are about to enact is not sufficient," he would propose putting unions under anti-trust laws.

QUOTE ON LANDRUM-GRIFFIN BILL

"What the Administration and the Republican leadership and some of the Southern Democrats and the National Association of Manufacturers and all their assorted payrollers and mouthpieces meant by a 'strong labor bill' (Landrum-Griffin) was a bill that would contain amendments to the Taft-Hartley Act slyly calculated to cripple and penalize perfectly honest, legitimate unions. It was simply a situation in which an old-fashioned, all-out, NAM union-busting drive was being cloaked by a sanctimonious plea for ousting the racketeers."

—Rep. James Roosevelt (D., Calif.)
in newsletter to constituents.

SENATOR GREASES TRACKS FOR TRANSIT COMPANY

Sen. J. Glenn Beall (R., Md.) accepted a campaign contribution from Edward Colladay, who registered as a lobbyist for Washington's D.C. Transit Company. Beall (which rhymes with "sell") is the Senator who twice introduced bills that would grant the transit firm a $500,000 annual subsidy. The contribution, reported by the Baltimore News-Post, is listed among Beall's campaign fund in a report filed with the Allegany County Court.

Colladay, a former Republican National Committeeman, itemized the bills in which the D.C. Transit Co. was interested, as required by the Lobbying Act. One would authorize the District of Columbia commissioners to buy special tickets from the transit company for resale to children at school rates. Another would make up the difference between the 7½-cent-a-ride school fare and the actual transportation cost.

Both bills were introduced by Beall in 1958. Two similar bills were again introduced by Beall this year. None of the measures ever passed.

Beall told the News-Post: "I don't see anything wrong with accepting money from a long-standing friend. . . . In almost every metropolitan area you have trouble with transit companies."

But they don't have any trouble with Senator Beall.

FARM PRICES DROP DESPITE IKE'S PROMISES

Prices received by farmers last month averaged only 80 per cent of parity, the Agricultural Department reports. Parity is an index designed to give the farmer a fair price for his commodities in relation to goods and services he has to buy to produce them.

In his famous speech in Brookings, S.D., on Oct. 4, 1952, when he was asking the farmers to vote for him for President, General Eisenhower said: "The Republican Party is pledged to the sustaining of the 90 per cent parity price support and it is pledged even more than that to helping the farmer obtain his full parity. 100 per cent parity, with the guarantee in the price supports of 90."

DESTROYING A MYTH ABOUT WHO OWNS STOCKS

An economist writing for the American Economic Review shows that the idea, carefully nurtured in Big Business hot-houses, that the great American public owns larger industries through stock purchases is a myth.

Victor Perlo reveals that each of three famous families, the Du Ponts, Rockefellers and Mellons, owns more stock than all of the nation's working families combined. The total value of all stocks held by families of wage earners in the country amounts to some $750 million. The value of holdings of the Du Pont family total $4 billion, and those of the Rockefeller and Mellon families exceed $3 billion each.

... and the Greatest of All Is SPEED

Last year the "Luckless Legion" grew, and this year it's growing bigger than ever. Into its ranks in 1958 were drafted more men, women and children—the 36,700 who died in traffic accidents and the 2,861,700 who suffered painful injuries from them. That amounts to more people than are now living in the entire metropolitan Washington area!

The Luckless Legion is what the Travelers Insurance Company calls these traffic victims in its annual highway safety booklet. A newspaper headline (perhaps) marks the induction of the Legion's new recruits. Then silence. Or silent suffering. A lifetime of pain.

Don't fool yourself about what drafts the heedless and the innocent into the Luckless Legion. It is not defective cars, but defective drivers! Studies show that driver error caused 85% of all of last year's highway accidents.

What sort of driver errors were committed?

- (a) Excessive speed (40%)
- (b) Driver did NOT have right of way (25%)

(c) Reckless driving (10%)

These then are the abc's of last year's highway accidents. The Luckless Legion is, of course, always looking for recruits.

Best way to dodge being drafted into its army of the battered and bruised is to know . . . avoid . . . these abc's of its membership requirements.

Two little keys

"These two little keys can open the doors of happiness and enjoyment for many years," began the note . . . one of the finest, and most unusual, ever to come to the attention of this newspaper.

✻ It came in an unsigned letter which read:

"On my son's 16th birthday, his Dad presented him with the keys to the family car plus this little note. I feel it speaks for itself and should be shared."

It speaks for itself, all right, and tells a story that could be repeated by every traffic officer, every ambulance driver and every attendant in a hospital's emergency room.

It tells a story that too often is ignored in the excitement, the pride and the feeling of power of the young driver at the wheel.

"These two little keys can open the doors of happiness and enjoyment for many years . . .

"They can also open the top of a coffin," wrote the father, "and bring many heartaches and tears. How you use them will be up to you, and what doors they open is your decision.

"Use them wisely!

—Mom and Dad."

DECISIONS OF THE GENERAL PRESIDENT

PUBLISHED IN ACCORDANCE WITH SECTION 23i(4), INTERNATIONAL CONSTITUTION:

"All appellate decisions of the General President and/or of the Executive Council and/or of the Convention must be published in the following issue of The Lather along with a short and concise synopsis of the case being decided."

B. J. Long, #51591, K. L. Heath, #51490, and R. D. Morrison, #53631 Versus Local 379

Brothers Long, Heath and Morrison appealed against the action of Local 379 in fining them $50 each for a violation of Section 27 of the local's By-Laws. After considering all evidence presented in this case the General President found these brothers guilty and upheld the fine as placed.

George Barnum, #42574 Versus Local 527

Brother Barnum appealed against the action of Local 527 in fining him $50 for a violation of Section 24 of the local's By-Laws. After carefully considering all evidence presented in this case the General President found this brother guilty and upheld the fine as placed.

TAX LOOPHOLES FOR SALE

If you earn $15,000 a year or more—and especially if you earn over $100,000 a year—there are a number of loopholes in the tax laws which will allow you to escape paying taxes. Some of these are outlined in a booklet called, "How To Get Tax-Free Income—Now".

The circular which advertises the booklet explains that the "most effective way for a man with substantial income to keep more cash for himself is to tap today's nine big sources of tax-free income." Here are some of the booklet's "big close-at-hand sources of tax-free income for executives".

1. It explains an arrangement under which a portion of each year's company profits can be credited to the executives' individual accounts—tax deductible by the company and tax-free to them.

2. It tells you how to get dividends from certain stocks completely tax-free (these need not be reported as income).

3. It shows you under what circumstances an executive can (under sec. 105 (d) of the code) eliminate the tax on certain salary payments.

4. It explains how the company can now provide for your personal insurance costs (including life insurance), vacations, recreation throughout the year, country club memberships, overseas travel—and more, all tax-deductible by the company and tax-free to you.

5. It tells under what circumstances the company can give executives gifts and presents—tax-free to them.

6. It explains how the company can now set up a survivor benefit plan to provide tax-free payments for an executive's wife (and other family members).

7. It tells you how to have other people make improvements on your real estate—which they pay for—and which are tax-free to you.

8. It explains how to build a sizable tax-free investment income, whether you put your cash in real estate, stocks, bonds, or in a group of today's most tax-sheltered businesses.

9. It explains how to sell one's residence without paying a tax—even if you show a whopping profit.

CORRECTIONS

Contractor's resignation certificate of I. L. Henry 40399, dated 9/16/58 and published in the Dec. '58 journal, was cancelled in error by Local 42a and should have been reported as deposited as of 3. 6/59. Subsequent automatic suspension and record of reinstatement published in the June '59 Lather have now been removed.

Renewal of a contractor's certificate to C. M. Blyth 34870, published in the June '59 journal should have been shown as a renewal of a contractor's funeral benefit certificate.

The suspension of apprentice Ronald F. Nevera for non-payment of dues, as published in the June '59 journal, was reported in error by Local 345.

HELP US KEEP THE THINGS WORTH KEEPING

Here's what peace is all about. A world where busy little girls like this can stand, happily absorbed in painting a bright picture that mother can hang in the kitchen and daddy admire when he gets home from work.

A simple thing, peace. And a precious one. But peace is not easy to keep, in this troubled world. Peace costs money.

Money for strength to keep the peace. Money for science and education to help make peace lasting. And money saved by individuals to keep our economy sound.

Every U.S. Savings Bond you buy helps provide money for America's Peace Power—the power that helps us keep the things worth keeping.

Are you buying as many as you might?

"THE INJURY TO ONE IS THE CONCERN OF ALL"

Report From the GENERAL PRESIDENT

In the Journal last month, October, 1959, the entire Labor Management Reporting and Disclosure Act of 1959 was printed in full and a copy made available to each local union to be mailed to each and every member at their last known address. Since that time numerous inquiries have come to this office for further detailed information. First, elections, many of our local unions are now facing election of officers.

To be in compliance with the law, written notice must be mailed to each and every member at their last known address at least fifteen (15) days prior to nomination or election and if held separately, the notice should be mailed for both nomination and election stating time and place of the meeting.

Elections must be held by secret ballot vote, and all candidates names must be voted on. No white ballots may be cast for a candidate.

These ballots must be retained after the election for a period of at least one (1) year.

It should be noted that the present law supersedes 18BB, on page 44, of the LIU Constitution in respect to the election of officers. This section provides that transferred members may not vote on election of officers, etc., until they have been a member in good standing of the local union for at least six (6) months. Under the present law, a member is eligible as soon as his transfer is accepted. You may not prohibit this member from voting on the election of officers, but you may prohibit him from being a candidate for office. I would urge that you refer to Title 4, Elections, Section 401 A, on page 7, of the October Journal.

In the last Journal, we commented briefly on the problems involving the bonding of our local unions. We now have some further information in respect to this matter.

The first question to be resolved is "who has to be bonded?" Ans: Any local union or council having total assets in property and funds handled of over five thousand dollars ($5,000) in the previous fiscal year must be bonded under the new law.

Second, in what amount does the local or council have to be bonded? Ans: They must be bonded at a minimum of ten per cent (10%) of their last years total of money handled.

The last question arising is, what kind of bond is required? This last, we cannot answer. We have been unable to get a definite answer as to the type of bond, therefore, we have notified the Labor Department of the following:

"That our International Constitution provides on pages 78 and 79 that the International Union bond each and every local union to the extent of twenty five hundred dollars ($2,500) and that most of our local unions having bonding requirements which are higher, have taken out additional bonds, which may or may not meet the provisions of the new law. This should be done in accordance with the announced formula, and you, the local union or council, must notify us of the amount, since we do not have the information, if you wish us to increase your bond over the twenty five hundred dollars ($2,500), for which you are now bonded. We have further advised the Labor Department that we do bond all local unions and councils and advised them as to the amount and that we intend to retain our present bonding system, until further notification and direction from the Labor Department, with one exception and that is, of course, the requirements of additional bonds for those who need over and above twenty five hundred dollars ($2,500). It should be pointed out that all locals and councils under the five thousand dollars ($5,000) demarcation line set forth above should not be considered since they are already bonded by the International Union and the type of bond they have is not affected by any further ruling by the Labor Department.

Those local unions in excess of that amount will probably be affected, but at the present time and until we receive directions from the Labor Department, unless you have more than five thousand dollars ($5,000) in property and money handled in your last fiscal year, you are to consider yourself adequately covered, as to the type of bond.

We have just received from the Labor Department, a copy of the instructions and reporting form, and we immediately ordered copies of this for each local and council, which will be mailed this coming week we hope, if received from the Department.

After having read the instructions and reviewed the form, it is my opinion that you will have no difficulty in filling out this form, when you receive it. It should be filled out immediately and mailed to the Bureau of Labor Management, and Reports, U. S. Department of Labor, Washington 25, D. C. the time limit in filing this report is Dec. 15, 1959.

As we previously advised you, we have now completed a sample set of By-laws which comply with the new Law, and they will be mailed out next week to each local and council. You will note that each and every local and council must file, with the Bureau of Labor Management Reports, U. S. Department of Labor, Washington 25, D. C. a copy of their By-laws, and items which they must contain are set forth under the caption of Reports of Officers and Employees of Labor Organizations, on page 4, of the October Journal. These provisions are set forth in your sample set of By-laws. We have not however put into the sample set of By-laws what I consider working rules, such as rules governing—Foreman, Apprentices, Stewards, Wages and Hours, Signing of Vouchers, and Penalties therefore, Payment of dues, Fines, Suspensions, Holidays, Overtime or Minimum work standards, since these vary they will have to be filled in by the Local Union, to fit their own area.

Ancient Prayer On An Old Church

*Give us, O Lord, a bit o' sun
A bit o' work and a bit o' fun.
Give us all in the struggle and splutter
Our daily bread and a bit o' butter.
Give us our health, our keep to make,
An' a bit to spare for poor folks' sake.
Give us sense for we're some of us duffers,
And a heart to feel for all that suffers.*

*Give us, too, a bit o' song
An' a tale, an' a book to help us along.
An' give us our share o' sorrow's lesson,
That we may prove how grief's a blessing.
Give us, O Lord, a chance to be
Our goodly best, brave, wise and free
Our goodly best, for ourself and others
'Til all men learn to live as brothers.*

Report of the GENERAL SECRETARY-TREASURER

In view of the fact that we have had many occasions where apprentices have desired to move from one local's jurisdiction to another, we have now developed a form which we are calling "Apprentice Release and Acceptance." On the following page, you will find a sample of this release and acceptance form. A copy of this form will be sent to each local with the receipt for their current per capita tax. Further copies of this form will be available upon request for any local desiring more. Because some locals may not find it necessary to use this form at all, we are not mailing out extra copies to every local.

You will notice in this issue of the "Lather," we are publishing the locals that are delinquent in their per capita tax to Headquarters. If any local is delinquent, the fact will be published each month in the "Lather," and this publication will be considered official notice, of being delinquent, as required by Section 22 of the L.I.U. Constitution. The reason for publishing a local's delinquency is that we feel many of the members, who pay their dues currently, do not realize that the local they belong to is delinquent in paying its per capita tax. Locals delinquent in paying per capita tax could result in the suspension of the local and also could result in the suspension of all the members of the local. The delinquent locals will be found on page 23 of this issue of the "Lather."

We receive many checks made out to myself for payment of per capita tax, supplies, and other items. These checks should be made out to the Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers' International Union, and not to me. Please comply with this request. Another thing that we find in error, is that many of the secretaries of the locals send in personal checks. To be in compliance with the present day laws, all local funds should be in a checking account under the name of the local union, and not any individual.

Although General President Mashburn drew to your attention the necessity of a voluntary contribution from every member of our International to "COPE," I would like to point it out to you again. This contribution and our voting for people favorable to labor on election day is the only method by which we are going to be able to overcome or remedy the present Labor Legislation of which you are all aware. When such restrictive legislation has been rendered against the union movement, it is time we should work together in the hopes of overcoming some of the restrictions of the legislation. There certainly are a vast amount of opportunities to be had by sticking together, and I believe that now is the time when we should realize the need of it the most. Let's give 100% support to "COPE" and 100% support to people favorable to labor on election day.

I would like to remind you that in the October issue of the Journal, we published a copy of the Labor Management Reporting and Disclosure Act of 1959. If any of you have not read this act or have not received a copy of this act, I would again advise you to get a copy of the October Lather, and read it thoroughly, so that you may have a better understanding of what the law contains.

reports on Washington

FHA is expected to put off until January 1 new, easier down-payment schedules for Section 203 housing as approved in the new housing law. The Federal Home Loan Bank Board also delayed issuing rules and regulations for use of Federal savings and loans funds by builders acquiring and developing land.

While unemployment dropped by 200,000 to 3.2 million in September, total employment also dropped by 900,000 bringing the number of employed down to 66.3 million. The decline in unemployment was less than seasonal and brought the rate of joblessness up from 5.5 to 5.6 percent. While part of the less than seasonal decline was attributable to layoffs related to the steel strike, there is no doubt that the true jobless rate remains at near recession levels. Manufacturing employment at 16.3 million was up seasonally by about 150,000, largely reflecting full production on 1960 model automobiles.

NLRB, in its first decision involving the Landrum-Griffin Bill, has decided to certify unions that win NLRB elections even though the unions have failed to comply with the now-obsolete filing requirements of Taft-Hartley. Previously, the Board had refused to certify unions that failed to file financial data and nonCommunist affidavits with the government. In a case involving the Whaley Coal Co., of Fonde, Ky., the Scott County Miners Unions and United Mine Workers, District 19, a three-to-two majority of the Board ruled that it would certify the Mine Workers if it won a pending representation election. The Board majority added that its decision would apply to all similar cases.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D., Pa.) has declared that he hopes field hearings of a special Senate Committee on Unemployment will "shatter the national complacency" about joblessness. Opening the first hearings in Uniontown, Pa., Clark charged that while national production and income were at record heights, unemployment totaled as much as 20 percent of the labor force in some localities. He also challenged Chamber of Commerce testimony delivered in October that termed present unemployment levels as "natural and inevitable." Clark pointed out that some European and Scandinavian countries have found that unemployment can be "brought down to two or three percent and held there."

Health, Education and Welfare Sec. Arthur S. Flemming has declared that "although there is need for more public school construction rather than less, the latest statistics on school bond sales, indicate that marked declines in school construction are to be expected." According to Flemming, school bond sales for the period of September 1958 through August 1959 totalled 20 percent less than the figure for the preceding 12-month period. The HEW Secretary admitted that higher interest rates "may be a factor" in the lower bond offerings and sales.

Department of Labor has reported that unions have won average wage increases of from seven to eight cents per hour in bargaining during the first six months of this year. About 1.7 million workers received wage increases as a result of union negotiations in the first six months. About 14 percent got wage increases of from five to seven cents, about the same number had increases of from 13 to 15 cents and only four percent got no wage increases in this period. Fringe benefit changes generally provided for better health and welfare benefits and improved vacations.

THAT "PLASTER PAYS"

Chances are you'll never see this U.S.G.-sponsored representative, who works with trade factor groups and federal agencies to promote lath and plaster construction. But his efforts are building a better understanding of gypsum plastering systems among architects, homebuilders, and contractors and their unions—and swinging more sales your way. By pointing out the latest techniques and long-range savings of plastering, promoting fire-resistive plaster construction for non-residential buildings, and establishing sound working conditions with gypsum trade associations, he continually upgrades the prestige of your service. You may never see him . . . but this man spends every business day creating greater business opportunities for you.

POLLSTERS FALL ON THEIR FACES AGAIN

After the Gallup Poll and other professional gazers of political crystal balls fell on their faces and their "probability samples" in the 1948 elections, they interviewed themselves in depth. They decided that they would "change their techniques" and "redefine their methods" in order to predict how people would vote at the polls. At least that's what they told the public so they could stay in business.

The British elections this month—11 years after '48—showed just how reliable the Gallups have become. Three days before the elections, the British Gallup Poll said, with its usual pseudo-scientific gobbledygook, that the Labor Party and the Conservative Party stood neck-and-neck. The Gallups said the two parties stood even at 37½ per cent. (Love that ½!) But when the votes were counted, the Conservatives had received 5½ per cent more than the Laborites.

Of course, the Gallup folks pontificated before the elections that 20½ per cent of the people "didn't know" how they were going to vote. But obviously the British voters did know how they were going to vote. The poll takers were the ones who were confused, not the people.

The Gallup fiasco in Britain recalls a similar disaster for the pollsters only two years ago in Canada. The Gallup organization up there predicted the Liberals would get 48 per cent of the vote and the Conservatives 34 per cent. But what happened? The Liberals received only 41 per cent, the Conservatives 39 per cent.

On the morning after the Canadian elections, as a matter of fact, the Gallup Guessers reported in their dignified mumbo-jumbo that the Liberal Party had registered late gains. Turned out they were so late they didn't show up at all.

Moral: Don't believe it is all over but the shouting when the Gallup Poll comes up with an election (or nomination) prediction. It still doesn't know how to assess the future behavior of undecided voters, or predict behavior when all it has is an expression of opinion or intent.

Political Memo from COPE

FIGURES SHOW HOW DIXIECRAT-GOP COALITION OPERATES

Here's why no legislation opposed by the Republican-Dixiecrat coalition can be passed by Congress. The House consists of 283 Democrats and 153 Republicans. Ninety-nine of the Democrats are from the South, 30 from states bordering the South and 154 from the North, East and West. The Republicans have a little more than 150 Members, as do the liberal Democrats.

Thus it lies within the power of the 129 Southern and border-state Democrats to decide what to do with many major issues.

As Rep. Jim O'Hara (D., Mich.) says, when the coalition musters its full strength, it carries with it about half (15) of the border state Members, and all but about 15 Members (or 84) from the conservative South. This gives the Republican-Dixiecrat coalition an actual working majority (of about 250) in the House.

Thus, O'Hara points out, "simple arithmetic explains much of what has occurred in the past session of Congress. Obviously, no legislation opposed by the coalition will be enacted."

POLITICAL EDUCATION BEARS FRUIT

"Perhaps our most encouraging progress has taken place in the field of political action. Our carefully conducted program of political education is now beginning to bear fruit. The 1958 Congressional elections resulted in the defeat of many unfriendly candidates and the election of the largest number of liberal lawmakers in a generation.

"The voters in four out of five states defeated sinister 'right-to-work' proposals so overwhelmingly that candidates in the future, it is generally conceded, will no longer try to ride into office on that issue. We are moving ahead determinedly in the political field and we look forward to even greater harvests in the 1960 elections."

—Report of President George Meany to AFL-CIO Convention, Sept. 17, 1959.

THEY'RE CLOSING IN FOR THE KILL

Agriculture Secretary Benson, who likes to give the impression that he's a peaceable man, is laying careful plans to stir up the biggest farm policy rumpus of his career next year. Encouraged by passage of a "tough" labor reform bill, the Wall Street Journal says, Benson calculates that "a similarly-loud public controversy" might force new legislative cuts in farm subsidies from a reluctant Congress in 1960.

We are pleased to announce that two more WWML Locals have joined the ranks of those who have received COPE Honor Awards. We would like to add our congratulations to those of James L. McDewitt, National Director of COPE to Local 226 which received Honor Award No. 192 and Local 346 the recipient of Honor Award No. 144.

James McDewitt, Director of COPE, presents Award for Good Citizenship to President Mashburn and Vice President Haggerty.

The Wood, Wire & Metal Lathers' International Union was one of the few in the building trades department to meet its quota. It is hoped that the Lathers' International will again meet its quota this year and support the friends of labor.

CONSERVATIVES' VICTORY NOT AS CONSERVATIVE AS IT SEEMS

Right-wingers in this country are jumping up and down in glee over the fact that the Conservatives won the British elections earlier this month. But any person in either major party in the U.S. today who would advocate what the British Conservatives stand for would be labeled a dangerous radical by the very politicians and publishers who are overjoyed at the Conservatives' victory. For instance, what candidate for high office would dare suggest that America adopt the kind of public medical insurance which the British Conservatives have adopted?

The fact is that much of the British prosperity of today, which was responsible for the triumph of the Conservative Party, results from the Conservatives' willingness to accept much of the program the Labor Party inaugurated during its term of office. As the LONDON TIMES says, "The welfare state is . . . generally accepted."

Dr. Bell's First Laboratory Is Restored

PARTLY-COMPLETED DIORAMA shows section of downtown Boston as it appeared in October, 1875, from Bell's attic laboratory.

ALLEXANDER GRAHAM BELL'S first laboratory exists again!

The original timbers, windows and walls stand nail by nail, and knothole by knothole, as they stood in October, 1875. The books Bell studied, the apparatus with which he experimented, the papers he worked on 84 years ago, are duplicated as they were. Even the view on which he gazed from the window as he dreamed of the telephone's future can be seen again from the very window.

The exhibit was opened to the public on June 2, the 84th anniversary of the first successful transmittal of the sounds of a human voice by telephone.

Bell's original workshop, which occupied a corner of an attic at the electrical workshop of Charles Williams at 109 Court Street, Boston, is now a permanent public exhibit. Restored exactly as it was when Bell was a young man of 29, it is a part of the lobby at the headquarters building of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company at 185 Franklin Street, Boston.

Bell's first laboratory was not the scene of the first intelligible words heard over the telephone—the famous message "Mr. Watson, come here, I want you." That first successful telephone call was made at Bell's later workshop and laboratory at 5 Exeter Place, Boston. However, the Court Street laboratory has perhaps an even more significant place in telephone history.

It was here, on June 2, 1875, that the sound of a vibrating reed transmitted over a wire confirmed Bell's theory of the electrical transmission of sound. And it was here in the Court Street laboratory on the following day that the "gallows type" telephone first transmitted recognizable speech sounds so clearly that Thomas A. Watson, listening at a telephone on the floor below, said, "I heard you! I heard you plainly! I could almost understand the words!"

Time and change have erased nearly every landmark associated with the invention of the telephone. The original building at 109 Court Street and most of the street itself have long since disappeared. When the building was torn down more than 30 years ago to widen a street in Boston's crowded downtown section, Bell's old laboratory was saved.

Every timber and frame was numbered, every nail was collected, and the numbers on the lumber were keyed to a master sketch of the attic workshop as it was in Bell's day. The master sketch bears the signature of Thomas A. Watson, as proof that the old laboratory was as he remembered it in the year 1875. Then the timbers and window frames and nails were stored in a company building.

Reassembling the ancient timbers was like putting a giant jigsaw puzzle together. In spite of the care of the telephone engineers in numbering and storing the beams and boards, during the years they had been moved several times and they were covered with the dust and dirt of time. But as it stands today, the laboratory is just as Bell and Watson knew it when as young men they worked there until late at night to find a way for wires to carry speech.

ILO HONORED AT ANNIVERSARY DINNER

The International Labor Organization "has lived up to the high hopes of its founding fathers," Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said at the dinner in Washington marking the 40th anniversary of the ILO.

The dinner, sponsored jointly by Secretary Mitchell, Secretary of Commerce Frederick H. Mueller, and Under Secretary of State Robert Murphy, also marked the 25th anniversary of United States membership in the ILO, the oldest major specialized agency associated with the United Nations.

Samuel Gompers was one of the moving figures in the establishment of the Organization 40 years ago. The first ILO conference was held in October 1919, in the Pan American Union in Washington, following by just a few months the establishment of the ILO under the Treaty of Versailles. Mr. Gompers, first president of the American Federation of Labor, headed the commission which drafted the ILO constitution at Versailles.

Mr. Mitchell said the ILO is of "unique importance" to the

Stewart Rothman (right) of the NLRB and General President Mashburn pause to discuss some of the problems of labor prior to the ILO dinner.

United States and the free world. "It is the only organization created to deal with the problems which are so real to the vast majority of the people in the world—problems of work, wages, security, and the right of all human beings to freedom and dignity."

At the dinner, the Secretary read a letter from President Eisenhower to ILO Director-General David A. Morse, in which the President said:

"The United States Government is proud to reaffirm its support of the International Labor Organization. . . .

"Millions throughout the world have benefited from your broad and diverse activities. I am thinking particularly of the fruitful results gained from your technical assistance efforts. In the work of the ILO to advance the development of a great host of eager and determined people, your organization is providing a model of cooperative international action."

The Wood, Wire & Metal Lathers' International Union was represented by General President Lloyd A. Mashburn, who was formerly Under Secretary of Labor and who is familiar with the work of the ILO. General Secretary-Treasurer Harold Mills also attended.

Fourth Annual Meeting Draws Crowd

The largest crowd since the organization of the group attended the Fourth Annual Meeting of the Sacramento Valley Bureau for Lath and Plaster, September 22nd, at the beautiful El Rancho Hotel. More than sixty (60) lathing and plastering contractors, journeymen, and a strong delegation of apprentices heard Khalil Bennett, featured speaker of the evening, urge greater concentration of effort in obtaining new men to man the trowel. Bennett, an executive of the Norman T. Hill lathing and plastering firm, reviewed the highly successful past and the very promising future of lathing and plastering in the Sacramento area, but warned that without skilled manpower serious difficulties may lie ahead.

Carl J. Stowe, Field Director of the Bureau, in his annual report listed a host of activities and bureau accomplishments—many of which he modestly attributed to his predecessors. Stowe emphasized that the beautiful new offices of the bureau have already paid host to a large number of prospects as well as industry people. Stowe stressed the growth of the bureau and the audience responded particularly well to his statement of the rapidly increasing interest in the use of the bureau's many facilities.

Listening, with interest, to the bureau's advertising agency report are: (left to right) Robert H. Worthy, secretary-treasurer; Tony Schiro, president; Carl J. Stowe, field director;

George J. Mannschreck, Special Representative of the National Bureau, drew appreciative applause for his description of the workshop for bureau directors held in Santa Barbara during the Plasterers and Cement Masons State Conference. Mannschreck congratulated Field Director Stowe on the fine report he made of this bureau's activities at this workshop. A brief report by Ellison Meier, the local bureau's advertising agency, showed how advertising in our industry is frequently, and particularly in the Sacramento area, a local problem requiring specific local attention.

Newly elected officers to the Board of Governors, comprised of six members from Labor and six from Management are: President Tony Schiro—Management; First Vice-President Wilbert J. Azevedo—Labor; Second Vice-President Charles Betts, Jr.—Management; Secretary-Treasurer Robert H. Worthy—Labor.

Board members from Management: Arthur Azevedo, Norman T. Hill, Lyle McCray, Walter C. Miller.

Board members from Labor: Jay L. Flamm, Floyd Gates, Andrew McGuire, Billy Rabon.

National Bureau for Lathing and Plastering Appoints New Director

JOHN K. BUSTER
National Bureau Director

John K. Buster has been appointed Executive Director of the National Bureau for Lathing and Plastering, with offices in the Tower Building.

In announcing the appointment, the Board of Directors of the National Bureau stated that Buster will head up the 160 local bureaus in the U.S. and Canada, with special responsibility for promotional, research, and legislative programs.

Buster, who lives at 3221 Verona Drive, Silver Spring, Md., is a graduate of Southeastern University here, and for fourteen years served as special agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the U.S. Army Counter Intelligence Corps.

In 1954 he became Executive Secretary of the Washington Union Painting Contractors Association and the Employing Plasterers Association of Washington, handling labor-management relations and mediation.

Appointed Liaison Representative in the National Bureau for Lathing & Plastering in September, 1958, he was confirmed as Executive Director one year later on the retirement of Joe M. Baker, Sr.

General President Lloyd A. Mashburn welcomes the new National Bureau Director, John K. Buster, and wishes the retiring Director, Joe M. Baker, the best of luck.

DECISIONS OF THE GENERAL PRESIDENT

PUBLISHED IN ACCORDANCE WITH SECTION 23i(4), INTERNATIONAL CONSTITUTION:

"All appellate decisions of the General President and/or of the Executive Council and/or of the Convention must be published in the following issue of The Lather along with a short and concise synopsis of the case being decided."

Leonard O. Fabing, #47015, and Charles E. Burley, #41981 Versus Local 51

Brothers Fabing and Burley appealed against the action of Local 51 in fining them of $45 each for a violation of Section 17j(1) of the L.I.U. Constitution. After carefully considering all evidence presented in this case the General President found these brothers guilty and upheld the fines as placed.

Byron G. Allen, #28333, Versus Local 156

Brother Byron G. Allen appealed against the action of Local 156 in fining him $32 for a violation of Article VII, Section 1, and Article IX, Section 3 of the local's By-Laws, and for a violation of Sections 123 and 143 (old) L.I.U. Constitution. After carefully considering all evidence presented in this case, the General President found this brother not guilty due to extenuating circumstances and rescinded the fine.

Anthony P. Quadagno, #43873, Versus Local 226

Brother Anthony P. Quadagno appealed against the action of Local 226 in fining him $50 for a violation of Section 17j(15) of the L.I.U. Constitution. After carefully considering all evidence presented in this case the General President found this brother guilty and upheld the fine as placed.

V. R. Santie, #49537, Versus Local 345

Brother V. R. Santie appealed against the action of Local 345 in fining him $50 for a violation of Article 25, Sections 1 and 9 of the local's By-Laws. After carefully considering all evidence presented in this case the General President found this brother guilty and upheld the fine as placed.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

WHEREAS, Almighty God in His infinite wisdom has removed Brother William Evans 27634 from our midst, and

WHEREAS, Brother Evans has enriched the world of trade unionism by his many contributions of wisdom and untiring effort throughout his life, and

CORRECTIONS

Brother J. H. Lysaght 15434 of Local 46 was erroneously issued a tax exemption card as of Nov. 1, 1955, as published in the Dec. '55 journal. This brother has paid all back tax and is now on the active membership list.

Suspension of A. P. Koznicki 38890 as of Apr. '58 and published in the July '58 Lather was reported in error by Local 107.

Due to a typographical error in the Oct. '59 journal under "In Appreciation" the name of Brother William E. Dailey 38953 was printed William E. Railey.

"THE INJURY TO ONE IS THE CONCERN OF ALL"

A Christmas Greeting

Though other things may change in this world of ours,
Christmas remains forever the same
... a season of joy and hope and love and faith.

We, the International Officers and the Headquarters Staff ... whose privilege it is to serve you ... extend to all members of the Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers' International Union, and to their families the warmest of greetings on this holiday season.

As we reflect upon our blessings this Christmas let us remember that these material comforts were not won easily. They were won because men had the spirit to fight for justice for all men not only the favored few. We should rededicate ourselves to the brotherhood of man, to fight, if necessary against overwhelming odds, for what is right.

As the New Year dawns, we hope it will bring you the fullest measure of health, happiness, progress ... and peace and contentment of mind and heart. And may these blessings be with you throughout all the years that lie ahead.

Fraternally,

THE CHRISTMAS STORY

NOW in the sixth month the angel Gabriel was sent from God to a town of Galilee called Nazareth, to a virgin betrothed to a man named Joseph, of the house of David, and the virgin's name was Mary. And when the angel had come to her, he said, "Hail, full of grace, the Lord is with thee. Blessed art thou among women." When she had heard him she was troubled at his word, and kept pondering what manner of greeting this might be.

And the angel said to her, "Do not be afraid, Mary, for thou hast found grace with God. Behold, thou shalt conceive in thy womb and shalt bring forth a son; and thou shalt call his name Jesus. He shall be great, and shall be called the Son of the Most High; and the Lord God will give him the throne of David his father, and he shall be king over the house of Jacob forever; and of his kingdom there shall be no end."

But Mary said to the angel, "How shall this happen, since I do not know man?"

And the angel answered and said to her, "The Holy Spirit shall come upon thee and the power of the Most High shall overshadow thee; and therefore the Holy One to be born shall be called the Son of God. And behold, Elizabeth thy kinswoman also has conceived a son in her old age, and she who was called barren is now in her sixth month; for nothing shall be impossible with God."

But Mary said, "Behold the handmaid of the Lord; be it done to me according to thy word." And the angel departed from her.

Now it came to pass in those days, that a decree went forth from Caesar Augustus that a census of the whole world should be taken. This first census took place while Cyrenus was governor of Syria. And all were going, each to his own town, to register.

And Joseph also went from Galilee out of the town of Nazareth into Judea to the town of David, which is called Bethlehem—because he was of the house and family of David—to register, together with Mary his espoused wife, who was with child. And it came to pass while they were there, that the days for her to be delivered were fulfilled. And she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn.

And there were shepherds in the same district living in the fields and keeping watch over their flock by night. And behold, an angel of the Lord stood by them and the glory of God shone round about them, and they feared exceedingly.

And the angel said to them: "Do not be afraid, for behold, I bring you good news of great joy which shall be to all the people; for today in the town of David a Saviour has been born to you, who is Christ the Lord. And this shall be a sign to you: you will find an infant wrapped in swaddling clothes and lying in a manger." And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men of good will."

And it came to pass, when the angels had departed from them into heaven, that the shepherds were saying to one another, "Let us go over to Bethlehem and see this thing that has come to pass, which the Lord has made known to us."

So they went with haste, and they found Mary and Joseph, and the babe lying in the manger. And when they had seen, they understood what had been told them concerning this child. And all who heard marvelled at the things told them by the shepherds. But Mary kept in mind all these things, pondering them in her heart. And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all that they had heard and seen, even as it was spoken to them.

* * *

Now when Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judea, in the days of King Herod, behold, Magi came from the East to Jerusalem, saying, "Where is he that is born king of the Jews? For we have seen his star in the East and have come to worship him." But when King Herod heard this, he was troubled, and so was all Jerusalem with him. And gathering together all the chief priests and scribes of the people, he inquired of them where the Christ was to be born. And they said to him, "In Bethlehem of Judea; for thus it is written by the prophet, 'And thou, Bethlehem, of the land of Judea, art by no means least among the princes of Judea: For from thee shall come forth a leader who shall rule my people Israel.'"

Then Herod summoned the Magi secretly, and carefully ascertained from them the time when the star had appeared to them. And sending them to Bethlehem, he said, "Go and make careful inquiry concerning the child, and when you have found him, bring me word, that I too may go and worship him."

Now they, having heard the king, went their way. And behold, the star that they had seen in the East went before them, until it came and stood over the place where the child was. And when they saw the star they rejoiced exceedingly. And entering the house, they found the child with Mary his mother, and falling down they worshipped him. And opening their treasures they offered him gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh. And being warned in a dream not to return to Herod, they went back to their own country by another way.

But when they had departed, behold, an angel of the Lord appeared in a dream to Joseph, saying, "Arise, and take the child and his mother, and flee into Egypt, and remain there until I tell thee. For Herod will seek the child and his mother by night, and withdrew into Egypt, and remained there until the death of Herod; that what was spoken by the Lord through the prophet might be fulfilled, 'Out of Egypt I called my son.'"

Then Herod, seeing that he had been tricked by the Magi, was exceedingly angry; and he sent and slew all the boys in Bethlehem and all its neighborhood who were two years old or under, according to the time that he had carefully ascertained from the Magi. Then was fulfilled what was spoken through Jeremiah the prophet, "A voice was heard in Rama, weeping and loud lamentation; Rachel weeping for her children, and she would not be comforted, because they are no more."

But when Herod was dead, behold, an angel of the Lord appeared in a dream to Joseph in Egypt, saying, "Arise, and take the child and his mother, and go into the land of Israel, for those who sought the child's life are dead." So he arose and took the child and his mother, and went into the land of Israel. But hearing that Archelaus was reigning in Judea in place of his father Herod, he was afraid to go there; and being warned in a dream, he withdrew into the region of Galilee. And he went and settled in a town called Nazareth; that there might be fulfilled what was spoken through the prophets, "He shall be called a Nazarene."

Report From the GENERAL PRESIDENT

In my last two Reports I have dealt with the new labor law and since questions continue to be raised I feel that it is necessary to, again, make further report.

You have previously received a Sample Constitution or By-Laws as well as a sample report form. This, of course, only dealt with one of the reports under the law. You still have to make a financial report within ninety (90) days after the end of your fiscal year. The law requires annual financial reports and requires that every labor organization, which means all of our affiliated locals and councils, shall file a financial report annually with the Secretary of Labor.

The financial report is due, as we stated before, ninety (90) days after the close of the fiscal year of the organization. If you have no fiscal year then one must be established. It is my recommendation, if you do not have a fiscal year, that you establish the close of the fiscal year as of December 31 since your membership ledger provides that the members names be changed to a new page each December 31. The information to be included on this financial report during the previous fiscal year will be on Form LM-2 which Form will require the following information:

Assets and liabilities at the beginning and end of the fiscal year.

Listing of receipts of any kind and where they came from.

Salaries and allowances and other direct or indirect payments to each officer, irrespective of the amounts, and also to each employee who received more than $10,000 in the aggregate during the year from the reporting organization or any other affiliated labor organization.

A listing of all loans, direct or indirect, made to any officer, employee or member which aggregated more than $250 during the year to any one person. A statement must be included giving the purpose of each loan, security furnished if any, the arrangements for repayment of the loan.

A listing of all direct or indirect loans made to any business enterprise including a statement giving purpose of loan, security furnished, and arrangements for repayment and any other disbursements and purposes for which they were made.

This report must be signed by the president and treasurer or corresponding principal officers of the reporting organization and should be mailed to the U. S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor-Management Reports, Washington 25, D.C.

All of the above information must be made available to all members in good standing and members are allowed to examine such information if such a request is made. The law requires the reporting organization to keep records to substantiate these reports for five (5) years after the report is filed. The law provides the Secretary of Labor with discretion to exempt certain organizations but no such ruling has yet been made by the Secretary of Labor.

We have previously reported to you regarding the bonding of local unions and since no rules or regulations will be issued until approximately the middle of December, previous information should be adequate.

We have had a number of questions from affiliated local unions asking who may vote. The following are a few questions and answers which may be of help to you.

Question: Who may vote?

Answer: Any member in good standing can vote.

Question: Can apprentices vote?

Answer: No.

Question: Can a Solicitor vote?

Answer: No.

Question: Can a reinstated member vote immediately?

Answer: He can after he is reinstated at Headquarters.

Question: Can a transferred member vote?

Answer: Yes, as soon as his transfer is accepted.

We have been asked who can be a candidate for office which is separate and apart from the question "who can vote". The law provides that the local unions and councils may establish reasonable qualifications for candidates for office. It is my opinion, for example, one year good standing in a local union would be a reasonable qualification if applied to all candidates alike. This, of course, is only one example and there are many more which we have previously had in our local constitutions and by-laws. It is also my opinion that in the many hundreds of constitutions and by-laws that I have reviewed and approved at Headquarters that the qualifications for candidates are reasonable, otherwise I would not have approved them.

We sincerely hope that the information which we have forwarded to you has assisted you in giving a proper report to the Labor Department and it should be noted that in order to comply with the L.I.U. Constitution a copy of your revised constitution and by-laws must be submitted to and approved by the General President.

says Mr. William Duncan, owner, Duncan Plastering Company, leading Florida contractor.

"We know we're giving the best possible results when we reinforce inside plaster corners with Keycorner lath," declares Mr. Duncan, plastering contractor for the large Florida building project, Palmetto Country Club Estates. "Keycorner assures us . . . and the owner and builder, too . . . of higher crack resistance and greater strength."

"Best of all, it costs less to add this quality feature. Keycorner handles easier than any other reinforcement I've used. The men really like to work with it. It's always more than satisfying to include Keycorner lath on a job."

Wherever Keycorner lath is used, it gives stronger corner reinforcement at less cost. Tests show that crack resistance of plaster corners is almost doubled as compared to other corner reinforcement.*

The pre-shaped, 4-foot lengths of Keycorner fit into corners quickly and neatly. Keycorner can be nailed or stapled. Plaster flows in and around the open mesh design of Keycorner to assure a complete bond. Keycorner lath, packed 1,000 feet to a carton, is galvanized.

Keeping Christmas

It is a good thing to observe Christmas Day.

The mere marking of times and seasons, when men agree to stop work and make merry together, is a wise and wholesome custom. It helps one to feel the supremacy of the common life over the individual life. It reminds a man to set his own little watch now and then by the great clock of humanity which runs on sun time.

But there is a better thing than the observance of Christmas Day, and that is keeping Christmas. Are you willing to forget what you have done for other people and to remember what other people have done for you; to ignore what the world owes you and to think what you owe the world; to put your rights in the background and your duties in the middle distance and your chances to do a little more than your duty in the foreground . . . to own that probably the only good reason for your existence is not what you are going to get out of life but what you are going to give to life; to close your book of complaints against the management of the universe and look around you for a place where you can sow a few seeds of happiness; are you willing to do these things even for a day?

Then you keep Christmas.

Are you willing to stoop down and consider the needs and desires of little children; to remember the weakness and loneliness of people who are growing old; to stop asking how much your friends love you and ask yourself whether you love them enough; to bear in mind the things that other people have to bear in their hearts; to try to understand what those who live in the same house with you really want, without waiting for them to tell you . . . are you willing to do these things even for a day?

Then you can keep Christmas.

Are you willing to believe that love is the strongest thing in the world, stronger than hate, stronger than evil, stronger than death, and the blessed life which began in Bethlehem nineteen hundred years ago is the image and brightness of the Eternal Love?

Then you can keep Christmas.

And if you keep it for a day, why not always? But you can never keep it alone.

HENRY VAN DYKE (Author of "The Other Wise Man")

We, of the Lather staff, sincerely hope that this Christmas will mean something especially good to you and yours this year—something which you will remember for years to come.

Report of the GENERAL SECRETARY-TREASURER

The Editor Speaks

Once again the Holiday Season is with us with all that it implies: good spirits, pleasant memories, family get-togethers, and the giving and receiving of gifts.

But amid the fun of Christmas, let's not forget the reason. The simplicity of the expression, "Peace on Earth, good will to all," should be the standard not for Christmas alone but for every day of the year.

And the New Year will be upon us as soon as the trees in your homes begin to look a bit tired and worn. With the New Year many of us will resolve to improve ourselves, our jobs, our homes, our family fortunes.

As an International Union we, too, strive to improve. With each year we attempt to provide the best that is within us. We strive to better our services and our relations so that our members will be better fit to carry out their job. The members after all are the real bosses, and 1960 presents an excellent opportunity to acquire new goals and retain old goals. Thus do we grow and improve and better our positions as members in the great family of labor.

May it ever be so that free men in a free nation may work and live with peace and good will.

Minutes of the National Lathing Industry's Joint Apprenticeship Committee

Representing Employer Members of the CPLIA and The W.W. & Metal Lathers International Union

Meeting called to order by co-chairman Lloyd A. Mashburn and Adolphe P. Valenti, 10 A.M., October 24, 1959, Hotel Sheraton-Jefferson, St. Louis, Missouri. The following members of the Committee were present, representing:

CONTRACTORS

Adolphe Valenti
Lloyd Peterson
J. Carroll Duncan
John M. Van Horn
Jeremiah Burns
Edward B. Lee
Edward Davis McNulty
Joe Baker, Jr.
John K. Buster, National Bureau for Lathing and Plastering, Inc.

LATHERS

Lloyd A. Mashburn
Harold Mills
Harry Hagen
John Tierney
Thomas J. Fredrickson

The Committee had before it for its review, discussion and consideration a vast amount of material supplied by the Lathers International Union and the Labor Department, including surveys by the Lathers International Union and the Labor Department as to the effectiveness of our present program. First consideration was given to the National Standards of Apprenticeships for the Lathing Industry and the Committee is of the opinion that the present Standards are basically sound and adequate to meet the needs of the industry but must be stimulated in order to obtain the maximum benefits and the necessary skilled and competent mechanics to meet the needs of the industry and to keep pace with the increased volume of work now being gained through the National and Local Promotional Bureaus.

The Committee reviewed the chart furnished by the Lathers International Union and the number of apprentices and journeymen in each local union throughout the United States and Canada. This chart showed 325 local unions in the United States and Canada; the total number of journeymen lathers, 18,460; and 2010 apprentice lathers, which would show an average ratio of only one (1) apprentice lather to nine (9) lathers being trained as against National Standards ratio of one (1) apprentice lather to five (5) journeymen. This shows that we are only training about half the number of apprentices recommended by the National Standards.

The Committee received a letter from the Southern California Metal Lathing Contractors' Association complaining about a shortage of skilled and competent mechanics and the need for increased training of apprentices. The letter was read and referred to President Mashburn with the request that he instruct the local union to train apprentices in accordance with the needs of the industry.

A letter from Northwest Plaster Bureau complaining about the lack of training of apprentices in Tacoma, Washington. The letter was read and referred to President Mashburn for action.

A letter from the Mel Engel Company, Columbus, Ohio, complaining about the lack of training of apprentices in that local union was read and referred to President Mashburn. At this time President Mashburn presented to the Committee various complaints from the Lathers' Local Unions complaining about the contractors' failure to participate in the Joint Committee for the training of apprentices. At this time Edward Lee recommended to the Committee that in these cases where the local unions and contractors failed to cooperate in the program that a fact finding committee consisting of representatives of the Lathers' International Union and the Contractors be selected to ascertain the facts and make recommendations to the local and national committees.

The Committee after discussing this recommendation believes that while the recommendation is good, it may be difficult to put into operation, but is in accord with the intent and purpose and recommended that the Co-Chairman do it on a trial basis. A survey by the Department of Labor shows that failure to establish and actively participate in the apprenticeship training committees is equally the fault of the contractors and unions, and that something must be done to educate and implement the National Standards.

After a great deal of discussion on this matter, it was moved, seconded and passed that this Committee recommend to the local contractors' chapters, as well as the local unions, that they include in their collective bargaining agreements a provision for a Joint Labor-Management Apprenticeship Training Committee, such provision to be in accordance with the provisions of the National Plan, and that the provision in the collective bargaining agreement set forth the necessary machinery for complete and adequate training of apprentices at the least possible cost to the industry. The Committee discussed various ways in which sufficient apprentices could be trained to meet the needs of the industry and felt that these local plans should provide for an analysis of the local conditions along the following lines:

1. The number of Journeymen and apprentices in each locality.
2. The number of journeymen resigning, retiring, or dying each year.
3. The average age of the journeyman.
4. The amount of building over the past five years and for the next five years.
5. The increase in population for the past, and the next, five years.
6. The effectiveness of the promotional program in obtaining a greater dollar volume of the work for our industry.

The Committee feels that based upon these and other pertinent factors which may be peculiar to the particular locality together with other information received in the reports and talks made at the CPLIA Convention a proper ratio of apprentices to journeymen can be accurately determined to meet the needs of the industry. The Committee, unanimously, instructed Acting Secretary Mashburn to place some of this information which had been obtained on the national level in the minutes. The President of A.I.A. brought out facts which the Committee felt might justify increasing the ratio of apprentices over and above that as set forth in our National Standards. He felt that not only the lathing and plastering industry but the whole building trades industry must increase their training program in order to have sufficient skilled and competent mechanics to meet the needs of the building industry or be faced with increasing automation and prefabrication which would require a lesser number of skilled mechanics. He also gave many reasons to justify his position.

The following set of facts were presented by William Latta, President of the advertising company and public relations company for the National Bureau, which seem to further substantiate this need for the additional training of apprentices in the lathing and plastering industry or be faced with further inroads of substitute materials as well as further automation and prefabrication. We are making as a part of these minutes the verbatim statement made by Mr. Latta as follows:

"The lathing and plastering industry faces a real crisis and the matter will become increasingly critical during the next twenty years . . . probably longer.

"This industry is in no position to say that it will 'merely accept that share of the market needed to maintain full employment.' We have only one choice. Either we prepare ourselves to answer the demands for our product with an adequate labor supply or we accept the alternative of seeing the factory-made wall and ceiling section of plastic or metal take over ALL of the business and the jobs that go with them.

"The last report of the United States Department of Commerce on Building Permit Activity, Number of New Dwelling Units in Selected Metropolitan Areas, showed the following changes for the first five months of 1959 as compared with the same period of 1958:

Metropolitan area	Per cent change 1st 5 mos. 1958-59

"In this same report, Amusement Buildings are up 38%; Stores and Mercantile Buildings are up 20%; Institutional Buildings are up 13%; and others show varying degrees of increase in various parts of the country

"The important fact is THAT THESE INCREASES IN CONSTRUCTION VOLUME ARE ONLY THE BEGIN-NING OF AN UPWARD TREND THAT MAY WELL FIND US DOING FIFTY PER CENT MORE WORK WITHIN THE NEXT FIVE TO SEVEN YEARS!

"The reason for the coming increase in construction activity are found in the reaction we will have to the skyrocketing increases in births that started in 1940. The first of these babies become 20 years old in 1960. When we hit our first peak in 1967, the number of new adults will be fifty per cent higher.

"Leading manufacturers in various fields are looking our industry over with an eye toward the introduction of new products. It takes only a few minutes to examine the ads in school, architectural and business magazines to see the promotion that aluminum, plastics and steel people are giving to factory fabricated walls and ceilings.

"The only way that we can definitely preserve the job opportunities for our existing supply of registered journeymen is to step up our apprentice training program as hard and as fast as we can. If we can supply the men, we can hold the work. If we fail to meet the demands on our trade, we will be forced to stand aside and make room for a trade and a material that can handle the job".

Further discussion was had by the Committee regarding the continued training of apprentices sufficient to meet the needs of the industry and it was, unanimously agreed that the Committee must find ways and means to further educate both the contractors and unions to exert a greater effort in training. It was the opinion of the Committee that insufficient information is being given to the contractors and unions to enable them to do a proper job of training. Committee points out that the Local Joint Committees may not be using the U. S. Employment Service which is available to them for the screening of apprentices prior to the time they are indentured. They are probably not taking advantage of the Apprentice Coordinators for the state and federal government by obtaining advice and counsel in respect to the initial Joint Committee program by registration of apprentices and coordinating services after these programs have been set up.

The Committee then had a full discussion as to how this information might be sent to the unions and employers and why it had not previously been done. It was finally moved, seconded and carried that General Secretary-Treasurer Mills, Lathers International Union, was in the best position to distribute this information and material to both the unions and contractors and that he be elected as Secretary of the National Joint Committee and that the election of other officers be held in abeyance until the next meeting of the Committee.

It was moved, seconded and carried that the Committee members pledge sufficient funds to the National Joint Committee to print a pamphlet of information which pamphlet would be made available to all contractors and union members throughout the CPLIA and the Lathers' International Union; contributions to be sent to Secretary Mills, Lathers' Building, 6530 New Hampshire Avenue, Takoma Park, 12, Maryland; and the Committee further recommends to the CPLIA and the Lathers' International Union that they urge the unions and contractors when negotiating their future agreements to provide funds to be sent to the National Joint Committee to be used in a further education of the contractors and union members regarding the training of apprentices, and it is hoped that sufficient funds will be available to send out literature, copies of existing plans, even employment of apprenticeship coordinators. It was moved, seconded and carried that the minutes of the meeting of the Joint Committee be printed in the Lathers' Journal and the Plastering Industries Magazine.

Meeting adjourned Sunday, October 25, 1959, One P.M.

Lloyd A. Mashburn, Acting Secretary

..... CANADIAN NEWSLETTER

For the second successive month total employment (seasonally adjusted) expanded less rapidly than during the spring and early summer months. Between August and September the number of persons with jobs fell seasonally by 108,000 to 6,078,000. After allowance for average seasonal changes, estimated employment in September was only slightly above the June level. The September estimate was up 3 per cent over a year earlier.

The same federal Government aid that was offered to Canadian municipalities during the winter of 1958-1959 to help combat unemployment will be available again this coming winter, Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced.

The assistance will be available from December 1, 1959, until April 30, 1960, a month less than last year, when the program was extended until the end of May.

Projects approved by the provincial governments—construction and improvement of municipal roads, streets, sidewalks and similar projects and the development of parks and playgrounds—will draw a federal subsidy of half the payroll costs involved.

Claimants for unemployment insurance benefit numbered 225,900 on July 31, up 2 per cent over June 30 but 25 per cent below the number on July 31, 1958. The month-to-month increase in claimants is associated with the closing of plants for annual holidays, for inventory taking and model change-over; and with industrial disputes, particularly on the West Coast.

Canada's gross national product continued to advance in the second quarter of 1959, and was at a seasonally-adjusted annual rate of $34.7 billion, a gain of 2 per cent over the level of the first quarter, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics has announced.

The most recent advance continues the upswing that was showing increasing vigour in the closing months of 1958, and brought the gross national product in the second quarter of the current year to a level some 7 per cent above the figure for the same period in 1958.

Canada's consumer price index (1949=100) advanced 0.6 per cent between August and September, moving from 126.4 to 127.1. As was the case between July and August, most of the increase was due to a seasonal advance in the food index.

Of the 2.7-per-cent rise in the food component over the last two months, it is estimated that almost all of it was seasonal in nature, and of the 1-per-cent increase in the consumer price index over the two months, approximately 0.8 per cent was seasonal.

During the 1959 sessions, provincial Legislatures in addition to enacting legislation dealing with workmen's compensation and labour relations, reviewed in separate articles, passed legislation dealing with vacations with pay, hours of work, minimum wages, discrimination, equal pay, apprenticeship, industrial safety, and other matters of interest to labour.

In the first six months of 1959 starts of new dwellings in Canada were fewer in number than in the same period last year, according to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. There was little change in the number of completions between the two periods.

A decrease to 59,074 from 73,201 units was recorded in the January-June starts for all Canada this year, compared with the same period in 1958. Most of the decline in starts was in the second quarter, when they fell to 42,709 from 55,413 units.

For the first half of 1959, completions numbered 56,551, compared with 58,308 units in 1958, of which 31,854 against 31,993 were reported in the second quarter.

The number of units under construction at June 30 this year was 81,654. The revised figure for dwellings under construction at June 30, 1958, is 81,142, although the two figures are not strictly comparable because of a change to a new sample survey for areas outside centres with a population of 5,000 or more.

William F. Patterson

1898—1959

WILLIAM F. PATTERSON, Special Assistant to Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, died late Tuesday night (October 27) at the Washington Hospital Center. Burial was in Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Stricken with a heart attack about a year ago, Mr. Patterson had recovered and resumed his duties. He went to the Hospital Friday October 23, after which pneumonia developed. His home was at 2737 Devonshire Place, N. W., Washington, D. C.

Born in North Freedom, Wisconsin, in 1898, Mr. Patterson went to high school in Baraboo and the University of Wisconsin from which he completed graduate courses in labor economics in 1933. In 1918 he volunteered for military service and was assigned to the Infantry Officers Training School at Camp Grant, Illinois.

In December 1956, he was appointed by the Secretary of Labor to the newly established career post of Special Assistant to the Secretary. In that position, he concentrated on programs for the enlargement of apprenticeship and other training and represented the Department of Labor at national and international conferences in that field. The last conference he attended was the 3rd Constitutional Convention of the AFL-CIO in San Francisco in September.

From its formation in 1934 to 1956, Mr. Patterson was Director of the Bureau of Apprenticeship and Training, U. S. Department of Labor. In Wisconsin, prior to 1934, he served seven years as Director of Guidance and Employment, Milwaukee Vocational School; two years as Manager of Industrial Relations, Yates-American Machinery Company, Beloit; two years as Assistant State Supervisor of Apprenticeship and three years as Assistant Superintendent of the Milwaukee Employment Office.

In 1956 and 1957 he headed the American Delegation to Southeast Asia Treaty Organization Study Group Meetings on Shortage of Skilled Labor. He was elected and served as chairman of both meetings. In numerous foreign assignments he appraised manpower training activities through conferences with representatives of employers, labor and government and through plant and school visitations. In 1957 he made such explorations in Japan, the Philippines, Hong Kong, Thailand, Pakistan, Iran, Turkey, and in 1948 and 1957 in Italy and Switzerland. In 1948 he visited Greece; in 1936 and 1948 France, and in 1936 Germany.

Mr. Patterson was Chairman, Federal Committee on Apprenticeship from 1942-56; Member of the Veterans Administrator's Vocational Rehabilitation and Education Advisory Committee from 1952-56; Vice President and Treasurer, National Vocational Guidance Association from 1932-34; President Wisconsin Vocational Guidance Association, 1934; and Secretary, Wisconsin Industrial Relations Association from 1929-32. He was a member of the President's Committee on Government Employment Policy, the American Apprenticeship Round Table, the American Society of Training Directors and the American Legion.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Connor Cuthbert Patterson; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Bockenhagen of Baraboo, Wisconsin, and Mrs. Sarah Rumpf of Pardyville, Wisconsin; and by two brothers, Hugh Patterson of Madison, Wisconsin, and John Patterson of Devlin, Ontario, Canada.

Political Memo from COPE

WHO SPENDS THE MONEY ON POLITICS?

More than $3,000,000 was spent on politics by 43 political groups during the first eight months of the year, according to financial reports filed with the Clerk of the U.S. House of Representatives. Of the exact total of $3,023,705.50 in political expenditures, the Republicans spent $1,575,329.42—or 52.1 per cent of the total; Democrats spent $957,764.80—or 31.7 per cent; COPE spent $78,941.52—or 2.6 per cent.

Four extreme reactionary groups consisting chiefly of a few very wealthy men spent more than two and a half times as much as COPE did. They were Americans for Constitutional Action, Christian Nationalist Crusade, For America, and Pro-America. Their expenditures amounted to $201,764.93.

The Republicans, as expected, also led the the parade in receipts during the January 1-August 31 period. They took in a total of $1,494,449.45—or 45.7 per cent of the total of $3,271,866.85 that all groups reported in receipts. The Democrats were given $1,002,368.85—or 30.6 per cent of the total. COPE collected, in voluntary dollars, $132,654.39—or 4 per cent.

The four extreme reactionary organizations raked in $284,606.67. What's that about "slush funds"?

WASTE IN WASHINGTON

A prime example of waste in Washington is the fact that Uncle Sam will be disposing of some $60 billion in surplus property in the next few years. A recent report of the General Accounting Office, for instance, shows that the Federal Government disposed of hacksaw frames and soldering irons at just a fraction of the purchase price. It then turned around and bought the same items for prices far in excess of what it had sold the original supply.

The report did not state whether the Government bought some of the same items back. That was what happened in the famous cheese windfall cases when Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson ordered cheese stored in warehouses bought at 37 cents a pound and then sold it back at 34 cents a pound a few days later without ever moving the cheese out of the warehouses.

While the Administration grumbles that the Government cannot afford to spend more money for schools and other needed improvements, the administration of the Federal procurement and surplus property disposal program is gobbling up much of the nation's wealth through sheer waste.

Honor award No. 229 has been given for Good Citizenship to Local 80. Congratulations to them for their outstanding efforts in this matter for help to COPE is sorely needed to help fight anti-labor laws both on the State and National level.

Dear Mr. President:

Our 1959 Voluntary Contribution campaign will terminate on December 31st of this year. I would appreciate very much if you would request your affiliates to make their final returns as early as possible in order that we may close our books with all accounts in.

It is our sincere hope that all National and International Unions will at least meet their quota in order that we may be able to meet the demands that will be made upon us in the 1960 campaign.

Fraternally yours,
James L. McDevitt
National Director

WOULD AMERICAN CONSERVATIVES ADOPT PLATFORM OF BRITAIN'S CONSERVATIVES?

The vast majority of U.S. newspapers and news magazines, as well as reactionary politicians, are saying that the victory of the Conservatives in the British elections last month shows that the way to win votes is to reject what they sneeringly refer to as the "welfare state."

But how many American publishers and right-wing politicians would adopt the platform as outlined in the "Manifesto of the Conservative and Unionist Party" of Great Britain? Here is what the Tories promised the British voters:

On depressed areas—"Our first major bill in the next Parliament will be one to remodel and strengthen our powers for coping with unemployment."

On education—"During the next five years we shall concentrate on producing a massive enlargement of educational opportunity at every level . . . and we shall spend some 400 million pounds (about $1,120,000,000) by 1965 to improve the quality of our school buildings."

On good housing—"Our housing policy . . . will be pressed ahead with vigor in the future so as to deal with up-to-date priorities. These are the clearance of slums, the relief of overcrowding, and the needs of the old."

On good health—"We shall . . . tackle pollution of rivers and estuaries. We shall offer vaccination against polio to everyone up to the age of 40 and to all special vulnerable groups." (Nothing about repealing Britain's system of national health insurance.)

On security and retirement—"The rates of retirement pensions, which we have increased three times, have now a real buying power over 10 shillings (or $1.40) higher (per week) than in 1951 . . . Not only will our housing program cater more and more to the needs of the old, but we shall also try to make it easier for them to go on living at home."

What's Coming?

Things to give us hope and others to give us ulcers are always happening in and to the lathing and plastering craft and in recent years some of the craft's members have come to believe they are all bad. Here are a few in the works, among many others, which lead our thoughts at least:

On the DEBIT side:

... A new laminated, one thickness wallboard assembly for steel studs is now in testing stages in an attempt to qualify for fire ratings previously reserved for lath and plaster partitions.

... A manufacturer of acoustic ceiling materials has come out with a product which already qualifies for a two-hour fire rating and another for four hours.

... At least one gypsum manufacturer is offering a 3/4" gypsum wallboard in a limited market designed for "the quality housing market and for commercial buildings where gypsum's fire-fighting qualities are especially important."

On the CREDIT side:

... A new one-quarter inch wall, to be applied by the plastering craft, and said to be stronger than conventional applications, even complete with lifetime finish, will soon be available to the industry.

... A one-coat plaster job which can be machine applied, then either textured or troweled will soon be making its properties known to the industry.

... A new nailable stud, said to go up fast, possess good structural properties and receive either metal or gypsum lath is now on the market.

... Several new types of paper backed reinforcing meshes, good for application by stapling equipment and suited for fast machine plastering, are coming on the market.

... A new one-coat plaster for finish coats on concrete was recently put on the market.

... Improvements in lathing application by machine are progressing rapidly and plaster machines and their techniques continue to develop and improve.

Perhaps some aggressive industry demands for research and development and progress will continue to keep a few members of the industry ahead of the competition.

reports on Washington

Rising consumer debt is giving the Administration and the Federal Reserve shudders of the same kind they endured while applying tight money policies prior to the recession of 1957-58. Dr. Raymond Saulnier, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, has warned that the consequence of continued expansion of consumer credit could be another recession. A. L. Mills Jr., member of the Federal Reserve Board, has called for caution by lenders. Both point to the fact that consumer credit outstanding has risen from a recession low of $42.6 billion to $48.4 billion. However, the auto industry has pointed to the willingness of the American consumer to take on debt as support for its contention that a near record auto sales year lies ahead. Also, the New York Journal of Commerce has pointed out that in recent months, consumer installment buying has tended to level out.

While Labor Sec. Mitchell conveniently blamed the steel strike for a rise in unemployment to six per cent in October, it is apparent that unemployment would have remained at or near the three million mark even if there had been no strike. Total employment in October was up half a million to 66.8 million, while joblessness was 3.3 million.

Six major provisions of the Landrum-Griffin Bill went into effect early this month. The provisions were described by the Journal of Commerce as "drastically curtailing the activities of unions in relation to employers." The provisions include: abolition of the "no man's land" disputes by permitting state courts and agencies to assume jurisdiction; extension of the secondary boycott ban by the outlawing of "hot cargo" clauses; prohibition on organizational picketing except under limited conditions; permission for garment and building trade unions to negotiate for contract bans on subcontracting to non-union shops; permission for replaced economic strikers to vote in NLRB elections held within one year of strike; and authorization for pre-hiring contracts in the construction industry.

Housing dropped off sharply in October, due largely to the tight supply of mortgage money and high interest costs. Seasonally adjusted, housing starts were 1,180,000, down 11 per cent from September. The index of industrial production also declined slightly, dropping one point to 155 on the Federal Reserve index.

Labor Sec. James Mitchell expects to issue interpretations of the Landrum-Griffin Bill's bonding provisions by mid-December. Under the new law, all officers, agents, shop stewards, and other representatives and employees of labor unions and trusts in which unions are interested must be bonded if they handle funds or property of the union or trust. Only exception is for unions whose total property and annual income is not over $5,000 in value. Earlier this month, the Labor Dept. held meetings with labor and management representatives to discuss the bonding provision. Mitchell has announced that the requirement for obtaining the bond does not become applicable until "the subsequent date when the organization's next fiscal year begins."

Health, Education and Welfare Sec. Arthur Flemming has declared that the Administration is "reviewing [its] position on the basic principles embodied in such legislation as the Forand Bill." Flemming's remarks were released along with a report of the President's Federal Council on Aging. The HEW official admitted that his department has been unable, so far, to suggest alternatives to legislation that would add hospital and medical insurance to present social security benefits.

William Heyward

Council Names New Executive Director

William A. Heyward, a veteran of nearly 15 years executive experience in the building industry of the St. Louis area, has been named executive director of the St. Louis Lathing and Plastering Industry Council, it was announced this week.

Heyward has been a sales executive with Cupples Products Corporation for the past three years. Prior to that, he operated his own contracting company.

A native of East Orange, N.J., Heyward was educated and spent most of his life in St. Louis. He attended St. Louis University School of Commerce and Finance and McKinley High School. He is a past president of the South Side Kiwanis Club. He belongs to the Parent Teacher Association of both Spoede School and Ladue Junior High School and is a member of Webster Groves Presbyterian Church.

Heyward resides with his wife and two daughters at 24 Morwood Lane, Creve Coeur.

In his new position, Heyward will be responsible for carrying out the Council's program of professional and public education on uses of modern lath and plaster in all types of construction. He will provide consulting and information service to architects, contractors, and developers on new materials and techniques in the lathing and plastering field, and will coordinate the Council's promotional activities.

The St. Louis Lathing and Plastering Industry Council is a non-profit public service organization jointly sponsored by the St. Louis Lathing and Plastering Contractors Association, the Lathers District Council of Greater St. Louis, and the Plasterers Union, Local #3.

THE GREATEST GIFT.....

The greatest gift you can place under anyone's Christmas tree or find placed under your own Christmas tree is the gift of good health.

You and millions of Americans like you have helped bestow the gift of health through your Christmas Seal contributions. You have made possible a truly great medical advance—wonderful progress against tuberculosis. Since 1907 over eight million lives have been saved. But the battle is not yet won: TB still kills more people each year than all other infectious diseases combined. TB is still a menace.

Your Christmas Seal gift fights TB throughout the year. Mail your check today, please.

"THE INJURY TO ONE IS THE CONCERN OF ALL"

Report From the GENERAL PRESIDENT

Charges, Trials and Appeals

The following is for your information and guidance regarding problems which arise under Section 23 of the L.I.U. Constitution "CHARGES, TRIALS AND APPEALS".

You will recall, if you have read the Proceedings of the Twenty-Third Convention, that a great deal of time was consumed by the Convention in the revision of the L.I.U. Constitution, particularly that portion having to do with "Charges, Trials and Appeals" in order that the Constitution and its procedures in regard to this matter would conform to due process of law.

Apparently, a number of locals are not following this procedure in every respect which they must do in order that we will be in compliance with the L.I.U. Constitution. If they do not these fines cannot be registered here at Headquarters nor will fines be upheld by myself where an appeal is made. Some of the more glaring errors are that charges in the first instance are not properly filed with a copy to the charged member nor is sufficient or proper notice given to the charged member. The Constitution requires that the member shall be notified of the charges by Registered Mail at least ten (10) days prior to any hearing on such charges. Charges must be set forth in brief, facts describing the nature of the offense charged and the actual or approximate date, time and place of the occurrence of the offense charged and shall set forth the names of the persons who will appear as witnesses at the hearing with provisions that additional witnesses may testify. All of these things are set forth in Section 23 and its sub-sections and these procedures must be followed otherwise any member charged has recourse to appeal to the General President for compliance therewith.

Each member should have been furnished, if they have not, with a copy of the L.I.U. Constitution and each member should be familiar with the procedures on "Charges, Trials and Appeals" in Section 23. As General President I have the responsibility to see that the Constitution is adhered to. This is the reason why some of your fine blanks have been returned and some appeals have been decided in favor of the appellant and this will continue to be so unless the procedures set forth in Section 23 are strictly complied with.

A number of secretaries have written to me stating that because of having to follow these procedures so closely they would not attempt to place penalties even where they are justified. I think this is wrong. We must discipline the members who will not follow out the rules. Delegates to Convention consumed a great deal of time working out what I consider fair rules and procedures and they should be adhered to and the members who violate them should be charged and penalized if guilty. Fairness and justice however, should prevail in making decisions involving members of our International Union.

I wish to report on one other subject matter. Ninety-nine percent of the Sample Constitutions sent out to local unions were adopted by the local unions almost verbatim. A number of local unions have written and called requesting additional copies for each member because they did not want to go to the expense of printing. In view of this we are now having printed one thousand (1000) copies in book form and they will be available at the end of this week to any local union wishing to purchase these for twenty-five cents ($.25) per copy. Of course, the number of the local union, the initiation fee, reinstatement fee, dues and working dues are left blank. These items could be put in with pen and ink or with the local's cancellation stamp. In doing this in this manner it will save a great deal of money for our local unions. A sample copy of this new Constitution will be mailed to all locals so they can decide if they want to use it.

ANALYSIS BY GENERAL COUNCIL WILDERMAN OF TITLE 4

Elections

The following is an analysis of the Interpretations issued by the Secretary of Labor on December 12, 1959 relating to Title IV, "Elections". It should be noted that although there are specific requirements in Title IV of the Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act of 1959, hereinafter referred to as the Act, regarding the right to vote, nominate and run for office, notice of elections, secret ballots, preservation of election records, and other safeguards to insure a fair election, the Act does not attempt to prescribe the complete, detailed procedure for nomination and election of officers which all Unions must follow. Elections required to be held as provided in this Title IV of the Act are to be conducted in accordance with the Constitution and By-Laws of the Unions insofar as they are not inconsistent with the provisions of the Act.

Further, before proceeding with the analysis of the Interpretations, it should be noted that the Interpretations are to be a practical guide as to how the office representing the public interest in its enforcement will seek to apply it; however, the correctness of an interpretation can be determined finally and authoritatively only by the courts.

Now, to proceed with the analysis of the Interpretations.

1. The L.I.U., State and District Councils and Local Unions must comply with the election requirements of the Act. The officers of the Unions must be elected in accordance with the election requirements of the Act. By the term "officers" is meant all of the offices identified or provided for in the Constitution and By-Laws and, if any, all positions in the Unions regardless of their names or titled, held or filled by persons who actually perform the functions normally and customarily performed by the persons who would fill the offices described and defined in the Constitution and By-Laws. For example, if a person has principal responsibility for the control and management of the Union's funds and fiscal operations, he will be regarded as being authorized to perform the functions of Treasurer even if he does not hold that title.

2. Professional and other staff members of the Union who do not determine the Union's policies and who are employed to implement policy decisions and managerial directives established by the governing officers of the Union are not required to be elected.

3. Delegates to the L.I.U. Convention, at which the L.I.U. officers are to be elected, must be elected by secret ballot among the members in good standing of the Union which they represent; the same is true of individuals who represent members in elections of officers of State or District Councils.

4. Officers of the L.I.U. shall be elected not less often than every five (5) years; the Constitution of the L.I.U. presently provides for the election of L.I.U. officers at the Convention which is held every three (3) years. Officers of State or District Councils must be elected at least every four (4) years. Officers of Local Unions must be elected not less often than every three (3) years. The foregoing sets forth the maximum terms of office; the Constitution and By-Laws, if they provide for lesser terms of office, would be controlling.

The described maximum periods are measured from the date of the last election or from December 14, 1959, which is the date that Title IV of the Act became applicable, whichever is the later. For example, if a Local Union elected its officers to a five (5) year term on August 1, 1959, it will be required to conduct an election for the officers not later than three (3) years after December 14, 1959, which is the date that the election provisions of the Act become applicable to the Local Union, rather than (3) years from the date of the election conducted on August 1, 1959.

5. Local Unions must conduct their elections by secret ballot among the members in good standing. The L.I.U., at its Convention, may elect the L.I.U. officers in any manner provided for in the Constitution of the L.I.U., provided that the delegates to the Convention are chosen by secret ballot. Officers of a State or District Council may be elected by secret ballot among the members in good standing or, what is the more customary situation, by delegates to the State or District Council, provided that such delegates have been elected by secret ballot.

Even if the election is uncontested, a secret ballot vote must be taken among the members in good standing, with notice of the election mailed to each member at his last known home address not less than fifteen (15) days prior to the election.

6. Subject to reasonable qualifications, every member in good standing (except Communists or former Communists or convicted criminals as described in Section 504(a) of the Act, and for the period therein described) shall be eligible to be a candidate and to hold office. Even though the question of whether or not a qualification is reasonable is difficult to precisely define, a requirement that a candidate for office must be an individual who has been a member in good standing for a prescribed period of time would not be an unreasonable qualification; the period of time should not be unreasonably long, a period of two (2) or three (3) years more or less would not be unreasonable. Also, another reasonable qualification would be one based upon a geographic, craft, shift or other similar basis; for example, there could, if desired, be a qualification in State or District Councils that the officers thereof be from different Local Unions which comprise the State or District Council.

7. A reasonable opportunity shall be given for the nomination of candidates. Accordingly, the Union must give reasonable notice of the offices to be filled by the election and of the time, place and proper form of submitting nominations; the mailing of such notice to the last known address of each member within a reasonable time prior to the date for making nominations would satisfy this requirement. Instead of mailing this notice, the Union may use other means of giving notice in accordance with the provisions of the Constitution and By-Laws insofar as they are not inconsistent with the terms of the Act; timely publication in the Union newspaper would suffice so long as the method used is reasonably calculated to reach all members and actually provides a reasonable opportunity for nominations to be made.

8. The making of nominations must not be so difficult so as to deny reasonable opportunity to nominate.

9. All reasonable requests of any candidate to distribute by mail or otherwise, at the candidate's expense, campaign literature in aid of his candidacy to all members in good standing must be honored. If the Union or its officers authorize the distribution of campaign literature on behalf of any candidate or of such Union itself with reference to an election, similar distribution at the request of any other bona fide candidate must be made by the Union and its officers with equal treatment as to the expense of such distribution. The Union is prohibited from using funds by way of dues, assessments or similar levy to promote the candidacy of any person in a Union election. Employers are forbidden from contributing any funds for such purposes.

Each bona fide candidate for office has a right, once within thirty (30) days prior to an election in which he is a candidate, to inspect the list containing the names and last known addresses of all members of the Union who are subject to a collective bargaining agreement requiring membership therein as a condition of employment; even though this limits inspection to a list setting forth the names and last known addresses of members working under "Union Shop" Agreements, it would be advisable to permit the inspection of a list containing all of the names and last known addresses of all of the members of the Union since, in practice, "Union Shop" conditions prevail.

There must not be any discrimination in favor of or against any candidate with respect to the use of lists of members: thus, although the right to inspect membership lists does not include a right to copy such list, if any candidate is permitted to make a copy of such a list, then all bona fide candidates must be accorded the same privilege.

10. All members in good standing are entitled to vote in required elections which are held by secret ballot; members in good standing are those who have fulfilled the requirements of membership and who have not voluntarily withdrawn or expelled or suspended from membership in accordance with the provisions of the Constitution and By-Laws. Reasonable rules and regulations with respect to voting eligibility may be adopted; in appropriate circumstances the eligibility to vote may be deferred by requiring a reasonable period of prior membership, such as six (6) months or a year, or by requiring apprentice members to complete their apprenticeship training as a condition of voting. Although the right to vote may thus be deferred with reasonable limits, the Union may not create special classes of non-voting members.

Further, it should be cautioned that although the Interpretations permit the imposition of reasonable rules and regulations with respect to voting eligibility, the Act, (Title IV, Section 401(e), does not, as to actual "voting," specifically provides for such reasonable rules and regulations as to voting eligibility; therefore, any rules and regulations with respect to voting eligibility, adopted by way of amendment to Constitution and By-Laws, should be carefully phrased and applied as to insure "reasonableness" as to interpretation and application in order to survive probable litigation.

A member in good standing whose dues are checked off by his Employer pursuant to his voluntary authorization and to a collective bargaining agreement may not be disqualified from voting or from being a candidate by reason of alleged delay or default in the payment of dues.

11. In every election of officers, delegates or representatives, each candidate must be permitted to have an observer at the polls and at the counting of the ballots.

12. A secret ballot is the expression by Ballot voting machine or otherwise but in no event by proxy, of a choice with respect to any election or vote—cast in such a manner that the person expressing such choice cannot be identified with the choice expressed.

13. As noted, the notice of the election must be mailed to each member at his last known home address not less than fifteen (15) days prior to the election. The notice must specify the time and place of the election and the offices to be filled. The particular election procedure to be followed can be set by the Constitution and By-Laws, not in conflict with the applicable law; for example, the Constitution and By-Laws may provide for the election of the candidate who receives the greatest number of votes although he does not have a majority of all the votes cast, or it may provide for a run-off between the two candidates having the highest vote. The votes cast by members must be counted and the result published separately.

All election records, including ballots, must be preserved for one year by the election officials, if election officials are designated in the Constitution and By-Laws, or by the Secretary if no other official is designated.

14. Elections of L.I.U. officers may be held at the Convention of the L.I.U. by delegates elected by secret ballot. At the Convention, the manner in which the votes of the delegates are cast is not subject to special limitations but can be conducted in accordance with the Constitution of the L.I.U.

The credentials of delegates and all minutes and other records pertaining to the election of officers at Conventions must be preserved for one year by the officials designated in the Constitution of the L.I.U. or by the General Secretary-Treasurer of the L.I.U.

15. Elections of officers of State or District Councils may be held by secret ballot among the members in good standing of the Local Unions which comprise the State or District Council or, as is most common, among officers or delegates representing such members, provided that the officers or delegates have been elected by secret ballot of their respective membership. Officers of Local Unions so elected, who by virtue of their election to office are also delegates to a State or District Council, would qualify to vote in the elections of officers of a State or District Council where the Constitution and By-Laws so provide. Elections in a State or District Council are to be conducted in accordance with the Constitution and By-Laws of the State or District Council insofar as they are not inconsistent with applicable law.

16. There are special enforcement procedures which need not be gone into for purposes of this analysis. Suffice it to say that strict enforcement procedures do exist.

17. In the case of Local Unions whose Constitution and By-Laws can be lawfully modified or amended by action of the membership, the legal election requirements became applicable December 14, 1959. Since the L.I.U. Convention will not take place until after one year following September 14, 1959, a special Constitutional Convention need not be called; the Executive Council which has the power to act for the L.I.U. between Conventions is empowered by the Statute to make such interim constitutional changes as are necessary to carry out the provision of the Act (Title IV).

NOTICE

MEMBERS ARE REQUESTED TO STAY AWAY FROM LOCAL 345, MIAMI, FLORIDA. THERE IS A SHORTAGE OF WORK IN THE AREA AND MANY LOCAL WORKERS ARE UNEMPLOYED.

Report of the GENERAL SECRETARY-TREASURER

Since we have started publishing delinquent local lists in the Journal, there have been several things drawn to my attention in reference to this list. We do have some conditions where the local does have the money here at Headquarters to cover their monthly per capita tax, but has failed to or been unable to get their per capita tax form in prior to the end of the month, consequently, they would be found on the delinquent list. In publishing the December Journal, we also find that we failed to enter several of the locals that were delinquent on this list. I would also like to mention that Local 166, Albany, New York, was published in error, and that their report here at Headquarters has been current for several months. I hope that in the future, we will be able to avoid making these mistakes, and if any mistakes are drawn to our attention, we will be glad to correct them.

* * *

I would like to make a New Year's Resolution for myself, and the Office Staff, which would be that we hope to be able to give you more prompt and better service for the coming year. Even though we would like to avoid making any errors this would be impossible, but as part of the resolution, I will be pleased to correct any errors that are drawn to my attention in the hopes that we may have as near perfect an operation as could be possible. It has been a pleasure to serve you in 1959, and will be a pleasure to again serve you in 1960.

* * *

In this issue of the Journal, we are including an exact copy of the Metal Lath News, Volume 23, Numbers 3 & 4, with the permission of Jack Fisher, Managing Director of the Metal Lath Manufacturers Association. This issue of the Metal Lath News, as you will notice, is completely made up of our new Headquarters building, and the type of construction used in the building. I want to commend Jack Fisher, Managing Director, and D. A. Rowe, Editor, for the excellent job that they have done in drawing our building, and its type of construction to the attention of so many people. Lloyd Mashburn and I were very much pleased with this issue of the Metal Lath News, and know that it will be of interest to all of the members, and felt that the only way to get it to the membership was to enter it in the Lather.

We have had transfers come into the office with initiation fees shown as indebtedness. We cannot accept transfers with initiation fees shown as indebtedness, because an apprentice must pay his initiation fee in order to become a member, therefore if he has not paid it, he is not a member, and cannot have a transfer.

Closely related to the transfer is the apprentice release and acceptance form, which we have had printed to be used in an instance where an apprentice for reason of conditions allowed by the L.I.U. Constitution, finds it necessary to move from one local's jurisdiction into another. This apprentice release was not meant for the purpose of terminating an apprentice's apprenticeship, because of his no longer desiring to, or his inability to successfully work at the trade. We have also had conditions on this apprentice release and acceptance form where an apprentice has paid a portion of his initiation fee in the original local, and then has received a release to a second local showing an indebtedness for the balance of his initiation fee. This cannot be done, because the second local would be entitled to whatever initiation fee was not collected by the first local or to the difference between the two initiation fees if this occasion arose.

* * *

I would like to mention briefly the listings of the State and District Councils, and of the local meeting places, and secretaries addresses, which are found on the last few pages of the Journal. We have found many errors in these listings. We want to, and are trying to make these listings, correct, and if we have not found some of the errors, if you would draw them to our attention, we will see that they are changed in the following issue of the Journal. The last possible day that we can make these changes is the last day of each month, therefore, any changes received after that time would have to be made in the following issue of the Journal.

* * *

We published the minutes of the National Lathing Industry's Joint Apprenticeship Committee in the December issue of the Journal, and in reading these minutes you will notice that I have been elected as secretary of this joint committee. My reason for mentioning this committee at this time, is that we are presently being financed by contributions pledged, and by other voluntary contributions made by people in both the Labor and Management Segments of our industry. To date, we have received a total of $1,105.00 from these pledges and contributions. This fund will be used for the purpose of further education for contractors and union members regarding the training of apprentices, and when sufficient funds are available, will be used to send out literature, copies of existing apprentice plans, and if possible, even develop into the employment of apprenticeship coordinators as set forth in the last paragraph in the minutes of the Joint Apprenticeship Committee meeting, October 24, 1959. There have been some changes in the appointments of representatives of both the Lathers and the Contractors, since the minutes of the October 24, 1959 meeting.

In going over the subscription list of the Journal, I find that many subscriptions have expired. These have been removed from the mailing list until we receive notice of the desire of any of these subscribers to continue their subscription.

Lathers' Local 144 Forms Own Credit Union

Members of Lathers Local 144 in Santa Clara County, California, recently formed their own credit union, according to the Credit Union National Association (CUNA). This is the first credit union owned and operated by lathers. There are 482 serving unions affiliated with the AFL-CIO, CUNA reports.

The new Santa Clara County Lathers Federal Credit Union has a potential membership of 300, according to Treasurer Edward P. Lovetro.

Credit unions are financial self-help groups whose members save their money together and make loans to each other at low cost. The Santa Clara County Lathers Federal Credit Union is chartered by the Federal Government and deals only with its members, who must share the common bond of association under which the credit union was organized.

Regular dividends are paid on savings, and many credit unions also return to borrowers a percentage of the interest collected, thereby reducing the cost of credit union loans even more. Some 26,000 credit unions serve more than 13,000,000 members throughout the world, CUNA reports.

THIS U.S.G. MAN IS TRAINING MEN TO SERVE YOU BETTER

You'll probably never see this U.S.G. man, even though his specialty is lath and plaster. He's a training instructor whose job is to pass on his extensive knowledge to the United States Gypsum field sales force, in order that these carefully selected representatives may serve you better. This sales force, the largest and best trained in the industry, is always available for on-the-job counsel with contractors. In addition, these men sell your services to professional trade factor groups, and continually promote your products and practices in the area you serve. Yes, you may never see this man... but his "students" are always at your service!

The lathing and plastering industry has contributed tremendously to the success of one of Sacramento's most delightful projects . . . the construction of a beautiful Fairy Tale Town for the children of the Capital City.

The fairyland atmosphere of King Arthur's Castle, The Gingerbread House, the Tortoise, Hare, Crooked Mile, Toad Stools, Candlesticks, Cinderella's Pumpkin Coach and other highly romantic locales of Fairy Tale Town are primarily the result of the expert craftsmanship of the men of one of the oldest lathing and plastering firms in Sacramento . . . The Thos. F. Scollan Co., which holds California State license number 88.

Founded in 1890, the Scollan firm has been managed successively by W. B. Scollan and H. F. Scollan who were succeeded by the present third generation Scollans, Bernie and Jim. The great skill and ingenuity, the professional background and facilities required for the construction of the buildings of the fabulous children's recreational area were amply met by the Scollan firm.

It is no surprise that the Thos. F. Scollan Co. should participate in this important Sacramento assignment when it is realized that this fine firm has participated in the majority of major municipal projects in the Sacramento area for decades. Lathing superintendent James T. Brennan and Plastering superintendent Clifford A. Herman report that a total of 1,862 hours of labor have gone into the Fairy Tale Town project.

Sacramento's Fairy Tale Town was started in April, 1955 by the Sacramento Junior League through whose efforts the City Council designated a two and one-half acre site in William Land Park.

John Otto was the general contractor on this project. The buildings were constructed from perfect scale models designed by a local artist, Mrs. Georgianna Else, who was assisted in the model construction by Mr. Richard Mier. Basic construction of the buildings is cold rolled channel iron, galvanized metal lath and portland cement. The plaster was both machine and hand applied with a color stucco finish.

It is interesting to note that quite a lot of pre-fab work was done in the Scollan firm's yard and transported to the Fairy Tale Town site.

All of the actual sets are constructed at the children's level and while adults are welcome in the area they will find it necessary to adjust themselves to child size facilities.

Jack will have to jump pretty high to get over this candlestick soy both Cliff Herman and Rube Snellings.

Jim and Bernie Scollan feel the "Gingerbread House" looks like the real thing.

The New Deal

A quarter century has passed since the Great Depression gave birth to the New Deal—a phenomenon that some historians have likened to a second American revolution, albeit a peaceful, constitutional one.

With a desperate speed that only a catastrophe of national proportions could set in motion, drastic changes in the economic and social structure of the nation were begun, many of which had been long overdue. Some conservatives predicted that this “catching up” marked the doom of the free enterprise system. Actually, the New Deal saved the system in the 1930’s from the consequence of its own excesses, and its numerous reforms have aided economic stability and growth in the years since then. With appreciation that sometimes only the passage of time can bring, the New Deal is now revered by many who reviled it twenty-five years ago.

A backward glance to recall the problems America faced during those desperate years and how men sought to resolve them with courage and ideas, is important for more than mere academic or sentimental reasons. As we enter the decade of the 1960’s, the crisis that now confronts the free world is even greater than that of a quarter century ago. A fresh look at the way America shook off its lethargy then and made a heroic and successful effort to overcome its problems, should strengthen our will and our confidence in meeting the challenge of today.

U.S.A., March 1933

Not only were the depths of the depression reached in the first days of 1933, catastrophe seemed about to overwhelm the whole economy. Between 1929 and 1933, the total physical output of goods had fallen 37% and the total labor income had declined 40%. By March of 1933, the unemployed were being variously estimated at from 13,600,000 to 17,000,000 and local public agencies were finding it impossible to carry the staggering relief load (private charity had long ago given up the unequal struggle). What is more, the burden of public and private debt had become intolerable, the wellsprings of credit had dried up, and the nation faced bankruptcy. By March 4th, when the new president was being inaugurated, even the banks had been forced to close their doors.

During three years of deepening depression, President Herbert Hoover had clung to the traditional view that active intervention by the federal government would only prolong the slump. This view held that “natural laws” caused, and likewise would cure, the depression. Unhappily, for the business community which dominated the country, neither the Democrats nor organized labor could be convincingly blamed for the depression. Trade union membership had fallen to less than 2.2 million by 1933, and the Republicans had occupied the White House for a dozen years.

But, President Franklin D. Roosevelt had been mandated by the people to act, and he did not fail them. The fifteen measures he sent to Congress and the fifteen laws enacted during the famous first 100 days of the New Deal, achieved an unparalleled record of peacetime federal activity.

The immediate need was to shore up banks and other collapsing private business institutions and to alleviate the physical sufferings of millions of people. Then, in later undertakings, many of the temporary emergency expedients gave way to, or were supplemented by, long-range and far-reaching measures. These were the fundamental New Deal reforms, fashioned to eradicate the causes of depression and to encourage economic growth.

The vastness of the New Deal effort to restore the people’s faith in themselves and in their country’s future can be grasped only by a study of both the temporary recovery measures and the permanent reforms, which are its lasting monument. Unfortunately, in this account we can only briefly report on the major undertakings.

Staving Off Catastrophe

As his first act, the new President closed all banks the day after he took office, and four days later an Emergency Banking Bill was speedily passed by Congress. Under its terms, banks were furnished with currency in relation to their assets, and those which were sound were gradually reopened. Additional help came from the Reconstruction

Special Meeting Called

Secretary-Treasurer Wesley A. Taylor of the International Brotherhood of Bookbinders waits his turn as General Secretary-Treasurer Harold Mills registers for the special meeting.

Seated from left to right are William L. Cowley, Secretary-Treasurer of the Aluminum Workers' International Union; General Secretary-Treasurer Harold Mills; John H. Houck, Secretary-Treasurer of the Plasterers' International Union; Hunter P. Wharton, Secretary-Treasurer of the Operating Engineers' International Union; and Newton W. Black, Secretary of the Glass Bottle Blowers' Association discussing some of the pertinent points brought up at the meeting.

Special meeting of all International Secretary-Treasurers held in Washington, D. C., to discuss with Department of Labor representatives and a special committee appointed by President George Meany of the AFL-CIO matters pertaining to the financial forms and bonding provisions of the Landrum-Griffin Bill. General Counsel J. Albert Woll was the chief spokesman pertaining to the above mentioned matter.

Finance Corporation which bought over a billion dollars worth of preferred stock in thousands of the less sound banks, and thus helped to restore them to solvency.

Actually, the RFC had been set up by Hoover in 1932—despite his avowed policy of non-interference—to bail out tottering financial institutions and the railroads with federal loans. Because this effort failed to stem the tidal wave of bankruptcy, Roosevelt asked for and was granted a vast expansion of RFC powers under the new Emergency Banking Bill.

In the ensuing years until its liquidation, RFC loaned over $10 billion to aid privately owned banks, insurance companies, railroads and other business enterprises that the private lending institutions could not, or would not, adequately serve. Almost all of these loans were made during the 1930's.

Immediate action was also needed to halt the tidal wave of home and farm foreclosures, which totalled 134 million from 1929 to 1933. The Emergency Farm Mortgage and Home Owners Loan Acts, designed to cope with this problem, were also hastily passed by the Congress.

Under the terms of this new legislation, new federal agencies quickly swung into action to help distressed small property owners to refinance their mortgages at low interest rates over long periods of time. Provision was even made for financing taxes and repairs.

During the three years of its lending operations, from 1933 to 1936, HOLC made more than a million home loans. Although aid was given only to those "risky" borrowers who could not get help from private sources, HOLC actually showed a profit which it turned over to the U. S. Treasury when it finally closed its books.

It is not too much to say that this help to distressed owners of homes and farms averted the total collapse of the real estate market. In combination with other New Deal measures, it restored the liquidity of most of the nation's banks, insurance companies, and other private financial institutions. Everything done during the famous first 100 days sought to save—not to destroy—the free enterprise system and to restore the people's faith in it.

Helping the Unemployed

While emergency measures were being enacted to save property and our traditional business institutions, critical human needs—which neither private charity nor the hard-pressed states and localities had been able to meet—were not being ignored. Before March ended, Congress had created the Civilian Conservation Corps. Soon thereafter, the Federal Emergency Relief Administration was also set up to provide aid for the needy from coast to coast.

By mid-summer, over 300,000 young men between 18 and 25, from families on relief, were in CCC camps in the forests. This was a mammoth effort to reclaim and develop both our youth—who otherwise would remain in idleness in slums and hobo camps—and our public resources. Across the country, these boys planted trees, built dams and recreational camp, and in other ways conserved and improved our public lands.

Altogether, 2¼ million young Americans became members of the CCC, surely one of the most popular New Deal enterprises. At the same time, thousands more were enabled to continue their studies in high school and college because of grants they earned on projects of the National Youth Administration, set up in 1935.

Under F.E.R.A., federal money was earmarked, for the first time, to help the needy—not as a loan to be paid back by the states (as proposed by Hoover in 1932) but as a direct grant. Immediately, half of an originally authorized $500 million was assigned on a matching basis to the states, and the rest went wherever the crisis was most urgent (in some states 40% of the people were on relief; in some counties, 80%).

Because among the able-bodied needy it was felt that relief was degrading and some would not accept it, a supplemental works project for the unemployed, which ultimately evolved into the Works Project Administration, was undertaken in the latter part of 1933, the fourth winter of the depression. Although WPA was sneered at by some as simply a “leaf-raking” operation, at its peak it provided jobs for over 3 million needy Americans whose work helped maintain self-respect and some family income. At the same time, hundreds of thousands of public buildings, bridges, airports and roads were being built or repaired, and many other useful public services were performed.

As many still recall, FERA, CWA, WPA, CCC and NYA helped millions who otherwise would have remained hungry and hopeless. Although some skeptics maintained that these federal efforts would sap the “moral fiber” of the unemployed, the fact remained that private enterprise had no alternative employment opportunities to offer at the time. Furthermore, there can be no doubt that without the emergency relief and work projects for the needy, desperate people might well have taken action of a drastic kind.

Prodding Recovery

The need to reopen banks, to shore up tottering businesses, to save homeowners and farmers from foreclosure, and to feed the hungry—all combined to impel a crash program of action. But more was demanded during the first 100 days—an immediate and all-out effort to stimulate real recovery. The National Industrial Recovery and Agricultural Adjustment Acts, passed in the spring of 1933, were contrived as major steps in that direction.

Like the other New Deal programs described so far, N.R.A. and A.A.A. turned out to be temporary, but not because it was planned that way. The Supreme Court ultimately intervened and declared these undertakings unconstitutional.

Nonetheless, both Acts were conceived as basic economic reforms and both helped give impetus and inspiration to more permanent legislation which today affects the welfare of all of us.

While N.R.A. parades and hoopla were staged to revive the hope and confidence of the American people, the National Recovery Act also sought to encourage recovery in several basic ways. National codes were to be drawn up by each industry and trade to establish minimum wages and work standards, and to eliminate price chiseling based on sweatshops. Furthermore, each code was required to include Section 7(a), a pledge to honor the right of workers to join unions if they chose. This would encourage higher wages and bolster the ability of millions of families to buy, it was believed. Furthermore, the Act provided for a vast program of public works which also would help make industry hum again.

“The aim of this whole effort,” President Roosevelt said in a statement supporting passage of the Recovery Act, “is to restore our rich domestic market by raising its vast consuming capacity.” But he warned, “We cannot hope for the full effect of this plan unless, in these first critical months, and even at the expense of full initial profits, we defer price increases as long as possible.”

The price moratorium was not to apply to farmers, however, since their prices had fallen by more than half since 1929. The object of A.A.A., on the contrary, was to raise farm prices and, thus, farm purchasing power, through production cutbacks and incentive payment plans.

Unfortunately, the success expected from N.R.A.’s industry codes was not fulfilled, and late in 1934, Roosevelt proposed a careful reappraisal. In the first place, the representatives of trade and industry had been allowed pretty much to write their own codes, and often indulged in upward price fixing and production controls which undermined N.R.A. objectives and disregarded the anti-trust laws as well. Furthermore, the guarantees of Section 7(a) were not widely honored, and 1934 became a year of bitter labor strife. In any event, in the spring of 1935, the N.R.A. story ended by decision of the Supreme Court.

The most enduring part of the Recovery Act was the public construction section which authorized $3.3 billion for public works—probably the largest fund of its kind in the history of the world. After N.R.A. died, Congress continued its Public Works Administration and, from 1933 to 1939, the $6 billion spent by P.W.A. did much to stimulate economic activity and build vitally needed public works as well.

Slowly, as banks reopened, foreclosures tapered off and public spending “primed the pump,” and confidence began to return; 1934 showed a 10% rise in real national output, the first rise since the depression began. Notwithstanding, business leaders began to turn against the New Deal.

At the outset, F.D.R.'s swift action to revitalize private businesses, firm up real estate values, and his support of the NRA codes which allowed businessmen to set their prices, was applauded by the industrial and financial community. However, when it became clear that the President also intended to help wage earners, farmers and the unemployed, and even to police banking and stock market manipulators, the honeymoon was soon ended. This was viewed as an outrageous abuse of the federal power and violation of the rights of free men. By insisting that the center of government was Washington, not Wall Street, the President had become for some a traitor to his class.

By 1934, the New Deal had become, said Herbert Hoover, "the most stupendous invasion of the whole spirit of Liberty since . . . Colonial America." To David Lawrence, it "more strongly resembled the dictatorship of the Fascistic and Communist states of Europe." Among most of the wealthy, an almost pathological campaign of hate against "that man in the White House" commenced.

Yet, within the scope of a half dozen years in the 1930's the New Deal was doing more to restore the prestige of the free enterprise system and to preserve it than had ever been done before. While a few pioneer efforts to achieve vitally needed reforms in the system had succeeded over the preceding fifty years—like the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, the Pure Food and Drug law, the Federal Income Tax, the Norris-LaGuardia Act, and a few measures to raise the standards of workers in federally connected employment and on the railroads—a major catching-up job was tragically overdue. This was the mission the New Deal reformers undertook to achieve.

Raising the Status of Labor

Although trade unions had a long prior existence in the United States, it was New Deal legislation that, for the first time, enjoined the employer from interfering with the workers' right to organize and penalized him if he did; moreover, it imposed an additional obligation to recognize and bargain with unions in good faith. Under the New Deal, collective bargaining was not only legal but was viewed to be socially desirable.

The establishment of these rights and obligations under the law—first in Section 7(a) of the codes and then more fully and permanently in the National Labor Relations (Wagner) Act of 1935—was probably the New Deal's greatest single contribution to economic growth and social justice.

In addition to this enactment of a "Magna Carta" for labor—which did so much to encourage American workers to help themselves through self-organization—the passage of the Public Contracts (Walsh-Healey) Act in 1937 and the Fair Labor Standards (Wage and Hour) Act in 1938 directly raised the wages and improved work standards for millions of our people.

In these two great laws a principle originally embodied in the NRA codes—that the sweatshop is an evil form of chiseling competition and should be outlawed—was made a national policy for the first time.

Under the Public Contracts Act, those who supply materials for federal use must pay at least prevailing wages just as contractors were already required to pay them to workers on federal construction jobs.

The Fair Labor Standards Act went further; it prohibited child labor and established the principle of a universal floor under wages and a universal standard for hours in interstate commerce. Because of this law, the hourly earnings of millions gradually moved up from 25¢ to $1 and the eight-hour day and forty-hour week became the norm.

Despite the fact that millions are still inexcusably unprotested by the NLRA and the FLSA and although the Taft-Hartley Amendments have weakened the effectiveness of the former while the minimum wage under the latter is still far too low, the better living standards enjoyed by most of us have been greatly enhanced by these laws. Of course, the real impact of these measures has been greatest in post-war years as millions more have become directly or indirectly the beneficiaries of collectively bargained wages and salaries, and as the level and coverage of minimum wage laws have increased.

It is interesting to recall, however, that the concept that the worker has a right to share in the benefits flowing from America's rising capacity to produce, enjoyed its greatest legislative implementation almost a quarter century ago.

METAL LATH NEWS

VOLUME 23 • NUMBERS 3-4

Extracts from actual job specifications

SECTION XXI, 6, (a) Metal lath: For wall, partitions, ceilings, and other vertical and horizontal surfaces.

ALL STEEL BUILDING PRODUCTS SHOWN IN THIS SCENE WILL be fire protected with metal lath and plaster including columns, open-web joists, beams, prefabricated studs, service lines, ducts, etc.

Architectural Needs Attained By Metal Lath And Plaster In New Lathers' Building

STEEL-FRAME buildings with metal lath and plaster provide more than adequate fire protection at low cost. Another case in point is the new Wood, Wire & Metal Lathers' International Union building in Takoma Park, Maryland.

When the directors of the WW&MLIU decided to build a new headquarters building, proper fire protection for this building was one of their first considerations. This feeling was shared by David Baker, the architect whose headquarters are in Washington, D.C.

In writing the specifications for this building, Baker's architectural staff turned to metal lath for a wide variety of needs. For fire protection, as mentioned—for design versatility—for durability—and, for economy.

Structural steel columns bearing the bulk of the weight of this building were wrapped with metal lath and then were plastered. These columns were designed to carry the intended load, therefore, it was evident that fire protection was a must to prevent heat from an unpredicted fire to reach and weaken these sturdy structural members.

Exposed steel joists and beams supporting loads in this building would not be immune to the ravages of fire. Protective metal lath and plaster suspended ceilings now provide an exceptionally high degree of fire protection. Not only does this type of installation protect these horizontal structural members, but concealed service lines, pipes, ducts, and wiring are also made safe from fire.

Partitions in corridors and between tenancies many times must serve as fire stops if a blaze should ensue. The logical answer in the new headquarters building was metal lath and plaster. After all, partitions of this type have been successfully put to the test in a multitude of fires, earthquakes, and in areas of severe use for over sixty years—and during this period they constantly have proved their innate resistance to the upheavals of nature.

Much of the exterior wall vertical furring in this building is also metal lath and plaster. Serving as a sturdy base for the plaster, this type of furring encloses mechanical equipment along walls or other exposed areas. Irregularities or projections are eliminated, and adequate air-insulating space is provided.

A multitude of unique construction features enhance the importance of this building. They include: a portland cement plaster exterior finish; control joints for movement of certain exterior and interior materials; a decorative metal lath and plaster balustrade in the front stairway; machine application of much of the plaster; metal lath centering for the floor slab construction; and acoustic plaster for various ceiling areas.

The perimeter walls of this building are strengthened with load-bearing prefabricated steel studs. Portland cement plaster on the exterior is broken into uniform modules through the application of control joints. This type of bead design was incorporated to cope with the extreme changes in weather which are known to occur on short notice in certain eastern coastal regions.

Varied Architectural Requirements

The decorative metal lath and plaster balustrade in the stairway serves to further express the motif of the designs which are feasible through the use of these products.

Metal lath centering for the floor slab construction in this building is a popular use. Wherever it is specified, it provides a form for the concrete and reinforcement for the slab.

Acoustical plaster, machine applied, is a popular innovation in the construction industry. In addition to its fire-resistive qualities, the plaster readily quiets and beautifies any room.

The Wood, Wire & Metal Lathers' International Union building certainly provides a unique testimonial as to what the metal lathing and plastering industry can do. Almost everywhere one turns in this building, there are monolithic slabs composed of these two durable building products—each slab quietly serving a number of design functions.

A three-story building, the gleaming white portland cement plaster exterior finish is enhanced by horizontal spans of glass. Fireproof and weather tight, the structure was erected on a half-acre plot. The base is black Norwegian marble.

General contractor for this building was Davis, Wick, Rosengarten Co., Inc. Lathing and plastering contractor was McNulty Brothers Company.

FIRE SAFETY—

For truly dependable fire protection—the kind that will provide a reliable barrier to smoke and severe temperature, specify metal lath and plaster. Tests at recognized laboratories authenticate this.

VERSATILITY—

Free form designs become a simple reality when metal lath and plaster are specified. Diversified contours of unlimited choice are easily achieved by utilizing these versatile building materials.

DURABILITY—

Service records covering many decades of earthquakes and fires attest to the durability of metal lath as an outstanding plaster base. Better construction is assured with this product.

ECONOMY—

True economy includes factors such as: original cost, fire protection, appearance, maintenance, flexibility, reduced space, etc. By specifying metal lath and plaster, economy is achieved in many ways.

CORRECTIONS

Local 131 erroneously reported a fine of $20.00 against J. E. Knight 47978 of Local 383, which was published in the Sept. '59 journal. The fine was actually levied against J. L. Knight 55269 of Local 535.

Local 491 advises that the suspension of R. M. Pacheco 51670 as published in the Nov. '59 journal was reported in error.

Page 15 of the Dec. '59 journal carried a picture of Ivan Lee Buck, identifying him as business agent of Local 172. As most of our members know, Brother Buck is business agent of Local 252, San Bernadino, Calif.

Dedicated to Service

Report From the GENERAL PRESIDENT

In this issue of the Journal you will find the Minutes of the Executive Council Meeting held in accordance with the L.I.U. Constitution, which provides that one meeting of the Executive Council shall be held at the same time and place as the Executive Council of the Building and Construction Trades Department Board Meetings. Both Meetings were held, starting February 1, 1960, in Miami, Florida, at the Americana Hotel. This meeting was a very important meeting in view of the fact that our International Constitution had to be interpreted to meet the provisions of the Labor Management-Reporting and Disclosure Act of 1959.

If you recall, since you received a copy of the Act in the October Journal, each International Union was given one year to revise, or interpret their Constitution to meet the requirements of the Act. The Act provides three ways of doing this. One, by Convention, which we were unable to do, because the Constitution provides we must pay transportation, expenses and per diem and since the contributions to this fund are based upon the three year period and we have had only one half of the period to collect, this did not seem practical.

Secondly this action could have been taken by referendum vote, this again seemed impractical because the Law is loosely drawn and the interpretations of the Law are still interpretations and are not confirmed Court Decisions, and it would have been extremely difficult, if not impossible, to have explained the Law under these circumstances, in order to obtain an intelligent vote. The third, and most practical way to do this was by the Executive Council interpreting the Constitution to conform to the Law.

You will note in reading case number one of the Executive Council's report there are no basic, or fundamental changes, only legal interpretations to conform with the Law.

The matter of Bond was also thoroughly discussed by the Executive Council, who had our General Counsel present, as well as an expert from the Martin Segal Company, whose services we have engaged because of the many controversies over the bonding provisions through this particular law. A study had been made by the Segal Company prior to their appearance before the Board and their recommendations to us were to maintain our present bonding system, until further clarification and interpretations had been made of this Section of the Law. We do however, intend to, in conjunction with the Martin Segal Company, continue to negotiate with various bonding companies in order to arrive at the most suitable, as well as economical plan for our affiliated Local Unions, and it is their advice and our opinion that you need not be concerned until you hear further from us on this matter.

Another action of the Executive Council which may be of interest to you is, they instructed the President and Secretary to proceed with the arrangements for our next convention in 1961, in the District of Columbia. No invitation had been extended by any affiliated Local Union for the Convention, therefore, in accordance with the Constitution, it is the responsibility of the Executive Council to select the next Convention city.

Due to a number of requests for the financial reporting Form LM-2, I have contacted the Labor Department and they have advised me they are sending the forms to all Local Unions who have previously reported on the LM-1 Form. If you do not receive your forms the following is a list of Cities and Offices where they may be obtained.

CASE NO. 1.—RULINGS RELATING TO THE INTERPRETATION AND APPLICATION OF SECTIONS AND SUBSECTIONS OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE WOOD, WIRE AND METAL LATHERS INTERNATIONAL UNION.

The Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act of 1959, hereinafter referred to as the Act, and Interpretations thereof issued by the Secretary of Labor have made it necessary to review the existing Sections and Subsections of the Constitution of the L.I.U.; in addition, Court Decisions and National Labor Relations Board Decisions have likewise made it necessary to review the Sections and Subsections of the Constitution of the L.I.U. Accordingly, matters relating to the foregoing having been referred to the Executive Council of the L.I.U., it is ruled by the Executive Council that the following Sections and Subsections of the Constitution of the L.I.U. are to be interpreted and applied as to read as follows:

1. Section 13b (4) shall be interpreted and applied as follows:

At the time that the General President orders that an investigation be conducted, the General President shall have the right to appoint a member in good standing of the L.I.U. to act as the Trustee of the Local Union if the appointment of the Trustee is for the purpose of correcting corruption or financial malpractice, assuring the performance of collective bargaining agreements or other duties of the L.I.U. and/or of the Local Union as a collective bargaining representative, restoring democratic procedures, or otherwise carrying out the legitimate objects of the L.I.U. and/or of the Local Union. The Trustee designated by and acting for the General President shall take charge of the affairs of the Local Union and shall supervise and administer it in order to accomplish the enumerated purpose or purposes for which the General President instituted the trusteeship. If any of the officers of the Local Union fail or refuse to recognize the Trustee designated to act for and on behalf of the General President, or fail to refuse to cooperate with the Trustee during the term of the trusteeship, the Trustee, with the consent of the General President, shall have the right to temporarily remove such Officer or Officers of the Local Union for the period of the Trusteeship and, with the consent of the General President, to appoint succeeding Officer or Officers who shall serve as temporary Officers during the period of the Trusteeship. During the period of Trusteeship, the vote of delegates from such trustee Local Union in any Convention or election of officers of the L.I.U. shall not be counted unless the delegates have been chosen by secret ballot in an election in which all the members in good standing of the trustee Local Union are eligible to participate; further, only the normal per capita tax and assessments payable by Local Unions not in trusteeship shall be transferred by the trustee Local Union out of the current receipts or other funds of such trustee Local Union, provided, however, that if the trustee Local Union is dissolved and/or its charter is revoked in accordance with the Constitution of the L.I.U., then the assets of such trustee Local Union shall be distributed or paid over in accordance with the Constitution of the L.I.U.

2. Section 13u shall be interpreted and applied as follows: To have such other powers and duties, including the power and duty to hold, manage, invest and expend the money and property of the L.I.U. solely for the benefit of the L.I.U. and its members as may be either implied or necessary in order to enable the General President to fully exercise his supervision over the affairs of the L.I.U. in accordance with the Constitution of the L.I.U. and with its laws and policies.
3. Section 15a shall be interpreted and applied as follows: The Executive Council shall herein decide all appeals taken from the decisions of the General President; provided, however, that the appeals must be in proper order as to their nature as well as timely; by timely is meant that the appeal must be filed by no later than thirty (30) days following the date that a copy of the General President's Decision and Order is mailed, by Registered or Certified mail, to the offices of the Local Union; further, an appeal by any Local Union from the action of the Executive Council on such Local Union's appeal from the Decision and Order of the General President may be made to the Convention of the L.I.U. provided that such appeal must be sent by Registered or Certified mail to the L.I.U. Headquarters within thirty (30) days after the appellant Local Union has been notified by Registered or Certified mail of the Executive Council's action on the appeal. In hearing and deciding on the appeals, the Executive Council shall be governed by the provisions of the Constitution of the L.I.U. and by the Constitution and By-Laws of the Local Union interested or involved; provided, however, that the Constitution of the Local Union must not be in conflict with the provisions of the Constitution of the L.I.U. As an appellate body of the L.I.U. to which appeals may be taken under the circumstances and in the manner described in sections of this Constitution, the Executive Council shall act in the manner specifically required of it in the pertinent sections of the Constitution of the L.I.U. relating to appeals and, where requirements are not specifically set forth, the Executive Council shall have the right to formulate rules and requirements relating to the manner and time in which appeals are to be taken to the said Executive Council and heard and decided by the said Executive Council; such rules and requirements shall accord to the appellant due process, which due process shall be substantial in nature as distinguished from mere technicality and form. In addition, the policies of the L.I.U. shall guide the Executive Council in hearing and deciding on appeals.

4. Section 15c shall be interpreted and applied as follows: The Executive Council shall have the power to act on all questions referred to said Executive Council by the General President for their consideration and action. In so acting, the Executive Council shall act in accordance with the provisions of the Constitution of the L.I.U. and of applicable law. Accordingly, in acting upon questions referred to the Executive Council by the General President, the Executive Council shall issue rulings so that the Sections and Subsections of the Constitution of the L.I.U. are applied as well as interpreted at all times in accordance with the requirements of applicable law, and to best protect the interests of the L.I.U., State, Provincial or District Councils of the L.I.U., Local Unions of the L.I.U. and all of the members of the L.I.U. and of the Local Unions thereof.
5. Section 16d shall be interpreted and applied as follows: Representatives appointed by the General President shall receive One Hundred and Fifty Dollars ($150.00) per week, plus Thirty-Five Dollars ($35.00) per week, expenses and Twenty Dollars ($20.00) per day as hotel expenses while away from home in the interests of the International Union on official business for the organization; plus railroad fare or other modern means of transportation; payment of telegrams, postage, advertising and hall rent.
6. Section 17j (9) shall be interpreted and applied as follows: Physical abuse of officers or members in or near the meeting hall.
7. Section 17j (12) shall be interpreted and applied as follows:
Combining to advocate or to further the commission of any act or deed that violates or evades the responsibility of a member toward the L.I.U. and/or toward Local Unions, State, Provincial or District Councils of the L.I.U.; further, combining to advocate or to further the commission of any act or deed by a member which interferes with the performance by the L.I.U., Local Unions and/or State, Provincial or District Councils of the L.I.U. of their legal or contractual obligations.
8. Section 18n shall be interpreted and applied as follows: Local Unions, when making agreements with employers, must to the extent permitted by law, include provisions that require the employers to contract for and to assign to journeymen lathers and apprentices represented by the L.I.U. and/or by Local Unions, State, Provincial and District Councils of the L.I.U. all work coming under the trade jurisdiction of the L.I.U. as defined in Section 3. In addition, Agreements with Employers shall contain therein no limitation upon the amount of work that a journeymen lather and apprentice may perform; further, Local Unions shall not, either by Agreement with Employers or otherwise, impose restrictions against the use of any tools or materials other than tools or materials which are injurious to the health and safety of journeymen lathers and apprentices and does not reduce the quality of the work performed.

In addition, Agreements with employers must contain a provision or provisions therein requiring that each Employer agrees to pay and contribute the sum of no less than $.03 per hour for all hours worked by journeymen lathers and apprentices in the employ of the Employer into the Local Bureau for Lathing and Plastering, hereinafter referred to as the Promotional Fund. The Promotional Fund, whose main purpose is the advertising and promotion of the increased and wider use of lath and plaster with the aim of preserving and advancing the lathing and plastering industry and thus providing greater job security and opportunities for journeymen lathers and apprentices therein, will, in order to assure the availability of a sufficient number of journeymen lathers to handle the anticipated and needed increase in lathing work, promote the institution of apprenticeship or other training programs and will aid and assist those who are entrusted with the operation of such instituted apprenticeship or other training programs. The described payment and contribution by the Employer into the Local Bureau of the Promotional Fund shall be made only upon condition that the Local Bureau of the Promotional Fund shall have an Agreement to pay over, and does pay over to the National Bureau for Lathing and Plastering no less than one-half cent per hour paid into the Local Bureau of the Promotional Fund on all hours worked by journeymen lathers and apprentices on the Employer's job or jobs within the territorial jurisdiction covered by said Local Bureau of the Promotional Fund.

9. Section 18o shall be interpreted and applied as though there is added thereto the following sentence:

Until Local Unions, as well as District, State and Provincial Councils enact their own Constitution and By-Laws, this Constitution of the L.I.U. shall be considered as the sole Constitution governing the operation of the Local Unions and/or of the District, State and Provincial Councils, as the case may be.

10. Section 18p shall be interpreted and applied as though there is added thereto the following sentence:

The rates of dues and initiation fees payable by members shall not be increased and no general or special assessment shall be levied upon such members except by majority vote by secret ballot of the members in good standing voting at a general or special membership meeting, after reasonable notice of the intention to vote upon such question is given to the members.

11. Section 18q shall be interpreted and applied as though there is added thereto the following sentence:

In examining the Agreements, including the wage scales, which Agreements are, as previously stated, to be submitted to the General President, the General President shall determine whether or not such Agreement or Agreements are in accord with applicable law; if such Agreement or Agreements are not in accord with applicable law, then such Agreement or Agreements will not be considered as approved until changes are made therein in order to bring such Agreement or Agreements in compliance with applicable law.

Section 18q shall have added to it as an additional paragraph thereof the former Section 72 of the 1955 L.I.U. Constitution which had been inadvertently omitted.

Hours of Work: The maximum number of hours of work shall be eight hours (8) a day and forty hours (40) per week, and all charters shall be granted subject to this condition provided, however, this shall not prohibit the members of local unions from working more than eight hours a day and forty hours a week where they receive double time pay for all hours worked in excess of the aforementioned hours.

12. Section 18bb shall be interpreted and applied as follows: Local Unions shall give full voting rights to new members who have served their apprenticeship as soon as they have been enrolled at headquarters and initiated as members in good standing in said local. Full voting rights shall be given to transferred and reinstated members provided, however, that said transferred or reinstated member must have been enrolled upon the books of the Local Union for a period of six months before being empowered to vote on questions of dues, strikes, increase in wages, decrease of hours, or disbursement of funds. As to election of officers, transferred or reinstated members shall be entitled to one vote; no qualification upon this right to vote at elections shall be imposed unless and until applicable law is interpreted or applied so as to permit reasonable qualifications uniformly imposed upon the right of transferred or reinstated members to vote at elections.
13. Section 19 shall be interpreted and applied as follows: (Local Union officers, in addition to the powers and duties set forth in the Constitution and By-Laws of the Local Union to the extent that such powers and duties are not in conflict with applicable law or with the Constitution of the L.I.U. are required to perform the following duties.)
14. Section 18v shall be interpreted and applied as follows: Dues which shall include regular monthly payments and uniformly imposed special and/or general assessments shall be payable in advance on the first day of each month. Local Unions shall automatically suspend any member or apprentice who owes dues for a period of two (2) months or more; such automatic suspension shall deprive the suspended member of all privileges and benefits and he, the suspended member shall be reported to headquarters as being suspended on the Local Union's following monthly tax report. The Secretary of each Local Union shall, at the first meeting of each month read the names of all such delinquent members and apprentices provided, however, that his Local Union may, by a majority vote, pay the dues or other debts due to the Local Union from any sick members or apprentices.
15. Section 23a shall be interpreted and applied as follows: Charges filed against a member of the L.I.U., a Local Union Officer, or a Local Union, must be in writing and sent by registered mail to the last known address of the accused person at least ten (10) days prior to any hearing held on such charges. The charges must set forth, in brief, facts describing the nature of the offense charged, the actual or approximate date, time and place of the occurrence of the offense charged and, in addition, shall set forth the names of those persons who will appear as witnesses at the hearing with the proviso, however, that additional witnesses may testify at the hearing if they and/or their availability as witnesses, became known subsequent to the date that the written charges were mailed. Charges must be signed and filed with the proper officer of the L.I.U. or Local Union entrusted with the receipt of communications and such officer shall forward the written charges by registered mail in the manner and within the time hereinbefore described. Non-payment of dues shall result in automatic suspension or expulsion without the necessity of a trial being held thereon; non-payment of properly levied general or special assessments shall, if such properly levied general or special assessments fall within the definition of "dues", likewise result in automatic suspension or expulsion without the necessity of a trial being held thereon; non-payment of initiation fee, which non-payment prevents the attainment of membership, shall not entitle the defaulter to a hearing since the defaulter is not as yet a member. As to fines, no member may be fined, suspended, expelled or otherwise disciplined unless served with written specific charges, given a reasonable time to prepare his defense and afford a full and fair hearing; provided, however, that if the charged member pleads guilty or waives, in writing, the privileges and rights hereinbefore set forth, or fails to present himself at a scheduled hearing, then, if fined, the non-payment of the fine under these circumstances, as would the non-payment of any fine levied after a hearing is held and guilt found, would result in automatic suspension or expulsion.

16. Section 23b shall be interpreted and applied as follows: As to charges filed against a member of a Local Union, which charges must be filed by either another member of the Local Union in whose jurisdiction the offense is committed or by an officer of the L.I.U., such charges are to be proceeded with to trial by the Local Union in whose territorial jurisdiction the offense is committed; such charges are to be proceeded with to trial either if the Local Union agrees thereto or if the General President so orders. The trial shall be conducted by the Executive Board of the Local Union in whose territorial jurisdiction the alleged offense has been committed; provided, however, that if the charged person or persons prove to the satisfaction of the General President, that a fair and impartial hearing before the Executive Board of the Local Union conducting the trial cannot be received under the then existing circumstances, then the General President shall have the right to designate a Hearing Officer who shall be a member of the L.I.U., and the Hearing Officer shall proceed to conduct the trial; at the trial, the charged person or persons shall have the right to be represented by any member of the L.I.U. in good standing at the time; the charged person or persons shall have the right to produce witnesses, to examine and cross-examine witnesses and to present argument. Strict rules of evidence shall not apply since efforts shall be made to ascertain all of the relevant and material facts. The Executive Board, or the Hearing Officer, in the conduct of the trial, shall make every effort to afford due process; provided, however, that by "due process" is not meant strict, burdensome, delaying technicalities but, instead, is meant procedural and substantive due process. A report of the trial shall be made; provided, however, that a stenographic report is not required. Although efforts shall be made to hold the trial at a time convenient to all persons involved or interested, the final determination of the date, time and place of the trial shall rest with the Executive Board of the particular Local Union or with the Hearing Officer, if one be designated, and all persons interested or involved shall be required to be present and to proceed on the date and at the time and place designated. Postponements or continuances shall be within the absolute discretion of the Executive Board or Hearing Officer, as the case may be. Further, it shall be for the Executive Board of the Local Union, or the Hearing Officer, as the case may be, to determine whether persons other than those directly involved, either as necessary parties or witnesses, be permitted to be present during the conduct of the trial.

17. Section 23c shall be interpreted and applied as follows: After the trial has been concluded, the Executive Board of the Local Union, or the Hearing Officer, as the case may be, will prepare findings of fact, conclusions, and define and impose the penalty, if the charged person or persons be found guilty of the charges filed, or as such charges may be amended prior to the trial or during the trial so long as such amendment thereto does not constitute either a new or unrelated charge. The report of the trial of the Executive Board of the Local Union or of the Hearing Officer, as the case may be, which report shall contain the findings of fact, conclusions and penalty imposed, if the charged person or persons be found guilty, shall, by no later than thirty (30) days following the conclusion of the hearing, be submitted to the Local Union in which the charges are filed and, at least ten days prior to the proposed submission of the report to the Local Union a copy thereof shall be sent by registered mail to the accused. The Local Union shall then vote as to whether or not it will accept, reject or modify the report or any part thereof submitted to it by the Executive Board of the Local Union or by the Hearing Officer, as the case may be, and, in taking such action, the majority vote of the members present shall decide and, having once decided, such decision cannot be rescinded or changed at any subsequent meeting unless the General President, by written order, permits the Local Union at a subsequent meeting to review a decision once made in the manner hereinbefore described.

18. Section 23h shall be interpreted and applied as follows: Penalties imposed shall consist of either a fine, suspension or expulsion.

As to fines, no Local Union of the L.I.U. shall impose a fine in excess of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) for any offense unless the fine, which is in excess of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) shall have been first submitted to the Executive Council of the L.I.U. for its action thereon. After the Executive Council has acted upon the matter, then no Local Union can cancel or change the amount of the fine without the prior approval of the Executive Council of the L.I.U. Any fine placed by a Local Union against any member must be reported to the General Secretary-Treasurer on forms furnished by the L.I.U. office giving the name, membership number, nature of the charges, the report of the Executive Board or Hearing Officer; as the case may be, and such other pertinent information as to fully inform the L.I.U. office of the entire situation. All of the foregoing must be furnished to the L.I.U. office before a fine will be recognized as valid and binding and before it will be recorded as such; provided, however, that fines of Two Dollars or less need not be so reported. Failure by a Local Union to collect fines imposed shall, as in the case of failure to collect dues or assessments, render such Local Union involved liable to the penalty of a fine of Twenty-Five Dollars ($25.00) for each day as such fines, as well as dues and assessments, are uncollected; provided, however, that if the fined member or members appeal or refuse to pay such fine and thus automatically deprive themselves of the rights and privileges of membership in the L.I.U., then the Local Union, after proof that it has made efforts to collect such fine, as well as dues and assessments, shall be absolved from liability. All sums collected by way of fines under the circumstances described, shall be entered into the General Fund of the L.I.U. to the extent described in Section 22a. Automatic fines, which do not necessitate the holding of a prior trial, shall be levied against Secretaries of Local Unions who delay for a period of longer than two (2) weeks in answering communications sent to the Local Union and to them from the offices of the L.I.U. The automatic fine imposed in this instance shall be in the amount of Five Dollars ($5.00). As to penalties, by way of suspension or expulsion, the penalty must be clearly defined and, as hereinbefore provided, the person or persons found guilty must be notified of the imposition of such penalty. In addition to suspension or expulsion, a fine may be placed against the guilty member suspended or expelled.

Pending appeal, if appeals be taken, the guilty member or members shall, if fined One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) or less, pay the fine to the Local Union involved where it is to be held unless appeals, if any, are made and in the event an appeal is made it shall be sent to the L.I.U. to be held in escrow until finally disposed of; as to fines in excess of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00), the payment of that portion of the fine in excess of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) need not be made until the Executive Council has acted upon such fine. As to suspensions or expulsions, they shall go into effect when the penalty is imposed unless the member or members suspended or expelled, file an appeal within thirty (30) days after registered or certified mail notice of the imposition of the penalty of suspension or expulsion is sent and, upon the filing of an appeal, request from and secure from the General President a stay of the suspension or expulsion until the appeals are finally decided.

19. Section 23i (3) shall be interpreted and applied as follows:

Local Unions have the right to appeal from decisions and orders of the General President as well as from any action taken against the said Local Union by the General President or by a person designated by the General President to act on his behalf, to the Executive Council. The appeal to the Executive Council must be taken within thirty (30) days after the decision or order of the General President and/or after the taking of such other action complained of against the Local Union, and such appeal must be filed at the offices of the L.I.U. While the appeal is pending, the General President shall, subject to ratification by the Executive Council, have the right if he believes that the property and funds of the guilty Local Union are in danger of being improperly dissipated or improperly spent in a manner constituting financial malpractice, to designate a representative to act as Trustee of the said Local Union who shall be empowered to take whatever steps are necessary to protect the funds and property of the Local Union against financial malpractice. Local Unions have the right to appeal from the decision of the Executive Council to the Convention of the L.I.U., provided that such appeal must be sent by Registered or Certified mail to the L.I.U. headquarters within thirty (30) days after the appellant Local Union has been notified by Registered or Certified mail of the Executive Council's action on the appeal.

20. Section 23i (4) shall be interpreted and applied as follows:

The appellate body, whether it be the General President and/or the Executive Council and/or the Convention of the L.I.U., shall have the power to affirm, reverse, modify or amend any decision or to render such of new decision or penalty as it, the appellate body, believes to be fair and just. If an appeal has not or cannot be heard or acted upon by the Convention of the L.I.U. within the four month period referred to and described in Title I, Section 101(a)(4) of the Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act of 1959, then, if litigated by the member or members involved, the decision of the appellate body which last heard and decided the matter shall be considered as the final appellate decision on the merits of the question or matter involved. All appellate decisions of the General President and/or of the Executive Council and/or of the Convention must be published in the following issue of the Lather along with a short and concise synopsis of the case being decided.

21. Section 28(c)(3) shall be interpreted and applied as follows:

An apprentice may be suspended for non-payment of dues in accordance with Sections 22a and 18v of the International Constitution. A suspended apprentice may be reinstated by payment of all back dues and per capita tax to the L.I.U. but the time during which he was suspended cannot be counted as a part of his apprenticeship time and all such suspensions must be recorded in his apprentice book. A Special Dispensation may be requested of the General President under extenuating circumstances.

22. Section 33a shall be interpreted and applied as though there is added thereto the following sentence:

Copies of National Agreements shall be forwarded to each constituent unit of the L.I.U. which has members directly affected by such Agreements.

23. Section 34 shall be interpreted and applied as follows:
- a. To the extent and in the manner required by law, every officer, agent, shop steward or other representative or employee of each Local Union or of a trust in which a Local Union is interested, who handles funds or other property of the Local Union shall be bonded for the faithful discharge of his duties. The bond of each such person shall be fixed at the beginning of the Local Union's fiscal year and shall be in an amount not less than 10% of the funds handled by him or his predecessor or predecessors, if any during the preceding fiscal year, but in no case more than $500,000.00. If the Local Union or the trust in which the Local Union is interested does not have a preceding fiscal year, the amount of the bond, in the case of a Local Union, is not less than $2,500.00 and in the case of a trust in which the Local Union is interested, is not less than $10,000.00. Such bonds shall be individual or schedule in form and shall have a corporate surety company as surety thereon. Such surety company shall be a corporate surety which holds a grant of authority from the Secretary of the Treasury as an acceptable surety on Federal bonds.

b. The General President and the General Secretary-Treasurer shall complete arrangements with a reliable and acceptable corporate surety company so as to secure a contract for the required bonding.

c. When a change occurs in the person or persons who are required to be bonded, immediate notification shall be given to the General Secretary-Treasurer of such change and the General Secretary-Treasurer shall notify said bonding company to make the required changes and to provide the required bond coverage.

d. The cost of said bond, as above referred to and provided for, shall be borne by the Local Union required to provide for the bonding.

e. The General Secretary-Treasurer and the General President shall be bonded in the amount and in the manner provided by applicable law.

f. The bonds of the General Secretary-Treasurer and the General President shall be forwarded to the offices of the L.I.U. within thirty (30) days after the election of the General Secretary-Treasurer and the General President. The cost of the bond is to be defrayed by the L.I.U.

g. If the amount of the required bond and/or if the manner and method of placing the bond is changed by law or by administrative or judicial interpretation and application of applicable law, then the General President shall be empowered to make whatever changes in the bonding requirements and provisions are advisable as permissible for the best interest of the L.I.U., State, Provincial or District Councils of the L.I.U., and Local Unions of the L.I.U.

24. Section 35I shall be interpreted and applied as follows: All Delegates and Alternate Delegates shall be elected by secret ballot by the Local Unions and/or State, Provincial or District Councils, which they will represent at a time at least one (1) month prior to the date that the Convention opens and the name and L.I.U. number of each Delegate and of each Alternate Delegate shall be forwarded to the General Secretary-Treasurer on duplicate credentials immediately after they are elected.

25. In interpreting and applying any and all Sections and Subsections of the L.I.U. Constitution, no member may be fined, suspended, expelled or otherwise disciplined, except for non-payment of dues as the term "dues" is defined and described in Sections 18v and 23a, unless such member has been served with written specific charges, given a reasonable time to prepare his defense and afforded a full and fair hearing; provided, however, that if the charged member pleads guilty or waives, in writing, the privileges and rights hereinbefore set forth or fails to present himself at a scheduled hearing then, if fined, the non-payment of the fine under these circumstances, as would the non-payment of any fine levied after a hearing is held and guilt found, will result in automatic suspension or expulsion.

26. Section 26k shall be interpreted and applied as follows: All members in good standing entering the military service of either the United States or Canada shall be granted a military service withdrawal card, to be obtained from the L.I.U. on a special form without cost; and, upon depositing such withdrawal card within one year after his discharge from the service, he shall immediately be restored his unbroken record of good standing including the time in service and thereafter shall be entitled to all accrued L.I.U. benefits.

CASE NO. 2.—DISCUSSION OF THE INTERPRETATION AND APPLICATION OF SECTIONS 26k and 16d.

After careful consideration and discussion the Executive Council promulgated rulings regarding the interpretation and application of Sections 26k and 16d. The interpretation and application of 26k is to be as set forth in #26 of the Rulings set forth in Case No. 1 above; the interpretation and application of Section 16d shall be as set forth in #5 of the Rulings set forth in Case No. 1 above.

CASE NO. 3.—ORGANIZERS' CAR ALLOWANCE.

At the request of the General President, the Executive Council considered the present car allowance for Organizers and are of the opinion that the amounts now paid are insufficient to meet the present operating and running expenses of automobiles. Your Executive Council voted to recommend to the General President that he increase the car allowance for Organizers from 8¢ to 10¢ per mile in the United States, and from 10¢ to 12¢ per mile in the Dominion of Canada.

CASE NO. 4.—DISCUSSION OF LOCATION FOR THE 1961 CONVENTION OF THE L.I.U.

After general discussion of the possible available cities where accommodations might be obtained, your Executive Council voted to authorize the General President and General Secretary-Treasurer to hold the 1961 Convention in the City of Washington, D.C.

CASE NO. 5.—DISCUSSION OF THE NATIONAL JOINT BOARD DECISIONS AND OF THE NATIONAL AGREEMENT WITH THE UNITED BROTHERHOOD OF CARPENTERS AND JOINERS OF AMERICA.

The Committee engaged in the discussion of the National Joint Board Decisions and of the National Agreement with the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America and made a general report to your Executive Council. Since the discussions are still taking place and no definite conclusions have as yet been arrived at, your Executive Council advised the Committee to continue the discussions.

CASE NO. 6.—DISCUSSION OF VOLUNTARY CONTRIBUTION TO THE NATIONAL LATHING INDUSTRIES JOINT APPRENTICESHIP COMMITTEE.

In recognition of the importance of this Committee, your Executive Council voted to authorize the General President to make a voluntary contribution to this organization in the sum of $500.00.

CASE NO. 7.—DISCUSSION OF SIGNING THE THIRD EXTENSION OF THE A.F.L.-C.I.O. NO-RAIDING AGREEMENT.

Your Executive Council voted to authorize the General President to sign this document.

CASE NO. 8.—REQUEST OF ALFRED DEGRANDIS, LATHING AND PLASTERING CONTRACTOR, TO DEMONSTRATE THE USE OF STILTS BEFORE THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL.

Mr. DeGrandis appeared before the Executive Council with his legal counsel, Mr. G. P. Dakmak, to demonstrate the use of stilts by lathers in construction. The Executive Council, after watching the demonstration and listening to the explanation presented by Mr. DeGrandis and Mr. Dakmak, concluded, after careful deliberation, that the use of stilts still presented a serious hazard and an unsafe working condition, therefore, it is a conclusion of the Board that stilts should not be used by our members.

CASE NO. 9.—REQUEST OF LOCAL UNION #46 TO REVIEW STATUS OF MICHAEL JOSEPH DUFFY, #22251.

After careful consideration of this matter, your Executive Council regretfully concluded that a change in the status of Brother Michael Joseph Duffy could not be granted by your Executive Council.

CASE NO. 10.—REQUEST OF CHARLES E. SHADE #2049, FOR A 50-YEAR CARD.

After carefully considering all the evidence in this case your Executive Council voted to grant the request.

For What It's Worth

There was a Union man, who was doomed to lose,
He got paid on Fridays, and spent it all on booze.
His wife needed dresses, his baby needed shoes,
He never went to Union Meetings, and never paid his Dues.

Now brothers, let me tell you, when the going gets tough,
If you haven't paid your Dues, you will find it plenty rough.
That non-union contractor, is not what he seems,
Just when the chips are down, he is ready to pay you beans.

Don't fret if things go wrong today, they will all come right tomorrow,
The time to fight is now, today, joy will follow every sorrow.
If you have failed, don't sit and mourn, just get to work and hustle,
Success is sure to come in time, to active brain and muscle.

Financial Report Forms Issued

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell has issued a regulation prescribing financial reporting forms for reports which must be filed by all labor organizations under the Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act.

The law requires that these forms be filed by all labor organizations covered by the Act within 90 days after the end of their fiscal years. The forms will be mailed shortly after February 1 directly to those who have filed the labor organization information form (LM-1) which was required by December 14, 1959. Copies will also be available from the Department of Labor.

Compliance officers for the new Bureau of Labor-Management Reports have been assigned to 22 cities in the United States and acting compliance officers-in-charge have been named for each city, Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell announced today.

The Secretary said that a minimum of three compliance officers were now in each of the 22 cities. He said the new acting compliance chiefs were in charge of all bureau activities in the field for the present. The main duties of the compliance officers and the departmental field officers are to assist labor organizations and employers in compliance with the law.

Compliance officers have been stationed in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Newark, N.J., Washington, Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Cleveland, Chicago, Detroit, Minneapolis, St. Louis, Kansas City, Mo., Atlanta, Miami, Fla., Nashville, Dallas, Denver, New Orleans, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Seattle.

The new men are from several government agencies representing a variety of investigative backgrounds. They include former employees of the Wage and Hour Division of the Department of Labor, Civil Service Commission, Internal Revenue Service, the Office of Special Investigations of the Air Force, General Accounting Office and the District of Columbia government.

Acting compliance officers-in-charge are:

Atlanta—Herman O. Baker, 1371 Peachtree Street, Room 521

Boston—Martin Stern, 18 Oliver Street

Buffalo—Donald H. Williams, 503 Post Office Building

Chicago—Gerald G. Gotsch, 105 West Adams Street, Room 1100

*Designer-BUILDER: Cliff May Associates
Owner: Cliff May
Location: Sullivan Canyon, West Los Angeles, California*

Cliff May, leading designer-builder, gets quality construction at no extra cost with KEYMESH® LATH and KEYCORNER

"Houses with plaster walls and ceilings give owners greater value," says Cliff May, internationally recognized for his bold imagination combined with practical use of materials. "Plaster is a quality feature that is most effective in my selling. I reinforce ceilings of large span with Keymesh over gypsum lath; corners with Keycorner. As evidence of my belief, I used this construction in my own new home in Sullivan Canyon, California.

"The result is probably the finest plaster job in the West. The reinforcement has been so outstanding that we do not have a crack in the entire house, although we have over 7,000 square feet of area and many experimental types of plastering, such as different textures and different aggregate compositions.

"I use my home as a model home. Clients are quick to recognize the added, although hidden, value of Keymesh and Keycorner reinforcing. The thick, reinforced walls and substantial plaster construction are big selling features."

For more complete information on Keymesh and Keycorner lath, write

THE MASTER BEDROOM is a comfortable studio during the daytime. Acoustical, Keymesh-reinforced plaster on ceiling adds soft beauty, assures quietness.

Here's how Keystone helps you sell reinforced plaster to builders. This powerful advertisement appears in leading building publications.

THE KITCHEN serves as both a working and a social area. Keymesh-reinforced plaster on walls and ceilings dramatizes the livability

THE TEXTURED-PLASTER ceiling unites the indoors with the outdoors in the master suite living area (Below). Keymesh used over gypsum lath in this construction.

THE INDOOR-OUTDOOR appearance of the May home extends even to the dressing room. Here, Keycorner was applied in corners over Keymesh for added strength.

THE ROUGH-TEXTURED plaster ceiling is ideal for the boy's bedroom. Keymesh and Keycorner are adding superior crack resistance to this construction.

Political Memo from COPE

A front outfit called "California Associates, Inc." has set itself the task of knocking off eight liberal members of the state legislature in this year's elections. It has set a budget of $250,000 for this purpose, including some $100,000 to be dished out to right-wing candidates, approximately $80,000 for "over-all campaign direction," and roughly $70,000 for "district administrative expenses."

When a single group of conservatives spends a quarter of a million dollars in trying to defeat a few liberals for a state legislature, one gets an inkling of an idea of what faces trade unionists in their efforts to elect progressive, forward-looking legislators.

Where Are The 'States' Rights' Champions Hiding—And Why?

Gov. Orville Freeman of Minnesota recently declared martial law to preserve the peace when out-of-state strikebreakers brought weapons into the Wilson & Co. packing plant in the city of Albert Lea. Then the company went into Federal court and obtained an injunction against the governor.

Where are all the "states' rights" champions who continually preach about "local sovereignty"? Where are the editorial writers who have lambasted the Federal courts for blocking "states' rights" on schools, and have flayed Federal district attorneys for using methods of "questionable" constitutionality to win convictions.

Shouldn't they be protesting the injunction against the governor of the sovereign state of Minnesota?

In summarizing a series of articles published recently by the Washington Post, the central feature of which was "the massive decline in U.S. military power and the para-military power of space science in relation to the rising military power of the Soviet Union," Post Columnist Chalmers Roberts writes:

"The problem in Washington is one of attitude. It is an attitude which attempts to comfort those at home who are alarmed at the military slippage by talking about 'balanced forces'."

"It is an attitude in which budget balancing and the sanctity of the dollar appear supreme. . . . It is an attitude which often still seems not to have comprehended the meaning of the first Soviet sputnik."

NOW— Series E Bonds turn $18⁷⁵ into $25⁰⁰ fourteen months quicker than ever before

YOUR MONEY GROWS 33 $\frac{1}{3}$ %
IN JUST 7 YEARS AND 9 MONTHS WITH NEW SERIES E BONDS

Here are three new reasons why today's Savings Bonds are the best ones in history:

1. Every Bond bought since June 1, 1959, earns 3 $\frac{3}{4}$ % interest when held the full term. Series E Bonds now mature in 7 years, 9 months—fourteen months faster than ever before.
2. Your older Bonds now earn more—an extra $\frac{1}{2}$ % from June 1 on, until maturity.
3. All Series E Bonds, old and new, carry an automatic extension privilege now. This means they'll automatically keep earning liberal interest for 10 years beyond maturity.

You get these new advantages, plus complete safety, guaranteed return, and protection against loss or theft when you save with Bonds. And there's no easier way to save. You can buy Bonds automatically through the Payroll Savings Plan at work, or from any bank. Plan to start saving with U.S. Savings Bonds—they're the best ever.

YOU SAVE MORE THAN MONEY
with U.S. Savings Bonds

Report From the GENERAL PRESIDENT

All Local Unions please take notice of this important letter from the U.S. Department of Labor

Mr. Lloyd A. Mashburn
President
The Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers
International Union (AFL-CIO)
6530 New Hampshire Avenue
Takoma Park 12, Maryland

Dear Mr. Mashburn:

As you know, all labor organizations covered by the reporting requirements of the Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act of 1959 are required to prepare annual financial reports and file them with the Bureau of Labor-Management Reports within 90 days after the end of their fiscal years. Since the majority of unions have fiscal years which coincide with the calendar year, the first financial report from the great bulk of labor organizations will be due shortly.

A packet containing the long and short reporting forms, LM-2 and LM-3, has already been sent to you and to all local unions submitting the initial information report required by the Act.

To assist unions in preparing their financial reports, the Division of Technical Assistance of the Bureau has developed two "How-to-do-it" handbooks. The first of these, TA Aid No. 1, "Guide for Filling Out the Short Financial Report" is enclosed. It is designed to help the smaller local unions which can qualify to use LM-3, the short form. We estimate that seventy per cent of all locals can use this form.

Because of the closeness of the filing date for many unions, we are sending one copy of this Aid directly to each organization which has filed an LM-1 report. Additional supplies of these will be available in Washington and in our field offices.

The second of these handbooks is designed to help those labor organizations which must use the long form, LM-2. This handbook, TA Aid No. 2, "Guide for Reporting Your Union Finances," will be received from the printer in a few days.

We do not believe that automatic mailing of this Aid to all unions would be appropriate. Consequently, I am asking your help in securing effective distribution. Alternative methods of distribution are:

1. You may order from us enough copies of TA Aid No. 2 to enable you to distribute a copy to each of your affiliates which may be required to use form LM-2, the long form.
2. You may furnish us with a list of the names and addresses of all of your affiliates which may be required to use the form LM-2, the long form, with the understanding that we will mail copies of the Aid to each of them promptly.
3. You may inform your affiliates of the availability of this Aid at the Bureau's Washington Office and at its 25 field offices shown on the enclosed list with the suggestion that those who wish to secure a copy should contact the nearest office.

We are issuing a release to the labor press which will announce the availability of these handbooks.

If you or your organization wishes to secure extra copies of either the "Guide for Filling Out the Short Financial Report" or of the "Guide for Reporting Your Union Finances" for training purposes, please let me know of your needs.

Allow me once more to express my appreciation for your cooperation with the Bureau in the past in achieving the initial distribution of the reporting forms and instructions. It is my hope that we may continue to rely on your cooperation in the future.

Sincerely yours,
John L. Holcombe
Commissioner

C. J. Haggerty

Congratulations

C. J. "Neil" Haggerty, First Vice President of the Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers International Union and a top West Coast labor leader for many years, will take over April 1 as president of the AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Department. He will succeed Richard J. Gray, who resigned after serving 17 years as president.

For many years secretary-treasurer of the California State AFL-CIO, Haggerty was the unanimous choice of the Department's Executive Council. He accepted his new position via telephone conversation.

He also has a broad political background in California, where he has been the friend and confidante of several governors.

Born in Boston in 1894, Haggerty became a lather in Los Angeles, and later was elected president of his local union.

Later he served as organizer and international vice-president, secretary of the Los Angeles Building Trades Council and secretary-treasurer of the California AFL. He retained the latter office following the merger with the CIO.

Other posts held by Haggerty were on the State's Selective Service Board of Appeals, the Advisory Committee of the Office of Price Administration and the Manpower Commission. He is currently a member of the State Board of Education.

At the same time, William J. McSorley, president emeritus of the Lathers, resigned his membership on the Council because the constitution does not permit more than one member from each affiliated union. He was named to the new office of Council co-ordinator.

In an announcement on the jurisdictional question, the Council said that it had approved machinery to resolve disputes between AFL-CIO affiliates, but that the machinery "cannot be vested with the authority to pass upon the basic jurisdiction of unions."

The Council said it was not opposed to arbitration in settlement of these disputes provided there were adequate "safeguards to protect the interests of organizations affiliated with this Department in an equitable manner."

Haggerty's record in California politics is well known. He is a close friend of former Governors Earl Warren and Goodwin J. Knight, Republicans, and the present chief executive, Gov. Edmund C. (Pat) Brown, a Democrat.

The defeat of an intensive drive for a so-called "right-to-work" law in California in the 1958 campaign has been generally credited to the effective leadership of Haggerty.

He also led the well-co-ordinated campaign which defeated Senator William Knowland, then GOP leader in the Senate, in his bid for governor on a pro-work law platform. Brown was elected.

Haggerty appeared to be something of a "dark horse" prior to his election by the Council. Other names were mentioned more prominently as possible successors to Gray.

But in the final analysis, it was Haggerty who came through. He was the unanimous choice of a special four-man Administrative Committee appointed to search for a new leader for the Department.

The Massachusetts Bureau for Lathing and Plastering, Inc., 39 Kingston Street, Boston, has appointed Ronald F. Gardella as its new managing director. Mr. Gardella has been very actively associated with the building industry in Massachusetts for the past ten years.

In assuming the managing directorship of the Bureau Gardella said: "The bureau will endeavor to keep architects, commercial investors, state and local governmental agencies, and the general public fully informed as to the time tested superiority of Genuine Lath and Plaster. Genuine lath and plaster is a traditional part of sound lasting construction. Its durability is evidenced by its presence in the world's oldest and finest buildings. Its use offers unexcelled fire protection, endless versatility and adaptability of design, and provides a dollar and cents lower maintenance cost and service far in excess of the material and its application. We of the bureau are extremely proud of the fact that genuine lath and plaster is known as the "Standard of Sound Construction."

Headaches Are Warning Signals

Practically everyone suffers or has suffered from headaches—statistics show that eight out of every hundred Americans get headaches regularly. Headaches might be caused by almost any upset—a cold, lack of sleep, bad dreams, not eating, sticky weather, etc. For relief of that type of headache try the old standbys—aspirin, coffee, and fresh air. But there is another type of headache—the migraine or "sick headaches." It might begin with a dull or tired feeling, irritability, difficulty to concentrate and may be a dizzying flash and nausea. Aspirin does not help this type of headache; much stronger remedies are usually prescribed. If your headaches persist see your family doctor. Sometimes pain in the head may mean serious disease.

METAL LATH

specifications for metal lathing and furring

how to use these specifications

In the opposite table a general specification has been listed for each type of Metal Lath construction.

This is then supplemented where necessary by another specification devoted to details which are not of a general nature.

For example, if it is desired to write a specification on Solid Metal Lath and Plaster Partitions with Channel Studs, Specification No. 1 is used and it is supplemented at the appropriate place indicated in the specification by Supplementary Specification No. 1-A, which is devoted to details that have to do only with the construction of such type of solid partitions.

These specifications are written in detail so that complete information will be available to those who wish it, but they may be abbreviated as desired, or this document may be referred to as follows:

"All Metal Lathing and Furring shall be done in accordance with the requirements for the corresponding class of work as specified in Specifications of the Metal Lath Manufacturers Association, dated 1960, provided that where several methods of construction are shown, the contractor shall secure approval of the type he wishes to use before proceeding with the work. The lath to be used shall be as follows: etc." (Here insert weight, type and finish of lath desired.)

Specifications taken from these pages will insure not only safe and durable construction at an economical cost, but will establish a basis for maximum competition among all manufacturers of Metal Lath.

were protected with Metal Lath and plaster ceilings attached directly to the bottom flanges.

- Tested with openings for non-combustible ducts, electrical outlets, and pipes. Their permissible combined area did not exceed 100 sq. in. per 100 sq. ft. of ceiling area. No failure, but test arbitrarily discontinued at 3 hours.
- Plaster thickness is measured from face of Metal Lath to finished plaster surface.
- Plaster thickness is measured from back plane of Metal Lath, exclusive of ribs, to finished plaster surface.

Specifications for Materials

Attention is called to the fact that these specifications are written upon the basis of weight only which will insure correct installation and facilitate accurate inspection in the field. This basis was adopted at one of the early conferences of producers, distributors and users of Metal Lath held at the U. S. Department of Commerce. "Simplified Practice Recommendation R3-57" is the most recent publication of the U. S. Department of Commerce covering Metal Lath and Metal Plastering Accessories.

METAL LATH

All Metal Lath shall be made from copper alloy steel sheets, and shall be given a protective coating of rust-inhibitive paint after fabrication, or shall be made from galvanized sheets.

All Metal Lath shall be specified by weight per square yard (except $\frac{3}{4}$ " Rib Metal Lath which shall be specified by weight per square foot), and shall be of the types and weights as set forth elsewhere in these specifications. All weights are exclusive of paper, fiber or other backing.

EXPANDED METAL REINFORCEMENT (STUCCO MESH)

All Expanded Metal Reinforcement (Stucco Mesh) shall be made from steel sheets, and shall be given a protective coating of rust-inhibitive paint after fabrication.

CHANNELS

Channels shall be of steel and shall be given a protective coating of rust-inhibitive paint. Width and weight of channels shall be as set forth elsewhere in these specifications.

Definitions of Terms

The following definitions for Metal Lath construction have been established by long usage:

Metal Lath—Metal Lath is of three types, designated as Diamond Mesh (also called Flat Expanded Metal Lath), Rib or Sheet. Metal Lath is slit and expanded, or slit, punched or otherwise formed, with or without partial expansion, from copper alloy or galvanized metal sheets. Metal Lath is coated with rust-inhibitive paint after fabrication, or is made from galvanized sheets.

Diamond Mesh or Flat Expanded Metal Lath—This term is used to indicate a Metal Lath slit and expanded from metal sheets into such a form that there will be no rib in the lath.

Rib—An unexpanded portion of Metal Lath which leaves the plane of the lath at a certain angle and returns at the same angle, or a separately attached stiffening member.

Flat Rib Metal Lath—A combination of expanded Metal Lath and ribs in which the rib has a total depth of less than $\frac{1}{8}$ " measured from top inside of the lath to the top side of the rib.

$\frac{3}{8}$ " Rib Metal Lath—A combination of expanded Metal Lath and ribs of a total depth of approximately $\frac{3}{8}$ " measured from top inside of the lath to the top side of the rib, or other Metal Lath of equal rigidity.

$\frac{3}{4}$ " Rib Metal Lath—A combination of expanded Metal Lath and ribs of a total depth of approximately $\frac{3}{4}$ " measured from the top inside of the lath to the top side of the rib.

Self-Furring Metal Lath—A Metal Lath so formed that portions of it extend from the face of the lath so that it is separated at least $\frac{1}{4}$ " from the background to which it is attached.

Paper-Backed Metal Lath or Expanded Metal Reinforcement—A factory-assembled combination of any of the preceding defined types of Metal Lath or Expanded Metal Reinforcement with paper, or other backing, the assembly being used as a plaster or stucco base.

Sheet Lath—A Metal Lath, slit, or punched or otherwise formed from metal sheets.

(NOTE: See manufacturers' catalogs for detailed description of various types of Sheet Lath for special purposes.)

Expanded Metal Reinforcement (Stucco Mesh)—A reinforcement similar to Metal Lath but cut and expanded from heavier metal

METAL STUDS

Prefabricated metal studs shall be given a protective coating of rust-inhibitive paint. The width shall be as set forth elsewhere in these specifications. Prefabricated metal studs shall be:

Fabricated as channels from 18 gage strip steel, with punched openings along entire length of web, between flanges, or

Fabricated from doubled No. 7 gage round rods on each side, with a single No. 7 gage round rod forming an open-web trusslike pattern, and all points of contact welded, or Fabricated from 16 gage steel angles with a single No. 7 gage round rod forming an open-web trusslike pattern between flanges, and all points of contact welded.

ACCESSORIES

WEIGHT TOLERANCES

The allowable variations in percentage over and under the specified weights of Metal Lath and metal plastering accessories shall be in accordance with customary mill tolerances as established by the American Iron and Steel Institute.

WIRE

Wire shall be galvanized, annealed, and gage shall be as set forth elsewhere in these specifications. All gages are the United States steel wire gage. The weight of zinc-coated finish (galvanized) shall be not less than Type 1 as set forth in Federal Specification QQ-W-461b, Wire, Steel (Carbon), Bare and Coated.

sheets and especially suitable for exterior stucco work and for reinforcing cement base for tile and mosaic floors.

Cornerite or Corner Lath—A strip of Diamond Mesh Metal Lath bent to form a right angle and applied as corner reinforcement at all internal vertical and horizontal angles of any interior surface to be plastered, including wood lath, gypsum lath, fiberboard lath, and junctures at wall and ceiling intersections of dissimilar plaster bases; also used in angles where ends of Rib or Sheet Lath abut.

Stripite or Strip Lath—A narrow strip of Diamond Mesh Metal Lath applied as a reinforcement over joints between sheets of gypsum lath, fiberboard lath and similar materials used as plaster bases, or at junctures between such bases.

Main Runners or Carrying Channels—The heaviest horizontal members, supported by hangers, in a suspended ceiling and to which the furring channels or rods are attached; also may be attached direct to the construction above.

Furring Channels or Rods—The smallest horizontal members of a suspended ceiling, applied at right angles to the underside of carrying channels and to which the Metal Lath is attached; also the smallest horizontal members in a furred ceiling; also, in general, the separate members used to space Metal Lath from any surfaces over which it is applied.

Hangers—The vertical members which carry the steel framework of a suspended ceiling; also the vertical members which support furring under concrete joist construction; also the wires used in attaching lath directly to concrete joist construction.

Contact Ceiling—A ceiling composed of Metal Lath and plaster which is secured in direct contact with the construction above, without the use of runner channels or furring.

Furred Ceiling—A ceiling composed of Metal Lath and plaster which is attached by means of steel channels, or rods, or wood furring strips, in direct contact with the construction above.

Suspended Ceiling—A ceiling composed of Metal Lath and plaster and steel channels which is suspended from and is not in direct contact with floor or roof construction above.

Weights are exclusive of paper, fiber, or other backing.

(1) 3.4 lb., ¾" Rib Lath is permissible under concrete joists at 27" c.c.

(2) These spacings are based on a narrow bearing surface for the lath. When supports with a relatively wide bearing surface are used, these spacings may be increased accordingly, and still assure satisfactory work.

(3) This spacing permissible for solid partitions not exceeding 16' in height. For greater heights, permanent horizontal stiffener channels or rods must be provided on channel side of partitions, every 6' vertically, or else spacing shall be reduced 25 per cent.

(4) See Specification No. 2, page 10 for Studless Metal Lath and Plaster Solid Partitions.

For exterior stucco work, Expanded Metal Reinforcement weighing either 1.8 or 3.6 pounds per square yard may be used. Attachments shall not be greater than 6" on centers vertically.

General Specifications No. 1

Solid and Hollow Partitions Double Partitions (Sound Insulating) Vertical Furring

With Noncombustible Studs (Prefabricated or Channel)

1.1—ERECTION OF METAL LATH

1.1.1—All Metal Lath shall be specified by weight per square yard in accordance with the spacing of supports as given in Table I (page 4).

1.1.2—Metal Lath shall be applied with the long dimension of the sheet across the studs; Rib Metal Lath with the ribs against the studs. For solid partitions, lath shall be applied only to one side of the channel studs.

1.1.3—Metal Lath shall be secured to supports at intervals not exceeding 6", a tie shall be placed where sides of sheets lap at supports, and at side laps of sheets between supports. Tie wire shall be not less than No. 18 gage galvanized annealed wire.

Equivalent clips or other attachment devices may be used instead of wire ties.

1.1.4—Diamond Mesh Metal Lath shall be lapped at sides not less than $\frac{1}{2}$ ", and at ends not less than 1". End laps of sheets should generally occur only over supports; if between, ends of sheets shall be laced or adequately tied with No. 18 gage galvanized annealed wire.

1.1.5—Rib Metal Lath and Sheet Lath shall be lapped at sides by nesting outside ribs or selvage. Rib Metal Lath shall be lapped 1" at ends and Sheet Lath shall be lapped 1" at ends or nested.

1.1.6—Where the adjoining surface is to be plastered, Diamond Mesh Metal Lath shall be started one stud away from corner and be bent into the corner and carried on to the abutting wall to avoid a joint at juncture of walls. Where Rib Metal Lath or Sheet Lath is used it shall be butted into all corners, and Cornerite shall be applied over abutting lath in such angles and shall be wired at 6" intervals along each edge in all corners. (Cornerite shall not be fastened at its corner, but only along each edge. Cornerite is not required for Diamond Mesh Metal Lath carried around the corner.) Where adjoining surface is not to be plastered, the Metal Lath shall be suitably attached to the abutting wall, and such attachments completely embedded in the plaster.

1.2—ASSEMBLY OF STUDS OR CHANNELS

1.2.1 etc.—

Insert here applicable supplementary specifications as follows:

Alternate Method for Removable Partitions—For removable partitions, lower end of studs shall be secured to track channels or special stud shoes attached to wood runners, or be set in holes bored into, or wire-tied to 8d nails driven into wood floor runners of proper width nailed to wood floor or ceiling joists, such runners to be secured to masonry floor by masonry nails or expansion drives.

1.3.1—Metal base screed, picture mold, or integral metal trim shall be wired to studs or Metal Lath through holes provided in the screed, mold or trim, and, where necessary, shimmed-out to line. Metal base shall be installed according to the manufacturer's specifications.

1.3.2—All external angles to be plastered shall be protected with galvanized expanded wing or perforated corner beads. Corner bead shall be attached securely in such manner as to assure proper alignment during application of plaster, and for proper plaster thickness.

1.4—BUCKS

1.4.1—Bucks shall be carefully plumbed and either anchored to the soffit of the roof or floor above, or be temporarily braced until the plaster has set.

1.4.2—Metal door bucks shall be installed in accordance with the manufacturer's specifications.

1.4.3—Wood door bucks shall be of an out-to-out dimension which will permit casing to cover joint between buck and plaster at least 1".

1.4.4—Bottom of wood door bucks shall be securely anchored to floor.

Applicable Only to Metal Lath and Plaster Sound-Insulating Double Partitions

1.4.5—Metal door bucks shall be installed in accordance with manufacturer's specifications. Where maximum sound insulation is desired, provide felt or cork-pad between buck and floor. Bucks shall be well-anchored and secured by expansion drives, through pads (where used), and penetrate at least 1" into floor and ceiling slabs.

1.4.6—For maximum sound insulation, a split or double-buck shall be used around entire opening with cork or other insulation between it and floor and between halves of bucks if connection is necessary. Provide sound-deadened casing around openings and "sound-proof" doors in openings.

1.5—PLASTER

1.5.1—Plaster shall be gypsum, lime, Keene's cement, or portland cement or combinations of them. Plaster thickness when measured from the face of the Metal Lath shall be $\frac{5}{8}$ " minimum. Plaster thickness when measured from the back plane of the Metal Lath, exclusive of ribs, shall be $\frac{3}{4}$ " minimum.

note: Portland cement plaster is recommended for basement partitions, shower stall enclosures and elsewhere in which continued or large amounts of moisture are experienced.

note: Where a partition is continuous over the face of a concrete beam or column, it should be isolated from the movement of these structural members by placing paper between the concrete and Metal Lath.

(To be used in conjunction with

note: Consult manufacturers' catalogs for information on special solid partition systems and metal base.

A1.2.1—Size of channel studs and thickness of solid partitions shall be determined by height of partition as set forth in Table IV. Type and weight of Metal Lath shall determine the maximum spacing of studs in accordance with Table I.

A1.2.2—Channel studs shall be securely fastened to the soffit of the roof or floor above, or to the joists, or to a suspended ceiling. Channels, pencil rods, Cornerite, or special types of ceiling runners may be used provided they hold the top of the studs securely in line.

A1.2.3—Ends of channel studs may be bent and nailed directly to the floor or to a wood runner, or stud ends may be set in holes cut in the top of concrete floors or into special types of metal floor runners. Metal base shall be installed according to the manufacturer's specifications. Metal base shall be filled with grout after the channel studs have been erected and either before or after the Metal Lath has been wired to the studs.

A1.2.4—Where two-piece studs are used, they shall be spliced within 2 feet of the ceiling by lapping not less than 8", with flanges interlocked and securely wired near each end of splice. Single-piece studs shall be of such length that they will not bow when erected.

note: Regarding installation of bucks, see section 1.4 (page 5).

A1.2.5—Channel studs shall be placed along each side of the buck and so spaced that Metal Lath can be wire-tied to the stud. For wood bucks, two 8d nails shall be driven in pairs at intervals of 2' beginning 9" above the floor, and the channel securely wire-tied to these nails; or channels shall be attached to wood bucks with wood screws. Channel studs shall be wire-tied or bolted to the anchors on each side of metal bucks.

Alternate—Studs adjacent to buck may be omitted if other means of attaching lath is provided and buck is temporarily braced before plastering.

note: Hollow metal door bucks should be filled with plaster.

A1.2.6—A horizontal reinforcement ($\frac{1}{8}$ " x $1\frac{1}{4}$ " flat bar or $\frac{3}{8}$ " rod) shall be attached 6" to 8" above the door opening on the channel side of the partition. It shall extend continuously past the first stud beyond the opening. This reinforcement shall be saddle-tied to each vertical stud it crosses.

A1.2.7—Studs shall be doubled at cased openings and partition ends protected with a galvanized metal partition cap.

A1.2.8—Solid partitions shall be temporarily braced when necessary on the channel side before application of plaster.

A1.2.9—Wood Grounds—Wood grounds and wood nailing strips for attaching trim, cupboards and other fixtures shall be set true to line and shall be placed on each side of the partition and wired or nailed to each other, or wired to studs, or nailed to blocks which shall be securely wired or clamped to studs.

SIZES OF COLD-ROLLED CHANNEL STUDS AND THICKNESSES OF PARTITIONS FOR VARIOUS HEIGHTS OF METAL LATH SOLID PARTITIONS

Height Not to Exceed	Thickness of Partition	Size and Weight of Channels (per 1000 feet)	note: No limitations on length of these partitions for heights under 10'. Length, between columns, walls or other vertical structural members, shall not be greater than two times partition height when latter is 10' or more, nor greater than $1\frac{1}{2}$ times height when latter exceeds 14'; nor greater than the height when it is 20' or more. For lengths exceeding these, thickness shall be increased 20 per cent. † For heights over 20' furnish horizontal cold-rolled channels or rod stiffeners on channel side of partition every 6' vertically. Heights over 24' shall be proportionately thicker. †† Channel web shall be turned parallel with and adjacent to Diamond Mesh Metal Lath for $1\frac{1}{2}$ " partition only.

†24 ft.	$3\frac{1}{4}$ "	$1\frac{1}{2}$ " 475 lb.

A1.2.10—Electrical Installation—Electrical outlets shall not exceed $1\frac{1}{2}$ " in depth for 2" solid partitions. The back of outlet and switch boxes shall be covered with Metal Lath.

A1.2.11—Plastering—Plastering shall be five-coat work to a total overall thickness of ____". First apply scratch coat on lath side and allow to set and partially dry. Then apply back-up coat to the channel side and allow to set. Next apply brown coat on lath side, then the finish coats on each side.

note: To minimize sound conduction it is recommended that telephone boxes, etc., in adjoining hotel rooms, apartments, etc., be installed on outside walls of the room or on non-communicating partitions.

note: The studs in this specification are of non-bearing type. For bearing metal stud partitions with Metal Lath and plaster, all requirements for the lath, its attachment, and the plastering, remain the same. The only variation is the type of metal bearing stud and the method of erection.

note: Consult manufacturers' catalogs for additional information on prefabricated metal studs and metal base.

B1.2.1—Studs for non-bearing hollow partitions shall be a single row of prefabricated studs; a single row of cold-rolled channels or other structural shapes with width equal to that of the finished partition (less the thickness of lath and plaster on each side); or a double row of parallel $\frac{3}{4}$ " cold-rolled channels, or equivalent, with suitable spacers or braces.

B1.2.2—Minimum size of prefabricated metal studs for non-bearing hollow partitions shall be determined by the height of the partition in accordance with Table V. The maximum height for non-bearing hollow partitions constructed with $\frac{3}{4}$ " cold-rolled channel studs shall be determined by the thickness of the partition in accordance with Table V. Spacing of studs shall be determined by the type and weight of Metal Lath used, and shall be in accordance with Table I (page 4).

B1.2.3—PREFABRICATED STUDS

B1.2.3.1—Runner tracks shall be aligned accurately to the partition layout at both floor and ceiling. They shall be secured to concrete slabs with $\frac{1}{2}$ " concrete stud nails or equivalent fasteners at 2' intervals, or wired to the runner or furring channels of ceilings.

B1.2.3.2—Each stud shall be secured to runner tracks with two attachment shoes at both top and bottom, each wired or crimped to the stud.

B1.2.3.3—Other methods of fastening studs to floor and ceiling will be permitted provided they have equivalent strength and are approved by the architect.

B1.2.3.4—Door openings shall have a stud continuous from floor to ceiling fastened to each side of the buck. Such studs shall be wire-tied or bolted in a secure manner to metal bucks; and Metal Lath shall be wire-tied to these studs. Where wood bucks are used, two 8d nails shall be driven in pairs at intervals of 2', beginning 9" above the floor, into the wood buck and clinched over the studs to hold them securely; or studs shall be attached to wood bucks with wood screws.

B1.2.4—CHANNEL STUDS

B1.2.4.1—Channel studs shall be securely fastened to the soffit of the roof or floor above, or to the joists, or to a suspended ceiling. Channels, pencil rods, Cornerite, or special types of ceiling runners may be used provided they hold the top of the studs securely in line.

B1.2.4.2—Ends of channel studs may be bent and nailed directly to the floor or to a wood runner, or stud ends may be set in holes cut in the top of concrete floors or into special types of metal floor runners.

Metal base shall be installed according to the manufacturers' specifications.

B1.2.4.3—Where two-piece studs are used, they shall be spliced within 2' of the ceiling by lapping not less than 8", with flanges interlocked and securely wired near each end of splice. Single-piece studs shall be of such length that they will not bow when erected.

B1.2.4.4—Where double channels are used to form partitions, spacers, braces or separator clips shall be provided between every pair and shall be well secured to maintain alignment. They shall be of substantial design and be spaced not more than 4' apart, vertically. (No spacers required for prefabricated studs or channel studs more than $\frac{3}{4}$ " deep.)

note: Regarding installation of bucks, see section 1.4 (page 5).

B1.2.4.5—Door openings shall have two channel studs (four studs required per opening) continuous from floor to ceiling fastened to each side of the buck. Channels shall be so spaced that Metal Lath can be wire-tied thereto. Channel studs shall be wire-tied or bolted to metal bucks in a secure manner. Where wood bucks are used, channel studs shall be nailed or screwed to buck at 2' intervals; or two 8d nails shall be driven in pairs at intervals of 2' beginning 9" above floor, into the wood buck, and the channel studs at each side securely wire-tied to said nails.

STIFFENERS AND GROUNDS—Prefabricated or Channel Studs

B1.2.5—A $\frac{3}{4}$ " cold-rolled channel reinforcement shall be placed inside the partition and 6" to 8" above the door opening. It shall extend continuously past the studs alongside the buck and to the next studs beyond the opening. This channel shall be saddle-tied to each vertical stud it crosses.

B1.2.6—Prefabricated stud partitions more than 10' long or 9' high shall be stiffened by $\frac{3}{4}$ " cold-rolled channels placed horizontally, wired securely to the stud, and spaced not more than 6' on centers vertically. Each face of a channel stud partition more than 10' long or 9' high shall be stiffened by $\frac{3}{4}$ " cold-rolled channels placed horizontally, saddle-tied to each stud, and spaced not more than 6' on centers vertically. For unsupported height of 20' or more, horizontal stiffeners shall be $1\frac{1}{2}$ " cold-rolled channels.

B1.2.7—Wood grounds and wood nailing strips shall be set true to the plaster line and wired to studs, or nailed to blocks which shall be securely wired or clamped to studs.

(To be used in conjunction with

C1.2.1—Studs for Metal Lath double partitions shall be a double row of parallel cold-rolled channels or a double row of staggered prefabricated studs. Minimum size of studs shall be determined by the height of the partition in accordance with Table VI-A or VI-B (page 9).

Spacing of studs shall be determined by the type and weight of metal lath used, and shall be in accordance with Table I.

C1.2.2—No spacers or cross ties between the partition panels shall be used.

C1.2.2.1—(Alternate to Section C1.2.2 for double partition with limited cross ties for bracing, providing a sound loss of 45.7 decibels.)

Cross ties shall be installed only at 3' intervals at mid-height along the partition length. The type of cross tie shall be dependent on partition width.

(For additional information, write for Technical Bulletin No. 13.)

C1.2.3—Channel studs shall be securely fastened to the soffit of the roof or floor above, or to the joists, or to a suspended ceiling. Channels, pencil rods, Cornerite, or special types of ceiling runners may be used provided they hold the top of the studs securely in line.

C1.2.3.1—(Alternate to Subsection C1.2.3.) For additional sound insulation, ceiling runner may be insulated from ceiling slab in manner similar to that described for floor runner in Subsection C1.2.4.1.

C1.2.4—Ends of channel studs may be bent and nailed directly to the floor or to a wood runner, or stud ends may be set in holes cut in the top of concrete floors or into special types of metal floor runners.

Metal base shall be installed according to the manufacturer's specifications.

C1.2.4.1—(Alternate to Subsection C1.2.4.) Studs shall be erected by inserting ends into floor and ceiling runners.

Floor runners shall be laid over 1" thick board or 1" thick machinery cork or other material having approximately equal resilient and load-carrying properties.

Such board or cork, etc., shall be as wide as the finished thickness of the partition and shall be well-secured to the floor slab. Expansion drives at 36" centers, or masonry nails which shall penetrate slab at least $\frac{5}{8}$ " and be spaced not to exceed 12" on centers, or combinations of the two, shall be used.

Attachments used for securing cork insulation to slab may be used simultaneously for securing and positioning floor runner, or separate attachments of the same type may be used for this purpose.

C1.2.5—Where two-piece studs are used, they shall be spliced within 2' of the ceiling by lapping not less than 8", with flanges interlocked and securely wired near each end of splice. Single-piece studs shall be of such length that they will not bow when erected.

C1.2.6—A $\frac{3}{4}$ " cold-rolled channel, or other reinforcement of at least equal rigidity, shall be placed horizontally at not to exceed 4' on centers on the inside of the partition and be securely wired to all studs forming one face of the partition, and a similar reinforcement shall be used to align and stiffen the studs on the other face. Horizontal stiffeners shall be located so that no part of them touches either the studs, stiffeners or plaster and Metal Lath of the other face of the partition. Prefabricated studs, $1\frac{1}{2}$ " or 2" channel studs may be spaced more than 16" on centers with stiffeners then spaced at not to exceed 3' on centers.

Metal Lath and Plaster Sound-Insulating Double Partition

In addition to the horizontal bracing specified in the preceding paragraph, the following shall be provided for all channel stud partitions more than 9½' high and more than 10' long.

At 10' intervals an additional channel stud or other vertical stiffener shall be supplied on the inside of the partition directly opposite the regular stud. It shall be installed so that the horizontal stiffener lies between it and the regular stud and at each of these points the two studs and horizontal stiffener shall be tied together. This is to be done independently on each half or face of the partition, but no part of the construction shall run across or be tied to the other portion of the partition, the additional studs to be staggered for opposite faces of the partition.

note: Regarding installation of bucks, see section 1.4. For special sound insulation of bucks, see subsections 1.4.5 and 1.4.6 (page 5).

C1.2.7—Door openings shall have two channel studs (four studs required per opening) continuous from floor to ceiling fastened to each side of the buck. Channels shall be so spaced that Metal Lath can be wire-tied thereto. Channel studs shall be wire-tied or bolted to metal bucks in a secure manner. Where wood bucks are used, channel studs shall be nailed or screwed to bucks at 2' intervals, or two 8d nails shall be driven in pairs at intervals of 2', beginning 9" above floor, into the wood buck, and the channel studs at each side securely wire-tied to said nails.

C1.2.8—A $\frac{3}{4}$ " cold-rolled channel reinforcement shall be placed inside the partition and 6" to 8" above the door opening. It shall extend continuously past the studs alongside the buck and to next studs beyond the opening. This channel shall be saddle-tied to each vertical stud it crosses.

C1.2.9—In erecting studding no part of same shall be wired or otherwise attached or permitted to make contact with piping, conduit, heat ducts, etc., within the partition.

(To be used in conjunction with

D1.2.1—Size of channel or prefabricated studs shall be determined according to the height of the vertical furring as set forth in Tables VI-A and VI-B.

Spacing of studs shall be determined by the type and weight of Metal Lath used, and shall be in accordance with Table I (page 4).

D1.2.2—Channel studs shall be securely fastened to the soffit of the roof or floor above, or to the joists, or to a suspended ceiling. Channels, pencil rods, Cornerite, or special types of ceiling runners may be used provided they hold the top of the studs securely in line.

D1.2.3—Ends of channel studs may be bent and nailed directly to the floor or to a wood runner, or stud ends may be set in holes cut in the top of concrete floors or into special types of metal floor runners.

note: Consult manufacturers' catalogs for additional information on metal base.

D1.2.4—Where two-piece studs are used, they shall be spliced within 2' of the ceiling by lapping not less than 8", with flanges interlocked and securely wired near each end of splice. Single-piece studs shall be of such length that they will not bow when erected.

D1.2.5—Horizontal bracing attachments for braced furring shall consist of nails driven securely into concrete or into masonry joints, or short pieces of $\frac{3}{4}$ " cold-rolled channels used as anchors or braces shall be driven into masonry joints. Horizontal braces shall be spaced not to exceed 2' on centers, horizontally, and in accordance with the spacing of horizontal stiffeners, vertically, not to exceed limits denoted in Table VI-B, and shall project a proper distance from the face of the wall to permit ties to be made.

Horizontal stiffeners shall be securely tied to horizontal braces or anchors with three loops of No. 18 gage galvanized annealed wire, or equivalent devices.

Special devices which are the equivalent of the nail or channel attachments may be used in lieu thereof.

D1.2.6—Horizontal stiffeners for all vertical furring shall be not less than $\frac{3}{4}$ " cold-rolled channels. They shall be spaced not to exceed 4'-6" on centers for stud spacing up to 16" on centers. Prefabricated studs, $1\frac{1}{2}$ ", or 2" channel studs may be spaced more than 16" on centers; however, the stiffeners then shall be spaced not to exceed 3'-6" on centers vertically. The upper and lower stiffeners in either case shall not be more than 6" from the floor and ceiling, respectively. All stiffeners shall be not less than $\frac{1}{4}$ " from the face of the wall.

note: If vertical studs are securely anchored to floor and ceiling, horizontal stiffeners specified for use within 6" of such floor and ceiling on either braced or free-standing furring, may be omitted.

Special devices, securely attached to concrete or masonry walls, in lieu of horizontal stiffeners, may be used for support of studs.

D1.2.7—Studs for all vertical furring shall be saddle-tied to horizontal stiffeners with three loops of No. 18 gage galvanized annealed wire, or equivalent devices, at each crossing, and securely anchored to the floor and ceiling construction.

Where furring is a considerable distance from the face of the wall, channel braces to the wall shall be provided approximately 2' on centers.

Studs for free-standing furring shall be securely anchored to the floor and ceiling construction only.

D1.2.8—Wood grounds and wood nailing strips shall be set true to the plaster line and wired to studs, or nailed to blocks which shall be securely wired or clamped to studs.

2.1—MATERIALS

2.1.1—Metal Lath shall be Diamond Mesh weighing not less than 3.4 lbs. per square yard, Flat Rib Lath weighing not less than 2.75 lbs. per square yard, $\frac{3}{8}$ " Rib Lath weighing not less than 3.4 lbs. per square yard, or Sheet Lath.

2.1.2—Metal runners shall be perforated, slotted, or formed of expanded metal. Legs of angle runners shall be not less than $\frac{1}{2}$ " by 2", formed of not less than 28 ga. steel.

2.1.3—Wood floor runners shall be well dried, prime painted and a full 2" wide by 1 $\frac{5}{8}$ " high. For one-hour fire resistive partitions, wood runners shall be treated with a fire retardant material approved by the architect.

2.1.4—Metal base and metal clips shall be approved by the architect. (Note: See catalogs of metal lath manufacturers for various types of metal base assemblies.)

2.1.5—Tie wire shall be not less than No. 18 gage galvanized annealed wire.

2.2—METAL LATHING

2.2.1—Metal base clips or wood floor runners shall be attached to the floors to locate the partitions accurately according to plan drawings. Fastenings suitable to floor materials shall be used.

2.2.2—Ceiling runners shall be located so that the Metal Lath will be in the center of the partitions and plumb. Runners shall be fastened to concrete ceilings with stub nails, expansion drives or other equivalent means. Runners shall be fastened to Metal Lath ceilings with wire ties at approximately 12" spacings.

2.2.3—Metal Lath shall be erected with the long dimension of the sheet vertical. Sheets shall be secured first to ceiling runners with wire ties at 8" o.c. and either attached to floor runners, or metal base clips, or suitably anchored in a grouted metal base assembly. A wire tie shall be placed where sheets lap at runners.

2.2.4—Diamond Mesh Lath shall be lapped at sides not less than $\frac{1}{2}$ ". Rib Metal Lath and Sheet Lath shall be lapped by nesting outside ribs or selvage. Vertical laps shall be tied at intervals not exceeding 12".

2.2.5—Where studless partitions intersect walls to be plastered, Cornerite shall be used to reinforce the juncture. It shall be tied at each edge, not at the angle, to the intersecting lath at 6" vertical spacings. When Diamond Mesh Lath is used in the studless partition, Cornerite can be omitted by returning the partition lath and fastening it to the intersecting surface. L-type runner shall be fastened to abutting walls which are not to be plastered, and the Metal Lath wired to the runner so that the complete assembly is embedded in the plastered partition.

2.3—TEMPORARY BRACING

2.3.1—Partitions shall be temporarily braced until such time as the scratch and brown coats of plaster on the unbraced side have been applied and are set.

2.4—BUCKS

2.4.1—A channel stud shall be wire tied or bolted to anchor clips on each side of metal door bucks or wire tied to pairs of 8d nails driven into wood bucks or screwed to wood bucks; and so placed as to provide space for tying Metal Lath to the stud. These studs may be continuous from floor to ceiling or they may be anchored to and extend only from the upper portion of the buck to the ceiling. (Alternate: If desired, studs need not extend to ceiling, or may be omitted if other means of attaching lath is provided and buck is braced.)

note: Regarding installation of bucks, see section 1.4 (page 5).

note: Hollow metal door bucks should be filled with plaster.

2.5—PLASTERING

2.5.1—Plastering shall be five-coat work. First apply scratch coat on side opposite temporary braces and allow it to set and partially dry. Then apply brown coat to unbraced side, and when it has set firm

Studless Solid Metal Lath and Plaster Partition with Diamond Mesh or $\frac{3}{8}$ " Rib Lath (Method of attachment to floor not detailed) Optimum height—8'-4" or less
Maximum height—10'-0"

remove the temporary bracing. Next apply back-up coat to side which was braced, bringing it out to make overall partition thickness 2" including finish coats.

note: Regarding type and use of plaster, see section 1.5 (page 5).

2.6—METAL BASE SCREED, PICTURE MOLD, INTEGRAL METAL TRIM, CORNER BEAD, PARTITION CAPS

2.6.1—Metal base screed, picture mold, or integral metal trim shall be wired to Metal Lath through holes provided in the screed, mold, or trim, and, where necessary, shimmed-out to line. Metal base shall be installed according to the manufacturer's specifications.

2.6.2—All external angles to be plastered shall be protected with galvanized expanded wing or perforated corner beads. Corner bead shall be attached securely in such manner as to assure proper alignment during application of plaster, and for proper plaster thickness.

2.6.3—Partition edges at openings and ends shall be protected by galvanized metal partition caps or suitable casing beads.

2.7—ELECTRICAL CONDUIT, SWITCH BOXES, ETC.

2.7.1—Electrical Installation—Electrical outlets shall not exceed 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ " in depth for 2" solid partitions. The back of outlet and switch boxes shall be covered with Metal Lath.

note: To minimize sound conduction it is recommended that telephone boxes, etc., in adjoining hotel rooms, apartments, etc., be installed on outside walls of the room or on non-communicating partitions.

General Specifications No. 3

Metal Lath Attached Directly to Wood Supports (Studs and Joists)

3.1—WEIGHTS OF METAL LATH

3.1.1—All Metal Lath shall be specified by weight per square yard in accordance with the spacing of supports as given in Table I (on page 4).

3.2—ERECTION OF METAL LATH

3.2.1—Metal Lath shall be applied with the long dimension of the sheet across the supports; Rib Metal Lath with the ribs against the supports.

3.2.2—Diamond Mesh Metal Lath shall be lapped at sides not less than $\frac{1}{2}$ " and at ends not less than 1". End laps of sheets should generally occur only over supports; if between, ends of sheets shall be laced or adequately tied with No. 18 gage galvanized annealed wire.

3.2.3—Rib Metal Lath and Sheet Lath shall be lapped at sides by nesting outside ribs or selvage. Rib Metal Lath shall be lapped 1" at ends and Sheet Lath shall be lapped 1" at ends or nested.

3.2.4—Diamond Mesh Metal Lath shall be first applied to the ceilings, and the sheets carried down 6" on to the walls and partitions. If Metal Lath is not used on the ceilings, the lathing may start at the top of the wall and be bent and carried up 6" on to the ceiling joists so that no joints occur at juncture of ceiling and walls. On walls, Diamond Mesh Metal Lath shall be started one stud away from corner and be bent into the corner and carried on to the abutting wall, so as to avoid a joint at juncture of walls, provided that where Rib Metal Lath or Sheet Lath is used on ceilings or walls, it shall be butted into all corners and Cornerite shall be applied over abutting lath in such angles and shall be wired at 6" intervals along each edge in all corners. (Cornerite shall not be fastened at its corner, but only along each edge. Cornerite is not required for Diamond Mesh Metal Lath carried around the corner.)

3.2.5—Nails and staples shall be spaced not to exceed 6" on centers.

supplementary specification no. 3-A

A3.2.6—Diamond Mesh Metal Lath or Flat Rib Metal Lath shall be attached to vertical wood supports with not less than 4d common nails or 1" roofing nails with $\frac{7}{16}$ " diameter heads, driven to a penetration of at least $\frac{3}{4}$ ", or 1" No. 14 gage wire staples driven home but without crushing the lath strands.

$\frac{3}{8}$ " Rib Metal Lath and Sheet Lath shall be attached to vertical wood supports with nails or staples $\frac{3}{8}$ " longer than respectively required for other laths as above, unless attachment is through rib, in which event nails or staples shall be of such length as to provide at least $\frac{3}{4}$ " penetration in the vertical wood supports.

supplementary specification no. 3-B

B3.2.6—Diamond Mesh Metal Lath and Flat Rib Metal Lath shall be attached to horizontal wood supports with $1\frac{1}{2}$ ", No. 11 gage, barbed roofing nails with $\frac{7}{16}$ " diameter heads, spaced not to exceed 6" on centers.

$\frac{3}{8}$ " Rib Metal Lath and Sheet Lath shall be attached to horizontal wood supports with nails $\frac{3}{8}$ " longer than respectively required for other laths as above, unless attachment is through rib, in which event nails shall be of such length as to provide at least $1\frac{3}{8}$ " penetration in the horizontal wood supports.

Metal Lath Ceiling Directly Attached to the Underside of Wood Joists

A tie, nail or other attachment shall always be placed where sides of sheets lap at supports.

Common nails, when used, shall be bent over to engage at least three strands of Diamond Mesh Metal Lath, or shall be bent over the ribs of Flat Rib Metal Lath. Roofing nails shall be so driven as to engage at least two strands of Diamond Mesh Metal Lath, or shall be driven through ribs of Flat Rib Metal Lath. Staples shall be so driven as to engage at least two strands of Diamond Mesh Metal Lath, or shall be driven over the ribs of Flat Rib Metal Lath.

3.3—ALTERNATE METHODS

3.3.1—Other methods of attachment which afford equal carrying capacity may be used.

note: Regarding ventilation, see section 6.5.4 (page 16).

METAL LATH NAILED TO WOOD STUDS

Metal Lath and Plaster on Wood Studs

METAL LATH NAILED TO WOOD JOISTS (Contact Ceiling)

note: This construction should be used where the required holding power of nails is not obtainable, and in structures subject to greater-than-ordinary vibration, such as (1) School classrooms, gymnasiums, auditoriums, and other places of public assembly; (2) Buildings located in areas subject to severe earthquakes, or near oil well drilling or quarrying operations, etc.

C3.2.6—Diamond Mesh Metal Lath and Flat Rib Metal Lath shall be attached to horizontal wood supports with $1\frac{1}{2}$ " No. 11 gage, barbed roofing nails with $\frac{7}{16}$ " heads spaced not to exceed 6" on centers.

$\frac{3}{8}$ " Rib Metal Lath and Sheet Lath shall be attached to horizontal wood supports with nails $\frac{3}{8}$ " longer than respectively required for other laths as above, unless attachment is through rib, in which event nails shall be of such length as to provide at least $1\frac{3}{8}$ " penetration in the horizontal wood supports.

C3.2.7—Supplemental Provisions for Tying: 16d common nails shall be driven in a horizontal position clear through joists at least 2" above the bottom edge of joists. Nails shall be spaced 24" or 27" on centers along the sides of alternate joists, the spacing depending on the width of Metal Lath sheet used, and shall be so placed that when the sheets of Metal Lath are in position the nails will be not more than 3" back from the edge of each sheet. In place of 16d common nails driven clear through joists, two 8d common nails may be used, one on each side of joist, driven diagonally downward to a penetration of at least $1\frac{1}{2}$ " from a point not less than 2" above the bottom edge of joists.

Metal Lath Ceiling Tied-and-Nailed to Wood Joists

Metal Lath shall then be secured to each nail with not less than 2 loops of No. 18 gage galvanized annealed tie wire bent U-shaped, pushed up through the lath and the free ends given not less than three twists around the projecting point and head of the nail (or around the projecting head of each 8d nail). As an alternate method, one loop of No. 18 gage galvanized annealed wire shall be slipped over the nail on each side of the joist and the ends of this loop tied below lath. This tying shall preferably be done progressively as the sheets of Metal Lath are nailed on.

Metal Lath Attached to Noncombustible Ceiling Supports (Contact Ceiling)

4.1—WEIGHTS OF METAL LATH

4.1.1—All Metal Lath shall be specified by weight per square yard in accordance with the spacing of supports as given in Table I (on page 4).

4.2—ERECTION OF METAL LATH

4.2.1—Metal Lath shall be applied with the long dimension of the sheet across supports; Rib Metal Lath with the ribs against supports.

4.2.2—Diamond Mesh Metal Lath shall be lapped at sides not less than $\frac{1}{2}$ ", and at ends not less than 1". End laps of sheets should generally occur only over supports; if between, ends of sheets shall be laced or adequately tied with No. 18 gage galvanized annealed wire.

4.2.3—Rib Metal Lath and Sheet Lath shall be lapped at sides by nesting outside ribs or selvage. Rib Metal Lath shall be lapped 1" at ends and Sheet Lath shall be lapped 1" at ends or nested.

4.2.4—Diamond Mesh Metal Lath shall be first applied to the ceilings and the sheets carried down 6" on to the walls and partitions, if walls and partitions are to be plastered, so that no joints occur at juncture of ceiling and walls. Where Rib Metal Lath or Sheet Lath is used on ceilings, and walls and partitions are to be plastered, it shall be butted into all corners and Cornerite shall be applied over abutting lath in such angles and shall be wired at 6" intervals along each edge. (Cornerite shall not be fastened at its corner, but only along each edge. Cornerite is not required for Diamond Mesh Metal Lath carried around the corner.)

4.2.5 etc.—

Lath as for tie wire. Ties shall be spaced at not to exceed 6" intervals. Other approved attachments may be used if of equivalent strength. Ties shall be placed where sides of sheets lap at supports and at side laps of sheets between supports.

Metal Lath and Plaster Ceiling Attached Directly to the Underside of Steel Joists

supplementary specification no. 4-B

(To be used in conjunction with Specification No. 4, page 12)

B4.2.5—Hangers for attaching Metal Lath directly to the underside of concrete joists in 20" or 30" wide form construction shall consist of hairpin, hook or loop hangers or other inserts. Hangers shall be provided with a loop or other deformation to positively enter the concrete, or be secured to the reinforcing steel.

Hangers shall be of not less than No. 14 gage galvanized wire when twisted as for tie wire or not less than No. 10 gage galvanized wire when struck over to support the lath. Hangers shall be spaced at not to exceed 5" intervals along bottom of joists.

For 30" wide form construction, there shall also be placed a No. 12 gage galvanized wire hanger through the center of the top surface of each row of forms, and spaced at not to exceed 36" centers longitudinally. There shall be a loop in each hanger to engage the concrete.

Other approved attachments or inserts of equivalent strength may be used.

B4.2.6—In 30" wide form construction, $\frac{3}{4}$ " cold-rolled channels weighing not less than 300 lbs. per 1000 lineal feet shall be erected running parallel to and between the rows of joists at approximately 36" centers, or mid-point. Hangers shall be spaced not to exceed 36" along the channels.

B4.2.7—In 20" wide form construction, the Metal Lath shall be securely attached to the underside of the concrete joists by twisting the No. 14 gage wire hangers as for tie wire, or by clinching of other types of hangers. A tie shall be placed at side laps of sheets between supports.

METAL LATH ATTACHED TO CONCRETE JOISTS (Contact Ceiling)

B4.2.8—In 30" wide form construction, the Metal Lath shall be attached to the concrete joists as in 20" wide form construction and shall also be tied to the channels with No. 18 gage galvanized annealed wire at not to exceed 6" intervals. A tie shall be placed at side laps of sheets between supports.

Metal Lath Ceiling Attached Directly to the Underside of Concrete Joists

5.1—WEIGHTS OF METAL LATH

5.1.1—All Metal Lath shall be specified by weight per square yard in accordance with the spacing of supports as given in Table I (on page 4).

5.2—ERECTION OF FURRING

5.2.1—Size—Furring members shall be $\frac{3}{8}$ " pencil rods or $\frac{3}{4}$ " cold-rolled channels, spaced in accordance with the provisions of Table VII (on page 16). When furring members are spliced, the ends shall be overlapped not less than 8" (with flanges of channels interlocked) and securely tied near each end of the splice with two loops of No. 16 gage galvanized wire.

5.2.2 etc.—

Insert here applicable supplementary specification as follows:

5.3—ERECTION OF METAL LATH

5.3.1—Metal Lath shall be applied with the long dimension of the sheet across supports; Rib Metal Lath with the ribs against supports.

5.3.2—Metal Lath shall be attached to the steel furring members by No. 18 gage galvanized annealed wire ties spaced at not to exceed 6" intervals. Ties shall be placed where sides of sheets lap at supports and at side laps of sheets between supports.

5.3.3—Diamond Mesh Metal Lath shall be lapped not less than $\frac{1}{2}$ " at sides; Rib Metal Lath and Sheet Lath shall be lapped at sides by nesting outside ribs or selvage. All Metal Lath shall be lapped 1" at ends or nested.

5.3.4—End laps of sheets should generally occur only over supports; if between, ends of sheets shall be laced or adequately tied together with No. 18 gage galvanized annealed tie wire.

5.3.5—Diamond Mesh Metal Lath shall be first applied to the ceiling and the sheets carried down 6" on to the walls and partitions so that no joints occur at juncture of ceiling and walls. Where Rib Metal Lath or Sheet Lath is used on ceilings, and walls and partitions are to be plastered, it shall be butted into all corners and Cornerite shall be applied over abutting lath in such angles and shall be wired at 6" intervals along each edge. (Cornerite shall not be fastened at its corner, but only along each edge. Cornerite is not required for Diamond Mesh Metal Lath carried around the corner.)

note: Regarding ventilation, see section 6.5.4 (page 16).

supplementary specification no. 5-B

(To be used in conjunction with Specification No. 5 above)

B 5.2.2—Hangers—In 20" or 30" wide form construction, hangers for supporting furring channels or pencil rods against the bottom of concrete joists shall consist of No. 10 gage galvanized wire.

In 20" wide form construction, hangers shall be placed through the center of the top surface of each row of forms and shall be spaced at not to exceed 36" centers longitudinally. In 30" wide form construction, hangers shall be placed at the center of the top surface in every other row of forms and shall be spaced at not to exceed 36" centers longitudinally. In the alternate rows in 30" wide form construction, there shall also be placed two No. 10 gage galvanized wire hangers at not to exceed 36" on centers longitudinally in the top surface of the forms approximately 2" from each side.

All hangers shall be provided with a loop or other deformation to positively enter the concrete, or be secured to the reinforcing steel.

All hangers shall be of such length that the lower end of hangers may be saddle-tied or wrapped around the runners so as to develop the full strength of the hangers.

Other approved attachments or inserts may be used if of equivalent strength.

B5.2.3—Channels— $\frac{3}{4}$ " cold-rolled channels, weighing not less than 300 lbs. per 1000 lineal feet, shall be erected running parallel to and between the rows of joists.

Cross furring shall run transversely to the joists and runners, and shall consist of $\frac{3}{8}$ " round steel pencil rods at not to exceed 19" on centers.

The cross furring shall be securely saddle-tied to the runner channels by not less than No. 16 gage galvanized wire at each crossing or by equivalent clips or attachments.

Metal Lath Furred Ceiling on the Underside of Concrete Joists

supplementary specification no. 5-C

(To be used in conjunction with Specification No. 5, page 14)

note: This construction is recommended where increased fire retardance is essential, or where the finest job of plastering is desired. It is also especially recommended for structures subject to greater-than-ordinary vibration and where a very high factor of safety is desirable, such as in school buildings, auditoriums, or other places of public assembly.

C5.2.2—16d common nails shall be driven in a horizontal position clear through each joist at least 2" above the bottom edge of joist. Nails shall be spaced to conform to the spacing of furring members, and shall be so aligned that furring members will be at right angles to the joists. In place of 16d common nails driven clear through the joists, two 8d common nails may be used, one on each side of joist, driven diagonally downward to a penetration of at least $1\frac{1}{2}$ " from a point not less than 2" above the bottom edge of joists.

C5.2.3—Channel or pencil rod furring shall be attached flush against the bottom edges of joists by securely saddle-tying the furring to each nail with not less than No. 18 gage galvanized annealed tie wire.

Metal Lath Furred Ceiling on the Underside of Wood Joists

General Specifications No. 6

Suspended Metal Lath Ceilings Below: Steel Construction - Concrete Flat Slab Construction - Concrete Joist Construction Wood Construction

6.1—SIZE AND SPACING OF RUNNERS AND CROSS FURRING

6.1.1—Size and spacing of channels for main runners shall conform to Table VIII, and such runners shall be cross furred with pencil rods or channels of the size and at the spacing required in Table VII. (It is recommended that when main runners are suspended from joists that they run transverse to the direction of the joists.) Neither main runners nor cross furring shall be let into nor come in contact with abutting masonry or reinforced concrete walls or partitions. A main runner shall be located within 6" of the wall to support the ends of the cross furring, and hangers shall be located to support the ends of the main runners.

When main runners are spliced, the ends shall be overlapped not less than 12" (with flanges of channels interlocked) and securely tied near each end of the splice with two loops of No. 16 gage galvanized wire.

6.2—ATTACHMENT OF CROSS FURRING TO RUNNERS

6.2.1—The cross furring shall be securely saddle-tied to the main runners by not less than No. 16 gage galvanized wire at each crossing, or by No. 9 gage wire hairpin clips or equivalent clips or attachments. When furring members are spliced, the ends shall be overlapped not less than 8" (with flanges of channels interlocked) and securely tied near each end of the splice with two loops of No. 16 gage galvanized wire.

6.3—TYPES OF METAL LATH AND ATTACHMENT TO FURRING

6.3.1—Metal Lath, of one of the types and weights listed in Table I (page 4) for the corresponding spacing of furring, shall be attached to the furring members with the long dimension of the sheet across the furring, and shall be carried down 6" on to the walls and partitions, or Cornerite shall be used.

note: This subsection provides for continuity of ceilings, walls, and partitions. For unrestrained or broken continuity of ceiling areas, see section 6.5.5.

6.3.2—Metal Lath shall be attached to the steel furring members by No. 18 gage galvanized annealed wire ties spaced at not to exceed 6" intervals. Ties shall be placed where sides of sheets lap at supports and at side laps of sheets between supports.

6.3.3—Diamond Mesh Metal Lath shall be lapped not less than 1/2" at sides; Rib Metal Lath shall be lapped at sides by nesting outside ribs or selvage. All metal Lath shall lap 1" at ends.

6.3.4—End laps of sheets should generally occur only over supports; if between, ends of sheets shall be laced or adequately tied together with No. 18 gage galvanized annealed tie wire.

6.4—HANGERS

6.4.1—All wire hangers shall be of such length that the lower ends of hangers may be saddle-tied or wrapped around the runners so as to prevent turning or twisting of the runners and to develop the full strength of the hangers.

6.4.2—All wire hangers shall be Type 1 galvanized.

6.4.3 etc.—

TABLE VII

SIZE AND SPACING OF CROSS FURRING FOR FURRED AND SUSPENDED CEILINGS BASED ON SPAN OF LATH

Center to Center Spacing of Supports	Cross Furring Size, Type and Weight	Maximum Spacing
Up to 2'	3/8" pencil rods	19"
Up to 2'-6"	3/8" pencil rods	12"
Up to 3'		24"
Up to 3'-6"	3/4" cold-rolled channels @ 300 lbs. per 1000 feet	19"
Up to 4'		16"

TABLE VIII

SIZE AND SPACING OF MAIN RUNNERS FOR SUSPENDED CEILINGS

Center to Center Spacing of Hangers Along Runners	Size of Cold-Rolled Channel	Main Runners (Weight per 1000 feet)	Maximum Center to Center Spacing of Runners
Up to 2'	3/4"	300 lbs.	3'
Up to 3' (1)	3/4"	300 lbs.	27"
Up to 3'	1 1/2"	475 lbs.	4'
Up to 3'-6"	1 1/2"	475 lbs.	3'-6"
Up to 4'	1 1/2"	475 lbs.	3'
Up to 5'	2"	590 lbs.	3'-6"

note—Where hangers are spaced not to exceed 24" on centers along each runner or carrying channel, cross furring channels may be omitted and lath attached crosswise and directly to runner channels; provided, however, that spacing center to center of such runner channels shall not exceed the limits specified in TABLE I (page 4).

(1) This spacing for concrete joist construction only.

TABLE IX

SIZE AND SPACING OF HANGERS FOR SUSPENDED CEILINGS

Maximum Ceiling Area Supported Per Hanger	Maximum Center to Center Spacing of Hangers Along Runners	Minimum Size of Gage Galvanized Wire	Alternate Types and Sizes of Hangers for Areas Up to 17.5 Sq. Ft.
Up to 12.5 sq. ft.	4'	No. 9
Up to 16.0 sq. ft.	4'	No. 8	3/16" or 1/4" round mild steel rods or 1 x 3/16" flat mild steel bars
Up to 17.5 sq. ft.	5'	No. 7

6.5—SUPPLEMENTAL INSTALLATION PROVISIONS

6.5.1—Protection of hangers—Rod and flat hangers may be ordinary unpainted mild steel, except where there is excessive moisture or corrosive fumes, all rod and flat hangers shall be coated with rust-inhibitive paint. Painting also is recommended for theaters and auditoriums, and large ceilings in public buildings.

In Concrete Joist Construction, 1/4" round mild steel hangers may be placed 48" on center in alternate rows of concrete joists in 20" wide form construction.

6.5.2—Attachment of flat hangers to main runner (carrying) channels—Lower ends of flat steel hangers shall have holes punched at the proper distance (but not closer than 3/8" from ends) to which the runner channel shall be bolted with not less than 3/8" diameter bolts, provided that for ceiling over auditoriums, theaters and other public buildings and elsewhere where an added factor of safety is desirable, the lower end of flat steel hangers shall be long enough to bend up sharply as stirrups under runner channel to which they shall be bolted as already described, and shall continue up and be securely tied to main portion of hanger not less than 6" above runner channel.

(If live loads or additional dead loads are contemplated, hanger and channel sizes, and method of attachment must be designed accordingly.)

6.5.3—Hangers to resist compression—In regions subject to tornadoes or cyclones, where upward pressures are likely to be exerted or where suspended ceiling areas are exposed to high winds through outside openings during construction, hangers shall either be of a type to resist compression, or struts of 3/4" channels or tees (of heavier size where hangers exceed 4' o.c.) may be used. These struts shall be used vertically between runner channels and the construction above, being spaced not to exceed 8' o.c. in both directions. They shall be in addition to the regular hangers.

6.5.4—Ventilating—Where lath and plaster ceilings are located under roof construction, it is recommended that the space thus established be ventilated. Such ventilation shall be designed in accordance with accepted engineering practice.

6.5.5—Unrestrained ceilings—Unrestrained ceilings having perimeters separated from adjacent walls or partitions shall be edged by galvanized casing beads with expanded or perforated wings, or similar metal plastering accessories to provide an unrestrained periphery.

(To be used in conjunction with Specification No. 6, page 16)

A6.4.3—Size and spacing of hangers for Metal Lath ceilings suspended from steel construction shall be as provided in Table IX, (page 16).

A6.4.4—For steel beams, joists or other steel construction hangers shall be wrapped around, inserted through, or clipped or bolted to steel structural supports, so as to develop the full strength of the hangers. All wire hangers shall be of ample length such that the lower end of hangers may be saddle-tied or wrapped around the runners so as to develop the full strength of the hangers.

(To be used in conjunction with Specification No. 6, page 16)

B6.4.3—Size and spacing of hangers for Metal Lath ceilings suspended from concrete flat slab construction shall be as provided in Table IX (page 16).

B6.4.4—Hangers shall be secured to steel reinforcement in concrete with cinder aggregate and may be secured to steel reinforcement or looped or embedded in concrete with other types of aggregates.

B6.4.5—Special inserts, at least equivalent in strength to the hangers, to which the hangers can later be attached, may be inserted through or attached to the top of the forms in lieu of anchoring the hangers directly in the concrete.

SUSPENDED CEILINGS OF METAL LATH BELOW CONCRETE FLAT SLAB CONSTRUCTION

supplementary specification no. 6-C

(To be used in conjunction with Specification No. 6, page 16)

C6.4.3—Size of hangers for Metal Lath ceilings suspended from concrete joist construction shall be as provided in Table IX (page 16)

C6.4.4—Hangers shall be inserted through the centering at the bottom of joists, and shall be provided with a loop or other deformation to positively enter the concrete, or be secured to the reinforcing steel.

In 20" wide form construction, hangers shall be placed in alternate rows of concrete joists. In 30" wide form construction, hangers shall be placed in each row of joists.

Other approved attachments or inserts may be used if of equivalent strength.

SUSPENDED CEILINGS OF METAL LATH BELOW CONCRETE JOIST CONSTRUCTION

SUSPENDED CEILINGS OF METAL LATH BELOW WOOD CONSTRUCTION

(To be used in conjunction with Specification No. 6, page 16)

D6.4.3—Size and spacing of hangers for Metal Lath ceilings suspended from wood construction shall be as provided in Table IX (page 16).

D6.4.4—Wire hangers shall be inserted in holes drilled a minimum of 3" above bottom of joists and with the upper end of the hanger in each case twisted three times around itself, or D6.4.5—Wire hangers shall be attached to 30d nails, driven on a downward slant into sides of joists which are sufficiently wide to permit not less than 3" penetration into the wood. Such nails shall be driven at least 5" from bottom edges and not over 36" on centers, with the upper end of the hanger in each case twisted three times around itself, or D6.4.6—Four 1½" No. 9 gage wire staples shall be used to secure wire hangers to the side of joists. Staples shall be driven horizontally or on a downward slant, three near the upper end of the loop and the fourth to fasten the loose end, or D6.4.7—When purlins exceed spacings of 4' o.c., 1½" No. 0 screw eyes shall be fastened into heavy wood flooring at not over 3' o.c. so that they will support an area not over 9 square feet, with upper end of hanger to be inserted in screw eye and in each case twisted three times around itself. (This spacing is determined on resistance to withdrawal of the No. 0 screw eye in Northern White Pine.) When wood offering greater resistance is used, the spacing may be slightly increased or a smaller size screw eye would be permitted.

Example: A No. 4 screw eye in Douglas Fir has equivalent resistance to withdrawal to a No. 0 in Northern White Pine, or D6.4.8—Flat hangers, if used, shall be spiked to sides of joists with two 12d nails driven through holes drilled in the hanger and clinched at least 3" above bottom of joists.

Specifications No. 7

Metal Lath Beam Boxes and Cornices

7.1—SIZE, WEIGHT AND SPACING OF BRACKETS

7.1.1—Brackets shall be formed of ¾" cold-rolled channels weighing not less than 300 lbs. per 1000 lineal feet, or from ⅝" by 1" flat steel, and shall be spaced as follows:

7.1.2—Where ¾" cold-rolled channels are used for longitudinal furring each member of the cornice or beam box brackets shall be not more than 3'-0" apart.

7.1.3—Where ¼" pencil rods are used to fur each member, brackets shall not exceed 19" apart.

7.1.4—Where furring is not intended to be used at each member, brackets shall not exceed 13½" on centers for 3.4 lb. Diamond Mesh Metal Lath, provided that at least one runner bar or channel shall be installed to hold work in proper shape.

7.2—TIE WIRE

7.2.1—Wire for tying brackets to structural members shall be not less than No. 14 gage galvanized wire using saddle tie, or use six loops of No. 18 gage galvanized annealed wire; for tying longitudinal rods to brackets, wire shall be not less than No. 18 gage galvanized annealed wire, and for tying Metal Lath to rods or channels, wire shall be not less than No. 18 gage galvanized annealed wire.

7.3—ERECTION OF BRACKETS, CHANNELS AND RODS

7.3.1—Brackets shall be formed to template to require a minimum of plaster (but in no case less than ¾" thickness), in accordance with details furnished by the architect. Brackets shall be securely wired, bolted or clamped to walls, ceilings, or structural members, as the case may require, and be spaced as in Section 7.1 preceding. For fastening brackets to concrete or masonry beams or walls, holes shall be drilled and plugged, or other equally strong anchorage shall be provided; when fastening to terra cotta, toggle bolts or suitable anchor shall be used.

Metal Lath and Plaster Beam Box Formed as Part of a Suspended Ceiling

7.3.2—Longitudinal channels or rods shall be wire tied or bolted to brackets.

7.4—ERECTION OF METAL LATH

7.4.1—Metal Lath shall be applied to the longitudinal channels or rods or direct to brackets and be bent into and made to conform with the outline of the finished beam or cornice. Side laps shall not occur at the corners, but lath shall be carried around to the next member, or corner strips shall be used at all corners.

Specifications No. 8

Metal Lath and Plaster Protection for Steel Columns

Optional Methods for Lathing Steel Columns

8.1—METAL LATH

8.1.1—Metal Lath shall be Diamond Mesh or Self-Furring and weigh not less than 3.4 lbs. per square yard.

8.2—ERECTION OF LATH

8.2.1—Metal Lath shall be formed to fit around the column and shall be furred at least $\frac{1}{4}$ " from the face of the steel flange to provide space for the plaster to key. Self-Furring Metal Lath requires no additional furring devices. Diamond-Mesh Metal Lath shall be furred with channel brackets, special clips or L-shaped spacers cut from Metal Lath and inserted horizontally between the lath and the column flanges.

8.3—CORNER BEAD

8.3.1—Corner beads shall be fastened at each corner with steel clips or wire ties so that they are rigid, straight and adjusted to permit the required thickness of plaster.

8.4—PLASTER

8.4.1—Lightweight aggregate-gypsum plaster shall be used for two, three and four-hour fire protection. For one-hour protection, gypsum-sanded plaster may be used. (Consult local building code for thickness of plaster required and proportions of plaster mix. Complete data on fireproofing with Metal Lath and plaster is available from the Metal Lath Manufacturers Association. Write for Technical Bulletin Nos. 3 and 8.)

note: For enclosure of columns with vertical furring see supplementary Specification No. 1-D (page 9).

Specifications No. 9

Metal Lath for Reinforcing Exterior Stucco on Steel Frame Construction

9.1—STUDDING OR FURRING FOR METAL LATH

9.1.1—Studding or furring of light steel channels, pressed steel members, steel reinforcing rods or metal studs, spaced as required by the particular system of wall construction used, shall be securely fastened to the structural frame by wire ties or clips, by bolting or by welding. Steel channels and pressed steel members shall be furnished to the job painted with one factory or shop coat of rust-inhibitive paint.

9.2—METAL LATH

9.2.1—Reinforcement shall be not less than 3.4 lb. Diamond Mesh Metal Lath expanded from galvanized sheets or coated with rust inhibitive paint after fabrication, for which supports shall be spaced not more than 16" on centers. Unless back-plastered construction is employed, Rib Metal Lath shall not be used. Lath shall be applied with the long dimension of the sheet across supports and shall be attached to the studs or furring by wire ties of No. 18 gage galvanized annealed tie wire, or by nailing or by equivalent attachments, spaced at intervals not exceeding 6" along such studs or furring members. Lath shall be lapped at sides not less than $\frac{1}{2}$ ", and at ends not less than 1". End laps of sheets should generally occur only over supports and shall be staggered; end laps of sheets between supports shall be securely laced together with No. 18 gage galvanized annealed tie wire. Sheets shall be returned around corners at least 4".

note: Spacing for supports in this Specification are established at a maximum of 16" based on the allowable span of the Metal Lath. When structural members exceed 16" spacing then provision should be made for intermediate support of the lath.

note: For additional information and specifications on portland cement stucco reinforced with Metal Lath or Expanded Metal Stucco Mesh write for Technical Bulletin No. 9.

Specifications No. 10

Metal Lath and Expanded Metal (Stucco Mesh) for Reinforcing Exterior Stucco on Wood Frame Construction

10.1—WHERE USED

10.1.1—Expanded Metal Lath (Diamond Mesh) or Expanded Metal Reinforcement (Stucco Mesh) shall be used for stucco base on all wood frame structures of open or sheathed type, over old masonry walls and all surfaces that do not provide a satisfactory bond for the stucco.

10.2—MATERIALS

10.2.1—Reinforcement shall be Diamond Mesh Metal Lath, weighing not less than 3.4 lb. per sq. yd. and expanded from galvanized sheets or coated with rust inhibitive paint after fabrication, or Expanded Metal Stucco Mesh weighing 1.8 lb. per sq. yd. and coated with a rust inhibitive paint. Diamond Mesh Metal Lath shall be used on all soffits and horizontal surfaces and for back-plaster construction.

10.3—ATTACHMENT TO WOOD SUPPORTS

10.3.1—Metal Lath or Stucco Mesh shall be attached at not greater than 6" intervals vertically and 16" horizontally with galvanized nails having a penetration into vertical wood supports of at least 1" and into horizontal wood supports of at least 1 3/8". It shall be spaced from the backing not less than 1/4" with furring nails or devices, or Self-Furring Metal Lath may be used.

Metal Lath shall be lapped 1/2" at sides and 1" at ends. Stucco Mesh shall be lapped one diamond at sides and ends.

End laps of sheets shall generally occur over supports and be staggered; and end laps of sheets between supports shall be laced together with No. 18 gage galvanized annealed tie wire. Sheets shall be started one stud away from the corner and be bent around so as to avoid a junction at the corner.

CORNER, JOINT AND OTHER REINFORCEMENT

1.0—CORNERS

1.1—All internal vertical and horizontal angles of any interior surfaces to be plastered (including gypsum lath and fibre-board lath) shall be continuously reinforced with Metal Lath Cornerite not less than 6" wide, 3" on each surface. Cornerite shall be attached at the outer edges.

All external angles to be plastered shall be protected with galvanized expanded wing or perforated corner beads.

2.0—LATH JOINTS

2.1—Wherever gypsum lath and similar materials are used as plaster bases, a strip of flat expanded Metal Lath (Stripite) not less than 4" wide shall be applied over joints between the sheets of such materials to reinforce the plaster.

3.0—OPENINGS

3.1—At all corners of openings more than 2 square feet in area in any surface to be plastered, strips of Metal Lath at least 12" wide and 24" long shall be attached over the plaster base at an angle of approximately 45 degrees. (Such additional reinforcement is not required over Metal Lath.)

4.0—CHASES AND DOOR BUCKS

4.1—All chases or similar openings in horizontal or vertical masonry surfaces or other solid bases to be plastered shall be covered with Metal Lath.

4.2—Where door buck jambs are continuous from floor to ceiling in masonry partitions to be plastered, that portion of the jamb above the header shall be covered with a strip of Metal Lath at least 12" wide and continuous from top of opening to ceiling.

4.3—The unexposed back of electrical outlet boxes in solid partitions shall be reinforced with Metal Lath before being covered with plaster.

5.0—INTERSECTION OF METAL LATH AND OTHER TYPES OF PLASTER BASES

5.1—Wherever Metal Lath abuts masonry, concrete or other types of bases that are to be plastered, the Metal Lath shall be returned or extended 6" onto the abutting plaster base.

6.0—DISSIMILAR MATERIALS

6.1—Where portland cement plaster is to be applied over gypsum lath or gypsum block, or where any surface to be plastered has been previously painted, or where any masonry surface to be plastered does not have adequate mechanical or chemical bond, the whole surface shall be covered with Metal Lath. (Self-Furring or "Dimpled" Lath is recommended for smooth surfaces so that the plaster can form a lasting key.)

John E. Rooney,
1888-1960

John E. Rooney, 71, President Emeritus of the O.P. & C.M.I.A., passed away in Cleveland, Ohio, after a long illness.

His friends throughout our International Union and the labor movement as well will long remember the name of John Rooney. He was a tried and true friend and I, as General President, enjoyed my relationship with him on many occasions. He always acted in the best interests of his membership and the labor movement.

John rose from an apprentice in 1909 and in 1920 he was elected a Vice President and still served his local in Cleveland as business agent. In 1929 he was appointed General First Vice President. In 1940 he was elected General President of the O.P. & C.M.I.A. and served in that capacity until illness forced his retirement in June, 1958. He then served as President Emeritus. Up until the time of his death he was a Vice President and member of the Executive Council of the AFL-CIO.

I know I speak for the Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers International Union, its executive board and members, in paying final tribute to our good friend, John Rooney, who will never be forgotten.

Lloyd A. Maskburn

DECISIONS OF THE GENERAL PRESIDENT

PUBLISHED IN ACCORDANCE WITH SECTION 23i(4), INTERNATIONAL CONSTITUTION:

"All appellate decisions of the General President and/or of the Executive Council and/or of the Convention must be published in the following issue of The Lather along with a short and concise synopsis of the case being decided."

Martin Moran, Jr. #38583, Versus Local 10

Brother Moran appealed against the action of Local 10 in fining him $25 for a violation of Article XV, Section 1 of the local's By-Laws and for a violation of Section 17j-1 of the L.I.U. Constitution. After carefully considering all evidence presented in this matter the General President found this brother not guilty due to extenuating circumstances and rescinded the fine.

Russell M. Brumley, #43334, Versus Local 40

Brother Brumley appealed against the action of Local 40 in fining him $100 for a violation of Section 17 (14) of the L.I.U. Constitution. After carefully considering all evidence presented in this matter the General President found this brother guilty and upheld the fine as placed.

Rhodell L. Thoman, #52821, and Judd Thoman, Jr., #44949 Versus Local 47

Brothers Rhodell L. Thoman and Judd Thoman, Jr., appealed against the action of Local 47 in fining them $100 each for a violation of Sections 24, 35, 43 of the local's By-Laws and Articles 7 and 10 of the Working Agreement of Local 47; and for a violation of 17j (1) (3) of the L.I.U. Constitution. After carefully considering all evidence presented in this matter the General President found these brothers guilty on failure to report in accordance with the L.I.U. Constitution but because of conflicting evidence on overtime reduced the fines from $100 each to $50 each.

Virgil Bean, #47577, and George Sahr, #53142, Versus Local 64

Brother Bean and Brother Sahr appealed against the action of Local 64 in fining them $100 each for a violation of the local's working agreement and By-Laws and a violation of Section 17j(14) of the L.I.U. Constitution. After carefully considering all evidence presented in this matter the General President found these brothers guilty and upheld the fines as placed.

Clifton C. Seats, #40679, Dale W. Tune, Jack L. Seats, #54905 and Chris Al Berning, Apprentice, Versus Local 202

Brothers Clifton C. Seats, Dale W. Tune, and Jack L. Seats appealed against the action of Local 202 in fining them $100 each for a violation of Section 17j(14) and Section 25a(c) of the L.I.U. Constitution; and Chris Al Berning appealed against the action of Local 202 in fining him $25 for a violation of Section 17j(14) L.I.U. Constitution. After considering all evidence presented in these cases the General President found these brothers not guilty and rescinded the fines as placed.

Francis T. Weber, #48625, Robert W. Linehan, #52643 Versus Local 483

Brothers Weber and Linehan appealed against the action of Local 483 in fining them $90 each for a violation of Section 54 of the local's By-Laws and for a violation of Section 17 of the L.I.U. Constitution. After carefully considering all evidence presented in this matter the General President found these brothers guilty but due to extenuating circumstances reduced the fines to $50 each.

Fred Crawford, #47578, Versus Local 547

Brother Crawford appealed against the action of Local 547 in fining him $25 for a violation of Section 17j(14) of the L.I.U. Constitution. After carefully considering all evidence presented in this case the General President found this brother guilty and upheld the fine as placed.

Wetzel's Tall As Goalies Go

But Could Be Another
Sawchuk

Goalies seldom come in king-size length for unexplained reasons.

Even Terry Sawchuk, whom Detroit's Jack Adams once termed the greatest of them all, isn't as tall as Carl Wetzel of the Omaha Knights.

"If Wetzel gets a good start with your team," Adams told General Manager J. J. Isaacson of Ak-Sar-Ben, "he could become another Sawchuk."

There's no reason to believe that shrewd Jack Adams has lost any skill at spotting hockey potential.

Quick As A Cat

Wetzel, six foot two, is quick as a cat. His long-coupled frame is part of the reason he plays in a spectacular jack-knife style.

The chin's near the ice for low shots. He holds the stick with the right hand, spears high shots like a first baseman with the other.

Wetzel has been at playing weight (170 pounds) for weeks as the result of working in the Detroit Red Wing camp.

During the off season the 20-year-old goalie is an apprentice lathe operator, following in his father's foot-steps. It is a three-year apprenticeship leading to journeyman's $3.90 an hour wage in Detroit, his home.

Unlike other hockey players, goalies born in the United States are not uncommon. Minnesota's Iron Range has produced a number of good ones.

Carl's mother was a Canadian but pure love of the game was what enticed him into "the world's lousiest job in sports."

High School End

He played end for his high school football team in Detroit, tried American Legion baseball two years, and turned down a hockey scholarship at Michigan U.

"I thought I could go further in hockey," he explained. "We lived about eight blocks from Olympia (Detroit Red Wing rink) and I started going there when I was 11.

"I idolized Sawchuk but I never thought I was copying his style especially. We all went there to beg tickets for the games. I've seen a lot of National League games."

You may never see him, but...

THIS U.S.G. MAN IS TRAINING MEN TO SERVE YOU BETTER

You'll probably never see this U.S.G. man, even though his specialty is lath and plaster. He's a training instructor whose job is to pass on his extensive knowledge to the United States Gypsum field sales force, in order that these carefully selected representatives may serve you better. This sales force, the largest and best trained in the industry, is always available for on-the-job counsel with contractors. In addition, these men sell your services to professional trade factor groups, and continually promote your products and practices in the area you serve. Yes, you may never see this man...but his "students" are always at your service!

Information on the Laying Out and Development of

Plain and Ornamental

Metal Lath Construction

For Apprentices and Journeymen

A 162 page book containing dozens of articles and over two hundred illustrations pertinent to the Lathing Industry.

Details of laying out and constructing all types (including the most complicated) of metal lath construction are included.

LATHERS Craft Problems and Reference Book Published
by
WOOD, WIRE AND METAL
LATHERS' INTERNATIONAL UNION

Starting out with a straight line and a true circle, the student is gradually taught how to lay out and erect the most complicated types of metal lath construction. You do not need a high-school education to understand and follow instructions in this book.

A Reference Book No One in The Lathing Industry Should Be Without.

The important information on HANGERS, contained in this book is worth its cost alone.

Among the many other articles contained in this book of "CRAFT PROBLEMS" are complete arch layouts, such as Semi-Circular, Gothic, Elliptical, Segmental, Moorish, Ogee, etc. (38 illustrations), Domed and Groined Ceilings (25 illustrations), Lunettes and Penetrations (23 illustrations), and other curved and vaulted ornamental ceilings, False Beams and Columns, Pilasters, straight and curved Mitres, Brackets developed from plaster details and erection of same, Suspended Ceilings, Partitions, Developing Polygons, Mechanical Methods of Division applied to actual construction, Angles, Degrees, Bisecting, etc., Mechanical Drawing, and pointers on how lines, breaks, sections, etc., are shown on blue prints, and many other subjects pertaining to the practical and technical education of lathers.

Thousands of copies are now being used in Apprentice and Journeymen Manual Training and Continuation Schools in the United States and Canada, also in shops and on the job by practical mechanics as a guide and reference book.

The contents of this book are a result of 25 years of study, research and actual experience, in the office, in the shop, on the job and as instructor of metal lath construction.

Price $2.25 per copy. Postpaid. Money order, postal note, certified or cashier's check with order.

MILCOR STYLE B ACCESS DOOR

You plaster over the recessed door panel — finish it flush with the surrounding acoustical plaster. There is no exposed door panel to break the ceiling surface or impair acoustical efficiency.

The plaster is securely bonded to the door by self-furring Milcor Furlath welded to the panel. Plaster edges are protected by Milcor No. 66 Casing Bead around the panel's perimeter. The same bead on the outer frame enables you to get a neat, clean finish with the surrounding plaster area.

Three sizes are available, 12" x 12", 12" x 24", 24" x 24" — for 1", 1 1/8", and 1 1/4" grounds. Catalog 210 describes them. Write for your copy.

Report From the GENERAL PRESIDENT

In rechecking the By-Laws we find that only about half of the local unions and councils have sent their By-Laws and Form LM-1 to Headquarters. All local unions and councils who have not sent their By-Laws to Headquarters are in violation of the L.I.U. Constitution since it specifically provides that all local unions and councils must have By-Laws, and they must be submitted to Headquarters for approval since the Constitution also provides that decisions and rulings of the General President and the Executive Council shall be based upon the local's By-Laws particularly regarding a member's good standing. Only those provisions which have been approved by the General President are enforceable. This is serious because in addition to being in violation of the L.I.U. Constitution it is quite possible that the same local unions and councils have not forwarded their Constitution and By-Laws to the Labor Department and if they have not they are in violation of the new Landrum-Griffin Act. This could, of course, subject the local unions and councils who have not complied with the penalties set forth in the Act. We urge all local unions and councils who have not complied with the L.I.U. Constitution and/or the Act to do so immediately.

Many of the locals who did send in their Constitution and By-Laws neglected to set forth the amount of initiation fee, reinstatement fee, dues, and working dues. Many of you have received letters requesting this information and we urge that this information be supplied at once since in the case of reinstatements or controversies over the payment of dues or working dues we must have this information and be guided thereby in our rulings. It is the autonomy of the local unions to set forth these amounts. There are only two restrictions—$200 is the limit on the initiation fee and one-half the initiation is the limit on reinstatements. However, all of these must be applied uniformly and without discrimination. In other words if your initiation fee is $200 for journeymen then you must charge that to all or if your reinstatement is $100 then you must charge that to all. There is one exception in the two aforementioned cases and that is where a 'Special Dispensation' has been requested by you and approved by the General President. The General President can only approve a 'Special Dispensation' where there is documentary proof such as sickness, ill fortune or that type of thing which would justify the granting of such a dispensation.

In some cases we have received the Constitution and By-Laws, and Working Rules, but have not received a copy of the LM-1 Form which must be sent to the Labor Department. Therefore, we do not know whether you have complied with the law by sending in this Form or if you have not. If you have not this should be done immediately.

We have previously written in this Report urging for compliance with Section 23 having to do with 'Trials, Charges and Appeals' and we find that some local unions are still not complying. Therefore, in some cases we are unable to approve and register fines as submitted. You must comply with this Section since it complies with the Landrum-Griffin Act and if you do not the fines cannot be registered here at Headquarters.

We wish to mention again the requirement of the law on the LM-2 and LM-3 Report Forms. This is the financial report which is required under the law ninety (90) days after your fiscal year, which we assume, in most instances is December 31. If you have not already done so you should make out your LM-2 or LM-3, whichever is required for you to use, immediately and send it in to the Labor Department.

We recognize that all of this entails a great deal of paper work on the part of the secretary of the local unions or councils but it is mandatory under the law. We, at Headquarters, have the same problem. It has doubled our paper work but it is the law and we must comply.

In conclusion I want to report on a much more pleasant subject. We now have two copies of the 'progress' film of the building of our office building available. It can be sent out to any local union or council so requesting. This film will give the members who paid the assessment on our new office building an opportunity to see what they paid for. The running of the film, which does not have sound, takes a 16-millimeter projector. If any local or council feels they want to show this film we would ask that they not request it until just before they are going to show it and then return it to Headquarters immediately so that we may be able to comply with other requests made since we only have two copies of the film. We would like very much to have the sound on the film and may be able to do so at a later date. However, the cost of $1500 to include sound on the film is beyond our means at the present time. We believe, even without the sound, a description which will accompany the film will be sufficient to make it interesting for the membership.

Six-Point Legislative Program Key To Prosperity

Richard Gray, Department President, delivered both a convincing argument for the six-point legislative program and a graceful exit from the president's post from which he retired April 1, as he opened the AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Legislative Conference in the Sheraton-Park Hotel in Washington, D. C.

Passage by Congress of this strong six-point legislative program would assure the Nation of a continuing prosperity, according to Grey.

"If the government will start now to build it will be a big 'shot-in-the-arm' to the economy and a long term construction program would provide the best antidote against economic anemia," Grey said.

Full support of a "bread and butter" legislative program recommended to Congress by the AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Department has come from three powerful figures. The trio are Senator John F. Kennedy; AFL-CIO President George Meany and Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell.

Mitchell quoted President Eisenhower as being opposed to the "situation picketing" provisions of the Taft-Hartley and then added near the end of his speech:

Secretary of Labor Mitchell stops to chat with General President Mashburn and Vice President Sal Maso, at the Building Trades Conference.

President Mashburn being introduced by retiring President Dick Gray.

"So I say to you gentlemen, you go up to the Hill on this question of the Denver Building Trades Case; you go up to the Hill with the firm support of the Administration, with the continued support since 1954 of the Department of Labor, and you go up to the Hill, if you take my suggestion, with a story of sound trade unionism that no other group in the United States can present."

The secretary was referring to the visits by delegates to their respective Senators and Congressmen on Capitol Hill in demanding support for the building trades program.

Senator Hart of Michigan talks with Fergy Johnson of the Bricklayers and Art McCann, Secretary of Local 5.

Mitchell earlier had praised the building trades in no uncertain terms when he said:

"As you know, I have had over 20 years close association with your industry and with the gentlemen here on this platform, and the gentlemen in the audience.

"I feel I would be remiss as a representative of the United States Government if I did not say that we in the Government and particularly in the Labor Department, regard the Building Trades and its organizations as the nucleus of the trade union movement in America."

Mitchell also praised the building trades as the first to give "a no-strike pledge" during World War II and to make other concessions in the Nation's bitter fight for survival. He also suggested that the delegates might be wise to remind some of the Congressmen from some of the right-to-work states that some of the military depots which they so proudly point to, such as Corpus Christi Naval Station in Texas, Camp Blanding in Florida and Oak Ridge in Tennessee, and Camp Polk in Louisiana, and Redstone Arsenal in Huntsville, Alabama, could not have been built without organized trade union building tradesmen.

At the same time, Mitchell foresaw an expanding construction industry and urged trades' cooperation in the drive to obtain competent mechanics to meet the challenge of tomorrow.

Attendance at this sixth annual Legislative Conference of the AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Department exceeded that of any other year.

Six-Point Program

1—Obtain Taft-Hartley amendment to reverse the Denver Building Trades Rule so that union building tradesmen will no longer be compelled to work side by side with non-union building tradesmen on the same job (S—2643, H.R. 9070)

2—Modernize and broaden scope of Davis-Bacon Prevailing Wage Act (S—1119, H.R. 4362)

3—Obtain passage of comprehensive school aid and construction bill (S—2, H.R. 22)

4—Obtain passage of comprehensive housing bill including appropriate levels of public housing, middle income housing and housing for the elderly

5—Obtain passage of Depressed Areas bill to assist chronic unemployment areas by public works loans to such communities (S-772)

6—Obtain comprehensive corrective amendments to Taft-Hartley Act including:

(a) Repeal of Section 14 (b)

(b) Repeal of mandatory injunction provision, and

(c) Reversal Browns-Olds NLRB Rule.

Representatives of the Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers' International Union attend luncheon given during AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Legislative Conference.

"Only KEYMESH[®] for stucco

OUTSIDE

YOU can count on quality
KEYMESH[®] products
for BEST plastering results!

"We don't buy cheap materials. What you save in first cost, you often lose—and then some—on extra labor and callbacks. That's why I insist that subcontractors working for me use Keymesh as a stucco reinforcing material," reports Alec Lee Branden, Hayward, California.

Mr. Branden finds stucco a quality feature for exterior walls. At Tropicana Village, his latest development, stucco is applied over Keymesh reinforcement. This wall construction helps him maintain a 35-house a day schedule (final plans call for 10,000 homes)—and assures the strength, durability, and fire-safety that owners of Branden-built homes expect. Low initial cost plus highest quality are trademarks of all Branden-built homes.

"I've found that Keymesh gives with the wall, taking up the stretch and contraction that any new home goes through as it settles. With Keymesh, stucco walls show no signs of exterior cracking. Require no callbacks to repair settling cracks. And, being easy to work with, my subcontractors appreciate the way it handles."

Other use and test-proved products in the Keymesh family of quality plaster reinforcements . . . Keycorner for almost double the crack resistance of plaster corners . . . Keystrip for extra strength at points of maximum stress where flat strip reinforcement is needed.

Frank A. Schiro, Plastering Subcontractor, uses 18-gauge Keymesh. Mr. Schiro reports, "I like to use Keymesh because it permits rapid troweling. My workmen easily keep up with construction schedules."

We are pleased to announce that Local 31 has received Honor Award for Good Citizenship No. 5 from James L. McDevitt, National Director of COPE.

We would like to add our congratulations to his, for your outstanding efforts in this 1960 Voluntary Contribution Drive.

Report of the GENERAL SECRETARY-TREASURER

When sending in COPE contributions for the 1960 Drive, please send these contributions directly to COPE, 815 Sixteenth Street, N.W., Washington 6, D. C., and make all checks or money orders payable to COPE. I'm drawing this to your attention, as we have already received some COPE contributions here at Headquarters with checks, and money orders made payable to the Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers' International Union. If you have made your donation to COPE, they in turn send us a listing of the contributions, and of the local number, which we in turn publish in the Journal. I might add that in view of the present legislation it is very necessary that the contributions to COPE be larger than they have been in the past in order that this organization will have the facilities to try to overcome some of the adverse legislation.

We have been having some difficulty with locals putting the wrong number on their per capita tax report and because of this there have been supplies, which were ordered, sent out to the wrong local. I wish that each secretary would check, and be sure that they do use their proper local number. We have in many instances, found these errors, but sometimes not until after some of the things requested had been mailed out.

We have made an effort to try to keep the "Journal" listings correct, and current, but if there are any errors that we have listed, if you will draw them to our attention, we will be glad to correct them. As you have possibly noticed, we are now having the "Journals" wrapped with corrugated paper in the hopes that you would receive them in better condition than you did in the past, and if for any reason you do not receive them, we would appreciate it if you would advise us, so that we could have the Post Office Department trace them. Another thing that causes delay in publishing change of officers in the "Journal" listings, is that often times, we do not receive any official notice of the changes when they happen, and possibly only become aware of them because of the change of name of the person sending in communications to us. If there are any changes of officers or addresses in your organization, if you would give us the proper notice of these changes, we will do everything we possibly can to keep them current in our publication.

We have had considerable difficulty with reinstatements, and transfers, because of the fact that a former member would start reinstating in a local, and before his reinstatement was completed, that local would issue this former member a transfer showing the indebtedness still due on the reinstatement. In the future, we will have to void these transfers as a former member is not entitled to a transfer until he has completed his reinstatement, and becomes a member in good standing. Therefore, we request that you do not issue transfers to former members who have not completed their reinstatement. In speaking of transfers, I would like again to draw to your attention that a transfer cannot be issued with an initiation fee indebtedness on it. This is another one of the common mistakes made in issuing a transfer.

I would like to mention the fact that the National Lathing Industry's Joint Apprenticeship Committee has received a sizable contribution from the Penn Metal Company Incorporated. This is the first contribution that we have received from a manufacturer. We have been delayed in getting started with this program, because of the difficulty in getting a trust agreement accepted, because copies of it must be sent out to all the people involved, and we are still awaiting the acceptance of some of the members of the Committee.

We have received requests for tie bar, and cuff link sets similar to the ones that were given out at the 1958 convention in Long Beach, California. As soon as we receive a price for these, we intend to have them available for whoever desires them, and as soon as they are available, we will publish it in the Journal, so that anyone interested may order them.

Harold Mills

how a bill passes through the U.S.

1

Most bills can be introduced in either house. The procedure by which a bill becomes a law is much the same regardless of where the bill originates. In this story, the bill is first introduced in the Senate. It is given a number and referred to the proper committee. The Vice President is president of the 96-member Senate.

The committee may or may not hold public hearings on the bill.

If the committee recommends the bill for passage, it is then listed on the calendar.

The full committee, in closed or open session, may or may not approve bill.

5

The bill comes up for debate. Depending on the degree of controversy, debate may last from a few minutes to several days. Amendments may or may not be added. The bill is then voted on.

8

The committee may reject the bill, prepare a new one, or accept the bill, with or without amendments.

6

If it passes, it goes to the 435-member House of Representatives for action. It is referred to the proper committee. The Speaker of the House is the presiding officer.

7

Hearings may be held

CONGRESS and becomes a law

9 If the committee recommends the bill for passage, it is listed on the calendar, and may be sent to the Rules Committee.

10 The Rules Committee is one of the most powerful of the committees in the House of Representatives. After a bill has been recommended for passage by the committee to which it was referred, the Rules Committee can block it or clear it for debate before the entire House. (If a bill is blocked, a discharge petition, signed by 218 members of the House, can clear the bill for House consideration. This procedure of obtaining a discharge petition seldom succeeds.)

11 It goes before the entire body, is debated and voted on.

If the conferees reach an agreement, that report is submitted to both Houses for approval without any changes.

12 If the bill is passed by the second body but contains major differences, either house may request a conference committee. The conferees meet and try to reconcile their differences. Representing both parties, five conferees are usually appointed from each house.

The President may sign or veto the bill within 10 days. If he doesn't sign within 10 days and Congress is still in session, the bill automatically becomes law. If Congress has adjourned before the 10 days have elapsed and the President has not signed the bill, it does not become law. This is known as a "pocket veto." If the President returns the bill with a veto message, it may still become law if upon reconsideration both houses pass it by a two-thirds majority.

If the report is accepted by both houses, the bill is signed by the Speaker of the House and the President of the Senate.

Veteran Members Honored by Local Union 4

Several veteran members of Local No. 4, Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers International were honored for more than a quarter century of continuous service and membership in good standing at ceremonies in Victor Alfieri Hall, West Scranton.

The union local is one of the oldest in this region, having been formed as an independent organization in 1897, preceding the international of which it is a charter member. The original charter of the local was signed by the late Samuel Gompers, pioneer labor leader and the first head of the American Federation of Labor.

Among those cited at the affair was Michael A. Cleary, of Scranton, who was unable to attend. He was awarded both silver and gold membership cards in recognition of more than 60 years service and membership and as a charter member of the international union.

Silver cards were presented to the following, all of whom

YOU CAN MAKE LIFE HAPPIER

By giving your voluntary dollar to COPE, you can make life happier for lots of folks . . .

For hotel and restaurant workers coast-to-coast who still haven't gained coverage under Federal minimum wage laws . . .

For older citizens, whose pensions need improving, and who desperately need the Forand bill to help meet their medical costs . . .

For kids and their teachers, who need better schools and better pay, both requiring Federal aid to education . . .

For any member of any minority group whose basic rights need to be supported by a real civil rights law . . .

And for many, many others who await action by Congress on pressing social needs for legislation.

By giving your dollar to COPE you can help speed the day when a liberal Congress will take up these matters and thus enrich the lives of all the people—for COPE will use the dollar you give now to help elect a people's Congress in 1960.

"IF WE ARE TO SURVIVE . . ."

The following remarks regarding the necessity of political action by trade unionists were made by General President Joseph J. Delaney of the International Union of Operating Engineers in a recent issue of the International's Journal:

"The Landrum-Griffin measure, adopted in spite of all that labor has done to clean its own house and to enforce the strictest codes of ethical practices, proves that demonstrations of sincerity, integrity and good faith will not appease our enemies. If we are to survive we must apply all of the resources available to us to a course of militant, aggressive political action.

"The one basic resource that our opposition is unable to match and surpass is the voting potential of our membership. If that full potential can be brought to bear in the next elections, in support of labor's friends and in opposition to its enemies, it will be a long time before Congressmen from marginal districts will again consider selling labor out for the sake of a White House phone call, or the promise of a postmastership, or a threatening letter from a mill owner.

"If the solid trade union spirit that our members display on the job, and in our bargaining relations with employers, can be channeled into the equally vital area of political action, labor can be made secure against further legislative attack and can overcome the hostile political and legal environment that now retards its progress. Political organization, education and action is now the all-important task of every loyal trade unionist.

"We have to abide by the law that has been imposed upon us and submit to its directives. But we do not have to like, nor do we have to remain idle and passive while our enemies conspire to enact more drastic measures. The traditional safety valve of democracy, and its only effective remedy, is political action. That is the method by which our resentment must be expressed and our defenses raised."

STEP UP POLITICAL ACTION, POTOFSKY SAYS

Political action is not a luxury for the labor movement today but vitally necessary to the future of trade unionism, President Jacob Potofsky of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers told a leadership conference of the union. "Through the years," he said, "we have learned that this activity is an indispensable instrument for the protection of the rights and interests of labor."

He noted useful legislation obtained through labor's political work—two increases in the Federal minimum wage law, the first civil rights bill in 1957, low-cost public housing—as examples. But, he said, an anti-labor climate has been developed in this country and labor's foes are hard at work in Congress and state legislatures. They have seized on the wrong-doings of a few as an excuse to destroy all of organized labor. The Landrum-Griffin bill is one outgrowth of this climate.

Labor's enemies have not taken into account the fact that basically labor unions are clean and sound, Potofsky said. "We must fight for the things we believe in," he declared. "We must be politically active, not just on election day, but every day of the year. We cannot rest on our laurels."

Decisions of the General President

PUBLISHED IN ACCORDANCE WITH SECTION 23i(4), INTERNATIONAL CONSTITUTION:

"All appellate decisions of the General President and or of the Executive Council and or of the Convention must be published in the following issue of The Lather along with a short and concise synopsis of the case being decided."

Mike W. Carter, #41695, and Stanley Lizak #51846 Versus Local 345

Brothers Mike W. Carter and Stanley Lizak appealed against the action of Local 345 in fining them $25 each for a violation of Article 25, Section 9, and Article 17, Section 5, of the local's By-Laws. After carefully considering all evidence presented in this case the General President found these brothers not guilty because the charges are not valid under applicable law and rescinded the fines as placed.

Richard D. Gast, #43924, Versus Local 406

Brother Richard D. Gast appealed against the action of Local 406 in fining him $50 for a violation of Section 17, Article 14 of the L.I.U. Constitution. After carefully considering all evidence presented in this case the General President found this brother not guilty and rescinded the fine.

Robert E. Heeb, #54118, and Lindsay M. Birchfield, #51199, Versus Local 406

Brothers Robert E. Heeb and Lindsay M. Birchfield appealed against the action of Local 406 in fining them $50 each for a violation of Section 25c and Section 29e of the L.I.U. Constitution; and later the fine placed against Lindsay M. Birchfield for $100 for a violation of Section 7e of the local's By-Laws and Section 17, Article 14, and Section 29e of the L.I.U. Constitution. After carefully considering all evidence presented in these cases the General President found these brothers not guilty since charges are not valid and are in violation of applicable law, therefore rescinded the fines.

Donald J. Duncan, #51749 Versus Local 406

Brother Donald J. Duncan appealed against the action of Local 406 in fining him $100 for a violation of Section 172 (Old) L.I.U. Constitution. After carefully considering all evidence presented in this case the General President found this brother guilty and upheld the fine as placed.

Conrad L. Trudell, #38743 Versus Local 439

Brother Conrad L. Trudell appealed against the action of Local 439 in fining him $50 for a violation of Section 17j(2) of the L.I.U. Constitution. After carefully considering all evidence presented in this matter the General President found this brother guilty and upheld the fine as placed.

How to buy $1,000 for 63¢ a Day

A stroke of your pen and you're on your way toward having $1,000 for a few cents a day. Lots of people are doing it. Just let the company where you work know how much to take out for U. S. Savings Bonds every payday.

By saving just 63¢ a day you can buy an $18.75 Bond every month. After 40 months you own a stack of Bonds worth $1,000 at maturity. Perhaps the best part is this—you get $1,000 with money you might have easily dribbled away.

Why U. S. Savings Bonds are such a good way to save

You can save automatically with the Payroll Savings Plan. You now earn 3 $\frac{3}{4}$ % interest to maturity. You invest without risk under a U. S. Government guarantee. Your money can't be lost or stolen. You can get your money, with interest, anytime you want it. You can buy Bonds where you work or bank.

NOW every Savings Bond you own —old or new — earns $\frac{1}{2}$ % more than ever before.

You save more than money. You help save the peace with every Bond you buy. Bond money goes for science, education, military strength—the weapons of peace. And the money you save helps keep our nation's economy strong.

You save more than money with U. S. Savings Bonds

Can never be lost, destroyed or stolen.
If anything happens to your Bonds, your money is safe. The U. S. Government promises to replace those Bonds with new ones, free.

The U. S. Government does not pay for this advertising. The Treasury Department thanks The Advertising Council and this magazine for their patriotic donation.

WOOD, WIRE & METAL LATHERS
INTERNATIONAL UNION
LATHERS LOCAL #9
WASHINGTON, D.C.

Report From the GENERAL PRESIDENT

The past month has been an extremely busy one. In addition to the regular work we have been taking bids, and rejecting bids, on the installation of an elevator for our building and for additional parking space. These purchases were authorized by the Executive Council because we feel that the two items are the reasons we have been unable to rent our additional office space. However, the bids were too high and were rejected and it is presently being bid again.

During the past two weeks we have had the Union Industries Show here in Washington, D. C., where it was necessary for us to erect an exhibit. We have a very fine exhibit. Pictures will be shown in the next Journal. It has, of course, taken a great deal of time. The questionnaire sent out to you by this office to enable us to negotiate the bonding of the local unions and councils in compliance with the Landrum-Griffin Act is making considerable additional work.

At the present we have been spending quite some time in trying to assist in the passage of the House Bill No. H.R. 9070 and the Senate Bill No. S. 2643 which would make it possible under 8 (b) (4) of the Taft-Hartley Act for Building Trades to have the same right of picketing as do other unions without being in violation of that Act. These two bills are of extreme importance to the Building Trades Unions, and particularly to our International Union. Our purpose here in mentioning it is to ask you and the individual members of all locals to contact their Congressman and Senator asking for a favorable vote on the passage of these two bills. The National Association of Manufacturers and the National Chamber of Commerce as well as most National Trade Associations are putting on a very forceful campaign to have anyone contact their Senators and Congressmen to vote against these two important bills. The propaganda they are putting out is that we have equal rights in picketing now so why pass the bills. This is not true. We cannot picket, as most of you know, for the same reasons that industrial unions can without being in violation of the Act and having an 'unfair' labor practice filed against us. The opposition further, falsely, states that this will give Jimmie Hoffa a great deal more leverage and will permit him to dominate organized labor as a whole. This is not true. Thousands of letters and telegrams are coming from this source to our Senators and Congressmen. We ask every member to contact their Senator or Congressman in order to offset this powerful drive of the enemies of organized labor. Stereotyped letters, cards or wires are useless. Your action in this matter should be to state your own individual position in your own way. We urge that you do this immediately.

Many agreements are now being negotiated and continuously questions are arising over the legality of the Promotional Program. There is no question in our minds about the legality of this Program in the manner in which it is set up and operated. We have six favorable decisions that I know of, and there are many others, stating that if our Promotional Program is operated in the way it is set up it is legal and as late as last week a decision was made by the Circuit Court in Chicago which, in my opinion, again makes our Program legal. This Promotional Program has been very beneficial to our industry and we want to do everything we can to retain it and continue to enlarge it. We urge that in compliance with the Lathers International Constitution the regular clause on Promotion which has been previously sent to you be inserted in your agreement.

Ever since stapling devices have been on the market I have been meeting with manufacturers and contractors for the purpose of working out minimum specifications for the use of stapling devices. We have now come to an agreement on minimum standards for the use of stapling devices to be used on wood framing members only, not metal. The following was agreed upon on April 22, 1960:

Wire 16 Gauge Galvanized, Divergent Pointed Crown 3/4" o.d.

Penetration . . . 5/8"

Number of Staples:

1. 16" plain or perforated gypsum lath
 Walls, 4 per board per bearing
 Ceilings, 5 per board per bearing
2. Metal lath
 3/8" Rib lath 4 1/2" o.e.
 Diamond Mesh 6" o.e.
 Self furred stucco mesh . . 6" o.e.

Staples shall be driven with a power tool so as not to break the paper on the lath, yet to be driven snug and tight.

'Democracy at Work'

Theme of Union-Industries Show

A close working partnership between organized labor and fair employers was the highlight of the 1960 AFL-CIO Union-Industries Show. At the opening, which was attended by labor leaders, government officials and management, both President Eisenhower and AFL-CIO President George Meany stressed the theme of "Democracy at Work."

Speaking at the ceremonies launching the first showing in the Nation's Capital of labor's annual exhibit of the union label, shop card and union button, President Eisenhower described the exhibit as an example of what can be accomplished by "real cooperation" between labor and management. President Meany said, "The show is a fitting example of union-management cooperation, an indication of the American Trade Union Movement, under which a man must have a successful business in order to fill a pay envelope."

The show attracted hundreds of thousands from Washington and nearby areas to see the 375 exhibits. One of the outstanding displays was our own booth sponsored by the Lathers International Union in cooperation with the Plasterers International Union and Lathers Local No. 9 and Plasterers Local 96 and Cement Masons Local 891.

Vice President L. Brodeur assisted the International in setting up the display. Also lending a hand were L. R. Warren, Local 9; L. Monroe, business agent, Local 9; and E. Donaldson, apprentice of Local 9.

Report of the GENERAL SECRETARY-TREASURER

POLITICS 1960

As the year 1960 draws closer to November, the political fever throughout the country will reach a crescendo, the likes of which have never been seen in this great country of ours. We in the Lathers, and the labor movement as well, must stand up and be counted before the entire country. We cannot bury our heads in the sand as the ostrich does, but must take our place and go on record as supporting our friends and defeating our enemies.

Building a political machine at the best of times, and under ideal conditions, is not an easy task. The question often asked, too many times I'm afraid, by trade unionists, is why should labor concern itself with politics at all? Why don't we leave politics to the politicians? Why shouldn't labor do as it has in the past—confine its activities to economic matters, such as wages, hours of work, and working conditions, etc. The answer to this, of course, is important. Organized labor is governed by the laws of this country.

Laws also cover such vital matters as vacations with pay, workmen's compensation, unemployment insurance and old age pensions, not to mention taxes and human rights. If we left these matters to the non-labor politicians without any interference whatsoever, then we would be in for a rough time. We must be interested in politics if we are to survive. The question is how can we best do this, and to what extent.

Not long ago it was fashionable to attack big business and its leaders. So what did they do about it? They hired high-priced public relations boys to beat the drums for big business, and to sell to the general public the idea that all businessmen were knights in shining armour and community-minded citizens who make real contributions to our society. Business leaders were shown handing over large checks to all sorts of charitable causes and community enterprises. Regardless of our personal opinion, we must admit that big business has done, and is continuing to do, a job for themselves.

We in labor must not leave a stone unturned if we are to present our side of the story to our members and to the American public. In my opinion, we must do two things to counteract this adverse publicity being spread throughout the country: One, we must step up our public relations work; and two, we must be more active in our political affairs—the most important part.

The 'Compulsion' Fake

THE GREAT DEBATE over a workable plan to provide health care for the aged has met the fate of many of the vital issues facing the country—its opponents have resorted to befogging propaganda in an almost hysterical attempt to block action.

A decade ago when a proposal for national health insurance was being debated nationally, the American Medical Association financed a multi-million dollar campaign tied to the slogan "socialized medicine."

The Forand bill fight called for a new twist, so the AMA, the insurance companies and the Administration have come up with "compulsion." They are against "compulsion," or more realistically, against a health care for the aged plan based on a 25-year-old social security system.

The "compulsion" campaign has its most recent origins in the "right-to-work" campaign of 1958, when reactionary forces tried to pin the "compulsory unionism" label on union security and thus revive the union-busting open shop. The voters would not buy it in five states and they will not buy the campaign to deny health care to older citizens under a social security system.

If the compulsion argument is carried to its logical conclusion the social security system would have to be abolished. That would do away with such things as retirement benefits, survivors insurance, unemployment compensation, aid to dependent children and general public assistance.

The argument is not compulsion and never has been. It's a simple matter of providing for health care during a person's working years and spreading the cost over the longest possible period and the widest possible base so that when his income is reduced and his health problems are most acute he can finance the care in dignity and as a matter of right.

Political Memo from COPE

"PROSPERITY" NOTE: JOBS DROP, JOBLESS RISE

Instead of rising by 450,000, as is normal, the number of workers holding jobs last month fell by 253,000, the Dept. of Labor reports. In other words, had March employment figures matched the 1940-60 average, 703,000 more working people would have been employed in March than there were. The total of unemployed rose by 275,000 to 4,206,000, or 5.4 per cent of the labor force. The figures represent the worst February-to-March change since the Government began keeping job statistics 20 years ago.

PROSPERITY, 1960 STYLE

Government figures show that the number of unemployed persons receiving benefit payments is more than 1 million greater than it was in September. Factory production has been dropping since January. Construction activity is less than a year ago. Department store sales since January 1 are less than a year ago. Sales of new cars are below what industry leaders had expected.

ONE MORE CAVITY IN THE HOUND'S TOOTH

A grand jury and a Senate subcommittee are investigating charges that Earl Corey made $83,250 as a "silent partner" in a grain storage firm while he was chief of the U.S. Agriculture Department's commodity office in Portland, Ore. That is the same Earl Corey who was given a "superior service" award last year by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson for his "significant contribution to agriculture through his fine relationships with producer, warehousing and merchandising groups."

DOCTORS RUN A TEMPERATURE OVER HIGH DRUG PRICES

Some drugs which manufacturers push on doctors and the public are worthless, and others have "a greater potential for harm than for good," according to a former medical director of a major drug concern. In testimony before the Kefauver committee, which is investigating monopoly and prices in the drug industry, Dr. Dale Console also charged that most research of drug companies is directed at projects that are useless but "are pursued simply because there's profit in it." Dr. Console was medical director for Squibb Laboratories until he resigned to reenter private practice.

The doctor said the industry's high-pressure sales techniques are based on the rule, "If you can't convince them, confuse them." He added that the industry "can make exploitation appear a noble purpose."

HOW SHORT ARE YOU?

The average American wage earner and his family who rent their home are some $31 short each week of maintaining the commonly accepted standards of living that public opinion currently recognizes as necessary to health and reasonably comfortable living. If they own their home, they come up some $38 short.

So reports the widely-known Heller Budget, prepared under the auspices of the University of California. The Heller experts say that the wage-earning family of four who rented its home required $120.59 a week last year. The same family owning its home needed $127.66 a week. During this same period, average weekly earnings of the factory production worker were $89.47 a week.

This is in a nation with an annual personal income of $393 billion.

Washington Cathedral Honors Labor

Artisans and Craftsmen's window is dedicated to Samuel Gompers, beloved AF of L pioneer. It takes as its theme "The Housing of the Covenant." By means of symbols and emblems, tribute is paid to artists, artisans and craftsmen. Arrow points to the seal of our Association

A HIGH POINT for many thousands of Americans who journey to their Nation's Capital each year is a visit to great Washington Cathedral. Here is loveliness wrought in stone and glass, wood and metal. Here is a testimonial of faith written in the language of the ages, destined to last a thousand years.

For union members who will visit the great shrine in the future, there will be a special thrill in viewing three magnificent new stained glass windows. The windows, in the nave of the cathedral, memorialize three great men of labor, Samuel Gompers, founder and first president of the American Federation of Labor; William Green, his successor; and Philip Murray, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations. The Samuel Gompers window will be of particular interest to members of the Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers' International union for the seal of our Association appears in this window. The windows were dedicated May 2 in ceremonies at which Rev. Francis B. Sayre, Jr., dean of the Episcopal Cathedral, presided with 1,000 persons, including the President of the United States, attending.

The three windows, pictured in detail on these two pages, are set into the north and south aisles of the nave of the Cathedral. An arrow points to the Gompers memorial window in the aerial photo on page 9. The other windows are opposite it on the other side of the nave.

Together, the windows tell the story of working men and women. Their theme is unity within the labor movement, and between religions in a common service under God, as symbolized by the Cathedral. Seals of the 103 AFL-CIO unions are set into borders.

The windows are gifts of the AFL-CIO, made through the Philip Murray Memorial Foundation and the William Green Memorial Fund.

AFL-CIO President George Meany presented the Gompers and Green windows, gifts of the William Green Memorial Fund, and James B. Carey, president of the Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers and an AFL-CIO vice-president, presented the window donated by the Philip Murray Memorial Fund.

Dean Sayre, in accepting them dedicated the windows as a "noble offering to the honor of the Creator and for the illumination of his children."

Meany, in presenting the Gompers and Green windows, declared that the three union leaders being honored "exemplified the finest traditions of American labor." Despite differences in background, he said, they shared a common belief "in the dignity of labor and the basic dignity of the individual human being."

The intricate patterns of the windows were designed and executed by Napoleon A. Setti and Joseph G. Reynolds, both of Boston, both members of Local 1181 of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers. Dedication of the windows is one more step toward completion of the great Cathedral begun in 1907.

Industrial and Social Reform window memorializes Philip Murray. It tells the story of industrial movement and the need for social reform, from Moses' time forward.

Agriculture and Maritime window dedicated to William Green uses Ruth holding sheaves of wheat as symbol for agriculture and the crossing of national barriers.

HELP US KEEP THE THINGS WORTH KEEPING

This is Commander W. R. Anderson of the Nautilus, world's first atomic-powered submarine.

Working day after day in the first line of America's defense force, he sees the need for peace firsthand—knows that it's a matter of life or death. And he knows, too, that peace doesn't come easy or cheap. Peace costs money.

Not only money for strength to keep the peace. Money for science and education to help find lasting peace. And money saved by individuals, to keep our economy sound.

We can't all be Sub Commanders. But we can all help strengthen America's Peace Power, simply by buying Bonds for a stronger, safer America. Every Bond you buy helps.

Couldn't you buy a few extra?

HOW YOU CAN REACH YOUR SAVINGS GOAL WITH SERIES E SAVINGS BONDS (in just 8 years, 11 months)

If you want about	$2,500	$5,000	$10,000
each week save	$4.75	$9.50	$18.75

HELP STRENGTHEN AMERICA'S PEACE POWER BUY U. S. SAVINGS BONDS

Report From the GENERAL PRESIDENT

In line with previous reports in trying to keep you informed as to decisions, interpretations, etc., under the Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act of 1959, particularly in respect to elections and who is eligible to vote, you will recall that when the ACT was first passed our General Counsel advised us that it was his opinion Section 18bb, Page 44, of the L.I.U. Constitution, would have to be interpreted that transferred members would be permitted to vote in the election of officers and we so advised you. Later, however, Secretary of Labor Mitchell gave an interpretation that reasonable standards and prohibitions could be maintained in the voting on officers by members. Section 18bb as presently written prevents transferred and reinstated members from voting on dues, strikes, increase in wages, decrease of hours, disbursement of funds and election of officers for six (6) months. There is and has been no question regarding the legality on this Section except on the election of officers.

At the last meeting of the Executive Council this matter was brought before it in order that we could be guided by their official action. The Executive Council's ruling was, in view of the interpretation of Secretary of Labor Mitchell, that we would adhere to section 18bb as presently written in all cases where the local unions had placed these same standards in their local's By-Laws. If they are not in the local's By-Laws then transferred members could not vote on the election of officers until they have had six (6) months of good standing in the local union but if the local union saw fit to enact a provision in their local's By-Laws to the effect that transferred members could vote as soon as their transfer was accepted that this would be approved pending further interpretation or Court decision. It was the opinion of the Executive Council that no local union could be prosecuted for a violation of the law if they wanted to be guided by the ruling of Secretary of Labor Mitchell; at least until such time as the Court might upset his interpretation. This has not been done and as far as we know, although threats have been made, no such case is presently pending.

I sincerely hope that I have not confused you further and in order to attempt to avoid further confusion let me again reiterate what I have said above:

If you have enacted Section 18bb into your local's By-Laws then it may be applied as it presently reads in the L.I.U. Constitution.

If you have not placed Section 18bb in your local's By-Laws you may not prohibit for six months newly transferred members from voting on the election of officers.

Due to many agreements being negotiated at the present time, and due to the letters being sent out from the Plasterers and Cement Masons International Association on the Promotional Program, we have had a number of questions as to what our position should be in this matter. Our position has not changed and cannot be changed since the provision on Promotion is set forth in Section 18n, Page 39, L. I. U. Constitution, as enacted, unanimously, at our 1958 Convention. You should be guided in your negotiations of your new agreements and the enforcement of old agreements by that Section.

In view of the support given the Red Cross by International Unions we have had many requests to ask our local unions, councils and individuals to contribute to the Red Cross to assist the people in Chile because of the earthquakes and tidal waves that have brought disaster to Chile causing great personal suffering and unestimated property damage leaving about two million people homeless. The AFL-CIO, the Secretary of Labor and even President Eisenhower are calling upon the people of the United States for financial aid for the stricken people. Shelter, food, clothing, medicine, in fact all types of help are urgently needed as it is now winter in Chile and the cold weather is intensifying the problems left in the wake of the worst natural disaster in a decade and we urge each and everyone of our members throughout the United States and Canada to assist the Red Cross in their efforts to relieve the disaster victims and to contribute money and supplies to assist these people. All contributions should be directed to your local Red Cross Chapter.

6 INCHES AWAY

The story of how a raging fire was contained by fire-proof lath and plaster walls and ceilings was exploited by Carl J. Stowe, Director of the Sacramento Valley Bureau for Lath and Plaster, within hours after the blaze was brought under control. Seizing on the opportunity, Carl J. Stowe rushed to the site of the fire where he took the on-the-spot photographs shown here. Stowe also obtained from the owner an invaluable first-hand testimonial telling how only the protection of the lath and plaster walls and ceilings saved the remainder of the house and its belongings from total destruction.

Not only was the fire at the J. T. McDermott home in fashionable Sierra Oaks covered by front page news, but within a day after the story broke, Stowe had directed his advertising agency to prepare a colorful and dramatic two color

A raging inferno 6 inches away . . .

If it had not been for lath and plaster this house would have been a total loss.

but NO fire damage to room pictured at left advertisement which appeared before the end of the week in the Sacramento press.

The public exploitation of the protection lath and plaster affords to home owners proves again the advantage of full time promotional activities by lath and plaster Bureaus.

John J. Murphy—New President of the Bricklayers

Bates Retires but Retains AFL-CIO Post

HARRY BATES, left, who resigned as president of the Bricklayers, administers the oath of office to his successor, former Sec. John J. Murphy. Bates becomes president emeritus of the union.

Harry C. Bates, president of the Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers International Union since 1935, retired from office in simple ceremonies, swearing in his successor, Secretary John J. Murphy. A native of Texas, Bates said he was retiring "upon advice of doctors and due to my physical condition."

He assumes the title of president emeritus, which the 1948 convention of the Bricklayers in San Francisco established for him when he decided to retire. Bates will also continue as a vice president of the AFL-CIO.

Taking Murphy's spot as secretary of the union is Treasurer Thomas F. Murphy. George W. King, business agent of Local 5 in Cleveland, assumes the office of treasurer.

John Murphy has been secretary of the Bricklayers since 1948. Prior to this time he served as director of organization for the AFL. In 1946 he was labor advisor to General Douglas MacArthur in Tokyo.

He first joined Local 6 of the Bricklayers in Worcester, Mass., in 1926.

Bates' membership in the Bricklayers dates back to 1900 when he joined Subordinate Local 9 in Waco.

Elected president of Subordinate Union No. 5 in Dallas in 1910, he later was a special representative of the international union. In 1920 he was elected ninth vice president.

From this time on Bates rose in the organization. In 1924 he was elected treasurer and in 1928 first vice president. He was voted president in 1935.

At the 1933 convention of the AFL in San Francisco he was elected vice president of the Federation. During World War II and the Korean War he served on several boards appointed by the government to cover labor questions. He also served as chairman of the AFL and later the AFL-CIO, Housing Committee.

Bates played a leading role in AFL-CIO unity, participating in the negotiations which led to merger.

At the merger convention he was elected vice president of the AFL-CIO.

Report of the GENERAL SECRETARY-TREASURER

Write Your Congressman, Now!

As many of you may know, the House Committee on Education and Labor has approved H. R. 9070, which would reverse the Denver Building Trades rule. The bill is now before the House Rules Committee awaiting a rule.

It is most urgent that we all write our congressman in support of H. R. 9070.

We have been fighting for this Reversal of the Denver Building Trades rule since June 1951. We have promises from Congressional leaders of both parties that this matter will be brought to a vote this year. This is our last chance. If we don't get action now it may be 10 years before a like opportunity arises. All members of the Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers' International Union are urged to write or telegraph their Congressman, supporting passage of H. R. 9070.

The Department headquarters here in Washington is making every effort to see to it that each and every representative in Congress is informed about H. R. 9070 and the reasons why this bill should be passed. However, most Congressmen are influenced more by letters from the voters in their home district than they are by the national labor leaders. They will be impressed if they hear from you. We must counteract the tremendous anti-labor letter writing campaign being waged by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, American Retail Association, Associated General Contractors, National Association of Home Builders and other employer groups.

Our letter writing campaign must begin now. We are hopeful of having the bill reported from the House Rules Committee and expect to have a vote on the House floor in the near future.

All congressmen should be contacted by telegram and letters from our members. Some members of Congress have good voting records on labor matters. This should not deter our members from writing to them. Representatives and Senators who support labor's position on legislation should be told how much their support is appreciated.

Other Congressmen with less favorable voting records should be contacted also. Some of these representatives in Congress vote as they do because they are not fully informed as to the position of their constituents. Some of them have become the victims of fiction propaganda of anti-labor organizations. There is a saying that fiction fades before facts, and if we can present the facts of the need for relief from the Denver Building Trades rule, we may win new allies from among this group. In any event, these representatives will not be able to plead ignorance of the wishes of their constituents.

Representatives in Congress are being subjected to a barrage of anti-union letters and telegrams from all types of employers, even those not concerned in any way with construction. These anti-union employers are conducting a letter writing campaign in the same manner in which they were able to get the repressive Landrum-Griffin Bill passed. Congressmen must hear labor's side from the membership and we urge every member to do everything he can to get letters coming into Congressmen.

KEYMESH[®] and KEYCORNER help give our sales a lift says DON MORRISON

Morrison Bros. Real Estate, Omaha, Nebraska

"There's no doubt that home buyers want both beauty and durability. That's why we consider lath and plaster interiors such an important feature in our homes," says Don Morrison. "We reinforce ceilings with Keymesh and inside corners with Keycorner. Keymesh and Keycorner are two of the hidden, quality extras our home buyers expect from us. And, the sales advantage gained by adding this quality reinforcement more than outweighs its initial cost."

"We've found that Keymesh and Keycorner gives a better plaster job. Their open mesh assures a full bond with plaster and provides 50% greater resistance to cracking. Laboratory tests* show it and our on-the-job experience proves it."

"And our workmen like the fact that smooth, snag-free, easy-to-handle Keymesh and Keycorner won't tear hands or clothing. Keymesh always rolls out flat. And, pre-formed 4-foot lengths of Keycorner fit easily into place with no lost time or wasted effort," declares Mr. Morrison.

"One more important point that our customers appreciate. We point out to them that Keymesh and Keycorner gives them three to four times the fire protection of other materials tested," stated Don Morrison.

Latest new product in the Keymesh family is Keystrip—a flat 4 inch strip, supplied in 4 ft. lengths. Ask your dealer to see it.

Charity Not Ruled Out

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell today challenged allegations that the new Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act makes it illegal for unions to contribute to legitimate charitable, educational, philanthropic, or community welfare projects.

"It has been most distressing to me that certain persons have insisted on misinterpreting that section of the Act which places fiduciary responsibilities on the officers of labor organizations to mean that unions can no longer contribute money to such commendable causes," he said.

Mr. Mitchell said that unions for many years have given their support, both financial and otherwise, to worthwhile community projects, and "I cannot believe that a single member of the Congress intended to halt this constructive activity through passage of the Act."

He declared that Section 501 of the Act "merely establishes, in this connection, that contributions by unions should be made in accordance with the provisions of the organization's constitution and bylaws and should not be contrary to any binding resolutions of the organization's governing body."

Political Memo from COPE

WHEN THE PRESIDENT IS 'TOO BUSY'

The President of the United States should be a shining example for everybody in carrying out his duties and responsibilities of citizenship. The present President has time and again urged all citizens to vote. But in the April elections in Pennsylvania, the state in which he is registered, he stayed away from the voting booth. His press secretary says Mr. Eisenhower was "too busy" to spend an hour or so in traveling to and from Gettysburg to vote. But how many times has the President flown to Gettysburg for golf? And only 11 days before the Pennsylvania elections, he flew all the way from Augusta, Ga., where he was golfing, to Washington, threw out the first ball to open the baseball season, and flew back to Augusta for more golf—all in the same day.

WHAT A FREE MARKET MEANS TO REACTIONARIES

"Reactionary forces would like nothing better than to return labor to a free market, and have already moved as far and as fast as they can to put farmers on a free market. Putting farmers on a free market means putting them out of business."

—President James Patton, National Farmers Union, in an address to AFL-CIO Western Education Conference.

CORPORATION EXECUTIVES AND THE MORAL CLIMATE

"Many corporate executives have no more understanding of public issues than the run-of-the-mill professional boxer has . . . To be head of a large corporation is not qualification enough for a top government job—or should not be."

—Business Editor Philip Stoddard Brown, Washington Post.

* * * * *

"A pattern of dubious conduct is continuing to disfigure the regulatory agencies of the United States Government . . . The moral climate is sorry and somebody needs to do something about it."

—Columnist Roscoe Drummond, New York Herald Tribune.

THINGS YOU NEVER KNEW 'TIL NOW

A Michigan store owner tells a House subcommittee that there is no need to extend the minimum wage because none of his employees "ever starved" on pay of less than $1 an hour. Perhaps not, if they can buy enough fatback and carrots. And an Illinois retailer says that most store clerks don't have to work and that "these are the people mostly responsible for the so-called two-car family." He admits he doesn't know if any of his workers, who start at 85 cents an hour, have two cars. He obviously means that their low wages are responsible for the two cars store owners drive.

BIG BUSINESS AND GOVERNMENT 'HANDOUTS'

Big Business weeps many a crocodile tear about government "handouts." Claims they weaken the moral fiber of Americans, drain iron from the blood and probably are responsible for dizzy spells. Rep. Earl Hogan (D., Ind.) points out, however, that last year businessmen received almost twice as much in Federal subsidies as labor groups did. Businessmen received some $1,503,000,000 in subsidies, while labor got roughly $768,000,000.

'FISCAL SOLVENCY' FOR WHOM?

The Eisenhower-Nixon Administration says it believes in "fiscal solvency." But, while running up billions of dollars in deficits, it opposes a withholding tax on income received from dividends. Some 4 billion dollars of dividend income goes unreported every year. Perhaps what the Administration means is that it believes in fiscal solvency for stockholders and bondholders only.

THE FARMER'S SHARE

When the housewife serves a meal to her family of five, only 2 helpings-worth have been paid to the farmer. And of these two helpings, only one represents a net return to the farmer. (The money received for the other serving is paid out for farm operating costs.) The other three helpings represent market charges for middleman services between the farmer and the consumer.

The farmer produces enough to feed 21 people. Yet the expenditures for food of only one person out of every five represent payment to the farmer for the services he performs.

The expenditures for food of three people out of five represent market charges to middlemen, processors and handlers. Expenditures of one person out of every five represent the costs of farm production—payments made by the farmer to others for needed goods and services.

COPE believes that family farmers deserve more than a few crumbs from the family table. Their status can be improved without extra cost to the consumer. They need a sound program to bring farmers closer to equality with other groups, and stern measures to regulate the power of corporations which exploit farmer and consumer.

Surprise Party

LATHERS LOCAL 74 recently held a surprise party for retiring President Irvin D. Friedman. The Bismarck Hotel in Chicago, Illinois was the scene of this gala celebration.

During the party President Friedman was presented with a gavel denoting his tenure of office, May 4, 1957 to May 7, 1960. Robert Hamilton, a teacher for the Apprentice School, made the presentation. A scroll, signed by all those who made the party possible, was also presented to President Friedman by Mr. Hamilton and which read—"To President Irvin D. Friedman in recognition of the successful achievement in the execution of the duties of your office. We appreciate the untiring effort expended, the deep understanding of our problems and the wisdom of your experience."

In addition to the two previous gifts Brother Friedman received a seven-piece set of Royal luggage, with his initials stamped in gold. A very welcome gift for Brother Friedman and his charming wife intend putting it to good use shortly.

We all know Brother Friedman will still be willing and able to lend Local 74 a helping hand if the occasion should arise and would like to say "Congratulations for a job well done."

1. Mrs. Irvin Friedman and Brother Friedman enjoy a private chuckle during his surprise party.
2. Robert Hamilton, Apprentice School teacher and Executive Board Secretary presents Friedman with a gavel.
3. Talking over old times and some interesting jobs they have worked on are (l to r): Vice President Stan Arnold, Friedman, Robert Hamilton, and Richard Hooker, Business Agent of Local 74.
4. Brother Friedman displays the scroll presented to him in recognition of his achievements and signed by those who made the party possible.
5. Surprise party participants all looking pleased with themselves. All agree it was a good party for a good man.

THE STARS AND STRIPES

-ALOHA!

WHAT'S BEHIND THE 50TH STAR?

- The state of Hawaii: 20 islands (8 inhabited)
- Area: 6,434 square miles of land
6,421 square miles of inland water
- State population: 578,000 (1958 estimate—excluding military personnel)
- Flower: Hibiscus
- Song: "Howoii Ponoii, Aloho Oe"
- U. S. affiliation: territory-1898; statehood-1959
- U. S. representation: 2 Senators, 1 Representative
- Annual mean temperature: 74.9°
- Top industries: sugar, pineapples, tourists

COME INDEPENDENCE DAY, the beautiful enchanting islands of Hawaii, some 2,500 miles distant from the United States mainland, will be officially represented in the American flag.

A territory of our country since 1898, Hawaii was admitted as the fiftieth state in 1959. In his proclamation, President Dwight D. Eisenhower ordered the fifty-star flag to be made effective July 4, 1960.

As a result, flag manufacturers all over the country had to revamp the comparatively recent forty-nine-star flag to include America's baby state in the field of blue.

In Richmond, Virginia, a newspaper reporter called H. I. Sherritt of the Sherritt Flag Company for his comment on the industry's latest headache. Sherritt quipped, "We have decided to make Confederate flags. The design has not changed in a hundred years." This remark, made in March of 1959, was picked up and reprinted throughout the nation by Associated Press wires and Newsweek Magazine.

Today, Mr. Sherritt is expanding his plant by 3,000 square feet to include space for more flags, both American and Confederate. He makes about 1,600 different types of flags in sizes ranging from 4 x 6 inches to 30 x 50 feet.

Founded in 1922, Sherritt Flag Company engaged a half-dozen employees. At present, some 65 workers produce an average of 2,000 different flags per day.

At least 12 employees have a hand in the production of a standard sewn American flag before it is completed for the market. Their jobs consist of cutting the materials, cutting stars, sticking stars in place, sewing stars, clipping, sewing stripes, hooking, heading the flag, hemming, folding and "rustling", or moving the material from one assembly section to another.

Already thousands of orders have been received for the fifty-star flag. The Hawaiian star may only be another patch of white material to flag manufacturers, but to many of us on the mainland the new star signifies "Aloha", which means "hello, goodbye, love or affection" in Hawaiian.

HAWAIIAN-BORN SUSAN SEELMAN, drafting clerk, plant engineering, inspects new 50-star flag with H. I. Sherritt.

LABORERS' NEW HEADQUARTERS building was formally dedicated in Washington D. C., before government and union officials and local delegates from throughout the U.S. and Canada. Here a speaker pays tribute to the union's progress.

Laborers Dedicate New Headquarters

The new headquarters building of the Laborers' was dedicated last month in Washington, D. C.

In a speech at the dedication ceremonies, AFL-CIO Pres. George Meany reaffirmed labor's faith that America's strength rests in a trade union movement "that represents the human being rather than in the faceless corporations that represent material wealth."

Laborers' Pres. Joseph V. Moreschi, Sec.-Treas. Peter Fosco and Under Sec. of Labor James T. O'Connell were other speakers at ceremonies attended by several hundred local union delegates and guests.

Meany observed that the Laborers in early days were made up of immigrant groups—the union's journal at the time was published in English, Italian and German.

"America has always been the haven of the oppressed," the federation president declared, "... for political reasons, religious reasons and for reasons of economic oppression, and let us hope it will always remain a haven for the oppressed."

He said the union's new headquarters building stands as a symbol of its achievements in bringing a better life to its members, and said he hoped it would be a kind of "half-way house."

White House Message

Moreschi, after whom the eight-story structure was named, said in brief dedicatory remarks that the union believes that "in order to have a strong America we need a strong labor movement." Moreschi has headed the union since 1926.

O'Connell said the granite of the new building symbolically reflects "the great strengths of the many national strains" which make up the Laborers and the American labor movement.

Vincent F. Morreale, the union's general counsel, read a congratulatory message from the White House and presented a gold-plated trowel to Fosco for the cornerstone laying.

Fosco read a list of the contents of a box placed inside the cornerstone—a history of the union, the 1951 convention proceedings authorizing the new building, copies of the union's charters and other historical documents.

General Secretary-Treasurer Harold Mills attended the dedication, representing the Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers' International Union.

The Laborers' headquarters building was designed in modified federal-style architecture by Eggers and Higgins of New York. It is faced with Indiana limestone, with bronze spandrels and window frames.

An 18-foot mural by Louis Ross in the lobby is dedicated to "laborers through history" and depicts the activity of laborers from the time of the pyramids to the present.

The spirit of the laborer is provided by this quotation from William Shakespeare's "As You Like It," mounted in metal in the vestibule:

"I am a true laborer: I earn that I eat, get that I wear, owe no man hate, envy no man's happiness, glad of other men's good."

A Glossary of Labor Terms

ARBITRATION—A way of settling disputes by calling in an impartial third party, whose decision is final and binding.

AUTOMATION—Production and supervision of work by means of mechanical “muscles” and electric “brains” and without the direct use of human energy, skill or control.

BARGAINING UNIT—A group of employees who bargain collectively with their employer. The unit may include all the workers in a single plant or in a number of plants; or it may include only the workers in a single craft within one plant.

CHECKOFF—A clause in the union contract providing that the Company deducts union dues from members’ paychecks and transfers them to the union.

CENTRAL LABOR BODY—A central organization of AFL-CIO unions on a city, county or state basis. For example, local unions in a city may be affiliated with many different internationals, but they band together in a city central labor body.

CLOSED SHOP—A plant which hires and employs union members only. The closed shop is illegal under the Taft-Hartley Act.

COLLECTIVE BARGAINING—The process of working out a contract or settling grievances between management and employees, with one agency (the union) speaking for all the workers in the bargaining unit.

COMPANY UNION—A union dominated by the employer, giving workers no real protection while keeping them from organizing a real union. It is, therefore, worse than no union at all.

CONCILIATION OR MEDIATION—Efforts by a neutral third party to get union and management to agree when there is a dispute. The conciliator or mediator acts as a friend of both sides and tries to find a basis on which the union and the company can work things out.

COST-OF-LIVING INDEX—The commonly-used name for the Consumers’ Price Index, which is prepared by the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U. S. Government. This Index shows, from month to month, and year to year, the change in prices of a number of items which it is assumed that most families buy—food, clothing, rent, furniture, etc. This price index is, therefore, a rough measure of changes in the cost-of-living.

DIRECTLY AFFILIATED LOCAL—A local union chartered by and affiliated directly with the AFL-CIO rather than an international union.

DISCRIMINATION—Unequal treatment of workers because of race, religion, nationality or union membership. Discrimination may occur in hiring, types of jobs given, rates of pay, promotion, layoffs or other cases.

ESCALATOR CLAUSE—Clause in the union contract which provides for increases or decreases in wages as the cost-of-living goes up or down. The “cost-of-living” Index of the Bureau of Labor Statistics is usually used as the way to measure these changes.

FREE RIDER—A worker who won’t pay his own way. He refuses to join the union but takes all the benefits which his fellow workers in the union fight for.

FRINGE BENEFITS—All the money benefits in the union contract except actual wages—shift bonus, paid holidays and vacations, reporting pay, insurance, pensions, etc.

GUARANTEED ANNUAL WAGE—An agreement guaranteeing workers a certain amount of income every week in the year, regardless of layoffs or short-time.

IMPROVEMENT FACTOR—Clause in the union contract which provides an automatic yearly wage increase based on the fact that the average production per worker per hour increases every year in our economy.

INCENTIVE PAY—A system of pay based on the amount of production a worker or group of workers turns out. Pay must be figured directly on the number of pieces or jobs completed, or bonuses may be given to individual workers or departments for increased output.

LOCKOUT—A strike by an employer against his employees. The employer "locks his workers out" of the plant until they agree to his demands.

MAINTENANCE OF MEMBERSHIP—A union security provision in a contract which says that a worker who voluntarily joins the union must remain a member until the end of the contract.

MINIMUM WAGE—The lowest rate of pay an employer is permitted to pay by law or the union contract. This usually does not apply to rates which may be paid to learners.

NATIONAL LABOR RELATIONS BOARD—The five-man Board set up by the Wagner Act, and continued by the Taft-Hartley Act, which administers and enforces the Act.

OPEN SHOP—A plant where there is no union recognized by the employer, or where there is no union security clause in the contract.

REAL WAGES—What your wages will buy. For example, if a worker receives 10 per cent more pay but the cost-of-living goes up 10 per cent in the same period, his real wages have not increased.

SENIORITY—A worker's length of service with an employer. Seniority often determines layoffs, promotions, recalls or transfers. In case of layoff, seniority usually means that the last worker hired is the first to be laid off.

SEVERANCE OR DISMISSAL PAY—Lump sum payment by the employer to a worker who is laid off permanently through no fault of his own.

SICK PAY OR SICK BENEFITS—Weekly benefits paid a worker while he is out sick. Sick pay may be provided under the union contract, or, in some states, by state law.

SPEED-UP AND STRETCH-OUT—An unbearable increase in the amount of work an employee is expected to do. The speed of the machines may be increased (speed-up), or one worker may be required to tend to a greater number of machines (stretch-out).

STRIKEBREAKER OR SCAB—A person who goes to work in a plant or shop or on a job while the workers are on strike. By filling their jobs, he may weaken or break the strike.

SUPPLEMENTAL UNEMPLOYMENT BENEFITS (SUB)—A program which provides laid-off workers benefits in addition to their unemployment insurance. This program developed from the campaign for a guaranteed annual wage.

TECHNOLOGICAL DISPLACEMENT OR UNEMPLOYMENT—Elimination of a job because a new machine or a new production process removes the need for a worker.

TIME-STUDY—Timing a worker doing a job, with a stopwatch, in order to set the required time for doing that job. Unions should insist on taking part if time studies are made, to insure that the average rather than the fastest worker is timed, that allowances are made for fatigue, waiting time, etc.

UNION LABEL—A stamp or tag on a product to show that it has been made by union labor.

UNION SECURITY—Section in the union contract that protects the union by requiring workers to join the union or to maintain their membership in it for a certain length of time once they have joined. The "union shop," "modified union shop," or "maintenance of membership" clause is an example of a union security provision.

UNION SHOP—A plant in which every worker covered by the contract must become a member of the union. New workers need not be union members to be hired, but must join after a certain number of days.

FIRST MINIMUM WAGE LAW FOR WOMEN MASSACHUSETTS 1912

In 1912 the state of Massachusetts passed a minimum wage law governing working women. This law was enacted following an investigation initiated in 1910. After the Bay State passed its law eight other states followed suite in the following year.

The Massachusetts law was based upon the needs revealed in the investigative findings. Minimum wage protections by statute were real advances, but they came at a time when state legislators were giving attention to a wide range of topics in the interest of bettering the conditions of the working people.

At the time of the minimum wage law enactment, there was strong opposition from the entrenched employer interests. But the investigation in Massachusetts had been thorough and the facts literally spoke for themselves.

Women are indebted to the action of the National Consumers' League which made minimum wage for women a part of their ten-year program beginning in 1910. A year later the Women's Trade Union League took parallel action.

The momentum set up by Massachusetts has continued to move giving women a continuing progress in decent wages. That early law was indeed a landmark of labor—especially of women in the labor force.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

WHEREAS, Almighty God, in His infinite wisdom and power, has removed from our midst Brother George A. Gilmore 13275, and

WHEREAS, Brother Gilmore was a true and loyal trade unionist, and will be missed by his friends and the members of Local 190, therefore be it

RESOLVED, That Local 190 extend its sincere and deep sympathy to the relatives of its departed brother, and be it further

RESOLVED, That the charter of Local 190 be draped for thirty days as a token of respect, and that a copy of these Resolutions be sent to the International Union for publication in The Lather.

Russell W. Anderson, Secretary
Local Union 190

Installed recently as new officers of St. Louis Lathing and Plastering Industry Council are, from left: president, Harry F. Niehaus, plastering and lathing contractor; Layton Riprogel, chairman of the Lathers Union District Council; secretary, F. L. Goeddel, contractor; and vice president, Albert H. Meinert, business representative of Plasterers Union, Local 3. The Industry Council seeks to promote more and better use of lath and plaster in all types of construction.

Information on the Laying Out and Development of

Plain and Ornamental

Metal Lath Construction

For Apprentices and Journeymen

A 162 page book containing dozens of articles and over two hundred illustrations pertinent to the Lathing Industry.

Details of laying out and constructing all types (including the most complicated) of metal lath construction are included.

LATHERS Craft Problems and Reference Book

Published
by
WOOD, WIRE AND METAL
LATHERS' INTERNATIONAL UNION

Starting out with a straight line and a true circle, the student is gradually taught how to lay out and erect the most complicated types of metal lath construction. You do not need a high-school education to understand and follow instructions in this book.

A Reference Book No One in The Lathing Industry Should Be Without.

The important information on HANGERS, contained in this book is worth its cost alone.

Among the many other articles contained in this book of "CRAFT PROBLEMS" are complete arch layouts, such as Semi-Circular, Gothic, Elliptical, Segmental, Moorish, Ogee, etc. (38 illustrations), Domed and Groined Ceilings (25 illustrations), Lunettes and Penetrations (23 illustrations), and other curved and vaulted ornamental ceilings, False Beams and Columns, Pilasters, straight and curved Mitres, Brackets developed from plaster details and erection of same, Suspended Ceilings, Partitions, Developing Polygons, Mechanical Methods of Division applied to actual construction, Angles, Degrees, Bisecting, etc., Mechanical Drawing, and pointers on how lines, breaks, sections, etc., are shown on blue prints, and many other subjects pertaining to the practical and technical education of lathers.

Thousands of copies are now being used in Apprentice and Journeymen Manual Training and Continuation Schools in the United States and Canada, also in shops and on the job by practical mechanics as a guide and reference book.

The contents of this book are a result of 25 years of study, research and actual experience, in the office, in the shop, on the job and as instructor of metal lath construction.

Price $2.25 per copy. Postpaid. Money order, postal note, certified or cashier's check with order.

1

Because, my friend, we were founded, are owned, and directed by unions and trade union leaders of the AFL-CIO. Furthermore, our staff are all union members. We use only union services and products.

2

You certainly can, brother! We also have policies for children's college education and to provide mortgage protection.

3

In a 32 year career we have the astounding record of more than a billion dollars of insurance in force. We currently operate in 25 states and the District of Columbia.

4

Labor's Own Company will counsel, advise and assist all unions toward instituting a soundly underwritten program of welfare benefits. Our services are also available to review a program of benefits already in existence. (No obligation of course!)

Report From the GENERAL PRESIDENT

In this issue of the Journal I want to discuss with you the importance of State, Provincial and District Councils, their functions and how they may assist us in obtaining the objectives set forth in Section 20 of the L.I.U. Constitution. The purpose of the State, Provincial and District Council is to coordinate the affiliated local unions on that level.

In 1955 the Constitution was amended to give more authority to these Councils, first to attempt to get uniform wages, hours and conditions as well as dues, working dues, and other things which could be mutually agreed to or by a majority vote of the affiliated local unions, and, of course, approved by Headquarters, such as permitting the members within a Council to work without the necessity of transferring which would eliminate the possibility of a member losing his standing, his voting privilege, foreman privileges, etc.

There are many other functions that can be performed by the Council, by majority vote, that cannot be done by the International Union such as mutual agreement on territorial jurisdictional lines. This particular one is of paramount importance at the present time. There are a number of States who have prevailing wage laws who have passed a law in which they will predetermine union wage rates by County only. This complicates our position since the International Constitution specifically provides that the territorial jurisdiction of one local union shall extend half-way to the nearest local union. Most all of these cross State and County lines. At the present time I have been officially advised that Florida, Kentucky, North Carolina and Missouri have already passed this law. Since I have no authority to change the International Constitution and in order to conform, the responsibility rests upon the Councils. Under Section 20d, Page 47, the Councils would have this authority because if territorial jurisdictional lines were drawn up by County within the State and agreed to by a majority of the affiliated local unions this could solve the problem. I understand, although I have not been officially advised, that North Carolina and Missouri State Councils have done this.

The procedure for the Council is complicated by the fact that in many cases local unions outside of the State have jurisdiction within the State where it extends over the State line. In this event it would be necessary for the Council to obtain the consent of the other local union and this is made more difficult because the local union would not be bound by the majority vote of the affiliated local unions.

Beside the things that have been enumerated above that a good Council can perform there a number of others. There is a great potential for Council activities in the legislative and political field. After the passage of the Taft-Hartley Act and the Landrum-Griffin Act there is no doubt in anyone's mind that the legislative and political field is as important as the economic field. Our International Union, as well as others, have made great strides in the economic field in the past decade and because of that the political and legislative field have been used to take away some of those gains.

Many local unions individually are doing an outstanding job in this field but many are not but by the coalition of all the local unions within a particular area they can do a much more effective job through our functioning Councils.

Too many of our local unions are affiliated with our Councils in name only and while they are compelled to pay their tax they do not actively participate in the affairs and functions of our Councils. In all areas where we have good Councils, and there are a number, the local unions are responsible because they participate actively and financially in all of the affairs of the Council. However, a number of our Councils are not functioning because the local unions fail to attend and to actively participate.

I have called a 'Special' meeting of the Georgia State Council for this coming weekend and hope that all of the delegates will be present so that I will have an opportunity to explain to them the very valuable function that the Council can render to them and to their members if they will attend and actively participate.

I hope in the coming months on various week ends, which is the only time our unions can attend and the only time I have, to call 'Special' meetings of Councils to attempt to get them to function on broader aspects and under the authority granted to them by the 1955 Convention. It is my opinion that many of our local unions, and even some of the officers of our councils have not seriously read or properly interpreted Section 20 and I would urge you to do so as promptly as possible. If Council meetings can be called where I can attend I will be happy to do so because I think it is one of the most important steps that can be taken at the present time.

I have urged Councils to set up their finances so they might be able to employ at least one man in the field for the Council. We have twelve representatives for the whole United States and Canada. Some of our International representatives have as many as eight states and without one paid local union representative in their region so you can readily see that with the large amount of territory to cover the International representative does not have enough time to do an effective job. If the Council also had a man in the field to assist we probably could assist more thoroughly the local unions in policing their craft jurisdiction as well as taking care of the many other problems that arise.

The things I have mentioned are only a few of the things that our well functioning Councils are doing and I sincerely hope that the Councils who are not functioning in this manner will start to plan to accomplish these objectives as well as other things that will come to mind; such as the pooling of welfare plans, pension plans, promotional plans and things of this type.

Sal Maso Re-elected

To Head New Jersey State Council

Sal Maso, Vice President Lathers International Union, has been re-elected to a 3-year term as President of the New Jersey State Building and Construction Trades Council. This is a new 3-year term for Sal, who is also Business Manager of Local 143 of Paterson, New Jersey and vicinity.

- He is widely active in community affairs and is a member of the executive board of Forward Paterson.

- Maso is a former member of the Paterson Housing Authority and the Paterson Board of Education, a former president of the Central Labor Union of New Jersey and has been active in Red Cross, and Community Chest drives. He is a member of the Masons, Elks, Moose and Pica Club.

- Maso has been an officer of the State Trades organization for 26 years. He was first elected as 2nd vice President in 1934 and in 1936, due to the illness of the president, the executive council by unanimous vote elevated Maso to the position of acting president and in 1942 he became president.

- At this convention, Richard P. Donovan of the Operating Engineers, in nominating Maso said, "He is a human dynamo, a devoted trade unionist who gives of his time unselfishly." Patrick W. Mullane, business manager of Lathers' Local 67, Jersey City, in seconding the nomination stated, 'Maso is indeed a bulwark of the labor movement.'

Congratulations have been extended by General President Mashburn and General Secretary-Treasurer Mills on behalf of themselves and the entire International Union to Brother Maso on his re-election.

July has two Independence Days

Ever since 1935 there have been two Independence Days in July, both important to working people.

On July 4 is the traditional one, marking the moment when a Philadelphia meeting in 1776 declared the colonies to be free of duty to the British Crown.

On July 5 is another Independence Day. On that day in 1935 Franklin Delano Roosevelt signed the Wagner-Connery bill, known as the National Labor Relations Act.

So, this month, working men and women can be grateful for two acts of independence, freeing them from subservience to king and corporation.

Our cover picture of Independence Hall in Philadelphia is one to evoke memories of our first Independence Day.

Worth Defending

Joseph Lewis, Secretary-Treasurer

Union Label and Service Trades Department, AFL-CIO

A long time ago, Daniel Webster, American statesman and orator, insisted that "God grants liberty only to those who love it, and are always ready to guard and defend it." Here in the mid-Summer heat of July, 1960—with the world all upset by international tensions and our own nation readying itself for the throes of a hot political battle—we are reminded that this thought is just as real and just as significant today as when it was first uttered so many decades ago.

With the observance of another anniversary of our country's first Independence Day, we realize all over again that freedom and liberty are not things that come about just as a natural course of events. Thomas Jefferson put it only too well when he said, "We are not to expect to be translated from despotism to liberty in a feather bed."

Above all else, members of the organized labor movement certainly do not need to be told that the many benefits we enjoy today because of union organization and collective bargaining were brought about at the great cost of sacrifice and struggle on the part of those who went before us. We do perhaps need, from time to time, to be reminded that we must be "always ready to guard and defend" these precious union liberties and freedoms and benefits so that we might preserve them not only for ourselves but also for our children and for our children's children.

Recent months have seen a measure of success go to those in our land who would destroy the labor movement and take away from those who toil their just rewards for skill, craftsmanship and service. Landrum-Griffin, with its union-shackling provisions, lists itself as the official law of the land—thanks to a certain number of reactionary politicians who seemingly place their dedication to special interest and hatred for labor above their obligations to their fellow Americans.

How closely this situation in our national labor scene today parallels the struggles our forefathers faced in bringing a new nation into being with the goal of freedom, liberty and justice for all.

How similar are the democratic processes of our free trade union movement and our free American form of government! No surprise to anyone, then, that members of America's free trade unions are among the finest and most dedicated citizens in every community in all our fifty States.

Our labor movement, like our own great nation itself, has faced problems and oppression before. Like our freedom-loving land itself, the American trade union movement will continue to rise above these problems and overcome injustice and go on to its future history of forcefully dedicated service not only to its own membership but to all others who toil alike.

We must continue to guard and protect the priceless liberties and benefits accomplished for us by our trade unions. One very real way in which we can help insure this permanence of job security, decent wages and hours, excellent fringe benefits is to buy union goods and use union services. Here is the true democratic way to help ourselves and support our fellow trade unionists.

HARRIET M. MILLS

I speak for Democracy—the way of life of millions of fellow Americans—a proven way of life through trial and experience.

The United States could be compared to a stage with the world as its amphitheatre while other countries are the spectators and the critics looking on. The setting—all the states coordinated working together for a common interest—to present an allied front. The players are you and I, in our everyday life and activities. Our parts are natural and instinctive. Our qualifications are living and working for democracy. Our compensation is the evident happiness and satisfaction in knowing our example is a benefit to mankind around the world. Our goal: to present a living, working example of democracy; to show the advantages of our script above all others.

We players have been increasingly joined by escapees who seek the benefits and privileges not found in puppet shows and other false representations of government. Directors of our pageant have been many and outstanding. They have built our production up to a world-wide attraction. Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln, Jackson, and Roosevelt are just a few of the directors. Although their guidance contributed to its democratic success, we players feel the guidance of an even greater force.

Let's review how it was when the curtain first rose.

Although our parts are easy today those of performers before us have not always been so. The very first players who gave birth to the present masterpiece were pioneers—uncertain—for they were the radicals who separated our play from one controlled by a monarch. As is true of the beginning of many great things, our pageant opened with struggle—one of the greatest acts the world has ever seen—the American Revolution. The inspiration for this first act was brought about by an article of popular belief written by a young aspirant, Thomas Jefferson. His work now known to all of us as the Declaration of Independence. The aftermath of this Revolution brought many difficulties; but through the wisdom and guidance of such leaders as Washington, Jefferson, and many others the play continued and the future looked hopeful. It soon became evident that there was a need for a foundation to guide and a means of solution for future problems. A guide that would protect the true meaning of the play from those who would seek to destroy it. This led to the formulation of the Constitution which in the past and for years to come will be recognized as the adhesive force that holds the project together.

In the second act came a split in the cast over differences of opinions and beliefs which almost resulted in a closedown of performances. This was the Civil War. But the director at the time, Abe Lincoln, a shrewd and able strategist managed with the help of thousands of supporters to restore the previous union.

As the play became more popular the stage grew larger until it stretched from the Atlantic to the Pacific. People began to come from afar to take part in this prosperous endeavor for it has much to offer.

In the third act many players left to volunteer their services for a great cause which would insure the pageant a future. Three times they went—World War I, World War II, and the Korean Crisis and each time their feats were applauded by peoples of other lands.

The successfulness of the present act will be the decisive factor of tomorrow's world—whether it is peaceful or turbulent—democratic or communist. This is the act that is being followed intensely and many times breathlessly by the audience. There is much potency in the performance because it is not deceptive or unrealistic, but true to life as history has proved. Nowhere in the world is such a play enacted that can equal the enthusiasm, and brotherhood of purpose combined with freedom displayed on our stage. There is no climax—each sequence is as important as the previous one. With each performance it proves its ability to meet the present and its stability to meet the future.

Throughout the world its emblem the Stars and Stripes flies as a waving advertisement of a democratic nation, America, the Land of the Free.

Scott, Executive Director of Lathing & Plastering, Institute of Northern California; Clyde Bell, Field Service Director of the California Contractors' Association; Ray Brown, Executive Manager of Plastering Industry Promotion Bureau and Carl Stowe, Field Director of the Sacramento Valley Bureau.

The Construction Specifications Institute held its National Convention in Palo Alto recently. There were several hundred of CSI delegates in attendance and it was unanimously agreed that this was the most constructive convention they have had. The Lathing and Plastering Industry had a booth as well as a hospitality room at this convention. This booth was sponsored and manned by the five promotional Bureaus of Northern California.

The financial contributions were shared equally by the five Bureaus, as well as a substantial contribution from the National Bureau. For this convention, the aforementioned Bureaus put out their first publication on a joint effort. This publication has the title of "Information on Lathing and Plastering Services." It carries an AIA File Number as well

CREED of the Union Label

The four corners of this household stand upon four rocks: the rock of love for one another, the rock of faith in God, the rock of loyalty to a land of liberty, the rock of labor for the common good.

Symbol of that labor is the Union Label. With its companions, Shop Card and Working Button, the label is the seal of solidarity among all who toil with hand or brain. It is the sign of brotherhood, insignia of the ancient code binding as friends and neighbors the working people "of all nations, tongues and kindred": an injury to one is an injury to all. Turned around, this code means:

What Helps One Helps All

This code requires of this household that when we shop for goods and services we seek those bearing the Union Label, products of shops displaying the Shop Card, and provided by workers proud to wear their Working Buttons.

A proverb says: "One bird does not build a nest." When you look for the other fellow's label, you encourage him to look for yours.

Political Memo from COPE

'RIGHT-TO-WORK' STATES HAVE LOWEST PER CAPITA INCOME

Only 1 of the 19 "right-to-work" states had a per capita personal income higher than the national average in 1958, the latest year for which figures are available. That state was Nevada where, of course, legalized gambling jacks up the income tremendously. The bottom five states in per capita income all had "right-to-work" laws, as did 10 of the bottom 13.

Here is the relative standing of "right-to-work" states in annual per capita income for 1958 measured against the national average (including the District of Columbia) of $2,057.

4th—Nevada, $2,569; 18th—Kansas, $2,001; 19th—Indiana, $1,990; 22nd—Arizona, $1,932; 25th—Nebraska, $1,894; 27th—Florida, $1,876; 28th—Iowa, $1,863; 31st—Texas $1,814; 32nd—Utah, $1,753; 37th—North Dakota, $1,697; 38th—Virginia, $1,674; 39th—South Dakota, $1,641; 42nd—Georgia, $1,487; 43rd—Tennessee, $1,439; 45th—North Carolina, $1,384; 46th—Alabama, $1,359; 47th—Arkansas, $1,228; 48th—South Carolina, $1,218; 49th—Mississippi, $1,053.

The average for the 19 states was $1,677.

The moral to all this: If you want to keep per capita income low in your state, pass a "right-to-work" law that will cripple trade unions' bargaining power for better wages for their members.

HOW DOES YOUR BUDGET COMPARE?

The annual cost of maintaining a "commonly accepted" standard of living for a wage earner's family has been computed by the Bureau of National Affairs for 33 key cities. BNA updated intercity differences in living costs estimated by the Bureau of Labor Statistics in 1953 and applied them to the Heller Budget (University of California) for a wage earner, wife and two children renting a home in the San Francisco area in September 1959. The findings:

Atlanta, $6,258; Baltimore, $6,170; Birmingham, $6,008; Boston, $5,988; Buffalo, $5,873; Chicago, $6,021; Cincinnati, $6,284; Cleveland, $5,940; Denver, $6,075; Detroit, $6,366; Houston, $6,150; Indianapolis, $5,738; Jacksonville, $6,122; Kansas City, $5,731; Los Angeles, $6,210; Manchester, $5,697; Memphis, $6,035; Milwaukee, $6,325;

Minneapolis, $5,954; Mobile, $5,595; New Orleans, $5,448; New York, $5,852; Norfolk, $5,940; Philadelphia, $5,846; Pittsburgh, $6,062; Portland, Me., $5,811; Portland, Ore., $5,960; Richmond, $6,116; St. Louis, $5,981; San Francisco, $6,271; Savannah, $5,798; Scranton, $5,589; Seattle, $6,250; Washington, D. C., $6,413.

GREATEST SINGLE SOURCE OF SOCIAL PROGRESS

"If we look back over the history of the labor unions it is undeniable that they have done more to eliminate poverty in our country, to raise the standard of living, to defend the dignity of man and awaken the social conscience of our people than any other single institution. The labor unions have always been the greatest single source of social progress. Now is the moment for our labor unions to prove to the American people that the best public relations can be achieved by public service. . . . The labor unions are the mainstay of any endeavor to achieve human progress in our country and to establish our great democratic ideal of liberty and justice for all Americans and for all mankind."

—Mrs. Agnes Meyer, writer and commentator, in address to Amalgamated Clothing Workers convention, May 31, 1960.

REPUBLICANS FLY LOW IN BYRD COUNTRY

Republicans in Virginia's 7th Congressional District held a convention on June 4. They tried and tried but failed to find anybody to run against Democratic Rep. Burr Harrison in this year's elections. The 7th is the home District of Sen. Harry Byrd, boss of the state's Democratic machine. Harrison is one of his right-hand men.

Who said they don't have a two-party system in Virginia? Byrd Democrats and Byrd Republicans.

QUESTION FOR CANDIDATES

"Ours is the most powerful and affluent nation anywhere in the world. Yet, in 1958, out of the 45 million families in this nation almost 25 per cent had incomes of $3,000 or less, and over one third had incomes of $4,000 or less. Are these families to bask in the reflected glory of the nation's great economic power and affluence?"—Sen. Mike Mansfield (D., Mont.).

Lath and Plaster Bureau

Addresses Construction Inspectors Association

Carl J. Stowe, Field Director of the Sacramento Valley Bureau for Lath & Plaster, was invited to attend a meeting of the building Construction Inspectors Association in Sacramento this month.

As Stowe reports, this is the first time that the Lath & Plaster Bureau has been given the privilege of addressing this particular group of men so important to the industry. Introduced by George L. Robinson, President of the Inspectors Association, Stowe explained the purposes and functions of the local industry bureau. The inspectors were particularly interested to know that the lath and plaster bureau is sponsored by both labor and management and commented very favorably on this arrangement.

Other speakers included Bob Ferros, Plaster Representative of U. S. Gypsum, and Victor Hughes of the Gypsum firm. An hour long question and answer period followed presentation of films on the Trusteel Stud Partition System, the two-inch Solid Lath and Plaster Partition System, the Brace-Tite Lathing System for Suspended Ceilings, and Membrane Fire-proofing.

The thirty-five members of the Construction Inspectors Association questioned Stowe and Khalil Bennett, lathing and plastering contractor, and Instructor of the Plasterers' Apprentice School.

Two views of the Construction Inspectors Association banquet.

One man can do plenty!

WHEN YOU KNOW YOUR PROSPECTS AND THEIR NEEDS for building materials that will serve them well in function and design . . . and know how well plastering systems meet their needs . . .

WHEN YOU PUT YOUR SELLING TOOLS TO WORK to present the advantages of lath and plaster to architects, school officials, committees—all who influence the decision . . .

ONE MAN CAN DO PLENTY to open wide the door to new selling opportunities, to beat competition to more sales, to build a more profitable lathing and plastering business.

WITH TRUSSTEEL* STUD PARTITION SYSTEMS, FOR EXAMPLE, you can make sure that steel stud, lath and plaster receive full consideration for all projects. Make sure of more sales . . .

The SS Hope leaves September 22 from San Francisco for Indonesia. The ship will spend six months in Indonesia and four months in Viet Nam.

People-to-People Program

World peace and disease-ridden bodies don't mix.

There is no room for ideals in the despair-filled eyes of a father in Asia who watches helplessly as disease kills his child.

Tell this man the United States wants international understanding and freedom.

He will answer: help my child.

And this is what the AFL-CIO and the members of the Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers' International Union are trying to do through "Project HOPE."

"Project HOPE" is a new program of the People-to-People Health Foundation, Inc. Its purpose is to bring the skills of the American medical and health professions to the people of other nations of the world.

Similar to other parts of the People-to-People program which was formed at the suggestion of the President of the United States to promote world peace, "Project HOPE" is based on the belief that individuals reaching out to help others can cross barriers that are insurmountable to governments and international organizations.

Through the contributions of American citizens, "Project HOPE" is attempting to equip and staff a hospital ship—a floating medical center and school—which will carry health opportunity to the people of the world who most need it. Project HOPE will be a teaching operation, rather than a vehicle for widespread treatment. In this way, it will have lasting and significant results as hundreds of doctors, nurses and medical technicians from other lands learn and pass along new knowledge and skills to their associates.

Long after the Project HOPE ship has left a foreign shore, its benefits will be in evidence throughout the country it has visited.

AFL-CIO President George Meany, who serves on the Board of Directors of the People-to-People Health Foundation, has termed "Project HOPE" "a truly humanitarian public service at its finest and evidence to the world of America's good will."

The AFL-CIO officially endorsed the project at its 1959 convention in San Francisco, recommending that all international unions contribute generously to the project. Local unions are requested to make a donation out of their local treasuries equal to 10 cents for every member.

Cost of Project HOPE for the first year will come to about $3,500,000. Its financing will depend entirely upon donations from private sources, among these the men and women of the labor movement.

Trade union contributions will be especially meaningful to Project HOPE, inasmuch as they will reflect the American worker's concern for his fellow-worker in less fortunate nations—the essence of the People-to-People program.

Southeast Asia has been selected as the first area to be visited by Project HOPE's hospital ship because the opportunities to aid in raising the level of medical care are so great there.

Urging all-out support for Project HOPE, Lloyd A. Mashburn, president of the Wood, Die and Metal Lathers, said: "What better way can we strengthen the cause of world peace than to help put physical strength back into the hands of a stricken child in a far-off land. When an Asian doctor makes a youngster strong and well again because of Project HOPE, the peoples of the world will come to know the United States as we know it: a peace-loving nation trying to be partners with our friends."

Dexter Peabody

Lauded by Local 190

Russ Anderson, business representative of Local 190 presents gold watch to Dexter Peabody.

Dexter Peabody, Past President and longtime member and faithful servant of Local 190 was presented an inscribed gold watch from his brothers at their annual party. A real expression of appreciation and sincere tribute from the men he has worked with for over a period of some 30 years. Les White, President and R. W. Anderson, B.A., made the presentation; and the 400 members and guests added their feelings with a standing ovation. All "Dex" was able to muster from a gratitude-filled heart was "Thanks, fellas, this means an awful lot to me."

Other highlights of the evening's program included short talks by Loyd G. Peterson and John Buster of the National Bureau for Lathing & Plastering. Both expressed their appreciation for the cooperation of Local 190 in the promotion of Lath & Plaster.

Also, Stan Arnold awarded 25 Year Certificates.

A standing ovation was also given this group for their faithful service and loyalty.

A fine dinner and evening of dancing concluded the festivities.

THINK-LIVE IS UNIVERSALLY ACCEPTED AS SOUND REASON

Everyone agrees that he much THINK in order to survive. Repetition of the THINK-LIVE theme becomes a desirable influence on each person because of its validity, common sense, and psychological transfer of meaning between connotations.

THE THINK-LIVE THEME IS HIGHLY SIGNIFICANT, YET CONCISE

Using caution and consideration in any situation that requires skill and knowledge may mean the difference between death and life.

THINK-LIVE SIGNS ON VEHICLES ARE REMINDERS OF SAFETY TO EVERYONE

The external sign, signifying the owner's concern for safety, has a great influence on the behavior of all drivers. This is particularly true when the miniature THINK-LIVE sign on the dash serves as a constant reminder to the driver of the THINK-LIVE-identified vehicle that he has committed himself to safe operation.

THINK-LIVE SERVES AS A STOPPING DISTANCE GUIDE TO OTHER DRIVERS

When THINK-LIVE becomes visible, the observer is 160 feet or less from the sign. This may be a guide for him to determine adequate following distance at normal highway speed under varying conditions.

A THINK-LIVE SIGN PROVIDES THE PROTECTION OF REFLECTIVITY

Any object dimly seen when visibility is restricted can be readily identified as a hazard when the reflective THINK-LIVE mirrors the light from an approach vehicle.

A THINK-LIVE SIGN IS APPROPRIATE WHEREVER IT IS DISPLAYED

The message is suitable for industrial safety, fire prevention, or any other aspect of accident prevention, becoming a central theme that may help save lives and reduce injuries in any environment.

These THINK-LIVE signs are 4" x 15" and have reflective white letters on a red background. The adhesive used provides easy application without harm to any painted surface—the sign, made of rubberized plastic, may be removed in one piece after many months of service.

Historical Quiz

A lean, reddish-haired young man, just turned 33, worked all that sultry June to draft history's most eloquent document. His name was (1) _____ and this was the year (2) _____. He showed the copy to John (3) _____ and Benjamin (4) _____.

On July 4, the Declaration was adopted by the (5) _____ Congress, meeting in the city of (6) _____, and America's freedom was proclaimed to the world. Most persons believe the document was also signed that day by the Congress. Not completely. Several weeks elapsed before 56 delegates affixed their signatures to a copy written on (7) _____.

They all pledged "our Lives, our (8) _____ and our sacred (9) _____" to the support of the Declaration. Everyone knows John Hancock was first to sign, but why? Because of his position as (10) _____ of the Congress.

The colonies greeted the ringing phrases by pulling down a statue of King (11) _____, whom the document indicted of tyranny.

The American colonies had an official flag before they became the United States. In place of the stars there was a (12) _____. On June 14, 1777, Congress authorized a new one to consist of 13 red and white stripes and 13 stars colored (13) _____ on a field of (14) _____. The stars were generally arranged in a (15) _____.

There are many stories about the first flag. One of the most cherished is the tale of Betsy (16) _____, who ran a small (17) _____ shop in Philadelphia. One day a delegation headed by (18) _____, came in. At their request, Betsy sewed the first flag. The flag now has 49 stars, (19) _____ red strips and (20) _____ white stripes. As citizens we pledge allegiance to this flag "and to the republic for which it stands; one nation (21) _____, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

There were so many of them . . . The 21-year-old schoolmaster from Connecticut, hanged as a spy by the British, whose last words were: "I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country." His name was (22) _____.

The two midnight riders who alerted the Minutemen to the British advance on Concord. One, of course, was Paul Revere, but do you remember the other? He was (23) _____.

The eloquent Virginia lawyer, Patrick Henry, who sounded the war cry of the colonials with the immortal words: "Give (24) _____."

There was the inspired pamphleteer, Tom (25) _____, who wrote, "These are the times that try men's souls." And there were the embattled farmers who "fired the (26) _____ heard round the world," the citizens who dumped the (27) _____ into Boston harbor, and the "Continental," who followed such leaders as "Mad (28) _____" of Pennsylvania. And from Vermont came Ethan Allen and his Green (29) _____.

There were glorious events and terrible ones: The battle opposite Boston which thrilled the colonies because raw American militiamen twice repulsed crack British troops before lack of ammunition forced them to abandon (30) _____ to the enemy. Washington's crossing of the Delaware River on Christmas night, 1776, to surprise a garrison of about 1,000 (31) _____ at Trenton.

The crucial victory of Colonial forces over Gentleman Johnny Burgoyne's men at (32) _____. The suffering of Washington's army that unforgettable winter at (33) _____. The winning of the west for the colonies by the intrepid Gen. George (34) _____ with his victories at Vincennes and other critical areas.

The sea battle between America's Bonhomme Richard and Britain's Serapis, during which John Paul Jones was asked to surrender his ship. And his defiant reply which still stirs the blood: (35) _____.

The Fourth of July means those "unalienable rights" summed up in those seven words in the Declaration of Independence: "Life, (36) _____."

"The second day of July, 1776, will be the most memorable epocha in the history of America. I am apt to believe that it will be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great anniversary festival. It ought to be commemorated as the day of deliverance, by solemn acts of devotion to God almighty. It ought to be solemnized with pomp and parade, with shows, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires, and illuminations, from one end of this continent to the other, from this time forward for evermore."

Report From the GENERAL PRESIDENT

In this Report I had intended to follow up more specifically my last Report in things that the Councils could do to assist us not only in organization but to assist in promotion of our product and in administering provisions of the L.I.U. Constitution. However, developments during the past month in the promotional field are much more important for the time being.

You will recall that the Plasterers International Union, for the past year, has not been active from the standpoint of promotion and has not participated on the Board of Governors of the National Bureau even though they have given some assistance particularly on agreements already containing the promotional clause. At a meeting of the Board of Governors held in Washington, D. C. on Wednesday, August 3, the Plasterers in attendance at the meeting again became active and pledged full support and cooperation to the promotion of lath and plaster. An aggressive and harmonious meeting was held and many plans discussed for the coming year. Some of the plans had been initiated before but had been dormant until such time as there could be full and complete cooperation by all segments of the industry as we now have. This should be a good year for not only the National Bureau but the Local Bureaus as well.

In addition to the progress made in the National Bureau itself in the meeting just mentioned, we are able to report to you that after a series of meetings the controversies over the publishing of the Architect's Manual have been ironed out and the Manual is at the printers at the present time and will be available about the First of October. The National Bureau has purchased 12,500 copies which will be available for purchase by the Local Bureaus from the National Bureau, at a price to be determined. It is intended that we should have as wide a distribution of this Manual as possible to all governmental agencies, to all architects, and, we hope, to as many people as possible in our own industry. We realize that this first Manual is not a perfect document and we intend to proceed immediately with a second edition which will be more specific and not quite so general. It has been a tremendous job to gather, correlate and put into writing, for the first time in the history of our industry, all of the material which had to be obtained from all segments of our industry. We are of the opinion, now that we have the material, that another edition will be more helpful.

The manufacturers in our industry have financed this project and our thanks should go to them for their financial assistance since the project has cost around one-quarter million dollars.

In addition to the above happenings, at a meeting over the last week end, which was composed of all the representatives of labor and industry, in the State of Ohio the Ohio State Bureau was reactivated and the controversies which almost caused the demise of this Bureau were ironed out and we had a unanimous pledge from all present that the Local Bureaus would be reactivated as well and they would again participate in the State and National Bureaus.

Another important event is that the Chicago Bureau situation, and the controversy which caused it, has now, apparently, been straightened out and we will have active participation by The Contracting Plasterers and the Plasterers Local No. 5 in Chicago which should be helpful on the local level as well as the national level.

A new bureau has been formed in the City of Philadelphia with all segments of the industry pledging their cooperation both on a local and national level. This, again, should assist in financing and crystalizing some of the plans which the National Board of Governors want to put into effect as soon as it is financially able to do so. While the last year or so has been rather difficult it looks as if the next year can be an extremely bright one for our promotional activities.

Many of the local bureaus who have been more or less dormant for the past few months are now reactivating their plans and it is hoped by the Board of Governors that our Regional Conferences which were planned and started a year ago can soon become a reality since the two Conferences which were held were so very successful.

In conclusion I would ask all locals and contractors who have been holding back on their activities to immediately reactivate their plans in order that we can promote the use of lath and plaster, and further that our contractors and unions forget their petty differences and think, eat and sleep INDUSTRY. As one delegate said at the Ohio meeting "let's not procrastinate in promoting our industry to the point where we drive the hearse to our own funeral."

Lloyd A. Maskburn

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell (center) stops to chat with General President Mashburn at left and Guy L. Brown, former Grand Chief Engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, during a banquet held in his honor. Over 850 leaders of the trade union movement and their wives and the President of the United States gathered to pay tribute to Secretary Mitchell at a banquet in Washington, D. C.

Mitchell Honored By Labor

Trade union leaders "rose above politics" here to pay tribute to Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell at a testimonial dinner in his honor.

General President Lloyd A. Mashburn and General Secretary Harold Mills represented the International Union in paying tribute to Secretary Mitchell.

AFL-CIO Secretary-Treasurer William F. Schnitzler set the tone of the evening when he told some 850 persons that Mitchell "has demonstrated during his career in public office that he is a friend of the working men and women of this country."

The dinner was further highlighted by President Eisenhower who attended and warmly praised organized labor for the significant part it has played in combatting the forces of isolationism in this country.

"I cannot tell you how much this has meant to me," the President said, "because there are those shortsighted people who believe that by building walls, walls of guns and walls of tariffs, that we can live in a secure and prosperous isolation."

He added that the trade union movement has shown that it recognizes "the falsity of any such belief, and indeed has been on the positive side of working to destroy such illusions and delusions in this country."

George Harrison, President of the Railway Clerks, presented Mitchell with a scroll which read:

"In appreciation . . . this testimonial is presented on behalf of the working men and women of the United States as a symbol of affection and esteem to their friend, The Honorable James P. Mitchell, in grateful appreciation and recognition of his untiring and selfless devotion to their welfare, in tribute to his intelligent statesmanship, and for his human understanding, wise counsel and good sense in providing extraordinary leadership as Secretary of Labor in advancing the welfare of the people of the United States."

On the dias witnessing the tribute to the Labor Secretary was his wife and his 84-year-old mother, who was a member of the Retail Clerks in 1895.

Mitchell said he wanted to name some of the people who were a major influence on his life who are no longer living. He named "Bill Green, Phil Murray, Sidney Hillman, Matthew Woll, Bill Hutcheson and Marty Durkin" among others.

He called for an expanding, strong America, saying that "in time of crisis free trade unions of America can be depended upon to meet the crisis in the national interest."

Although he has been mentioned as a possible Vice Presidential candidate on the Republican ticket, Mitchell said after January 20, 1961 he would be a "private citizen" and would work to improve civil rights, farm labor conditions and labor-management relations.

Situs Picket Bill Faces Congress

Passage Plea Made By Haggerty

The fate of a drive—spurred in large part by the AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Department—to amend the Taft-Hartley Act's restrictions on secondary boycotts so as to permit picketing on common construction sites has been left in doubt as Congress began its pre-convention recess.

While a Senate Labor subcommittee heard organized labor and the Eisenhower Administration appeal for passage of the Kennedy-Thompson bill, a group of Southern Democrats in the House torpedoed efforts to get the House bill to a floor vote.

The legislation sponsored by Senator John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) and Rep. Frank Thompson, Jr. (D-N. J.), in effect would overturn a 1951 Supreme Court ruling that the Denver building trades unions violated T-H in picketing non-union work on an otherwise all-union project.

Chairman Howard W. Smith (D-Va.), of the powerful House Rules Committee, reportedly demanded that the Thompson bill be scuttled in exchange for clearing a minimum wage bill for floor action.

Chairman Graham A. Barden (D-N. C.), of the House Labor Committee—which last April okayed the Thompson bill by a 21-5 vote—then permitted a filibuster to consume an entire committee meeting.

This prevented liberal Democrats from forcing the picketing bill directly to the floor.

On the Senate side, AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Department President C. J. Haggerty urged a floor vote on the basis of legislative hearings over the years and a leadership pledge repeatedly reported by Kennedy.

Haggerty quoted Kennedy as telling the Senate late in May that “commitments have been made by the leadership on both sides of the aisle in both Houses to bring the situs picketing bill to a vote this session.”

Haggerty told the Senate group that the Denver rule had adversely affected the building trades.

In Baltimore, he said, the number of all-union general contractors plummeted from 58 in 1951 to five in 1959, with “substantial differentials” created between union and non-union rates.

Haggerty pointed out that it is because the Taft-Hartley Act did not concede the nature of the building and construction industry that employees in the industry are denied the right of peaceful picketing enjoyed by other workers.

In the Denver case, a general contractor on a commercial project sublet work to a non-union electrical contractor who was paying his workers 42.5 cents an hour less than the union scale.

The Denver building trades picketed the site as “unfair.”

The lower court took the view that the union action was focused on the non-union aspect of the project and thus was legal. The Supreme Court, by a 6-3 decision, reversed this judgment.

Haggerty quoted from past committee reports which recommended that the secondary boycott be redefined to recognize that the typical construction project is an “integrated economic enterprise” involving different employers.

Cliff May, leading designer-builder, gets quality construction at no extra cost with KEYMESH® LATH and KEYCORNER

"Houses with plaster walls and ceilings give owners greater value," says Cliff May, internationally recognized for his bold imagination combined with practical use of materials. "Plaster is a quality feature that is most effective in my selling. I reinforce ceilings of large span with Keymesh over gypsum lath; corners with Keycorner. As evidence of my belief, I used this construction in my own new home in Sullivan Canyon, California.

"The result is probably the finest plaster job in the West. The reinforcement has been so outstanding that we do not have a crack in the entire house, although we have over 7,000 square feet of area and many experimental types of plastering, such as different textures and different aggregate compositions.

"I use my home as a model home. Clients are quick to recognize the added, although hidden, value of Keymesh and Keycorner reinforcing. The thick, reinforced walls and substantial plaster construction are big selling features."

THE MASTER BEDROOM is a comfortable studio during the daytime. Acoustical, Keymesh-reinforced plaster on ceiling adds soft beauty, assures quietness.

Here's how Keystone helps you sell reinforced plaster to builders. This powerful advertisement appears in leading building publications.

THE KITCHEN serves as both a working and a social area. Keymesh-reinforced plaster on walls and ceilings dramatizes the livability

THE TEXTURED-PLASTER ceiling unites the indoors with the outdoors in the master suite living area (Below). Keymesh used over gypsum lath in this construction.

THE INDOOR-OUTDOOR appearance of the May home extends even to the dressing room. Here, Keycorner was applied in corners over Keymesh for added strength.

THE ROUGH-TEXTURED plaster ceiling is ideal for the boy's bedroom. Keymesh and Keycorner are adding superior crack resistance to this construction.

Local 4 Promotes Little Leaguers

With failure almost in sight in an effort to get a Little League under way in the (northern) Marvine-Dutch Gap section of Scranton, Local 4 offered the advance sponsorship money to purchase a Little League franchise.

On March 28, with the deadline of application for a Charter being April 1st, Local 4 advanced the necessary finances and the project has continued to gain momentum since.

A four-team League has been organized which has provided plenty of pastime and interest for the young boys of the neighborhood from eight to twelve years of age, in addition to developing character, sportsmanship and manliness.

Projects to acquire finances to underwrite the expense of the League have been fairly successful, and parents and fans have taken to the Little Leaguers like fish to water.

The City Administration of Scranton, seeing the worth of the League, has made available a piece of land in the area for the development of a Little League Park. Leveling it off and furnishing a backstop, dugouts, fence, etc., are being planned by the League members for the future.

Members of Local 4 are pleased to know that they have had such a part in the initial start of the League, which is really helping youngsters to help themselves, and are convinced Little League is really a worth-while project.

Picketing Proves Profitable

Michael A. Rizzo, Vice President of the Lathers and President of the New York State Council of Lathers, reported a most successful operation of picketing done by his local, 308, on dry wall homes. On Fathers' Day members of Local 308 picketed dry wall homes built by builder Dave Giapapa. They passed out two pamphlets to inform the public of the hazards of dry walls. The pay-off pitch is that Mr. Giapapa signed an agreement with Local 308 and agreed not to build any more dry wall homes. Congratulations to Vice President Rizzo and Local 308.

This Is Your Week!

By Joseph Lewis, Secretary-Treasurer
Union Label and Service Trades Department, AFL-CIO

UNION LABEL WEEK—all set for September 5 through September 11 this year—is a very special period which belong especially to you and to all your brothers and sister trade union members. Your union crafts and skills and services make possible this annual celebration in honor of organized labor's emblems—the Union Label, the Shop Card and the Service Button.

Of course, the whole nation will officially observe the traditional holiday of Labor Day—September's first Monday. Offices and factories will close, there will be picnics and outings, last-chance visits to beaches and resorts, a backward glance at Summertime fun and a look forward toward getting the kiddies back to school. Labor Day has probably come to mean only this—a happy holiday—to many who possibly have forgotten the occasion's serious purpose and background and its living tribute to the working people of our land.

Not so, however, for members of organized labor such as yourself. You'll share in a whole week's celebration which will be more impressive and lasting than the fun of a Summer's-end holiday. You and millions of others who make up our nation's unionized working force mark Labor Day as the starting point for the observance of union label week—a seven day period for promoting and publicizing the Union Label, the Shop Card and the Service Button in a very special way.

Store windows in cities all over America will tell the story of the event with attractive UNION LABEL WEEK displays. Posters by the thousands go up in union halls, factories, shops and public places. Radio and television broadcasts will highlight the great contribution you and millions of other union members like you are making in producing for the world the finest and highest quality products and services possible. Your union emblems which mark these goods and services as being "union" will come in for high praise in proclamations issued by many Governors and Mayors declaring UNION LABEL WEEK official in their localities.

This will be truly your special week—so make it count to the very fullest for you and your family and friends. During UNION LABEL WEEK, re-double your demands for the products and services that bear the Union Label, the Shop Card and the Service Button. Take personal stock and make sure your own union-earned dollars are bringing in extra dividends in greater future job security, good wages, excellent fringe benefits and working conditions. Assure yourself that the way you buy and the way you spend will help preserve and guarantee a continuation of the countless benefits brought to you through membership in your union. Wear your Union Button with extra pride during UNION LABEL WEEK. Ask local merchants to display the Shop Card more prominently during this special occasion.

You've made UNION LABEL WEEK possible. Now, as a good union member, you can guarantee its success. You can't miss when you look for and demand the Union Label, the Shop Card and the Service Button.

Local 166 Is On the Job

"Knock on the wall" to be sure you get genuine lath and plaster walls is a by-word with lathers. And that is just what members of Local 166 have made sure of in the New York State Educational Building in Albany, N. Y.

The entire job was electrically welded to steel decking by a Nelson Stud Welder.

All light troughs had to be bracketed, lathed and beaded to receive plaster for fireproofing. Then acoustical tile was cemented to a brown coat of plaster floated to a smooth finish.

The Lather Apprentice's first award dinner got off to a good start as can be seen above. At right are the award winning apprentices pictured with their plaques. Left to right: Billy Rabon, instructor; Robert H. Worthy, Commissioner, Calif. State Apprenticeship Council; Guy B. Stowe, outstanding apprentice and Jim Byrnes, achievement award winner.

Apprentice of the Year

Guy B. Stowe, selected as the outstanding apprentice of the year, was presented a gold-plated plaque at the Lather Apprentices' First Annual Award Dinner held in the Town House Restaurant.

A gold-plated plaque was presented to Jim Byrnes in recognition of his outstanding achievement.

The presentation of the plaques was made by Robert H. Worthy, recently appointed by Governor Brown to Commissioner of the California State Apprenticeship Council, and who also is Business Representative of the Local Lathers Union.

In addition to the individual plaques awarded young Stowe and Byrnes, their names will be inscribed on a permanent plaque located in the office of the Sacramento Valley Bureau for Lath and Plaster.

The apprentices and their guests were addressed by James V. McNulty, Consultant for the Division of Apprenticeship Standards—U. S. Department of Labor, relating to the urgent need for high standards of apprenticeship training to sustain the lathing and plastering industry.

Additional talks were given by O. Frank Towse, local lathing contractor, and Carl J. Stowe, Field Director of the Sacramento Valley Bureau for Lath and Plaster.

Also in attendance at the Award Dinner were: Lyle McCray and Albert Zarek, local contractors; Billy Rabon, Instructor of the Lathers Apprentice School; Tom Carruth, member of the Joint Apprenticeship Committee; Clifford C. Honeycutt, Knowlton K. Honeycutt and Richard Phillips, all journeymen lathers.

Haggerty Issues First Charter

C. J. (Neil) Haggerty, First Vice President of the Lathers International Union and now President of the Building and Construction Trades Department, AFL-CIO, has issued his first Charter as President of the Department to the Building and Construction Trades Council of Santa Clara and San Benito Counties. Presentation of the Charter was made by Brother Bryan Deavers, President of the State Building and Construction Trades Council. President Gale and Secretary Sargent of the newly Chartered Council accepted the charter on behalf of the delegates and affiliated local unions. Guest speaker at this meeting was Brother Dan Flanagan, Regional Director of AFL-CIO.

California seemed the ideal and most logical place for Neil Haggerty to install his first Charter as President of the Building and Construction Trades Department for it was in this state that he made such great strides for the entire movement.

Accepting the new Charter are Bryan Deavers, President of the State Building and Construction Trades Council; Otto E. Sargent, Secretary-Treasurer of Santa Clara and San Benito Counties Building and Construction Trades Council; and Dan Flanagan, Regional Director of AFL-CIO.

Decisions of the General President

PUBLISHED IN ACCORDANCE WITH SECTION 23i(4) INTERNATIONAL CONSTITUTION:

"All appellate decisions of the General President and/or of the Executive Council and/or of the Convention must be published in the following issue of The Lather along with a short and concise synopsis of the case being decided."

R. J. Beckwith, #51985; A. Berquist, # 49834; G. M. Bosela, #45169; P. W. Cherol, #55944; R. J. Davis, #30654; E. J. Foley, #52892, and W. E. Namie, Apprentice Versus Local 28.

These brothers and the apprentice appealed against the action of Local 28 in fining them $100 each, and the apprentice $50, for a violation of Sections 35-36 of the local's By-Laws and Section 18q of the L.I.U. Constitution. After carefully considering all evidence in this matter and a special report of investigation made by Organizer S. D. Arnold the General President found these brothers guilty but found the penalty too severe and thereby reduced the fines to $50 each; and the fine of W. E. Namie, Apprentice, to $25.

A. J. Castagnola, #42672; S. J. Lamonica, #43649; and I. F. Pedone, #51012 Versus Local 431

These brothers appealed against the action of Local 431 in fining them $80 each. After carefully considering all evidence presented in this case the General President found these brothers guilty but due to circumstances surrounding the case found the fines too severe and thereby reduced the fines to $25 each.

Robert D. Baldwin, #54006 Versus Local 460

Brother Robert D. Baldwin appealed against the action of Local 460 in fining him $55 for a violation of Section 25b of the L.I.U. Constitution. After carefully considering all evidence presented in this case the General President found this brother guilty and upheld the fine as placed.

PREFABRICATED METAL STUD NON-BEARING HOLLOW PARTITIONS

- Fire Resistant

METAL STUD, NON-BEARING HOLLOW PARTITIONS

Non-Bearing

These details and specifications are for a non-bearing type of metal stud hollow partition for use where a more expensive load-bearing partition is not required. For a load bearing metal stud partition, all requirements for the metal lath, its attachment and plastering, remain the same. The only variation will be in the type of metal stud to be used and the method of erection.

Nine types of metal studs used for the construction of non-load bearing partitions are shown on the cover of this bulletin. All of them are factory fabricated from steel in 2", 2½", 3¼", 4" and 6" widths. Hollow partitions built with these steel studs and metal lath have many outstanding features that make them popular with architects, contractors and building owners.

Easy to Erect

Metal stud partitions can be erected with ordinary lather's tools. All connections are made with wire ties. Construction can be done by one man since the materials are light in weight and easy to handle.

Lightweight

In remodeling older buildings, lightweight partitions can be added with less danger of overloading existing floors and beams. In new buildings, dead load savings can often be converted into savings in structural framing. Metal stud and metal lath hollow partitions weigh only 18 pounds per square foot compared with 28 pounds for an equal area of 4" masonry units plastered on both sides.

Conceal Utilities

Metal studs are manufactured with generous openings in the web to accommodate horizontal as well as vertical runs of ducts and pipes. In a hollow partition pipes are free to move and are not embedded in solid mortar as they may be in a masonry partition. Expansion and contraction of steam and hot water lines can occur without cracking the plaster.

Fire Safety

In addition to being non-combustible, hollow partitions of metal studs, metal lath and plaster are outstanding barriers to the spread of fire. Fire resistive ratings from 1 hour to 2½ hours may be obtained by a proper choice of plaster. All of the following fire tests of metal stud hollow partitions were conducted at the National Bureau of Standards with the exception of the second one. This test was conducted at the University of California.

Thickness and Type of Plaster on Metal Lath on Both Faces of Stud	Fire Resistance
1" neat wood-fibered gypsum	2 ½-hours
1" gypsum-perlite ¹	2-hours
¾" neat wood-fibered gypsum	2-hours
¾" neat wood-fibered gypsum	1 ½-hours
¾" gypsum-sanded, 1:2, 1:3	1-hour
¾" portland cement 1:2, 1:3 with 3 lbs. of asbestos fiber per bag of cement	1-hour
¾" gypsum-sanded, 1:2, 1:2	1-hour

- Scratch coat: 100 lbs. gypsum to 2 cu. ft. of aggregate.
- Brown coat: 100 lbs. gypsum to 3 cu. ft. of aggregate.

NOTE: gypsum-sanded or portland cement plaster mixed 1:2, 1:2 means 1 part neat to 2 parts sand aggregate by weight for both scratch and brown coats.

Sound Insulation

Recent tests show that metal stud hollow partitions are equal to, or better, sound insulators than wood stud partitions or 3" masonry units plastered on both sides. They have been used with complete satisfaction in such types of buildings as hotels and apartments, where sound privacy is often a problem.

Construction	Sound Transmission Loss (decibels)
Metal studs 16" o.c., diamond mesh metal lath and ¾" gypsum-sanded plaster	40.5 (1)
Metal studs 24" o.c., rib metal lath and ¾" gypsum-sanded plaster	46.0 (2)

Testing Laboratory:

- National Bureau of Standards.
- Riverbank Acoustical Laboratories.

Where conditions warrant the use of a partition with a higher sound transmission loss, the sound insulating double metal lath and plaster partition should be used. This construction has ratings from 48 to 55 decibels.

Resilient and Strong

The resiliency of steel studs and metal lath makes hollow partitions of these materials highly resistant to sudden shocks and vibrations. Experience has shown that metal lath partitions can be jolted by earthquakes without disintegrating into dangerous falling debris. Metal lath embedded in plaster provides steel reinforcement against cracking.

Sanitary

A smooth plastered surface has no joints in which dust can collect or vermin can hide. Plaster can be decorated as often as necessary and washed with ease.

Economical

Materials for a metal stud and metal lath partition have great strength, are relatively light in weight, yet not bulky, thus resulting in savings in breakage, handling and storage. They are quick and easy to erect with practically no cleaning up costs after installation. And, of course, the need for costly cutting of pipe chases, which also weaken the partition, is eliminated. Access to the hollow space for repairs or modernizing of utilities is easy and inexpensive. Part of the plaster surface is removed, and after the work is completed, a new piece of metal lath is wired to the edges of the opening to provide a base for replastering at minimum cost.

Floor and ceiling tracks are fastened to concrete slabs with ½" long stub nails every 24 inches.

Ceiling tracks are easily attached to steel or concrete soffits with power driven fastener.

Studs are set in place and attached to floor and ceiling tracks with shoes and two loops of wire.

FLOOR ATTACHMENTS

(1) See Technical Bulletin No. 7, Supplement No. 3, for additional details.

Metal base, also serving as a plaster ground, may be used with prefabricated stud construction.

Metal lath is wire-tied to the face of the studs as a steel reinforcement and base for the plaster.

Prefabricated studs can be used to frame partition openings of widely varied dimensions.

SUGGESTED SPECIFICATIONS

1.0—SIZE AND SPACING OF STUDS

Minimum size of prefabricated metal studs for non-bearing hollow partitions shall be determined by the height of the partition in accordance with Table I.

Table I

Type of Partition	Face-to-Face Partition (A) Thickness (In Inches)	Maximum Height (B) (In Feet) C-to-C Spacing of Studs
		24"	19"	16"
2" Studs	3 1/2		9'	10'
2 1/2" Studs	4	9'	14'	15'
3 1/4" Studs	4 3/4	13'	18'	21'
4" Studs	5 1/2	16'	20'	22'
6" Studs	7 1/2	20'	24'	26'

(A) Plaster thickness 3/4" from stud face or 5/8" from face of Metal Lath; for 3/8" Rib Metal Lath, with ribs against studs, thickness increases 1/2".

(B) For lengths not exceeding 1 1/2 times height. For lengths exceeding this, reduce height 20%.

Spacing of studs shall be determined by the type and weight of Metal Lath used, and shall be in accordance with Table II.

Table II

Type of Lath	Weight Per Sq. Yd.	Maximum Stud Spacing
Diamond Mesh	2.5 lb.	12 Inches
Diamond Mesh	3.4 lb.	16 Inches
Flat Rib	2.75 lb.	16 Inches
Flat Rib	3.4 lb.	19 Inches
3/8" Rib or Rod Ribbed	3.4 lb.	24 Inches
3/8" Rib or Rod Ribbed	4.0 lb.	24 Inches
Sheet Lath	4.5 lb.	24 Inches

Note: Weights are exclusive of paper, fiber, or other backing.

2.0—ERECTION OF STUDS

Runner tracks shall be aligned accurately to the partition layout at both floor and ceiling. They shall be secured to concrete slabs with 1/2" concrete stub nails at 2' intervals, or wired to the runner or furring channels of ceilings.

Each stud shall be secured to runner tracks with two attachment shoes at both top and bottom, each wired or crimped to the stud.

Openings in studs make installation of plumbing pipe and electrical conduit an easy job.

Other methods of fastening studs to floor and ceiling will be permitted provided they have equivalent strength and are approved by the architect.

Partitions more than 10' long or 9' high shall be stiffened with 3/4" cold-rolled channels placed horizontally and not more than 6' apart vertically. Stiffeners shall be permanently wired on the inside of the partition. For unsupported height of 20' or more, horizontal stiffeners shall be 1 1/2" cold-rolled channels.

3.0—METAL DOOR FRAMES

For specifications concerning the installation of metal door frames, see Technical Bulletin No. 7, Supplement No. 3, page 4, supplementary specification No. 3-A.

4.0—WOOD DOOR FRAMES

Door openings shall have a metal stud, continuous from floor to ceiling, at each side of the buck. Such studs shall be securely fastened to the bucks with screws, or pairs of 8d nails shall be driven at intervals of 2', beginning 9" above the floor, into the buck and clinched over the studs to hold them securely.

5.0—ERECTION OF METAL LATH

All Metal Lath shall be specified by weight per square yard in accordance with the spacing of supports as given in Table II.

Metal Lath shall be applied with the long dimension of the sheet across the studs; Rib Metal Lath with the ribs against the studs.

Metal Lath shall be secured to supports at intervals not exceeding 6", a tie shall be placed where sides of sheets lap at supports, and at side laps of sheets between supports. Tie wire shall not be less than No. 18 gage galvanized annealed wire.

Equivalent clips or other attachment devices may be used instead of wire ties.

Diamond Mesh Metal Lath shall be lapped at sides not less than 1/2", and at ends not less than 1".

Rib Metal Lath and Sheet Lath shall be lapped at sides by nesting outside ribs or selvage. Rib Metal Lath shall be lapped 1" at ends and Sheet Lath shall be lapped 1" at ends or nested.

End laps of sheets should generally occur only over supports; if between, ends of sheets shall be laced or adequately tied with No. 18 gage galvanized annealed wire.

Where the adjoining surface is to be plastered, Diamond Mesh Metal Lath shall be started one stud away from corner and be bent into the corner and carried on to the abutting wall to avoid a joint at juncture of walls. Where Rib Metal Lath or Sheet Lath is used it shall be butted into all corners and Cornerite shall be applied over abutting lath in such angles and shall be wired at 6" intervals along each edge in all corners. (Cornerite shall not be fastened at its corner, but only along each edge. Cornerite is not required for Diamond Mesh Metal Lath.)

6.0—WOOD GROUNDS AND NAILING STRIPS

Wood grounds and wood nailing strips shall be set true to the plaster line and wired to studs, or nailed to blocks which shall be securely wired or clamped to studs.

7.1—Metal base screed, picture mold, or integral metal trim shall be wired to studs or Metal Lath through holes provided in the screed, mold, or trim, and, where necessary, shimmed to line.

7.2—All external angles to be plastered shall be protected with galvanized expanded wing or perforated corner beads. Corner bead shall be attached securely in such manner as to assure proper alignment during application of plaster, and for proper plaster thickness.

Note: Consult manufacturers' catalogues for additional information on prefabricated metal studs and metal base.

Steel stud and metal lath partitions can be faced with ceramic tile set in portland cement mortar.

Stud partitions can be built to great height, and make good firestops when finished on both sides.

CORRECTIONS

Regular withdrawal card issued by Local 379 to L. F. Poulin 45708 as published in the June '60 Journal has been cancelled and this member has been suspended for non-payment of dues.

Secy. of Local 42 adv. renewal of regular withdrawal card of W. H. Shaffer 45582 should have been reported as a deposit of a regular withdrawal card.

Suspension of W. C. Ayers 55335 for non-payment of dues has been cancelled as it was reported in error by the Secy. of Local 300. Secy. of Local 440 adv. fine of $50.00 previously published against Appr. Theodore Junior Eubanks by Local 172 was in error. The fine was placed on Bro. J. W. Eubanks 56422.

The fine of $75.00 against A. B. Smith 38434, published in the June issue of the Lather, was in error. This fine should have been against A. B. Smith, Jr., 48061.

In the July issue the "In Appreciation" for Ray Dantic, # 30488, the amount was incorrectly listed as $260.70, and should have been $245.00. Also three locals were listed incorrectly with the contributions. They are as follows:

THEY WERE:

Local 126	$2.00
Local 136	3.00
Local 143	2.00

SHOULD HAVE BEEN:

Local 126	$3.00
Local 136	2.00
Local 143	5.00

How to Save Money in spite of yourself

Many Americans have discovered a way to save money without really changing their spending habits. You simply ask the company where you work to set aside money every payday for U.S. Savings Bonds. The Payroll Savings Plan makes sure that it goes into savings before you can dribble it away. And, if you buy a $25.00 Bond a month (cost $18.75) in 40 months you'll have Bonds worth $1,000 at maturity. You really won't miss it because it adds up to only 63¢ a day.

U. S. Savings Bonds are more than a good way to save

UNCLE SAM PROTECTS THEM. U.S. Savings Bonds are fully backed by the U.S. Government. They can be cashed like money anytime at any bank. Your money is safe, yet readily available in Bonds.

- You can save automatically with the Payroll Savings Plan.
- You now earn $3\frac{3}{4}\%$ interest to maturity.
- You invest without risk under a U.S. Government guarantee.
- Your money can't be lost or stolen.
- You can get your money, with interest, anytime you want it.
- You save more than money—you help your Government pay for peace.
- You can buy Bonds where you work or bank.

IF YOU DON'T SEE IT, YOU WON'T SPEND IT. Millions of people sign up with the Payroll Savings Plan at work because it helps them save money that otherwise might slip through their fingers.

EVERY Savings Bond you own—old or new—earns $\frac{1}{2}\%$ more than ever before, when held to maturity.

You save more than money
with U.S. Savings Bonds

The U.S. Government does not pay for this advertising. The Treasury Department thanks The Advertising Council and this magazine for their patriotic donation.

WILL THEY LIVE IN A PEACEFUL WORLD? Lots of Americans do more than "hope so". They're buying U.S. Savings Bonds to help pay for the strength America needs to help keep the world at peace.

what is a friend?

WHAT IS A FRIEND? I will tell you. It is a person with whom you dare to be yourself. Your soul can go naked with him. He seems to ask of you to put on nothing, only to be what you are. He does not want you to be better or worse. When you are with him, you feel as a prisoner feels who has been declared innocent. You do not have to be on your guard. You can say what you think so long as it is genuinely you.

He understands those conditions in your nature that lead others to misjudge you. With him you breathe freely. You can take off your coat and loosen your collar. You can air your little vagaries, and envies and hates and vicious sparks, your meannesses and absurdities, and in opening them up to him they are lost—dissolved in the white ocean of his loyalty.

He understands; you do not have to be careful. You can abuse him, neglect him, tolerate him. He is like the water that cleanses all you say. He is like wine that warms you to the bone. You can weep with him, laugh with him, pray with him. Through it all he sees, knows and loves you. A friend, I repeat, is one with whom you dare to be yourself.

and

VOTE!

Report From the GENERAL PRESIDENT

You will note on the front of this Journal the urgent request to register and to vote regardless of Party. The AFL-CIO Executive Council, through its spokesman, President Meany, has advised us of the action taken by the Council in Chicago at its last meeting wherein a program has been set up to attempt to overcome the failure of the members of Labor, and their families and friends, to register and vote. He has asked every International Union to do everything possible through their local unions to stimulate interest in the coming elections. The following statement by President Meany should be of concern to every free American:

"Regardless of our individual preference for parties and candidates we can all unite upon one basic objective—the greatest possible participation in the election by all qualified Americans."

"The AFL-CIO President declared that 'it should be a matter of deep concern to us all that hardly more than a bare majority of the potential voters actually cast ballots at election time.' He added:

"There are today more than 40 million citizens who are not even registered to vote in their respective states. I submit that this is a betrayal of Democracy."

President Meany referred to figures compiled by the American Heritage Foundation, a non-profit institute devoted to encouraging an increase in registration and voting, which showed that the highest percentage turnout of voters in the United States came in 1952 when 62.7 per cent of the nation's voters participated in the presidential election.

"This turnout is far below the records achieved by other nations of the free world. A Heritage Foundation analysis of the free world's voting patterns shows that Austria leads with 95 per cent voter participation; Italy, 93.8 per cent; France 89 per cent; Turkey, 87.7 per cent; West Germany, 86 per cent; Greece and Indonesia, 85 per cent; and Israel 82.8 per cent."

The above quote is an indication of the laxity of the American people in registering and voting.

When I became the Executive Officer of the Los Angeles Building and Construction Trades Council I found that only 32 percent of our membership and their families were registered to vote and this, after the great depression which was attributed to politicians, seemed to me to be appalling. Together with other members of the Council we started to find out why and try to correct this situation.

Our investigation revealed, first of all, an antipathy towards politics and we, therefore, determined that we must stimulate interest in registering and voting. It also revealed that many of our members and their families resented outright endorsements on the part of a few labor officers so we decided that in the future the policy of our Council would be no endorsement. We would, however, furnish the issues in which we were interested as Labor people to our membership and would also furnish to the membership the position or vote of the candidate on those issues letting them make their own choice as to whom they should vote for.

We then urged our local unions and councils to develop programs to register and vote. On the registering we suggested contests by the members and local unions with prizes to be given to the members or local unions dependent upon how their program was set up. A great deal of literature, of course, was sent to our local unions in addition to all of the labor papers carrying the various messages and reports to the membership. Many other things were done which neither time nor space will permit discussion of here but which can be instituted by an individual committee from these basic policies which have been enumerated. Our registration, in the first five years of this program, increased from 32 per cent to 72 per cent. The voting was increased even more by this type of program which stimulated the interest of not only our membership but their families and neighbors. If this could be done at that time without the strong national and local political organizations, it can certainly be done with the strong virile national and local political organizations which we have today.

I urge each and everyone of our members and affiliated local unions to develop not only their local union program but to participate, in conjunction with the local COPE organization, in every phase of this program which will be given wide publicity through our national and local labor papers and central bodies.

For your information the deadline for registration general election:

ANNUAL AUDIT of the
GENERAL SECRETARY-TREASURER
FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDED
JULY 31, 1960

PURSUANT TO THE PROVISIONS OF THE L.I.U. CONSTITUTION

August 22, 1960

Mr. Lloyd A. Mashburn, General President
Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers International Union
6530 New Hampshire Avenue
Takoma Park, Maryland

Dear Sir:

In accordance with your request we have examined the books and records of the Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers International Union for the fiscal year ended July 31, 1960, and give you herewith a report of our examination including the following exhibits and schedules:

Exhibits

- A — Statement of Condition July 31, 1960
- A-1 — Bonds Owned July 31, 1960

Schedules

- 1 — Summary Cash Statement
- 2 — Statement of Cash Receipts
- 3 — Statement of Cash Disbursements
- 3-A — Officers' and Representatives' Salaries and Expenses

Cash in bank was reconciled with direct confirmation received from the Suburban Trust Company, Hyattsville, Maryland.

Bonds owned as described in Exhibit A-1 and Stock Certificate Number 47-290 for 560 shares of Union Labor Life Insurance Company Stock were examined in the presence of General Secretary-Treasurer Harold Mills. These securities are held for safe-keeping in a safe deposit box in the Suburban Trust Company.

Th gross assets of your organization have increased from $866,170.50 on July 31, 1959, as shown by the previous audit to $988,060.52 on July 31, 1960, an increase of $121,890.02. The net increase in cash totaled $76,322.63 and the balance of $45,567.39 was distributed among the other assets.

Inventory values were based on an estimated figure determined from your records.

Since the examination was confined to receipts and disbursements, any amounts which may be due from local unions or other sources, and any unpaid bills, as for services and supplies, were not considered in the compilation of this report.

In our opinion, subject to the above comments, the accompanying statements present fairly the assets and liabilities of the Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers International Union at July 31, 1960, and its receipts and disbursements for the year then ended, in conformity with procedures generally followed by the organization, applied on a basis consistent with that of the previous year.

Yours very truly,

ERIC G. JANSSON AND COMPANY

Report of the GENERAL SECRETARY-TREASURER

I would like to take this opportunity to advise all the local secretaries that we have purchased an Addressograph System, which will be delivered to us sometime in December, and which we expect to have in operation by January 1, 1961. By using this Addressograph System, we will be furnishing the local secretaries with their monthly per capita tax statement in duplicate, listing every member, and every apprentice, and then the local secretary will merely fill out the necessary spaces, and return the original copy to Headquarters for processing. This system will allow us to give a better, and quicker service than we have been able to give in the past. Because of using this system, we will not be using the old short, or long report forms, therefore, you will only need a supply that would get you through December of 1960. In ordering these forms from Headquarters, please order accordingly, so that you do not have a large number left over when we start using this new system. At a later date, we will supply the local secretaries with whatever information is necessary in reference to the use of the new forms.

Because of financial difficulties in some of the locals, it has become obvious that all locals are not adhering to Section 19a of the L.I.U. Constitution, which requires that the president of each local cause the trustees of the local to audit the books semi-annually. This section of the Constitution is very important in order to see that the books are kept correctly, and also to advise the membership of the financial standing of the local union. If the books are audited as required by Section 19a of the L.I.U. Constitution, I am sure that some of the problems that we are presently having would be eliminated.

I have requested before that all checks or money orders or payments of any kind to the L.I.U. should be made out to the L.I.U., and not to me personally. Even though I have advised you of this before, I am still receiving occasional payments made out to myself. Please make all future payments for per capita tax, etc., payable to the L.I.U.

In receiving filing forms for jurisdictional disputes, either filed by us or by some other craft against us, I still in many instances, lack a complete description of the work involved, and am requesting again that when you fill out a filing form, please give a complete description of the way the work is being installed, and the materials used on the back of the filing form. Many times this description could change the decision being rendered by the Joint Board.

If there are any locals that still have extra copies of the Long Beach Convention Proceedings, I would appreciate it if they would return any extra copies to the L.I.U.

When secretaries write in reference to problems involving members, we request that in each case they give the International number or Social Security number of the person involved, so that we may be sure that we have the right person, and do not have him confused with another person having a similar name. Sending these numbers also makes it easier for us to give a prompt reply to any request.

I'M REGISTERED TO VOTE! ARE YOU?

A little over a year ago I moved to Maryland, and because you have to be a resident of Maryland for a year before you may vote, I was not allowed my privilege of voting last year. However, I did register, and will be able to perform my obligation, and duty of voting in the November elections this year. It is very important for everyone eligible, to register, so that they may be able to vote, and then, even more important, that they vote. Union members should realize this importance because of the obvious necessity for combating detrimental legislation, which already has been put into effect. Everyone seems to think that his individual vote doesn't make any difference, but this thought is very wrong. The individual vote does make a difference. Think of how many votes would be gained if only one added person voted in each precinct throughout the United States. Another reason that we need to vote is to prove to all other nations that this democracy of ours is all that we boast of it being. If we do not use the benefits of our democracy, the people of other countries begin to believe that it isn't all we try to make of it. The voting records show that only between 60 and 70% of the eligible voting population has voted in elections. Although I know we can not make it 100%, let's all register, and all vote in the hopes of making it almost 100%. Please exercise the duty, the obligation, and the privilege, by voting in November.

Decisions of the General President

PUBLISHED IN ACCORDANCE WITH SECTION 23i(4) INTERNATIONAL CONSTITUTION:

"All appellate decisions of the General President and/or of the Executive Council and/or of the Convention must be published in the following issue of The Lather along with a short and concise synopsis of the case being decided."

Harry E. Bowen, 54047; Robert Milner Jr., 45105; and Robert D. Backes, 39365 Versus Local 454

These brothers appealed against the action of Local 454 in fining them $30 each for a violation of Section 79 of the local's By-Laws and Section 25 of the International Constitution. After carefully considering all evidence presented in these cases the General President found these brothers guilty and upheld the fines as placed.

George Scala, 43638 Versus Local 42-A

Brother George Scala appealed against the action of Local 42-A in fining him $25 for a violation of Section 21Q of the local's By-Laws, and Section 17j (14) of the International Constitution. After carefully considering all evidence presented in this case, and a special hearing and recommendation by the Southern California District Council of Lathers, the General President found this brother guilty and upheld the fine as placed.

How to Turn a $5⁰⁰ Raise into a $1,000 Bonus

Wishing won't turn a $5 a week raise into a $1,000 bonus, but it's easy to do. If you take that $5 raise and put it into U. S. Savings Bonds you can buy a $25.00 Bond a month (cost $18.75) and have money left over. If you keep buying one of these Bonds a month for 40 months you'll have your big bonus—Bonds worth $1,000 at maturity.

It's a pretty smart idea to save a raise. It's money you didn't have before and shouldn't miss. But, whether you've just gotten a raise, or not, why don't you ask your employer to include you in the Payroll Savings Plan?

WHAT SHOULD HE DO WITH AN EXTRA $5 A WEEK? He can spend it, of course. But, if he buys a $25.00 U. S. Savings Bond each month for 40 months with his $5 a week raise, he is going to have Bonds worth $1,000.

Why U. S. Savings Bonds are such a good way to save.

- You can save automatically with the Payroll Savings Plan • You now earn 3 $\frac{3}{4}$ % interest to maturity • You invest without risk under U. S. Government guarantee • Your money can't be lost or stolen • You can get your money, with interest, anytime you want it • You save more than money; you help your Government pay for peace • You can buy Bonds where you work or bank.

EVEN IF YOUR BONDS ARE DESTROYED, YOUR MONEY IS SAFE.

Your Bonds are recorded in your name at the Treasury. If anything happens to them the Government replaces them free.

YOU SAVE MORE THAN MONEY. You help save the things worth living for. Every Bond dollar helps keep America strong to preserve the peace.

Every Savings Bond you own—old or new—earns $\frac{1}{2}$ % more than ever before when held to maturity.

Than Money With U. S. Savings Bonds

An American Voter's Creed

The right to vote is a sacred one. My forefathers died to bequeath me this right. It is my duty as a citizen to exercise it. In so doing I have a solemn obligation to discharge this responsibility with care and wisdom and full understanding of the issues involved. Whim and indifference must play no part in my decision. The future of my town, county, state and country lies in my ballot. It is my duty, therefore to inform myself fully about the candidates—who they are, what they stand for, how they will govern. Then—and only then—will I be qualified to make my selection.

I shall select on the basis of wisdom rather than wit; courage rather than charm; attitudes rather than appearance. I will and must do everything I can to elect the right person to the right job.

As a voter and a responsible American citizen, I can do no less.

Make your voice heard in the people's choice—vote November 8.

Films on Labor's Political Action

Order the following from the AFL-CIO Film Division, 815-16th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C.

THE WISCONSIN STORY. 16 min. Rental $2.50. Produced by Wisconsin State AFL-CIO, 1958.

Shows how union membership lists and their families are checked against city and county registration lists, how new registration or changes are pushed, and the techniques for getting out the vote. This film emphasizes the "telephone brigades" which were organized by the Women's Activities Division of COPE in Wisconsin and the need for pinpointing labor efforts in the precincts where working people live.

BUILDING UNION PARTICIPATION IN POLITICS. 28 min. Rental $3.00. Produced by the United Steelworkers of America.

This is a story of how a union member gets active in politics. He is moved by his personal interests—fishing and supplementary unemployment compensation. He stops taking things for granted and starts doing something. He becomes the local's representative in an election campaign for a state assemblyman.

YOU CAN DO IT. 10 min. Rental $2.00. Produced by UAW, 1952.

Film stimulates an interest in politics. Talks about why half our population stays away from the polls. Stresses the fact that government is a servant of the social and economic groups that work at politics. Points up the role of the individual in establishing group pressures.

YOU CAN WIN ELECTIONS. 25 min. Rental $3.00. Produced by Roosevelt University and the Independent Voters of Illinois, 1954.

One person's vote has and may change an election. How to get that vote and others is the story of this film. It tells of four steps that need to be taken from door-to-door in each precinct. Excellent film for training and encouraging the local union members to help get out the vote.

LABOR'S WITNESS. 33 min. Rental $3.00. Produced by the UAW, 1957.

Dramatic film of an actual hearing before the U.S. Senate Committee. UAW President Walter Reuther tells the members of the Committee how the UAW works at getting its members registered and voting. He describes the UAW education program, and the union's endorsement policy.

LEST WE FORGET. 25 min. Rental $3.00. Produced by Democratic National Committee, 1948.

This film uses newsreel footage of life in the U.S. from World War I to Roosevelt's fourth election in 1944. The greatness of the "New Deal" is emphasized and the Harding-Coolidge-Hoover drift to depression and war is shown.

MAN ON THE HILL. 13 min. Color Cartoon. Rental $2.50. Produced by U.S. Armed Forces, 1958.

This is a film about your Congressman. It emphasizes the work of committees in Congress and the importance of legislation to our daily lives. It offers excellent cartoon presentation of the work of elected representatives you have in local, state and federal governments.

VOTING PROCEDURE. 14 min. Rental $2.50. Produced by Indiana University, 1955.

Here are details about voting. They are presented to help the viewer realize that the process of registering and voting is simple. The film stresses the need for voter preparations: knowing where to vote, how to "split" a ticket or vote "straight."

Time Off for Voting Under State Laws

Twenty-nine States have acknowledged the problem of the worker who must leave his job during working hours if he is to exercise his citizenship right to vote by enacting laws that permit employees to take time off from work for the purpose of voting.

The States that have enacted such laws are:

Alabama	Illinois	Minnesota	Oklahoma
Alaska	Indiana	Missouri	South Dakota
Arizona	Iowa	Nebraska	Tennessee
Arkansas	Kansas	Nevada	Texas
California	Kentucky	New Mexico	Utah
Colorado	Maryland	New York	West Virginia
Hawaii	Massachusetts	Ohio	Wisconsin
			Wyoming

Although these laws vary from State to State, they usually follow a general pattern. Ordinarily they provide that an employee who is entitled to vote in an election may, upon prior application to the employer, absent himself from work for a specified period, without penalty, and without deduction from wages, the time of absence to be designated by the employer. The laws indicate the employees covered, the amount of time that may be taken off, and the conditions under which time off is permitted. In recent years, there has been a trend toward permitting time off only if there is insufficient time outside working hours during which the employee may vote. The laws usually also provide penalties in case an employer refuses an employee any of the privileges conferred under the laws.

National Building Program Vital To Push Economy Ahead Now

Labor looks forward to the dynamic expansion of the national economy in the year ahead.

This goal must be achieved if America hopes to provide effective leadership in the world struggle for peace and freedom.

Our national defense cannot be adequately reinforced unless it is backed up by a strong, healthy and growing economy. Prolongation of high unemployment, low production and inadequate purchasing power is bound to impair the ability of our country to resist and prevent further Communist aggression.

How can we assure the growth of our gross national product at the rate of at least 4 per cent a year—the minimum necessary to provide jobs for our growing population?

The Building and Construction Trades Department suggests a program that will go a long way toward bringing about the industrial revival of our country's needs.

1. We believe the Government's "tight money" policy must be shelved in favor of a new policy which will encourage private enterprise to invest in an expanding economy.

2. We believe that the Federal Government must meet its responsibility to invest in the construction of urgently needed schools, hospitals, research facilities, low cost housing, urban renewal, better roads, modern airports and projects for the improvement of our communities.

From past experience, we know that the inauguration of a large-scale building program, both privately and publicly financed, will give the entire national economy the forward push it so badly needs today.

It would be a mistake to assume that only the construction industry would benefit. On the contrary, basic industries like steel, lumber, electrical appliances, textiles, furniture, autos and many others would get a shot in the arm.

This is not a boondoggling program.

Our country has fallen far behind in its physical plant. Nor can it be truthfully criticized as a "spending" program. There is a vast difference between spending and wise investment. Investment of private and public funds in construction of homes and facilities that our country and its people need will pay off dividends—now and in the future.

It will provide millions of new jobs. It will spur industrial production over a long-range period. And, finally, it will produce greater tax revenues that will make the program pay for itself and for higher defense expenditures, to boot.

Regardless of the outcome of this year's national elections, we are convinced that our Government will have to take these steps toward a more progressive and more rewarding future.

Technical Bulletin No. 7, Specification 3.0 of Suggested Specifi-

A3.1—METAL DOOR FRAMES

A3.1.1—Metal door frames shall be fabricated in accordance with manufacturers' details and all welds or other fastenings shall be secure. Returns on flanges of door frames shall not prevent intrusion of lath and plaster into frames.

A3.2—ANCHORS

A3.2.1—Floor anchors shall be at least 16 gage steel, welded to frames and have two holes provided for fastenings, spaced a minimum of three inches apart.

A3.2.2—Jamb anchors shall be of 16 gage steel minimum, notched or formed to receive the stud; of a size to fit snugly within the interior of the jamb, with no part extending more than $\frac{3}{4}$ inch beyond the back of the jamb; located near the top of the jamb, approximately 12 inches from the top, and a maximum of 24 inches on centers; and securely attached to the frame. Metal studs shall be wire-tied, bolted or welded to the jamb anchors.

A3.2.2.1—If jamb anchors which are notched or formed to receive metal studs are not available, jamb anchors which adhere to all other requirements may be used provided they are welded or bolted to the stud.

A3.2.3—Metal studs shall be installed at each jamb as follows: one metal stud shall be attached to jamb anchors as noted in paragraph A3.2.2 and a second metal stud shall be placed not more than two inches away from the first stud, using adequate means of attachment between the two, or two metal studs shall be attached to jamb anchors and securely fastened back to back.

A3.2.3.1—Where metal door frames have an adjustable strut running from each jamb to the ceiling, one metal stud shall be installed at each jamb as previously noted.

A3.2.4—Metal jack studs shall be installed over the head of the frame, spaced 16 inches on centers maximum, and attached to metal floor track located within the interiors of the frame. They shall be reinforced with a $\frac{3}{4}$ -inch cold-rolled channel stiffener placed inside the partition and not more than 6 inches above the frame. Floor track may be omitted if one $\frac{3}{4}$ -inch cold-rolled channel stiffener is placed on each interior face of the studs and not more than 6 inches above the frame. Channel stiffeners shall extend at least two full stud spaces beyond the opening and shall be saddle tied to each stud they cross.

A3.3—METAL LATH

A3.3.1—Metal lath shall be inserted into jambs as far as possible and notched to pass jamb anchors. Plaster shall be forced into openings between metal lath and frame reveals and frames shall be grouted full where so indicated on the drawings.

A3.4—CONTROL JOINTS

A3.4.1—Long partition assemblies may require the installation of control joints over the head of door frames to relieve stresses within the assemblies. Control joints may be installed in the following manner:

A3.4.1.1—Install two metal jack studs over the head of the frame, each stud approximately 3 inches from the center of the span with a vertical lath joint occurring between the two studs. Tie either a pair of casing beads edge to edge, or prefabricated expansion joint, onto the metal lath, centered over and parallel with the metal lath joint.

A3.4.1.2—Where it is desirable to locate control joints at the outer edge of the jamb, the procedure outlined in paragraph A3.4.1.1 may be followed except that supporting members will consist of a metal jack stud and a partition stud.

note: The Specifications noted herein relative to fabrication, installation and other details concerning metal door frames, represent the recommendations of the Steel Door Institute.

DON'T BE A GOAT!

The working man who fails to vote
Is like the hapless billy goat:
He butts his head against the wall
And finds he gets nowhere at all!
But he who votes Election Day
Is helping all to higher pay,
To civil rights, to better schools,
To steady jobs with better tools,
To lower prices, friendly cops,
To steady markets for the crops,
To taxes based on who can pay,
To better pensions for the gray,
To low-cost homes and doctor's care,
To peace which everyone can share.
So listen, friend: Get out and vote!
Don't emulate the billy goat!

NOW you see it
...now you don't!

MILCOR STYLE B ACCESS DOOR

You plaster over the recessed door panel — finish it flush with the surrounding acoustical plaster. There is no exposed door panel to break the ceiling surface or impair acoustical efficiency.

The plaster is securely bonded to the door by self-furring Milcor Furlath welded to the panel. Plaster edges are protected by Milcor No. 66 Casing Bead around the panel's perimeter. The same bead on the outer frame enables you to get a neat, clean finish with the surrounding plaster area.

Three sizes are available, 12" x 12", 12" x 24", 24" x 24" — for 1", 1 1/8", and 1 1/4" grounds. Catalog 210 describes them. Write for your copy.

Report From the GENERAL PRESIDENT

We have previously advised you in these Reports that we were taking bids from various bonding companies which would meet the requirements of the Landrum-Griffin Act and as well the bonding requirements set up in our L.I.U. Constitution.

You will recall, when we first started to resolve this problem we had quotes from various bonding companies of $9 per $1000 per year to $11.25 per $1000 per year without the kind of coverage that we felt would meet our needs. We were fortunate to have been bonded, at least under the Constitution, which gave us sufficient time to continue to work on the problem and this has been for a period of the last year since the Landrum-Griffin Act was passed. I have attended a number of conferences relating to this problem and up until a month ago was quite discouraged because it appeared that the price of the necessary coverage would be prohibitive to our smaller local unions.

We have now, however, completed negotiations with an accredited bonding company with less cost than we were paying before and with greater coverage than we had and the bond also meets the requirements of the law as well as the L.I.U. Constitution. The bond is with the Pennsylvania Threshermen and Farmers' Mutual Casualty Insurance Company. The bond provides for the necessary coverage under the Act for the General President and General Secretary-Treasurer which amounts to $45,000 each and provides for coverage for all locals and councils in the amount of $7500 instead of $2500. This sounds strange to bond for $7500 instead of $2500 but the cost is less to be bonded this way than the other way and we get greater coverage. We were paying $9.54 a year for $2500. The cost of the bond now will be $9 per year for $7500. It will be a 'Faithful Performance' bond rather than an 'Honesty Bond' and will cover all officers of the locals and councils who handle finances. The cost for the locals and councils required to have excess bonding will be $6 per $1000 per year.

Another advantage of being able to obtain $7500 minimum coverage instead of the $2500 is that it reduces the number of local unions and councils who will require excess bonding. As a matter of fact, less than twenty locals and councils will be required under the law to take more than $7500 which, of course, again reduces the cost because excess bonding is higher than the regular bonding as may be noted by the quote above. Under this bond we do not have to name the officers covered except in a case of excess bonding then the officer to be named only in the first instance. If there is a change in officers they do not have to be named.

When receiving your next Report from the office of the General Secretary-Treasurer you will also receive an application to be filled out for the new bond. This is a very simple application and nothing like the one you had to fill out in the Questionnaire which we sent you some time ago. You will also receive any necessary instructions along with your bond application. Our bond was cancelled by the former bonding company as of October 1, 1960, and we have already instructed the new bonding company to put a 'Binder' on so that you are now covered under the new bond. The International will pay the cost of bonding of locals and those councils who were previously bonded and who want to be bonded in the future. In the case of the local unions it will be deducted from their credit and in the case of the councils—they will be billed for it.

I want to emphasize again that this bond covers all officers regardless of name who are responsible for handling of finances. Since there is only a small number of locals and councils, as I said before, who require excess coverage to meet the law I will write to them individually. We ask that you fill out your bond application as promptly as possible upon its receipt.

Shortly, in the mail, you will be receiving copies of sample agreements which have been printed, copies of which will be available here at Headquarters upon your request. We find, since we sent out the mimeographed copies of the sample agreement, that many of our smaller local unions were able to negotiate this agreement with their contractors with very minor changes which has made for a great deal of uniformity in the agreements of local unions. It has, also, enabled them, without legal counsel, to have a legal agreement. However, I want to caution that this agreement, particularly its Union Clause and Hiring Clause, is illegal in the 'right-to-work' states. These two clauses have to be changed in the seventeen states that have a 'right-to-work' law. There are three of the seventeen states that have 'right-to-work' laws where it is legal to have an Agency Clause in your agreement. The three states are Florida, Indiana and Kansas. A sample of the Agency Clause is available here at Headquarters as drawn by our attorney for those who wish it. The Agency Clause, for the information of those who are not familiar with it, permits you to charge the non-union man the same monies that are paid by the union man but does not require those who do not want to become union members to become union members, even though they pay this fee. We do find, however, in the local unions that have this Agency Clause that all of the employees eventually become union members in order to obtain the benefits of the International Union.

C. H. COLLINS — “Riley”

Receives Unusual Honor

There are perhaps only a handful of Union officials in the U.S. who have been honored as was Riley Collins at the recent State Council of Lathers convention held in Long Beach.

Brother Collins got his first Lathers union card in Pasadena in 1905, came to Bakersfield in 1910, and organized the 27 lathers here into Local 300. He went into the contracting business and did lathing on the Manley Apartments, Brauer Bldg., Tegler Hotel, Florence Hotel, Manchester Hotel, the Bakersfield Californian, Habersfelde Bldg., El Tejon Hotel and the old Kern General Hospital.

During these years, he held every elective position in the Kern County Building Trades Council.

Realizing his years of dedication to the Labor Movement, the California Council of Lathers created by convention action the special post of vice president emeritus for Brother Collins, not only to honor the man himself, but to keep available his wisdom, counsel and advice for the betterment of Union men and women.

The resolution reads:

RESOLUTION SPONSORED BY THE SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA DISTRICT COUNCIL OF LATHERS

WHEREAS, Charles H. Collins has given fully and freely of his time, energies and abilities over many years past in the service of and for the benefit of the workingmen and workingwomen of California and the members of the Lathers Unions in particular, and

WHEREAS, because of the unfortunate circumstances of ill health, he is not able to give the requisite time to the duties of a Vice President of the California State Council of Lathers, and

WHEREAS, if he were to resign as Vice President and not serve in any other capacity in which his valued counsel and advice would not be readily available to the State Council, it would work to the great detriment of the Council, and

WHEREAS, it is to the great benefit of the State Council, its affiliated local union and their members that an honorary position be created whereby the experience and abilities of Charles H. Collins in advice and consultation be available to the Council; now, therefore be it

RESOLVED, that Charles H. Collins be designated as Vice President Emeritus with full authority to participate in all meetings and activities of the Executive Board with the exception of the right to vote, and be it FURTHER RESOLVED, that he receive full expenses on the same basis as a Vice President for any meetings which he attends.

Adopted at Regular Convention, Calif. State Council of Lathers, July 30, 1960.

CAN YOU IDENTIFY the above card? If you can't don't feel too badly, as it is half a century old, and is a Building Trades card issued to C. H. 'Riley' Collins, secretary of Lathers Union Local 300. The mechanic in any building craft used this card as a means of identification in any part of the state, or nation. Brother Collins also has a Reno, Nevada, Building Trades card dated 1907, and his original Union card in the Wool, Wire and Metal Lathers Union in Pasadena dated September 28, 1905.

Note To All Local Secretaries

This is to notify you that we have purchased addressograph equipment and intend to use a new style of reporting per capita tax starting with January 1, 1961. We are in the process of arranging new forms, copies of which will be printed in the November issue of the Lather, with further information as to how these will be used. Instead of you mailing per capita tax forms, we will send you a duplicate form listing your membership. You will fill in the necessary blanks and return the original to us for processing. Therefore, you will only need the old style per capita tax forms thru the month of December, 1960.

OCTOBER 24—UNITED NATIONS DAY

SINCE THE FOUNDING of the United Nations fifteen years ago our world has witnessed many significant changes. Everywhere there has been an upsurge in population—a phenomenon to which we apply the term “explosion.” We have probed the atom’s secrets—but have still to discover how to use this tremendous force for humanity’s well-being rather than for its annihilation. The creation of new Asian and African states has swelled UN membership to 82; as new nations have come into being the gaps in time and space between the world’s peoples have virtually disappeared—in fact, man’s researches and his increasing technological advances are now reaching into an unexplored dimension—space.

In these eventful fifteen years we have seen the expansion of Communism to embrace nearly one billion men and women. And we have watched with growing uneasiness and frustration the shifting patterns of the “cold war” and the failure to reach a workable disarmament agreement.

As we prepare to observe UN Day this year let’s “look at the record.” What has the UN accomplished since 1945? Where have been its most important areas of achievement? In what ways has it failed?

On November 3, 1950, five months after the invasion of Korea, the first collective international military action in history was undertaken through the “Uniting for Peace” resolution. UN intervention since then has on several occasions settled disputes which might have flared up into major conflicts—between the Netherlands and Indonesia, between India and Pakistan over Kashmir, between Egypt and Israel, when the United Nations Emergency Force (UNEF) was set up to patrol the Middle East, one of the world’s most sensitive areas. Creation of a second UNEF was voted last month to help restore order in the riot-torn Congo.

The UN has provided a continuing forum, a “permanent diplomatic conference,” where nations could meet and talk through problems for which, in former years, war was the only possible solution. In the words of Secretary-General Hammarskjöld, the UN is “an organ which offers the framework and the foundations for negotiations. . . . Only to a limited extent does the UN have an existence and possibilities of action independent of the will of the member governments.” Perhaps its work in preventing crises from developing into conflicts constitutes the UN’s most significant accomplishment—one which we still lack the perspective to evaluate fully.

The UN is engaged in a global struggle against mankind’s age-old enemies—poverty, ignorance and disease. Through its specialized agencies—WHO, UNICEF, UNESCO—health standards are being raised, ancient diseases like yaws, trachoma, malaria and leprosy are being eradicated, infant mortality rates are dropping, millions of children and adults are learning to read and write their own language.

UN technical assistance programs have meant social and economic progress and advancement for the world’s underdeveloped areas. Regional commissions have been set up for Europe, Asia, Africa, Latin America; FAO is bringing modern agricultural techniques to the most primitive areas, thereby increasing the world’s food supply and raising living standards. Through financing construction of projects like hydroelectric dams and power stations, the World Bank is creating a tremendous future industrial potential in many underdeveloped areas.

International cooperation in the study and use of outer space for peaceful purposes was initiated by UN action, and under UN auspices 3,000 scientists from 69 countries came together to exchange information regarding peaceful uses of nuclear energy.

In the area of human rights the UN’s achievements have been most significant. First—the Declaration of Human Rights itself, the unified expression of 58 nations, which provides the world with a “common standard of achievement for all peoples and all nations, to the end that every individual and every organ of society, keeping this Declaration constantly in mind, shall strive . . . to promote respect for these rights and freedoms and . . . secure their universal and effective recognition and observance.” Since this was first proclaimed by the General Assembly in Paris, December 10, 1948, each succeeding anniversary of Human Rights Day has given both the day and the document an added, richer meaning. Next—the work of special commissions, notably the one on Status of Women, whose efforts have greatly improved the lot of millions of the world’s women by changing marriage and property laws, and have secured for women everywhere greater dignity and integrity and a larger measure of personal and political independence. Through effective operation of its Trusteeship System a dozen nations were prepared to assume the responsibilities of independent statehood. And finally, by designating 1959-60 as World Refugee Year, the UN helped focus universal attention on the plight of 15 million homeless and stateless persons, and marshalled international public support to seek a speedy end to this problem.

It is unfortunate that this great humanitarian enterprise which ended June 30, 1960, did not fully realize the high purpose for which it was created. Even the minimum objective set by UN High Commissioner for Refugees August Lindt will not be achieved unless an additional $1 million is forthcoming; at best clearing refugee camps will run a year behind the proposed schedule. Only 39 out of 88 “nominal” participants worked actively; proportionately, the United States did less than its size, wealth and national traditions would per-

for BEST plastering results!

"We don't buy cheap materials. What you save in first cost, you often lose—and then some—on extra labor and callbacks. That's why I insist that subcontractors working for me use Keymesh as a stucco reinforcing material," reports Alec Lee Branden, Hayward, California.

Mr. Branden finds stucco a quality feature for exterior walls. At Tropicana Village, his latest development, stucco is applied over Keymesh reinforcement. This wall construction helps him maintain a 35-house a day schedule (final plans call for 10,000 homes)—and assures the strength, durability, and fire-safety that owners of Branden-built homes expect. Low initial cost plus highest quality are trademarks of all Branden-built homes.

"I've found that Keymesh gives with the wall, taking up the stretch and contraction that any new home goes through as it settles. With Keymesh, stucco walls show no signs of exterior cracking. Require no callbacks to repair settling cracks. And, being easy to work with, my subcontractors appreciate the way it handles."

Other use and test-proved products in the Keymesh family of quality plaster reinforcements . . . Keycorner for almost double the crack resistance of plaster corners . . . Keystrip for extra strength at points of maximum stress where flat strip reinforcement is needed.

Frank A. Schiro, Plastering Subcontractor, uses 18-gauge Keymesh. Mr. Schiro reports, "I like to use Keymesh because it permits rapid troweling. My workmen easily keep up with construction schedules."

A Special Message To Building Tradesmen

From President, C. J. HAGGERTY of the Building and Construction Trades Department, AFL-CIO

We can have a firm and just foreign policy which will lead to an enduring peace. We can have a stabilized economy with full employment creating the production needed to fill the needs of our people. We can have decent homes for every American family. We can have the necessary classrooms to accommodate our booming school age population with adequately-trained and adequately-paid teachers at all levels of education. We can attain wage levels that will meet the cost of living to provide for all, the purchasing power necessary to at least maintain a basic American standard of living.

These are goals which we should aim for. They can only be achieved through legislation. Only by electing legislators who believe these goals are right and believe we can reach these goals will they become a reality.

Probably at no previous time in the history of our country or of our trade union movement have the National elections, Presidential and Congressional, been of such importance. We are faced with critical problems in the field of International relations and seriously involved in a cold war costing billions of dollars annually. On the domestic front we have witnessed an increasing percentage of our work force becoming unemployed or working the short week while our economy has slowed to a point of stagnation.

We have a shortage of adequate housing, a shortage of school teachers, a shortage of classrooms. We have an increasing number of depressed areas throughout the country. We have an ever increasing cost of living with an ever increasing portion of our work force earning less than $1.00 per hour. We have an increasing population of elders over 65 with inadequate Social Security payments and no adequate provisions for health care.

We have these conditions in 1960 in the wealthiest, most productive nation in the world. There is absolutely no reason for this paradox to exist except for the lack of vision, lack of planning, and lack of leadership which exists among too many of our elected officials. In addition, there is a lack of awareness on the part of many of our people that only through the legislative processes of our Congress coupled with adequate Executive branch leadership can each problem mentioned above be solved in the months and years ahead.

Bad Politicians Are Elected By Good People Who Do Not Vote

Only a short time remains before the crucial election day of November 8, 1960. In a few areas, registration is still open. I would strongly urge that wherever possible those who have not yet done so, make every effort to get themselves, their families and their friends registered.

Our duty does not end with registration. Our responsibility does not end until we have each cast our ballot for those legislators who we feel will best serve our country and all of its people.

There are 145,723 election districts or precincts in the United States. We in the Building Trades, among all labor, are in the unique position of having membership in the vast majority of these precincts. In some, many thousands of members; in others, only a small number of members; but a nucleus for election day activity.

Election statistics show that in the average precinct only 40 out of every 65 registered voters actually vote on election day.

What better contribution could we make to the cause of good government than to use our resources, our time and influence between now and election day to plan a program and work to make that program effective, to help get every registered voter out on election day to cast his or her ballot. Every local union, every Building and Construction Trades Council should lend its support to COPE and the Central Bodies to see that such a program is undertaken immediately.

On election day our friendly candidates need manpower and womanpower—they need volunteer poll workers and poll watchers, automobiles to transport people to the polls, baby sitters to take over while mothers vote early to avoid the rush—they need telephone teams to keep a constant barrage of calls going to the registered voters urging that they be sure to vote. These and many other election day activities could and should be undertaken by our building tradesmen and their wives and children to ensure the biggest possible vote for Labor's endorsed candidates—let each of us volunteer today to give time to this effort—let our Building Trades slogan be:

GET OUT THE VOTE

THE WHITE HOUSE

SOUTH FRONT

FOR MORE THAN A CENTURY AND A HALF, the White House has been the home of the Presidents of the United States. Here have lived the men chosen by the people to guide the affairs of the Nation. It has been the scene of many brilliant social affairs—weddings, fetes, receptions—and also of sorrowful events. Like the Nation itself, it bears the imprint of successive chief executives. Designed originally to avoid formal display, it has an air of dignity and charm. Now rebuilt to last for centuries, the White House retains the simplicity of its original appearance and its rich historical associations.

The cornerstone of the White House, the first public building to be erected in Washington, was laid on October 13, 1792. President Washington selected the site, which was included on the plan of the Federal City prepared by the French engineer, Maj. Pierre L'Enfant. The plans for the house, approved by Washington, were drawn by James Hoban, an Irish-born architect. Hoban superintended the construction of the house, its rebuilding after burning by British forces in 1814, and the erection of the north and south porticoes some years later.

In the classical style of architecture, the main facade of the White House resembles the Duke of Leinster's house in Dublin, on which the design was supposedly based. Details of other faces and the interior arrangement were probably derived from contemporary houses in England and Europe. Built of sandstone quarried on Aquia Creek, Va., the exterior walls were painted during the course of construction, causing the building to be termed the "White House" from an early date. For many years, however, it was generally referred to as the "President's House" or the "President's Palace."

Early History

The White House was first occupied by President and Mrs. John Adams in November, 1800. Some of its interior had not been completed and Mrs. Adams used the unfinished East Room to dry the family wash. During Jefferson's administration, the east and west terraces were constructed. Jefferson practiced democratic simplicity in his social life, and it was his custom to open the house each morning to all arrivals. When James Madison became President in 1809, his wife, the famous Dolly Madison, introduced some of the brilliance and glitter of old-world courts into the social life of the White House. Then, on August 24, 1814, British forces captured Washington and burned the building in retaliation for the destruction by American troops of some public buildings in Canada. Although only the partially damaged sandstone walls and the interior brickwork remained when the work of reconstruction was begun in the spring of 1815, the building was ready for occupancy by President Monroe in December, 1817. The south portico, the dominant architectural feature of that side of the house, was built in 1824; the large north portico over the entrance and driveway, in 1829.

Improvements, 1830-1902

Throughout its history the White House has kept pace with modern improvements. Spring water was piped into the building in 1834, and gas lighting was introduced in 1848. A hot water heating system was installed five years later. During Johnson's administration the east terrace was entirely removed. In 1882, the first elevator was put in, and the house was wired for electricity a decade later, during the administration of Benjamin Harrison.

Restoration of 1902

No other important structural changes were made in the house until 1902, in the Theodore Roosevelt administration. By this date the interior of the house had become something of a conglomeration of styles and periods because of the many changes made at various times in decorations and arrangements. The house was also badly in need of extensive structural repairs. To correct these conditions, Congress appropriated more than half a million dollars to repair and refurnish the house and to construct new offices for the President. Work was begun in June, 1902, by McKim, Meade and White, architects, of New York, and was virtually finished by the end of the year. The improvements included rebuilding and strengthening much of the interior of the house; redecorating and refurnishing the entire main floor; removing the main stairway from the west end of the corridor to the east of the entrance lobby and using the space thus made available for enlarging the State Dining Room; providing a few rooms for servants in the attic; erecting an office building at the end of the west terrace; and reconstructing the east terrace.

Alterations, 1903-48

Few important changes were made in the White House during this period. The Executive Office building was enlarged in 1910; several guest rooms were made in the attic during President Wilson's administration; and the roof and third story were remodeled in 1927. Early in the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt, funds were raised by public subscription for the construction of a swimming pool. A few years later a modern electric kitchen was installed, and a basement was dug under the north portico to provide space for maintenance shops and storage. World War II saw an air raid shelter constructed off the new East Wing, a motion picture theater put in under the east terrace, and a small gymnasium set up adjoining the swimming pool. In 1946 a balcony was built off the second floor, behind the columns of the south portico, to provide a porch for the President's family and also to improve the appearance of the portico, the columns of which appeared too tall and slender for such an important architectural feature.

White House Renovation, 1948-52

Over the years, piecemeal alterations had weakened many of the old wooden beams and interior walls, but not until a thorough examination of the structure was made in 1948 was the really alarming condition of the house revealed. Beams were found to be inadequately supported; heavy ceilings had dropped several inches; and even the foundations were found too weak to support the walls erected on them. Consequently, a Commission on Renovation of the Executive Mansion was established, according to an act of Congress approved April 14, 1949, to decide whether to erect an entirely new building or preserve as much as possible of the old structure. After careful consideration, the Commission decided that the old sandstone walls would be retained, thus preserving the historical appearance of the famous old structure.

In order to make preliminary surveys, President Truman and his family moved across the street into the historic Blair House, and all of the furnishings were removed and placed in storage in December, 1948. The actual work of reconstruction was begun a year later, and by the fall of 1950 the most critical phase of the work had been accomplished. The old walls were now supported by concrete foundations, and the wooden beams and brick supporting walls of the interior were replaced by a modern steel framework. Concrete floors were then laid and partition walls erected.

Space for electrical and refrigeration equipment was provided by excavating an area northeast of the White House. A new floor and steps for the north portico were constructed of Tennessee marble. Georgia marble was used for the floor of the south portico and Missouri limestone for the steps.

During 1951 the exterior was painted white, walls and ceilings were plastered, and the interior woodwork was installed.

In addition to making the White House as fireproof and durable as possible, every effort was made during the renovation to retain or restore the original atmosphere and at the same time to provide a more livable and efficient home for the President and his family. Where there were formerly 48 rooms and 14 baths in the part of the house used as living quarters, there are now 54 rooms and 16 baths. In all, the White House now has 132 rooms and 20 baths and showers, compared with 62 rooms and 14 baths prior to the renovation. Formerly, there was but one elevator; now there are five—a main elevator, a service elevator, and three freight elevators. Altogether, Congress appropriated $5,761,000 for the renovation, which was scheduled to be completed in 1951, but various difficulties delayed its completion. The Presidential family resumed residence in the White House on March 27, 1952.

The First Floor

In general, furnishings and decorations are predominantly 18th-century Georgian in style, but furnishings of historic interest have been retained, and much of the old furniture has been refinished and re-covered to harmonize with the color scheme of various rooms. Some of the new furnishings were given by anonymous donors. Portraits of several Presidents hang from the walls of the lobby, main corridor, and rooms of the first floor, except in the Blue Room.

Entrance Lobby and Main Corridor

Six classic columns separate the entrance lobby from the main corridor. The columns and the pilasters spaced along the walls are of vari-colored Vermont marble; floors are of grey and pink Tennessee marble. The entrance to the main stairway, which was formerly from the corridor, is now from the east side of the lobby. Seals of the thirteen original states are carved on the marble-faced opening of the stairway. On the opposite wall, a large mirror reaches from floor to ceiling. A red rug extends the length of the corridor.

The East Room

Used for state receptions and balls, the East Room is the largest room in the White House. It has been the scene of several famous weddings, including those of Nellie Grant and Alice Roosevelt. Funeral services were held here for William Henry Harrison, Zachary Taylor, Abraham Lincoln, Warren G. Harding and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The East Room is decorated in white and gold. Window draperies are of lemon-gold and white silk damask. White enameled wood paneling covers the walls, in which are set six low-relief panels done in 1902 by the Piccirilli Brothers. The large crystal chandeliers hanging from an elaborately decorated plaster ceiling also date from 1902. The floor is oak parquet. On the east wall is seen the most notable portrait in the White House, that of George Washington painted by Gilbert Stuart. It is the one Dolly Madison ordered removed when the British burned the White House in 1814. A portrait of Martha Washington also hangs on the east wall.

The Green Room

This room is used for informal receptions. The walls are covered with green silk damask, and the draperies are of the same material. The white marble mantel, imported from Italy when the White House was rebuilt after the War of 1812, was originally in the State Dining Room. The Hannibal clock and gilt vases on the mantel were purchased in France during Monroc's administration. On the oak floor is a Savonnerie rug bearing the President's seal in its center. The crystal chandelier was presented by an anonymous donor during Herbert Hoover's administration.

The Blue Room

Famous for its elliptical shape, this room has usually been considered the most beautiful room in the White House. The walls above the white enameled wainscoting are covered with bright blue silk damask with a gold motif. Draperies and upholstery are of the same material. The furniture is white, matching the woodwork. The uncovered oak floor is laid in herringbone design. On the white marble mantel, which dates from 1902, are a French Minerva clock and gilt candlesticks purchased by President James Monroc. The crystal chandelier was anonymously presented several years ago. In this room the President receives guests at state dinners and receptions. Grover Cleveland and Frances Folsom were married in the Blue Room on June 2, 1886, the only wedding of a President to take place in the White House.

The Red Room

In size and shape the Red Room is identical to the Green Room. It has white enameled wainscoting and woodwork, wall covering and draperies of red silk damask, and a red chenille rug on the oak floor. The white marble mantel is a duplicate of that in the Green Room. On it are two 18th-century candelabra and a musical clock presented in April, 1952, by the President of France. A new crystal chandelier hangs from the ceiling. This room is used by the First Lady to receive guests, and also as a reception room for small dinners. President Rutherford B. Hayes took his oath of office here on March 3, 1877.

The State Dining Room

Except for the East Room, this is the largest room in the White House and can comfortably seat 100 guests at large dinners or luncheons. Paneling of English oak extends from floor to ceiling. Originally installed in 1902, it was painted pale green during the course of the renovation, providing an effective background for the gold silk damask window draperies. The fireplace is of verd antique Vermont marble. A green chenille rug covers the oak floor. In the center of the room is an antique mahogany table. Hanging from the elaborately decorated stucco ceiling is a silver chandelier which dates from 1902. On the north wall is an "over mantel", a painting of flowers framed in gilt over a mirror, presented for the late King George VI of England by the present Queen Elizabeth II when she was a Princess.

The Private Dining Room

This room has a vaulted ceiling, white enameled wainscoting, and walls paneled in plaster. The mantel is of marble with a mirror above. A new crystal chandelier, lighted with candles, hangs in this room. To the west is the butler's pantry, which opens also into the State Dining Room, and is connected with the kitchen on the ground floor by a servants' elevator, dumbwaiters, and a staircase.

The Second Floor

The second and third floors are reserved for the family and guests of the President. Several changes were made to make the rooms on the second floor more livable, but perhaps the greatest single improvement was to provide much-needed closet space. The Lincoln bedroom, in which stands the enormous bed used by the Civil War President, was restored in the Victorian period.

The Third Floor

During the renovation, the roof was re-covered with green slate and raised at the corners to provide additional rooms on the third floor. There are several guest rooms on this floor, most of them furnished with reproductions of 18th-century pieces. A ramp leads to the new sun parlor, or solarium, over the south portico.

The Ground Floor

A corridor with vaulted ceiling and vari-colored Vermont marble walls gives access to the rooms on this floor. The library, china room, and cloakrooms are paneled in pine from the old beams of the White House, and, in places, show old nail holes. Across the hall is the original kitchen of the White House, in which the old sandstone fireplaces have been restored, some stones on display bearing the Masonic symbols cut by the original workmen. This room is now used for conferences and for television and radio broadcasting, and has soundproof walls and ceiling. Adjoining it is the present modern electric kitchen, in which almost all the equipment is of stainless steel.

Basement and Mezzanine Floors

Excavating done in the course of renovation provided these additional floors. Here are the machinery and electrical equipment for heating, lighting, and air conditioning the building, and space for storage and service facilities.

Grounds

The impression of simple dignity conveyed by the White House is enhanced by the natural beauty of its informal but carefully-landscaped grounds. Many of the trees are of historical interest, such as the magnolias planted by Andrew Jackson. In front of the north portico, English boxwood, as old as the White House itself, has been planted. New trees have been selected for their beauty and variety. Flower gardens and well-kept lawns add to the beauty of the grounds about the White House.

Representing over 300 years in the lathing industry, this group of lathers, pictured with their local union representatives, received their first retirement checks provided by the Lathing Industry Pension Plan of California. Pictured, from left to right, are F. D. Deeds, A. W. Seefeldt,

I. A. Martin, J. T. Strader, M. M. Tritch, F. S. Cushman, Clarence B. Gariss (chairman of pension board of trustees and business agent for Local 172), Leighton Sion (pension board trustee and business agent for Local 366), B. Millspaugh, J. V. Wilson, H. L. Powers and S. J. Dale.

Lathing Industry Pension Plan of California Pays First Pension Checks

First benefactors in a new pension plan for union lathers in California were recipients of retirement certificates and pension checks recently. The presentation was made in the offices of Lathers Local 172, Long Beach, with Clarence B. Gariss, chairman of the pension board of trustees (and business agent for Local 172) officiating.

The first pension plan exclusively for lathers was negotiated by Lathers' Locals 172, 252 and 366 and the Lathing Contractors' Association of Southern California in May, 1958. The plan was designed in such a manner as to encourage easy expansion into a state-wide operation. The program has grown recently by the addition of Locals 42-A, 81 and 440 to cover over 2,500 lathers.

Working with the contribution that was available for pensions (10¢ per hour paid by the employer), the board of trustees was able to provide a minimum pension of $25.00 per month for those workmen over 65 years of age who qualified for retirement on May 1, 1960, and who wished to draw this pension immediately without adding further credit by additional years of work. Hope has been expressed by the board that favorable return on investment of pension funds and growth of the group will provide increased retirement benefits in the future.

In making the presentation Chairman Gariss declared: "The injury to one is the concern of all." This motto of the Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers' International Union may well be paraphrased to read 'The welfare of one is the concern of all.' In the struggle for a higher standard of living and increased benefits for the laboring man the older workman is often overlooked. But, we must not forget the pioneers who laid the foundation for this prosperity nor their struggles for the greater benefits which the younger men enjoy today. The lathing industry has not forgotten the welfare of these pioneers."

The Lathing Industry Pension Plan of California is administered at the office of the Lathing Institute of Southern California by a board of trustees composed of one trustee from each local with an equal number of trustees from the contractor organization. Consultants on the plan are Scott-Hindenach Associates and David H. Walker Company.

Robert A. Judson

1879—1960

Robert A. Judson, prominent in San Jose union affairs for nearly 50 years, died in a San Jose hospital on July 14 after a long illness which had forced his retirement as secretary of the county Building Trades Council in 1948.

Born in Junction City, Oregon, Bro. Judson would have been 81 in Aug. 23. He had been a union member since 1903, first in the Teamsters Union and since 1906 in the Lathers Union. Recently he was presented a 50-year membership emblem by Lathers Union 144 of San Jose.

Bro. Judson's labor career started in the Pacific Northwest where he became a member of an independent, mixed council of workers at Salem, Ore. He next became a member of the Teamsters Union, in Aberdeen, Wash., for six years serving as secretary for a time, then returning to his trade as a lather.

It was in June, 1906, that Bro. Judson moved to San Jose. For about 20 years he was secretary of Lathers Union 144 and was union president about 10 years. During the bitter "American Plan" campaign in the 1920s, he served as secretary-treasurer and business agent for the San Jose Mortar Trade Alliance.

He was elected secretary of the county Building Trades Council in 1936, serving 12 years. During the years as a union official he was delegate to the Golden Gate District Council of Lathers, to the California State Federation of Labor, and to many conventions, local and national.

During the World War II years, he served on the board of appeals for the selective service office. He was active on numerous civic commissions and in community affairs.

A strong unionist with a strong philosophy about Organized Labor Bro. Judson urged newer union members to become active in their unions, attend meetings, hold office, and always support union projects. He was active in the Eagles lodge and in the First Christian Church of San Jose.

Bro. Judson and his wife, Marie, were married in 1909. Mrs. Judson is widely known in union circles.

A son, Master Sergeant Leslie C. Judson, who has been stationed at Fort Ord and living at Mariana, also survives. In addition Bro. Judson leaves three grandchildren. Mrs. Beverly Smith, of Hayward; Robert William Judson, of Corvallis, and James Lewis Judson, of Corvallis, and four great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at the Darling-Fisher mortuary in San Jose with many union members and officials paying final tribute to Bro. Judson. Interment was at Oak Hill Memorial Park.

Pall bearers were Otto E. Sargent, secretary of the building trade council; William Longaker, acting business agent of Lathers Union 144; Vernon S. Swain, business agent of Carpenters Union 316; Fred Volkers, former secretary and business agent of the building council; Dominic Orlando, lathing contractor, and Bill Pedigo, news editor of The Union Gazette.

Evening Off For Courtin'

An evening off for courting was considered an important "employee benefit" by the Mt. Cory Carriage Wagon Works in 1872. A copy of its employee benefit chart follows:

1. Office employees will daily sweep the floors, dust the furniture, shelves and showcases.
2. Each day fill lamps, clean chimneys, and trim wicks. Wash the windows once a week.
3. Each clerk will bring in a bucket of water and a scuttle of coal for the day's business.
4. Make your pens carefully. You may whittle nibs to your individual taste.
5. This office will open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m. daily, except on the Sabbath, on which day it will remain closed.
6. Men employees will be given an evening off each week for courting purposes, or two evenings a week if they go to church regularly.
7. Every employee should lay aside from each day a goodly sum of his earnings for his benefits during his declining years, so that he will not become a burden upon the charity of his betters.

8. Any employee who smokes Spanish cigars, uses liquor in any form, gets shaved at a barber shop, or frequents pool or public halls, will give me good reason to suspect his worth, intentions, integrity, and honesty.

9. The employee who has performed his labours faithfully and without faults for a period of five years in my service, and who has been thrifty and attentive to his religious duties, is looked upon by his fellowmen as a substantial and law abiding citizen, will be given an increase of five cents per day in his pay, providing a just return in profits from the business permits it.

BE WORTHY OF YOUR HIRE

Grandpa had to be a fast worker back in his day or lose out in the competition. Employee benefits have taken great strides since then. Enumerate your blessings and be glad of your employee benefits.

UNITED NATIONS DAY

mit. Although our Congress appropriated $10 million to be spent at the Administration's discretion for World Refugee Year, only $5,049,375—about 50%—has actually been turned over. The rest has been withheld, or used in other ways.

On the opposite side of the shield, the UN has failed to achieve disarmament. It has been unable to put an end to nuclear testing, and in certain political areas—notably in the struggle between Algeria and France—it has not affected a solution acceptable to both sides. And it was unable to prevent the Soviet Union from putting down the Hungarian revolt in 1956—although the General Assembly's vote of censure against Russia did much to fix the blame in the court of world opinion. Many tensions still exist despite UN efforts to relieve them; many problems still await resolution.

The United States has consistently regarded the United Nations as a major instrument of our foreign policy—indeed, the late George C. Marshall, then Secretary of State, declared in 1947, "Support for the UN is the cornerstone of our foreign policy", and Vice President Nixon stated in 1956, "the architect . . . of peace must be the UN, fully supported by the nation." To achieve this support it is vital that, as a nation and as individual citizens, we do all we can to learn about the UN—how it works, what it is set up to do, what it cannot effectively undertake to accomplish.

Fears are sometimes expressed that, as UN membership grows, we may face the possibility of being outvoted. To prevent this we must accept the challenge realistically, and try to understand the hopes and aspirations of other peoples, particularly the new nations. And in shaping our foreign policy we must recognize that such problems as colonialism, racial discrimination, better living and working standards may well be of greater concern to the majority of UN members than many of the problems which preoccupy us today.

Over the years the UN's achievements have been positive, significant, hopeful. In a world disturbed by conflicting ideologies, shaken by aggressive nationalism, the work of the United Nations for peace, international cooperation and mutual security stands proudly, proclaiming the basic unity of the Family of Man and the fundamental kinships and interdependencies which are the very fabric of our common humanity.

Decisions of the General President

PUBLISHED IN ACCORDANCE WITH SECTION 23i(4) INTERNATIONAL CONSTITUTION:

"All appellate decisions of the General President and/or of the Executive Council and/or of the Convention must be published in the following issue of The Lather along with a short and concise synopsis of the case being decided."

Carl Stephens, 35281, Versus Local 34

Brother Carl Stephens appealed against the action of Local 34 in fining him $100 for a violation of Section 5 of the local's By-Laws and Section 17j(14) of the International Constitution. After carefully considering all evidence presented in this case, the General President found this brother guilty but due to extenuating circumstances reduced the fine to $50.

Russell P. Bomar, 46186, Versus Local 42

Brother Russell P. Bomar appealed against the action of Local 42 in fining him $25 for a violation of Article 6, Section 1, 2, 3, and 4 of the local's By-Laws. After carefully considering all evidence presented in this matter the General President found this brother guilty and upheld the fine as placed.

Roy B. White, 46604, Versus Local 140

Brother Roy B. White appealed against the action of Local 140 in fining him $100 for a violation of Section 17g, and Section 2(a) Minimum Specifications, of the L.I.U. Constitution. After carefully considering all evidence presented in this case, and a report of investigation by Vice President Goff, the General President found this brother guilty and upheld the fine as placed.

STUDLESS Metal Lath and Plaster 2 inch Solid Partition

Structural tests prove that no studs are needed in this economical, non-load bearing partition with a one-hour fire rating.

THE rigidity, durability and fire safety of studless metal lath and plaster partitions have been tried and proved in job installations dating back to 1906, and more recently in full scale laboratory tests.

Their construction is simple. Channel studs are eliminated by erecting metal lath with its long dimension vertical and fastening it to the ceiling and floor. Ordinarily the standard length of lath establishes the height of this partition at 8' plus 4" for ceiling runners and base. For greater heights, arrangements can be made with the metal lath manufacturer. Temporary bracing gives rigidity to the lath while it is being plastered on one side. Braces are removed to permit plastering to a total thickness of only 2".

Although studless partitions are not new, rising construction costs have made them more popular today than ever before. They save money in three ways:

1. Material costs are less because studs are eliminated . . . lathing is quick and easy.
2. Under many existing methods of computing rentable area, a 2" finished partition soon saves its original cost when compared with thicker masonry constructions.
3. This vertical slab, reinforced two ways with expanded steel, resists temperature and structural stresses, is highly crack resistant. Also, plaster is easily decorated. Maintenance bills are smaller.

Studless Metal Lath and Plaster Partitions are . . .

FIRE RESISTANT

One-hour fire rating was earned through tests conducted by a nationally recognized fire testing laboratory using 1 part gypsum plaster to 2 parts sand by weight for both scratch and brown coats.

SOUND INSULATING

38 decibels sound transmission loss is awarded the studless partition with gypsum-sand plaster by the National Bureau of Standards (See BMS 144).

LIGHTWEIGHT

Weight is only 18 pounds per square foot of partition with sand aggregate. Using vermiculite or perlite further reduces the weight to 9 pounds. Dead load is only 1/3 to 1/2 that of masonry partitions.

IMPACT RESISTANT

Impact tests with a suspended 60-lb. sand bag swinging through a 90 degree arc showed that the studless metal lath partition has the same outstanding stability and crack resistance as the 2" solid partition with channel studs.

NOTE: Studless metal lath partitions are approved by New York Board of Standards and Appeals under Calendar Numbers 234-49-SM through 242-49-SM.

RECOMMENDED CONSTRUCTION TECHNIQUES

Optimum Height 8'-4" or less

Maximum Height 10'-0"

Installation of electrical equipment—A complete line of shallow electrical switches and outlets is manufactured for use in solid metal lath and plaster partitions. Minimum thickness of plaster over conduit and pipe should be $\frac{1}{2}$ ", and it is therefore recommended that where it is necessary to conceal piping of greater than 1" diameter, that solid partitions thicker than 2" be used. Metal lath hollow or double partitions, or pipe chases are ideally suited for such situations. Electrical outlets shall not exceed $1\frac{1}{2}$ " in depth for 2" solid partitions. The back of outlet and switch boxes shall be covered with metal lath.

For economy it may be desirable to place fixtures back to back, or side by side to serve adjoining rooms so that only a single conduit will be required.

Note: To minimize sound conduction it is recommended that telephone boxes, etc., in adjoining hotel rooms, apartments, etc., be installed on outside walls of the room or on non-communicating partitions.

Grouting metal base assemblies—For highest resistance to sound transmission and maximum fire protection, fill metal base assemblies with a grout of gypsum plaster. If the metal lath is set in a V-shaped notch in the base clip, the base can be filled full with the plaster grout so that it flows around and anchors the lath. Another method is to fill the metal base with grout before the lath is installed. A V-shaped trough is formed in the grout to receive and center the metal lath.

If diamond mesh metal lath is used, it may be attached to a horizontal rod tied to the top of the base clips, so that it is anchored in the center of the partition.

Temporary bracing of partition—Only purpose of temporary bracing is to keep the partition in alignment while it is being plastered. The amount and method of bracing when required is usually a practical problem for the contractor to decide. As a result, several very inexpensive and satisfactory methods of temporary bracing have been developed.

One popular method is to tie to the metal lath horizontal $\frac{3}{4}$ " furring channels at mid-height or third points of the partition. These furring channels are then backed with $1\frac{1}{2}$ " channels placed vertically at approximately 6'-0" spacings and anchored at the ceiling and floor. If metal base is used, the vertical stiffeners can be notched so that they hook over the base. The top can be wire-tied to the ceiling runner. Some contractors prefer to use wood vertical stiffeners which are wedged between the floor and ceiling.

Locate partitions with a chalk line and fasten metal base clips and metal base or wood runner to the floor.

Nail L-shaped runner to concrete ceiling or wire-tie it to metal lath ceiling.

Install metal lath, cut to required length, and wire-tie to ceiling runner.

Provide temporary bracing channels which are removed and reused after the partition is plastered on opposite side.

SPECIFICATIONS

for studless Metal Lath and Plaster solid partitions

1.0—MATERIALS

Metal Lath shall be Diamond Mesh weighing not less than 3.4 lbs. per square yard, Flat Rib Lath weighing not less than 2.75 lbs. per square yard, $\frac{3}{8}$ " Rib Lath weighing not less than 3.4 lbs. per square yard, or Sheet Lath.

Metal runners shall be perforated, slotted, or formed of expanded metal. Legs of angle runners shall be not less than $\frac{1}{2}$ " by 2", formed of not less than 28 gage steel.

Wood floor runners shall be well dried, prime painted and a full 2" wide by $1\frac{1}{8}$ " high. For one-hour fire resistive partitions, wood runners shall be treated with a fire retardant material approved by the architect.

Metal base and metal clips shall be approved by the architect. (Note: See catalogs of metal lath manufacturers for various types of metal base assemblies.)

Tie wire shall be not less than No. 18 gage galvanized annealed wire.

2.0—METAL LATHING

Metal base clips or wood floor runners shall be attached to the floors to locate the partitions accurately according to plan drawings. Fastenings suitable to floor materials shall be used.

Ceiling runners shall be located so that the Metal Lath will be in the center of the partitions and plumb. Runners shall be fastened to concrete ceilings with stub nails, expansion drives or other equivalent means. Runners shall be fastened to Metal Lath ceilings with wire ties at approximately 12" spacings.

Metal Lath shall be erected with the long dimension of the sheet vertical. Sheets shall be secured first to ceiling runners with wire ties at 8" o.c. and either attached to floor runners, or metal base clips, or suitably anchored in a grouted metal base assembly. A wire tie shall be placed where sheets lap at runners.

Diamond Mesh Lath shall be lapped at sides not less than $\frac{1}{2}$ ". Rib Metal Lath and Sheet Lath shall be lapped by nesting outside ribs or selva. Vertical laps shall be tied at intervals not exceeding 12".

Where studless partitions intersect walls to be plastered, Cornerite shall be used to reinforce the juncture. It shall be tied at each edge, not at the angle, to the intersecting lath at 6" vertical spacings. When Diamond Mesh Lath is used in the studless partition, Cornerite can be omitted by returning the partition lath and fastening it to the intersecting surface. L-type runner shall be fastened to abutting walls which are not to be plastered, and the Metal Lath wired to the runner so that the complete assembly is embedded in the plastered partition.

3.0—TEMPORARY BRACING

Partitions shall be temporarily braced until such time as the scratch and brown coats of plaster on the unbraced side have been applied and are set.

4.0—DOOR FRAMES

A channel stud shall be wire tied or bolted to anchor clips on each side of metal door frames or wire tied to pairs of 8d nails driven into wood bucks or screwed to wood bucks; and so placed as to provide space for tying Metal Lath to the stud. These studs may be continuous from floor to ceiling or they may be anchored to and extend only from the upper portion of the frame to the ceiling. (Alternate: If desired, studs need not extend to ceiling, or may be omitted if other means of attaching lath is provided and frame is braced.)

5.1—Metal base screed, picture mold, or integral metal trim shall be wired to Metal Lath through holes provided in the screed, mold, or trim, and, where necessary, shimmed-out to line. Metal base shall be installed according to manufacturer's specifications.

5.2—All external angles to be plastered shall be protected with galvanized expanded wing or perforated corner beads. Corner bead shall be attached securely in such manner as to assure proper alignment during application of plaster, and for proper plaster thickness.

5.3—Position edges at openings and ends shall be protected by galvanized metal partition caps or suitable casing beads.

6.0—PLASTERING

Plastering shall be five-coat work. First apply scratch coat on side opposite temporary braces and allow it to set and partially dry. Then apply brown coat to unbraced side, and when it has set firm remove the temporary bracing. Next apply brown coat to previously braced side, bringing it out to make overall partition thickness 2" when finish coats are applied to both sides.

CORRECTIONS

The suspension of Henry Reimer 53181 for non-payment of dues as published in the July '60 Journal was due to an error by Local 221 and has been cancelled.

These names were misspelled in the July '60 Journal and the correct spelling is as follows: J. Porrello 53018, J. M. Pedraza 56622, T. J. Lieziert 49069, C. O. Alvarez 53018, R. L. Robertson 55178, M. L. Valenzuela 55267 and D. P. Kalkauski 56421. All are members of Local 42a.

Suspension of Roy Francis Tereault, Jr., Apprentice, as reported in the July '60 Journal was reported in error by Local 460.

Due to a typographical error the name of Apprentice William Wettach who was indentured in Local 42a was published in the March '60 Journal as William Wehach. We regret this error.

How to Acquire a Permanent Savings Habit in Minutes

Learning to save isn't the easiest thing in the world. But thousands of Americans have discovered a way that requires no learning—buying U.S. Bonds on Payroll Savings. Just ask your company's bond officer to set aside any amount you wish each payday. You'll be surprised how little it changes your spending habits—and how quickly your savings will grow. Try it and see!

U.S. SAVINGS BONDS ARE MORE THAN A GOOD WAY TO SAVE

You save automatically with the Payroll Savings Plan.

You now get $3\frac{3}{4}\%$ interest at maturity.

You invest without risk under a U.S. Government guarantee.

Your money can't be lost or stolen.

You can get your money, with interest, anytime you want it.

You save more than money—you help your Government pay for peace.

Buy Bonds where you work or bank.

NOW every Savings Bond you own—old or new—earns $\frac{1}{2}\%$ more than ever before.

The good things of life—including Peace—cost money
Every Bond dollar you set aside for a new home, education, retirement, helps build national security . . . so you can enjoy the good things you've saved for.

Just sign your name and you're saving! Buying U.S. Bonds on payroll savings requires no "saving skill." Your payroll clerk does the saving for you.

You Save More Than Money With U.S. Savings Bonds

The U.S. Government does not pay for this advertising. The Treasury Department thanks The Advertising Council and this magazine for their patriotic donation.

You don't lose a penny if your Bonds are lost or destroyed. Since 1941, 1,300,000 Bonds have been replaced by the Treasury Department at no cost to the owners.

Report From the GENERAL PRESIDENT

On previous occasions I have pointed out some of the requirements of the law applicable to local unions in notifying and negotiating agreements. Apparently, some of our Business Agents and Secretaries did not read those Reports because we have had a number of local unions who failed to notify under the law and under the terms of their agreement in order to keep themselves in a position where they could complete their negotiations without difficulty.

Some local unions have failed to notify at all and their agreement had a continuing provision in it that unless notification was given in accordance with the terms of the collective bargaining agreement they were "stuck" for another year with the agreement unless the contractor would mutually agree to open and renegotiate the agreement. We have had other instances where proper notice has not been given in compliance with the law, the agreement, the International Constitution and the Mediation and Conciliation Service and after negotiations were started, in some cases even, where our members were on strike they have had to return to work and go through the proper procedure of notifications, negotiations, etc.

Every Secretary and Business Agent should first look at their agreement to see what the required notification is under the provision of the agreement and not in less than sixty days a notice must be served upon the employer, at least sixty days prior to the termination date because of the requirements of the Taft-Hartley Act and our International Constitution. As an example, if the notification provision in your agreement was thirty days instead of sixty days you would still have to give a sixty day notice in order to comply with the International Constitution and the Taft-Hartley Act.

I would recommend that when notice is sent to the employer that a copy be sent to Mr. Joseph Finnegan, Director, Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, U. S. Labor Department, Washington 25, D. C., to me, as General President of the International Union, and to your State Mediation and Conciliation Service then you will have complied with the law in all respects in regard to notification.

If you have a collective bargaining representative; in other words, if you have been bargaining with a Contractors' Association, then you must bargain with them in good faith. This does not mean that you have to reach an agreement or that you could not break off and deal with someone else but you must have negotiated in good faith and have good and sufficient reason before you break off negotiations and deal with another group or even with individuals. You cannot, as some local unions have done, just give notification to the bargaining agent of your desire to negotiate and then break off negotiations and sign individual agreements with individual contractors or other groups. If notice is given in the manner heretofore stated then you are not required to give another notice to the Mediation and Conciliation Service if it becomes necessary to take a strike vote. The first notice would be sufficient if a copy had been sent to the Mediation and Conciliation Service.

In respect to taking a strike vote, if such is contemplated, you must give notice to every member of the local union, at their last known address, setting for the time, place, and purpose of the action and this notice should be mailed at least fifteen days prior to the date of the meeting.

I have just received a book, "Electing Union Officers", from the U. S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor-Management Reports, Technical Assistance Aid No. 5, which is on the requirements for electing union officers. I would like to recommend, since many elections are coming up, that each local union obtain a copy of this book. It may be obtained at the following addresses:

OUR COVER—Thanksgiving in Virginia. Artist's conception of nation's first Thanksgiving on the site of Berkeley, depicting settlers as they stepped ashore December 4, 1619 carrying out instructions that "the day of our ship's arrival . . . shall be yearly and perpetually kept as a day of Thanksgiving to Almighty God."

The Nation's First Thanksgiving Proclamation

By the President of the United States of America
a Proclamation

Whereas it is the duty of all Nations to acknowledge the providence of Almighty God, to obey his will, to be grateful for his benefits, and humbly to implore his protection and favor, and Whereas both Houses of Congress have by their joint committees requested me to recommend to the People "of the United States a day of public thanksgiving and prayer to be observed by acknowledging with grateful hearts the many signal favors of Almighty God, especially by affording them an opportunity peaceably to establish a form of government for their safety and happiness,"

Now therefore do I recommend and assign Thursday the 26th day of November next to be devoted by the People of these States to the service of that great and glorious Being, who is the beneficent Author of all the good that was, that is, or that will be. That we may then unite in rendering unto him our sincere and humble thanks for his kind care and protection of the People of this country previous to their becoming a Nation, for the signal and manifold mercies, and the favorable interpositions of his providence, which we experienced in the course and conclusion of the late war, for the great degree of tranquility, union and plenty, which we have since enjoyed, for the peaceable and rational manner in which we have been enabled to establish a constitution of Government for our safety and happiness, and particularly for the national One now lately instituted, for the civil and religious liberty with which we are blessed, and the means we have of acquiring and diffusing useful knowledge and in general for all the great and various favors which he hath been pleased to confer upon us.

And also that we may then unite in most humbly offering our prayers and supplications to the great Lord and Ruler of Nations and beseech Him to pardon our national and other transgressions, to enable us all, whether in public or private stations, to perform our several and relative duties properly and punctually, to render our national government a blessing to all the People, by constantly being a government of wise, just and constitutional laws, discretely and faithfully executed and obeyed, to protect and guide all Sovereigns and Nations (especially such as have shown kindness unto us) and to bless them with good government, peace and concord. To promote the knowledge and practice of true religion and virtue, and the encrease of science among them and Us, and generally to grant such a degree of temporal prosperity as he alone knows to be best.

Given under my hand at the City of New York the third day of October in the year of our Lord 1789.

State Lathers Name Ruble to New Post

Lloyd A. Mashburn, President of WW & ML International Union addresses the Michigan State Council of Lathers.

A feature of the session of the Michigan State Council of Lathers was the appearance on the speaker's rostrum of Lloyd Mashburn, president of the Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers International Union and a former Under Secretary of Labor.

Mashburn explained the duties of the new business representative, the needs of the state organization and just what might be gained through the growth of the State Council.

Donald Ruble, formerly business agent of Lathers Local 131, at Saginaw, was named full time business representative of the Michigan State Council of Lathers at that organization's one-day meeting in the Civic Center recently.

Ruble will operate out of Lansing in co-ordinating the work of Lathers local unions throughout the state. He is filling a newly created post.

Another speaker was Robert V. Coulter, secretary-treasurer of the Michigan State Building and Construction Trades Council, who discussed the history and operations of that body.

John J. Lyons, deputy organizer of the Operating Plasterers and Cement Masons International Union, also spoke briefly in congratulating the council.

Included among the guests of honor was Russell McMillen, of the Detroit Bureau of Lathing and Plastering.

The meeting was open to the members of all state lathers locals and saw a large contingent appearing from Detroit's Local 5 headed by Business Manager Stan Arnold and Business Agents Art McCann and Robert Hamilton.

Time out for a group photo (l. to r.) A. McCann, Business Agent Local 5, Donald Ruble, newly named business representative of the Michigan State Council of Lathers; Lloyd Mashburn, President WW & ML International Union; Carl Woods, secretary and business agent for Local 442; Harry Nicholson, business agent for Local 134 and Bob Hamilton, business agent for Local 5.

Members of the Michigan State Council listen attentively as speakers emphasize needs and benefits of Council.

Robert Coulter, Secretary-treasurer of the Michigan State Building and Construction Trades Council addresses the session.

Stan Arnold, business Manager for Local 5, congratulates Ruble on his new post while President Mashburn looks on.

John J. Lyons, deputy organizer of the Operating Plasterers and Cement Masons International Union congratulates the Council.

Financial Secretary Address City State

Above is a copy of the new per capita tax form, which is to be used starting with January of 1961 in place of the per capita tax forms that have been used for some years. Instead of the locals purchasing these forms, we will mail them out to the Local Secretary with an entire list of their membership printed on them showing the back per capita tax, and current per capita tax owed on each member. The Local Secretary would then check the back tax if it were paid, and the current tax if it were paid or would note whatever was paid on the original copy of the form, and return it to us with any necessary remarks, and with the amount of money necessary to cover the tax checked. As you will note by the above picture of the forms, that there will be three copies of each form. The original, and one copy will be sent to the Local Secretary, and after he has filled it out, he will retain the copy for his record, and will send the original to Headquarters for processing. The second copy we will retain here at Headquarters until the original copy has been returned by the local.

At the bottom of the form you will note a place for the total owed for this report, a place to deduct the credit balance from the last report or a place to add the shortage from the last report, and a place to mark the amount of remittance enclosed, and also a space for the financial secretaries name, and address. If a local has 35 members or less they will receive this type of sheet only. If a local has 36 members or more, they will receive this report as a first sheet, and then all of the following sheets that are necessary to list the entire membership will not have the space for the totals at the bottom or the space for the name, address, and city of the financial secretary. So, the amount remitted, and the financial secretaries name, and address will only be shown on the first sheet.

We have printed numbers, and names on this form to give you an idea of what it will look like when you receive it. The first form that you will receive from us will be the one for your January 1961 tax. If your local is delinquent in its tax everything up to, and including January will be shown on the January form, and you will not receive your form for February until you have filled out, and returned the January form accompanied by a payment in the amount necessary to cover the form. Then as soon as this form can be processed, you will receive your form for February. Any changes in the status of your members will be made in the remarks column on the front of the sheet.

You will notice that these forms will fit in a typewriter, and that we will send you a sheet of carbon paper with the original, and the copy that you will retain, so that anything you put on the original will be shown on the duplicate, which you keep for your records. Please return only the original sheet to us, when you send your remittance.

MEMBERSHIP CHANGES

The space below has columns for membership number, member's name, remarks and amount. Membership changes listed in this space shall consist of apprentices indentured or accepted from another local, new members other than apprentices, members transferring in, members depositing contractors' cards, and members being re-instated.

Explanation of the membership change shall be written in the remarks column and any money submitted in conjunction with the membership change shall be listed in the amount column and totaled at the bottom.

Apprentices being released, or becoming members, members transferring out, members taking or depositing or renewing withdrawal cards (honorary or regular), members being issued contractors' or solicitors' certificates, members being suspended, deceased members, members being fined and members needing new books shall be noted in the remarks column on the front of this report.

NOTE: All membership changes shall be governed by the applicable sections of the L.I.U. Constitution that is in effect at the time of the membership changes.

The next section on the back of the form is to list supplies. This also has an explanation under it, and any supplies desired should be listed here along with the amount required to cover them, if an amount is necessary. All prices for supplies will be found under the price list of supplies as published in the current issue of the Lather. The reason for changing the per capita tax form is because we have purchased Addressograph Equipment, which will allow us to make these membership lists monthly, and furnish them to you. It also has a bookkeeping attachment, which will aid us in the overall bookkeeping. We feel that this new system will give a much greater service to the locals, and will furnish each local with a monthly list of their membership as they are registered here in Headquarters.

I hope that I have covered everything clearly, and completely enough, but if there is anything that I have missed, which comes to my attention prior to the publishing of the December issue of the Lather, I will enter it in my article at that time.

The Nucleus of Craftsmanship

APPRENTICESHIP

Apprenticeship might well be called the Nucleus of Craftsmanship. Just as the sun is the nucleus of our solar system, holding in place the planets and their satellites by virtue of its enormous gravity pull, so is our economic system held in balance by the qualified craftsmen who staff the machines and build the artifacts of our civilization.

The sun nurtures and sustains all life as we know it—plant life that men and animals depend upon for life grow from this sunlight and warmth. Similarly, apprenticeship could appropriately be termed the sustaining force of our economic life, supplying as it does, qualified craftsmen who have learned their skills through Apprenticeship. Through the vitalizing influence of apprenticeship the apprentice grows in efficiency, and with the skills of his trade firmly established and thoroughly mastered, matures into a craftsman, becoming an integral part of the vital life lines of our production system.

Truly, as the sun is the nucleus of our solar system, apprenticeship is the nucleus of our craftsmanship.

We of the Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers approve and applaud the work that is being done by the Idaho State AFL-CIO in cooperation with the Bureau of Apprenticeship and Training, U. S. Department of Labor in promoting the printing of a U. S. postage stamp using the design appearing elsewhere on this page. For we believe this stamp will help to give recognition to an important segment of the Trade Union Movement Apprenticeship.

Basically, apprenticeship, is the life blood of craftsmanship and we feel that all efforts to further the promotion of apprenticeship should be given our wholehearted support.

Presently there are 125 senators and congressmen who have endorsed the printing of this U. S. postage stamp. Also, endorsements from 78 central bodies, 68 building and construction trades councils, and a large number of international unions, have been received. And they have also written to their Congressional Delegations, and Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield.

We believe such a stamp will give recognition to the Trade Union Movement, and to the thousands of individuals from both Labor and Management who have given of their time freely, without remuneration, in the promotion of bona fide apprenticeship. And again, the printing of this stamp would tend to make the public cognizant of the fact that competent craftsmen are as important to the development of our defenses as are scientists, engineers, and military leaders.

It becomes apparent that we will need as great a number of endorsements for this worthwhile project as we can possibly get. Although an excellent job has been done in acquainting members of Labor and Management with the merits of apprenticeship, much remains to be done in apprising the lay public of the gigantic strides, activities, and efforts that are being taken by Labor and Management to assure the consuming public is provided the highest possible grade of products and services in conformity with approved practices of safety and skilled craftsmanship.

We believe that apprentices in the skilled trades are just as important to our national economy and defenses as those who are preparing to be doctors, scientists, or engineers. Only America's productive ability stands between the free nations of the world and enslavement. Skilled hands and minds will spell out the difference between victory and defeat.

Decals of this design available to individuals, JATC's, Labor and Management, for windshields, office windows, etc., @ 10¢ each, at the Idaho State AFL-CIO, 613 Idaho Street, Boise, Idaho

1619 First Strike in America Called by Glass Workers

Glass workers can claim the distinction of staging this nation's first strike.

Three hundred and forty years ago, Polish glass blowers in the struggling colony of Jamestown went on strike for the right to vote, and they won.

The Poles had set up glass furnaces eleven years earlier, in 1608. Their wares were particularly important to the colony because the trinkets and beads they produced were valuable in trading with the Indians.

By 1619, the Jamestown colony had some 2000 settlers. That year, the election of the first American legislative assembly was set. It was decreed that representation in the assembly would be limited to "those of English stock." This, of course, meant the Polish glass workers would be denied the right to vote.

Rightfully, the Poles considered this an outrage. They were loyal and productive members of the colony; in fact, in many cases, they contributed more to the colony's progress and well-being than some of the British.

The glass workers got together and, after two conferences, decided to strike in support of their demands for the right to vote. They elected a delegation to call on Governor George Yeardley and present their position. The statement handed the governor declared the glass workers would cease work "till injustice would be removed."

Under terms of the Great Charter of 1618, the Governor actually had no power to grant the glass workers their demands. The charter was the sole guide to the first election, and any change in its provisions would have to be made by England.

The strike of the Poles, however, was so successful that the Governor was compelled to report its effects to London.

Election of the first assembly had been set for July 30. On July 3, the London Company's Court Book made this report: "Concessions were made to the Polanders and ordered them to finish their strike."

Thus, the first strike in America was a solid success. No doubt its implications had far-reaching effects on the course of the young country's development. The glass workers had demonstrated the spirit and determination which were to play such an important part in the new world's quest for self-government.

A more complete account of the glass workers' successful strike has been found in the Records of the Virginia Company. It reported:

"Upon some dispute of the Polonians, residents of Virginia, it was now agreed (notwithstanding any former order to the contrary) that they shall be enfranchised and made as free as any inhabitant there whatsoever. And because their skill in making glass, soap ashes, pitch and tar shall not die with them, it is agreed that some young men shall be put unto them to learn their skill and knowledge therein for the benefit of the country hereafter."

The Polish glass workers had not only won the right to vote, but also had succeeded in helping to establish what was the new world's first apprenticeship program.

EARLY HISTORY OF LATH

Lath, one of the most modern forms of construction, has an interesting history which goes back to the days of antiquity. Primitive man, who first found that he could tame fire for his personal use, lathed his home with sticks and plastered it with mud. Where did he get this idea? Perhaps the idea occurred to him when he saw birds building their nests of twigs and mud.

Wood lathing is one of the oldest forms of plaster base. Reeds were used by the early Romans as a base over which they applied plaster.

Wood lath began to disappear in the twenties, due to a scarcity of quality wood that would not warp and buckle.

Shortly after the turn of the century, there appeared a board made of gypsum plaster covered with paper on two sides. A board of this type which gained wide use was called Sackett board. This board was constructed of four layers of paper and three alternating layers of plaster.

Owing to their great weight, these boards were used chiefly to form partitions. Later developments reduced the weight and size of the board. About 1920, marked progress was made in the fabrication of this material. At this time, the board size was fixed at 16" x 48". This was found to be the most practical size. Thickness was set at $\frac{3}{8}$ "; later the $\frac{1}{2}$ " size was added.

Perforated gypsum lath came on the market around 1932. Perforations allow for an increase bond in addition to the adhesive bond caused by suction that takes place in most plaster-board products.

The "father" of metal lath in the United States was Peter Naylor, who was granted a patent on February 22, 1839 for his claim to an invention as an improvement in the mode of providing plastered walls and ceilings to resist fire. His crude perforated metal sheets were the inception of modern day metal lath.

Baldwin Elected Treasurer

E. Russell Baldwin was elected Treasurer of the St. Louis Lathing and Plastering Industry Council, Inc., at their September Board meeting.

Baldwin is Business Representative of the St. Louis Lathers' District Council.

The Industry Council approved the appointment to the Board of James O. Hahn and James F. Grace, Jr.

The St. Louis Lathing and Plastering Industry Council seeks to promote the use of lath and plaster in all types of construction and will furnish any information concerning same.

Fog is one of the worst highway dangers faced by motorists at this time of year, warns an automobile club.

Heavy banks of fog often roll in during the early morning hours of Autumn days and drivers and pedestrians must be on guard against obvious perils.

"Pedestrians," a safety director says, "should be extremely cautious when walking along highways obscured by fog, because their presence can be noted by drivers only under the most exceptional circumstances.

"Those afoot can see the lights of approaching cars and should govern their actions accordingly. They should realize that the lights are of little value to motorists in discerning objects on the highway. In fact, the principal value of lights on vehicles in time of fog is to warn of the vehicles' approach.

"We cannot be too emphatic in urging motorists to drive slowly under adverse weather conditions. There are those who believe their familiarity with highways over which they travel frequently gives them the right to drive fast in the fog. Drivers in this class fail to take into account the possibility of disabled cars being parked along the highway. Another great danger is the absence of tail-lights on moving vehicles, or the confusion, leading to erratic driving, of operators unaccustomed to the road.

"Those who do not have to drive should leave their cars in the garage until the fog blows away. Those who must drive should 'play it safe' all along the line."

DO YOU FALL FOR?

PEOPLE do fall. Results of a recent accident survey indicate that falls outranked by a wide margin all other types of fatal accidents in the home!

About one in every three fatal falls reviewed occurred on stairs and steps. Almost one-sixth of the number of fatalities were attributed to falls while walking about a room or going from one room to another on the same level.

A number of fatal injuries were due to falls from windows, ladders, porches, roofs and beds.

Season's Greetings

CLOSE TO CHRISTMAS many publications customarily reprint the famed Baltimore Sun editorial, "Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus," which originally was written many years ago as a reply to a real letter from a little girl. The editorial was—and is—a splendid expression of sentiment.

Similarly, Dicken's "Christmas Carol" has become a regular television show. We can expect it, in some form on our screens again this holiday season. A few years ago it was always a Christmas radio presentation.

Parents and grandparents will take down from the shelves the "Night Before Christmas" and read the delightful poem to the children, who in turn when they become parents will read it to their children.

Again this season we will hear the familiar words and music of "Jingle Bells," "Silent Night" and "Away in the Manger." High fidelity recordings and stereophonic speakers may be used, but the spirit will be the same.

We, the International Officers and the Headquarters staff wish to extend their warmest greetings to all the members of the Wood, Wire and Metal Lather's International Union and to their families.

One of the wonders of Christmas is that all the trappings and tinsel, the written and spoken greetings, the music sung and played, are time-honored, well-worn and traditional, yet also always bright, fresh and new. Young and old delight in the customs which generation after generation has delighted in.

Christmas, of course, is our most profound religious holiday and one we all reverently share, no matter how orthodox or free our belief may be. It signifies to all a new birth of idealism and hope. Human failings being what they are, the observances must be repeated every year. The old traditions serve to remind us that faith and truth are constant, even if we are not.

We cannot say anything new and would not if we could. The old greetings and prayers are the best—PEACE ON EARTH, GOOD WILL TO MEN.

Fraternally,

LET'S PUT THE
IN

LET'S put the "X" back in Christmas. "What?," you say. "Make it Xmas? But that's not respectful."

A year ago we might have agreed . . . but no longer. We say what was good enough for the early Christians is good enough for us. Not that we're trying to knock the traditional "Christ-mass"; all we say is that there's a reason for the X in Xmas . . . and it's quite respectable. In fact, it's nearly 2,000 years old in origin. We have to go back in time to a point where Xmas wasn't even celebrated to find the beginnings of this shortening of Christmas . . . back to a point when Rome was trying to stamp out Christianity. The story of the church founders hiding in the catacombs is well known . . . yet it was here that the story of the "X" in Christmas starts.

Because of the persecution, the early Christian church took on many of the trappings of a secret society. The early members of the church had to protect themselves by using signs and symbols to identify each other. And it was here that the "X" appeared. It is important to realize that the "X" in Xmas is not the "X" we know in words like X-Ray. Instead, it is the Greek "X" . . . called "chi" and has a sound like our modern "C". It has added significance because it can also stand for the cross on which Christ was crucified.

It became complicated a few years later with the addition of the second letter in Christ's name, "rho" or "P" being introduced into the design . . . perhaps to confuse the Romans. A bit later, the symbol of the fish came into use as an acrostic in which each letter in the Greek word for fish (ΙΧΘΥΣ) begins a word in the full title of Christ: "Jesus Christ, Son of God, Saviour." After Christianity became the official religion of Rome, scholars continued through the Dark Ages to work with the symbol "X" as a shorthand form for "Christ". Then in the 11th Century, a monk started referring to Christmas as Xmas . . . and the shortened version was launched. In 1551, E. Lodge put out a book using "Xmas" as part of the title . . . and the movement was accelerated.

And now, some four hundred years later, we are resisting "Xmas" and begging that "Christ" be put back into Christmas. The fact is that Christ has never left Christmas. The "X" was good enough for the early Christians who were willing to die for their beliefs . . . who are we to fight the "X" in Xmas?

A. EARLY CHRISMONS, OR MONOGRAMS OF CHRIST, as found in the Roman catacombs, used Greek characters . . . one of the dominant languages of the times. Here the Greek "I" and "X" are used, the first letters of the words Jesus Christ. B. CHI (X) AND RHO (P), the first two letters of the Greek word for Christ (XPISTOS), formed another popular Chrisman, the Chi-Rho (pronounced like Caira). It came into general use after the time of early persecutions, and is still seen in many modern churches. C. A SYMBOL ORIGINALLY USED BY PAGAN WORSHIPERS, the Sun Wheel became popular with early Christians as a disguise for the X and I. They viewed the surrounding circle as representing Christ's love for the whole world. D. NOT STRICTLY A CHRISMON, the fish was nevertheless an important symbol in identifying early Christians. Each of the letters in the Greek word for fish begins a word in the full name and title of Christ. E. MOST ANCIENT OF ALL CHRISTIAN SYMBOLS, is the anchor. Often the only ornament in the catacombs, it served to conceal the sign of the cross and at the same time indicated the early Christians' belief that their lives and hopes were anchored in Christ.

The Legend Of Conrad the Cobbler

MANY YEARS AGO, there lived in a small village a cobbler by the name of Conrad. Day by day, early and late, the "tap, tap, tap" of his hammer could be heard as he mended the shoes brought to him by the villagers. Though alone and poor, this kindly old man always had a friendly word for everyone, and many took lighter hearts away from his little hut.

Now Christmas is a time when families draw closer together. But for Conrad there was no one.

On Christmas morning, some neighbors, thinking how alone he was, decided to pay him a visit. They found him sweeping away the snow in front of his dwelling and, to their surprise, his face was radiant.

As they entered the hut, they gazed in amazement. Instead of a cheerless room they saw a place made festive with holly and evergreen. Christmas decorations brightened the walls and hung gracefully from the rafters. And there was the table—set for two, with even the worn dishes taking on an extra sparkle. It was plain Conrad was expecting a guest.

"Who is coming to visit you?" the neighbors asked.

"Last night," Conrad said, "the Lord appeared in a dream and told me that I would not be alone on Christmas Day, for He Himself was coming to be my guest. That is why I have prepared so joyfully. Everything is ready now. I am waiting for Him."

After the neighbors had gone home to tell of the wonderful guest he was expecting, Conrad sat by the window quietly waiting.

While he watched, a beggar passed his window, ragged, weary, almost frozen in the wintry winds. Conrad called him in—he offered him warmth of his dwelling and gave him shoes for his frozen feet.

After the beggar had left, an old woman hobbled by, carrying on her back a heavy load of fagots. Conrad ran out, lifted the load from her back and helped her into his little hut. There he gave her food for her starved body and helped her on her way.

Again he sat by the window to wait. Now he heard the sound of a child sobbing. Opening the door, he found a small child wandering in the snow, lost and frightened. Some warm milk and soothing words stilled the frightened cries, and soon afterward he restored the child to its mother's arms.

Once more he returned to his vigil. But now the sun was sinking and the winter day was coming to an end. Where was the promised guest?

Anxious and weary, Conrad dropped on his knees, "Oh, Lord, what delayed you?" he pleaded. Then out of the silence came a beautiful voice:

"Conrad, be not dismayed, for Three times I came to your friendly door,

Three times my shadow crossed your floor.

I was the BEGGAR with frozen feet,

I was the WOMAN you gave to eat,

I was the CHILD in the homeless street."

Lone Star State Council Members Welcome President Mashburn

Every local in the State of Texas sent delegates to the meeting of the Lone Star State Council at the Eastwood Motor Hotel in Longview October 28, 29 and 30. Representation was also present from the Oklahoma and Louisiana Councils.

General President Mashburn's recommendations for a statewide contractual agreement were accepted.

The next meeting of the state council is planned for January 13-15 in Fort Worth. The meeting is planned to coincide with General President Mashburn's next visit to Texas. This will enable him to be present to assist in formulating final plans for the Council By-laws and statewide contractual agreement.

Delegates to the State Council presented reports on local areas and all members reaffirmed their support of local and national bureaus.

Ray B. Taylor, President of the Texas Lathing and Plastering Contractors Association, participated in the meeting and pledged the support of the contractors' association in working to improve industry conditions and local and national promotional programs.

A general discussion of the promotional program was preceded by a report on bureau activity by Charlie Strawn, Executive Secretary of the Texas Bureau for Lathing and Plastering. A careful review of Bureau activity resulted in numerous recommendations and suggestions from the body to improve the effectiveness of the Bureau's program.

General President Mashburn congratulated the Lone Star State Council on their excellent turnout and the businesslike manner in which the entire council proceedings were conducted.

On the local arrangements committee were Joe Cunningham, Jimmy Cunningham, Tony Albright, and Henry Chambers. The group voted their appreciation to the committee for the exceptional manner in which they completed meeting arrangements and for the very pleasant dinner meeting Saturday evening.

A Merry Union Label CHRISTMAS

by Joseph Lewis, Secretary-Treasurer
Union Label and Service Trades Department, AFL-CIO

Let's make this the Merriest Christmas of all. Let's make this a Merry "Union Label" Christmas!

Millions of dollars will be spent for gifts in the next few weeks during the forthcoming Christmas shopping season. Certainly much of this fortune in expenditures for Yuletide gifts will come from wages earned by union members. Let's make certain, then, that when we buy and when we spend during this special shopping season we make every one of these union-earned dollars count for future job security, continued employment, a measure of real prosperity. This we can do if we look for and demand the Union Label, the Shop Card and the Service Button in all our Christmas buying.

Once again we shall hear the voices of those who complain that this joyous season has been over-commercialized—that there's too much advertising tied in with the holiday festivities telling us to "buy this" and "buy that". Yet, we all know that Christmas just couldn't be Christmas without our commemorating the Gift of all Gifts by selecting the finest in gifts for our own loved ones and friends.

Union people always traditionally want the best—for themselves, for their families and friends and for all citizens of our land. Unions have toiled with determination and dedication throughout their history to make it possible for working men and women to enjoy the best in wages, hours and conditions, the finest fringe benefits. Now at Christmas time, more-so even than at other times of the year, we want to get the best in our Christmas shopping. We can do just this by demanding the Union Label, the Shop Card and the Service Button.

Our Christmas shopping can help translate into dramatic action our union beliefs in true brotherhood and unselfishness. How can "Merry Christmas" be "merry" if the gifts we buy are the handiwork of some poorly-paid, insecure non-union employee? How can we know the democratic processes of collective bargaining are in effect all year 'round in the factory or shop which produced the gift unless we look for the specific identification of a Union Label, a Shop Card or a Service Button?

We can't have these assurances of fair play between worker and employer unless we see these distinctive symbols of organized labor on every product and every service.

Since Christmas itself is a time for joy, unselfishness, brotherhood and giving, let's put its traditional spirit into every purchase we make and see to it that labor's emblems help carry with our Yuletide gifts a warm message of "Happy Union Label Christmas".

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER:

The lack of a comprehensive national program of blood banking is a major concern of organized labor.

This concern was expressed by the AFL-CIO in detail in a resolution adopted at our Third Constitutional Convention.

The growth of blood banking in our nation during the last ten years with its full-scale use of blood and blood derivatives has given rise to a number of problems. Standards are needed in the procurement, processing and storage of blood. Blood should be available to anyone needing it, at the lowest possible cost, preferably without charge. There is a need for research on blood and its products, and a need for the participation of organized labor and other interested citizen groups at all levels in order to establish and maintain a coordinated national blood effort.

We are opposed to any trend towards commercialism in blood banking.

There is no shortage of blood, only a lack of an effective means of providing it on an equitable, nationwide basis.

In our convention resolution the AFL-CIO pledged its support to the Joint Blood Council and its cooperating agencies in the development and maintenance of a national blood program.

Among the Council's member agencies is the American National Red Cross whose system of regional blood centers has received the commendation of the AFL-CIO.

In line with this, the AFL-CIO Community Services Committee and the National Blood Program of the American National Red Cross have developed a Statement of Understanding. (Copy attached.) May I urge all affiliates to work with their local Red Cross blood centers, wherever possible, to strengthen and expand existing services and facilities under the guides set forth in the Statement.

Such expansion will be a strong, initial step in the direction of a national blood program, inasmuch as the Red Cross regional center system provides a workable pattern for furnishing blood to substantial numbers of sick and injured at no cost.

In some areas there will be no Red Cross blood centers and AFL-CIO affiliates will want to cooperate with some other type of blood bank. In these instances, I want to urge that every effort be made to follow the blood program criteria outlined in the Statement.

We shall keep you informed of further developments in this important area of health protection.

Sincerely,

President

BEWARE COSTLY BANG BANG

By Sidney Margolius
Consumer Expert for
The Lather

This is a poor year for toy manufacturers but a better one for parents and other gift givers. Trade reports indicate that toys are selling for as much as 20 per cent less than last Christmas. One reason: everyone is selling toys — supermarkets, drug stores, discount houses, even clothing stores.

For example, 20-inch vinyl dolls with rooted hair that were $10.98 last year now are $9.98. Twenty-piece sets of fiberboard jumbo blocks, with triangles and squares, are available for $2.65. Even such standard playthings as the "Playskool Nok-Out Bench" (for ages 2-5) now sell for $1.79 and less.

Toy retailers and wholesalers say in their trade papers that the biggest sales increases in playthings this year will be in:

- Science toys, games and kits.
- Dolls, particularly novelty dolls.
- Games of all types.

Parents still need to watch out for durability and lasting play value, and distinguish between genuinely educational playthings and commercial toys which explore space-age developments but don't really teach anything. Some of the missile toys have been reduced sharply. For example, a "superthrust" two stage missile set that cost $8.95 last year now sells for $6.66. But such rocket-gun and rocket-launcher toys have only fleeting play value, and add nothing to a child's development. One widely-sold rocket launcher sells for $8-$10 plus the extra cost of batteries. It blazes rockets 25 feet into the air. It has three rockets. You can imagine how long they will last.

Hottest seller this year is a big Army bulldog tank with a cannon that shoots shells. It costs $5-$10 depending on size, and you also have to buy four "D" batteries. All small boys like to shoot, but this is not much bang for the buck.

If you have a couple of hundred dollars to toss around, and we're sure most of our readers haven't or won't, you can even buy your child a real motorized car—this year's new craze. These cars go five to seven miles an hour, steer, reverse and brake. They cost from $159 in Montgomery Ward's catalog to one advertised in the Wall Street Journal as a "real battery-powered child's car." This one is $249.50. But the manufacturer assures that it has a low operating cost.

You also have to watch out for quality. Many rigid plastic toys tend to shatter and break easily. One six-year-old boy was given the widely-sold Cape Canaveral toy with figures of scientists and engineers. But in assembling the platform, the edges to be interlocked broke. So the launcher couldn't be operated. The boy finally played with the little figures which could be bought for a fraction of the $5.95 price.

But besides the rash of rocket guns and launchers, there also is an increase in genuine scientific and educational playthings, such as astronomy, physics, ultra-violet, computer, weather and math kits. One authoritative source is the Science Materials Center, 59 Fourth Ave., New York 2, N. Y. It will send you a catalog which will also be useful as a guide to kits, games and books recommended by teaching and scientific experts. Among the kits and playthings the science center recommends are:

- Pre-Electricity Physics Lab., $5.95, for ages 10 and up.
- Static Electricity Lab, $2.95 (ages 11-17).
- Mobile of The Planets (and their moons), $3.95, kindergarten up.
- Magnetism Lab, $3.95 (ages 10-14).
- Beginner's Microscope, $7.25.
- D-Stix Construction Kits; juniors, $3; intermediate, $5.
- Math Magic, a game and kit, $3 (ages 9-14).

The center also recommends a new set of two books, "Intelligent Man's Guide to Science", by Isaac Asimov, at $11.95, for high school level and up.

The Gilbert science and chemistry kits are considered good quality and well-planned. A new manufacturer of science and chemistry kits is the Porter Company, with kits priced competitively with the Gilbert sets. The Porter biochemistry set is especially good.

With board games expected to be big sellers this year, parents will need to use judgment in which they buy.

There's a current craze for games based on TV programs like "Quick-Draw McGraw", "77 Sunset Strip", and "Perry Mason." If you don't want your child to become a private eye, Big business also is represented by such games as "Big Business" and "Stock Market." Some of these games even show how you can take over a night club or "build up a real estate empire."

Actually many of these games merely depend on the throw of the dice and have only limited or passing interest. But there are many good board games which children have been found to like and which don't change

Political Memo from COPE

The Bad Effects of Tight Money

Even bankers are beginning to admit the bad effects of tight money. The Federal Reserve Board has recently authorized a reduction of $\frac{1}{2}$ per cent in the re-discount rate, so that banks can borrow money from the Federal Reserve banks a little more cheaply. The Federal Reserve Board also reduced the amount of reserves which the banks are required to carry to meet the demands of their depositors. The net effect of that is to increase somewhat the ability of the banks to lend money. In both these ways, money has been made a little easier and a little cheaper to borrow.

The reason given for these actions is that there is a "continued relaxation of inflationary pressure." This should be translated into the simpler and more descriptive phrase, "because there is too much unemployment." Unemployment was last reported at over 3,388,000, which is considerably more than 5 per cent of the labor force, and that is far too high.

Yet tight money with high interest rates cannot prevent inflation by any other method than causing unemployment. It operates to increase the cost of capital expansion by business firms, and thus causes some such plans to be abandoned or at least postponed. It increases the cost to the consumer of everything bought on time, including nearly all dwelling units, most autos and many durable consumers' goods. By increasing the cost, it has some tendency to reduce the purchase of them by consumers and, therefore, the output of them. In both these ways high interest rates cause unemployment; and the reduction of buying by the unemployed and by those who fear that unemployment may strike them next, tends to "relax inflationary pressure."

When more people understand that tight money cannot combat inflation except by causing unemployment, they will react against this economically restrictive policy.

In this case, the Democrats are plainly right in criticizing the restrictive economic measures summed up in the phrase "tight money," and the Republicans are clearly wrong in supporting such measures.

Most inflation is due to "administered prices," set by the largest firms in lines where a comparatively few companies effectively dominate the industry. Tight money has little effect on such prices. Besides causing unemployment, therefore, it is relatively ineffective in reducing the chief cause of inflation.

The tight money policy has been disastrous in slowing up our rate of economic growth. Goods will not be produced or services furnished unless money is spent to buy them. President Eisenhower and the Republicans in Congress—with the backing of most of the Southern Democrats too—have steadily followed a restrictive policy. Funds for school building and college classrooms; homes for the aged; relief of distressed areas; control of water pollution; public housing and slum clearance; additional missiles and submarines to narrow the lead which Russia has over us in these two military areas; and additional Federal funds for the aged, the blind and the disabled have all been either vetoed or not voted through a combination of solid Republican votes plus the Southern Democrats, or not asked for, or even opposed when suggested by Democratic leaders in Congress.

All of these measures in some degree, would have added a little more zip to the economy by increasing purchasing power. But economic restriction due to fear of inflation, rather than expansion of the economy to make the total output higher and the total tax receipts bigger too, has been the Republican policy.

The President's effort to belittle the importance of the low rate of steel output, and Mr. Nixon's effort to belittle the emphasis on economic growth, do not conceal the fact that we are not turning out the goods and services we should and could produce with different policies. With our population growth, we will certainly suffer a per capita decline in the average standard of living unless these restrictive policies are promptly reversed by a new administration. The figure of 2.4 per cent average annual increase in the gross national product since President Eisenhower took office, is only an increase of $\frac{6}{10}$ of 1 per cent per year per person, when the increase in the population is taken into account.

We have had a big increase in the birth rate compared with the depression years ever since World War II. Also, a larger proportion of young people go to and through high school than ever before, and a larger proportion go on to college also.

These two factors combined make imperative the need for more funds for school construction and for college classrooms and dormitories. Also, we face an acute shortage of well-qualified teachers to teach more students than ever before. To meet this need, and to attract and keep good people in the teaching profession we should raise teachers' salaries.

Theoretically this might be done by the cities, towns and states. But the debt of these governmental bodies has more than doubled in the last decade, mainly for educational purposes, while the debt of the Federal Government was going up only 10 per cent in that time. So the Federal Government should shoulder a larger proportion of the cost. This is especially true because only the Federal Government can levy taxes in proportion roughly to ability to pay. For only the Federal Government can use effectively graduated taxes on personal incomes and inheritances and stiff corporation profits taxes.

The American Federation of Teachers, affiliated with the AFL-CIO, has backed bills to provide Federal funds for school construction and for higher teachers' pay. But so strong is the reactionary coalition in Congress, consisting of the Republicans and most of the Southern Democrats, that the idea of Federal funds for increased pay for teachers has been dropped, and a bill for Federal aid for school construction only was put before the House of Representatives. Yet the Republicans and Southern Democrats worked against even this limited measure. Here is how they operated.

The Southern states, except Texas and Florida, have a lower taxable capacity than the average for the United States, and their Representatives, therefore, would be likely to vote for Federal aid to education. To prevent this, a number of Republicans supported the Powell Amendment to deny Federal aid to school districts that continued to keep white and Negro children in separate schools. The amendment passed with the aid of the liberal Democrats who voted for it on principle. Then Rep. Charles Halleck of Indiana, the Republican leader, with 75 other Republicans who had voted for the Powell Amendment, voted against the bill with the Powell Amendment included. The Southern Democrats did so also, for most white Southern voters favor separate schools.

But this year, for the first time, there were enough liberal Democrats from the North and West to get the bill past the House with the aid of a scattering of Republicans.

The Senate, however, had passed a different bill, so they had to go to Conference. But the Rules Committee, by a vote of 6-to-6, through a coalition of four Republicans and two Southern Democrats, refused to send the bill to Conference with the Senate's conferees. Thus it blocked any aid-to-education legislation this year.

from year to year according to the whim of new TV shows. Among them:

- For younger children, generally 4-8: "Candy Land", "Uncle Wiggly", "Sorry".

- For older children, perennial favorites include "Game of the States", "Gettysburg", "Monopoly", "Concentration", "Careers", "Scrabble", and "Go To The Head Of The Class."

Also noticeable this year are many variations of pinball games like electric hockey, run on batteries ($7-$10), electric car race and electric football, run by house current (around $5).

Not only should electric games run by house current be checked for the Underwriters Laboratories' seal of approval, and inspected for shock hazard, but this large an expenditure for an electrical version of pinball is itself questionable.

Take Care of Your Union and it will take care of you

ATTEND YOUR MEETINGS REGULARLY

USING SOCIAL SECURITY TO FINANCE HEALTH INSURANCE

The Nationwide Insurance Co., one of the largest in the world, points out that before the establishment of the Social Security system in 1935 the medical societies and many insurance companies opposed the program for most of the same reasons they now oppose all bills with a social insurance approach to health care for the aged. But the many years of experience since then have shown that the minimum Social Security pensions "have made possible a widespread development of private plans in recent years." The interests now opposing this extension of the Social Security System are just as wrong as they were in 1935.

An Empty Chair Can't Talk or Vote—Attend Your Union Meetings

RIGHT NOW is a fine time to resolve that you will do your share to insure that your union will be the kind of organization you want it to be. It is impossible to overemphasize the importance of consistent attendance at our union meetings. We want our unions to be effective, clean, democratic—and that means that we have to make it our business to turn out for meetings. Our unions are what we make them. We can't shirk the responsibility. No one else can do the job for us.

First benefactor in the pension plan for members of Lathers' Local 252, Riverside, California, Eugene Poliquin, left, receives first pension check from Ivan Lee Buck, business agent for the local. Poliquin, 65, has been on the retirement list since the first of the year. The Local 252 program is part of an area plan, which includes Locals 42A, 81, 172, 252, 366 and 440. The first pension plan exclusively for lathers, was designed in such a manner as to encourage easy expansion into a state-wide operation. Buck was chairman of the original board of trustees which drafted the pension plan back in 1958 and is presently a trustee. The Lathing Industry Pension Plan of California is administered at the office of the Lathing Institute of Southern California by a board of trustees composed of one trustee from each local with an equal number of trustees from the constituent contractor organization.

ATTENTION ALL SECRETARIES

In the November issue of the Lather under my report, we had placed an article explaining the use of the new per capita tax forms, and I would like to add some further information in reference to these forms.

I would first like to request that the secretary of the Local Unions do not send in their January per capita tax or statement, until they receive the forms from us with their membership listed on them. Then, as I had instructed in the November issue, the secretary could keep the copy, and return the original to us with the necessary payment to cover the report.

I have already had several locals request the cost of the new forms, and would like to advise the secretaries that the new per capita tax forms will be furnished by the International, and will not be charged to the locals. Therefore, there will not be any cost for the forms.

In the illustration of the new forms in the November issue of the Lather, we had shown back tax listed on the same line with current tax. I find that this is not true, and that the back tax will be listed on the line below the members name with the ditto marks showing that the back tax is his.

Although we had hoped to have all of our addressograph equipment by December 1, 1960, I now find that we will not have it until possibly the 15th of December. This may make us a little late in putting out all of the January reports, but we hope to be in full swing, and on time with the ones for February. Please bear with us until we get the new system in operation, as I am sure it will be a benefit to all of us.

MY GET UP AND GO—HAS GOT UP AND WENT

*How do I know that my youth is all spent?
Well, my get up and go has got up and went.*

*But in spite of it I am able to grin
When I recall where my get up has been.
Old age is golden so I've heard it said,
But sometimes I wonder when I go to bed,
With my ears in a drawer and my teeth in in a cup*

*My eyes on the table until I wake up.
'Ere sleep dims my eyes I say to myself—
Is there anything else I should lay on the shelf?*

*And I'm happy to say as I close my door
My friends are the same, perhaps even more.*

*When I was young my slippers were red,
I could kick up my heels right over my head.
When I grew older my slippers were blue
But still I could dance the whole night through.*

*But now I'm old, my slippers are black
I walk to the store, and puff my way back.
The reason I know my youth is all spent
My get up and go has got up and went.
But really I don't mind when I think with a grin*

*Of all the grand places my get up has been.
Since I've retired from life's competition,
I busy myself with complete repetition.
I get up each morning, dust off my wits,
Pick up the paper and read the "Obits,"
If my name is missing, I know I'm not dead,
So I eat a good breakfast, and go back to bed.*

CORRECTIONS

Suspension recorded against M. S. Lester 47493 by Local 480 and published in the October Journal was reported by the Secretary as placed in error.

The suspension of J. Cirame 28517 for non-payment of dues was placed by Local 244 and not Local 6 as published in the October Journal.

Apprentices Wilbert Brown and Frank Domnick Mobilio were listed in the October Journal as being suspended for non-payment of dues by Local 102. This was published in error as they both have entered Military Service.

The suspension of Harry Bishop 55359 by Local 97 for non-payment of dues and published in the August Journal was in error and has been corrected on our records.

Correction has been made in the spelling of the surname of Bro. J. F. Scharf 32858 as reported by the secretary of Local 46.

Local 78 advised that L. E. Zampino 56079 published in the September Journal as on Withdrawal Card was in error. This brother should have been published as suspended for non-payment of dues.

NO TIME OF YEAR FOR TB. Is there ever a right time? Of course not. But Christmas, more than any other season, should be a time of glowing good spirits, health and happiness. In the fight against TB, it can at least be a time of hope—when millions of healthy Americans take an extra moment to help with each Christmas Seal they use. † Give that spark of hope—and the needed help—by using Christmas Seals. What could be more fitting for a season of good will to men? † Answer your Christmas Seal letter today. †
